The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Bruce Roberts, was charming in her bridal gown of white nylon net and Chantilly lace, featuring a fitted bodice, with mandarin jacket having long, lily-pointed sleeves, Peter Pan collar, and bouffant skirt of scallop-line with self buttons. The waltz-length skirt of tiered Chantilly lace fell in graceful folds. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was held by a tiara studded with seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of bronze shaded American Beauty roses.

Mrs. Glen Suddard of Belleville, her only attendant, was attired in shell pink waltz-length nylon net over taffeta, featuring a lace bodice with short sleeves, and matching bolero reverse collar. The hooped skirt of Chantilly lace was accented by a flounce of pleated nylon net. She wore a pink nylon hat dotted with rhinestones with pink nylon streamers. Her flowers were pink carnations and 'mums in rosegay style.

Mr. Glen Suddard, of Belleville, was groomsman, while Mr. Ronald Jenkins, of Picton, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Gary Gardiner, also of Picton, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony the wedding dinner was held at Golden Acre Inn, Kingston Road, for the immediate families.

The bride's table was daintily appointed with damask cloth and centred by a three-tiered wedding cake topped with white doves holding double wedding rings, and misted about the base with white tulle and tiny clusters of white bells. Silver candelabra, holding lighted tall white candles and misted with pink and white carnations and 'mums

Kiwanis L.A. Holds Bridge, Euchre Party

The first regular monthly meeting of the fall season of the K.L.A. was held on Thursday last at the Kiwanis Centre, on Dundas Street.

The meeting took the form of a combined bridge and euchre party, and was attended by some 40 members, husbands and guests.

Alice Burpitt was the convener for the evening's entertainment.

After a complete round of hands had been played, scores were tallied, and handed in before the members and guests sat down to lunch. Prizes for the ladies were provided by Phyllis Stock.

During the supper, door prize tickets were distributed to all those present and the draw for the prizes and presentation of the prizes for the highest men's and ladies' scores in both bridge and euchre were made.

The prize for the highest score in euchre went to Kate Cook; while the prize for the highest ladies' score in bridge went to Audrey Lunn. The prize for the highest men's score going to Charlie Wyatt, McDougall Stock for the men went to Elmer Sandercock, Ken Burkett, Bob Walton and Staff McKenna.

Girls' Auxiliary Girls Auxiliary At St. Thomas'

The Girls' Auxiliary rally for the western half of the Diocese of Ontario was held October 5 in the Parish Hall of St. Thomas' Anglican Church.

A short worship service was held at first by Mrs. A. S. McConnell in the church.

Miss Margaret Poole, the Diocesan G.A. secretary, led a discussion about the competition work for this year, and Mrs. C. J. Thrasher, of St. Thomas Church, Belleville, told the girls about the successful camp held this summer at Camp Hyatt.

When the business was finished Canon McConnell gave the girls and their leaders a quiz on the church. He also read an interesting article on the Archbishop's Missions.

Refreshments were served by the Senior W.A. of the church at the end of the meeting.

Out-of-town guests who were present from Toronto, Gananoque, Picton and Detroit.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at two miscellaneous showers: one at the home of Mrs. Glen Suddard of Belleville and another at the home of Mrs. Bob Jones, also of Belleville. Also at two presentations, given by the office girls of Corby's, when she was the recipient of a steam iron, and linen luncheon set; and also by the men's office staff, when the bride elect received a double-deck end table of light oak.

Presbyterial WMS Holds West Section Rally at Stone Church

At the historic Stone Church on the Alnwick circuit of the United Church of Canada, the autumn W.M.S. rally of Belleville West section was held October 4th. Some 76 representatives from 35 auxiliaries and affiliated societies were registered.

Mrs. George Carlisle of Stirling, Presbyterial vice-president of the section, presided, with Mrs. D. Lasey of Stirling acting as secretary. The theme underlying the day's program was that used by the Dominion Board W.M.S. at their annual meeting, "Who Doth the Lord Require of Us?"

WORSHIP

After the opening hymn, morning devotions were led by members of Wallbridge auxiliary. Mrs. Harold Garrison read the lesson from Isaiah 53 and Mrs. Alvin Donaldson gave a short talk on the lesson, and closing prayer was offered by Mrs. D. Lasey.

Afternoon worship was conducted by the Alnwick W.A. Affiliated Society with Mrs. Albert Tweddy, Mrs. Frank McGee and Mrs. Murray Johnson, the president, taking part. Based on Ephesians 4:11-23, the theme was stressed that Christianity is a growth which should never stop, and all should try to contribute of that which one possesses toward the extension of His Kingdom.

So, also, let all try more earnestly for perfection in following in the steps of Jesus.

Mrs. J. A. Detlor, president of the hostess auxiliary, and the Rev. R. McMullin, minister of Sidney circuit, extended a warm welcome to the women assembled.

LITERATURE DISPLAY

Mrs. Percy MacMullin of Stirling was busy at the literature table, where she had many interesting books on display. She gave an excellent resume of the latest helps on stewardship, Christian citizenship, devotional helps, and books for all the younger groups. The Book Shelf and new study books on Japan were introduced. "Facts and Figures," the annual report of the Dominion Board) and "Missionaries Reporting" are a must for every auxiliary. The use of membership cards was stressed, not only for the annual members but also for the associate members. Mention was made of the splendid article on Japan, as written in a recent copy of the Reader's Digest.

The offering was taken and dedicated by members of Bayside Auxiliary, Mrs. W. Jones, Mrs. L. Hunt and Mrs. J. Percival after which the 1st vice-president, Mrs. C. Holmes, of Belleville, brought greetings from Mrs. L. Hunt, president of the Presbyterial, and introduced the guest speaker, Miss Violet Saunders, W.M.S. Missionary on furlough from Japan, where for years she has been doing educational work. Members of Presbyterial assisting in the day's program were also introduced.

SECRETARIES OFFER GOOD SUGGESTIONS

Mrs. R. G. Coulter, treasurer, and Mrs. F. C. Adsett, Christian Stewardship secretary, both of Belleville, together presented the ever-increasing needs in the missionary work, which necessitate increased allocations to meet these needs. Items in a program of sharing — time, talents, personality, material possessions, the things with which God has blessed us, that they may be used in His service. "What does the Lord require of me?" Each may ask herself that question. Belleville Presbyterial is asked to increase its allocation next year. Each can help by systematically giving just a little more in her monthly envelope.

"Seventy-five percent of our money goes to Home Missions, and the W.M.S. supports 30 per cent of all missionary work of the United Church.

We must seek more members, absolute and active. Our W.A. in Presbyterial gives $25 each year for a life membership to some worthy woman of the auxiliary. A reminder: Please make allowance for exchange if cheques are sent."

Mrs. Earl Eggleton of Stirling, press secretary, stressed the importance of having a press secretary report meetings promptly to the local paper. Keep a record of the year's work, and that make report time easy.

Baby Band secretary, Mrs. W. Williams of Stirling, spoke of the open-mindedness of a child and the opportunity afforded mothers and Baby Band leaders to develop in children attitudes of friendliness, good will and brotherliness. Family religion is important to the future of the child and the development of his faith. A Japanese proverb states: "If you are planning for 1 year, sow grain; If you are planning for 10 years, plant trees; If you are planning for 100 years, teach a child." In 110 Auxiliaries and affiliated societies in our Presbyterial, there are only 37 Baby Bands!

ANNUAL REPORTS REQUIRED

Corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. Johnston of Trenton, made a special request that annual reports be sent in. Many have not returned early, also that secretaries prepare for presentation from office, please pass on all helps and information concerning the Day of Prayer and Study to your Presbyterial, there are 81 Alternate Service Auxiliaries and 29 Affiliated W.A. groups.

Christian citizenship was presented by Mrs. N. M. Ribbon of Picton, and questions were answered about it. "What is your Christian citizenship implyi?" We are studying it now, and our own thinking and use the franchise.

Miss Jean Williams, of Belleville, for associate members, presented a list of more members. "We have plenty of work to do in our own church where only 1/3 of our women belong to the W.M.S. She urged that more visits be made to get associate members among newcomers, shut-ins, and business and professional women of our congregations. More associate members mean more mean more active members in 1959.

Mrs. C. Pierson of Wellington took the prayer of the Missionary Monthly and World Outlook magazines, binding secretaries to get their orders in during October, or early November.

MISSION BAND WORK

Mission Band work was presented by Mrs. Maurice Mooney, taking the place of Mrs. Burton Morton, of Harold Questions were answered on the use of the Mission Book and the need of carefully making out the report at the end of the year, and sending it in on time. Auxiliary women were urged to stand behind their Mission Band Presidents in every possible way.

Mrs. L. Hunt, president of the Presbyterial, and introduced the guest speaker, Miss Violet Saunders, W.M.S. Missionary on furlough from Japan, where for years she has been doing educational work. Members of Presbyterial assisting in the day's program were also introduced.

AFTERNOON MEETING

After an excellent dinner, served by the Alnwick W.A., the afternoon was given over to the guest speaker, Miss Violet Saunders, on furlough from Japan. Some beautiful slides were first shown, giving the women an idea of the work done by the graduates of the United Church Training School in Toronto, as the school this year there are 14 first-year and 12 second-year students.

Miss Saunders, a Bloomfield, told of the great need for more full time workers in the church and also of interesting slides of work done by the graduates of the United Church Training School in Toronto, as the school this year there are 14 first-year and 12 second-year students.

Miss Saunders spoke

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

SIGHTLESS WOMEN LEARN TO "SEE" THEIR BEAUTY POTENTIAL

One of the most heart warming stories about the quest for beauty that we've heard in many a day comes from Mr. Leo Sonkin, Chairman of the Welfare Committee of Hairdressers' Board of Trade of New York, Inc. This group of professional hairdressers does volunteer beauty work in many welfare homes, and homes or the the under privileged in greater Manhattan.

"When we were first approached to lend our services to the women in a well known home for the blind, we responded with enthusiasm and anticipated that we would be doing the usual hair shaping, styling, make-up, etc. Much to our surprise, however, this was the least important contribution we were asked to make. The women, from teens to oldsters of eighty, wanted to "see" how our suggestions would improve their make-up and hairstyling. They explained that if we would tell them what we were doing each step of the way and guide their sensitive fingertips over their hair as we were setting it and combing it out, they would then be able to enjoy our hairstyles long after we left. They would be able to understand their needs much better.

Continues Mr. Sonkin, "The excitement and the exclamations over every detail of the hair and make-up that we did . . . the understanding that these women had for our explanations of why certain lines would improve their looks, how they could comb and brush their hair to bring out its natural loveliness after the setting, and why care in between shop visits prolonged the lines of the set were absorbed eagerly and registered firmly in their minds. All of the women literally felt that they looked better than ever before, and were sure that whoever saw them would approve, too."

Yes, it's all in the way you look at yourself that counts. If you "see" beauty as something that will make you happier and more attractive to those around you, you will do everything within your power to project your full potential. Like the sightless women, you should be eager to know why a new hairdo now and then is a welcome change, why your features call for a change in parts, the addition of forehead fringe, a different length hair, a new lipstick color.

Women are credited with changing their minds often about many things. It is perfectly in character, therefore, to change your outlook on personal grooming . . . to revise every facet of your thinking about the extremes of fashion you can enjoy with proper professional guidance. Just because you lean toward the conservative does not necessarily mean you cannot exhibit your feminine charms in more provocative, flamboyant style now and then. Such a simple thing as a new hairstyle can set the pace . . . and the lines can be practical, easy-to-handle at home as well.

You may be plain or a great beauty, but you share the same instincts that every other female possesses . . . your desire to be as attractive as possible. The "plain" woman has simply underrated the drama quotient. She is Sleeping Beauty that needs to be kissed by the magic of color, line and individuality in make-up, hairstyle and clothes.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

* * *

Helen R. — My husband and I are childless, middle-aged couple. We didn't marry until we were nearly 40 and I have worked most of my life. Our marriage has been quite happy except for the serious disagreement we have been having on one important subject.

I have always longed for a home of my own. I have worked and saved for it and feel that it's now or never for us to get one. Of course, I realize a whole house is a lot of space for two people, but it could be a very small house. I just want to be able to call it my own.

My husband thinks it's just ridiculous and absolutely refuses to go along with the idea. He would rather spend the money on travel and "living it up" and thinks we would feel ridiculous in a house.

* * *

Jack R. — When I told some of my friends about Helen's idea about the house, they just laughed in my face. They said, "What'll you do with all the space? It would be different if you had children, even grown children who come home on visits."

Helen is like a child when she gets one of these notions in her head. She just has to have some sort of toy. A house is no toy and will take all of her savings.

Helen has this dream picture of herself standing in front of her house trimming her rose bushes and waving at the neighbors. She doesn't realize we will feel out of place among all those families with their kids running around. People look at you as though you are nuts if you do a thing like that.

* * *

The Council: Jack's complaint that Helen is like a child because she wants to fulfill a lifelong dream looks mighty lame when placed against his own arguments. His basic motivation is his fear of looking odd to others.

Jack should ask himself whether the opinion of his friends or his wife's happiness is of greater concern to him. We're willing to wager his wife's happiness usually counts most, but that he has a childlike, cringing fear of puglic opinion. He also appears to feel he really has no right to a place in the world because he has no children.

Unlike Jack, Helen is trying to stake her right to her place under the sun. It is a childlike, but adult, to fulfill a dream. Helen has earned right to trim her bushes and wave at the neighbors. We have a notion she would like to have the neighbors' children running in now and then for a cooky.

A home would bring her a sense of peace and stability and we think it would do the same for Jack. It may also help to give him the sense of the importance of his own individuality he now so badly lacks.

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP . . .
THANK FOR VACATION CARDS

Summer-vacation days are over, and these are the days when you will be meeting relatives and friends who thoughtfully sent you picture post-cards or other greetings from their vacation places. Keep high in your heart to say 'thank you' for their kind remembrances.

TICKET FOR GRANDMOTHER OR FOR MOTHER-IN-LAW?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

This is our problem, to which we would appreciate your answer. A girl who is married is graduating from college. She receives 4 tickets of admission to the graduation exercises. Of course she gives one ticket to her husband, one to her mother, and one to her father. Who should be entitled to the remaining ticket — her maternal grandmother or her mother-in-law? — A Reader

This choice would, I should say, be determined by which devotion is greater. That is, if, say, the girl always had a deep and very special love for her grandmother, if together they have always looked forward to and planned for this so-important occasion, I should think that the girl would want to give the fourth ticket to her grandmother . . . and I should think a tact-thinking mother-in-law, particularly one who hasn't been very long on the scene, would understand her wanting to do this. On the other hand, if the girl hasn't ever been particularly close to her grandmother in devotion or mutual understanding, and hes become very devoted to her mother-in-law, her choice for the ticket might well be her mother-in-law. (As I've been answering this, I'm hoping mightily that the girl-graduate can somehow 'achieve' another ticket!)

WRONG PLACE

BOLTON, England (CP) — A pretty blonde bus conductress won a big cheer when she sang in a talent - spotting contest here, but another group a mile away wasn't cheering. Their bus was delayed by the absence of the conductress, who lost her job and also finished seventh in the talent competition.

SHANNONVILLE W.G.

The Women's Guild of Holy Trinity Church, Shannonville, met recently at the home of Mrs. A. Long for the first meeting of the fall season, with Mrs. S. Fitzgerald presiding and six members attending.

Mrs. L. A. Page opened the meeting. Plans were discussed for a turkey supper to be held November 7 at the United Church hall.

There is to be a euchre party at the home of Mr. A. Long on October 24.

The next meeting of the W.G. to be held on October 10 at the rectory, 33 Humewood Drive, Belleville.

The Rev. L. A. Page closed the meeting with prayer and benediction.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and a social hour spent.

Dyed-In-The-Purple Jelly

By Mary Moore

It will not surprise some of you to know that as I type this Gary Pitts is scratching on the screen outside my ground-level window. He is watching and trying to imitate some crickets in the cracks in the flagstones.

TUESDAY

So if there is a happy atmosphere about these purple passages on grapes he is the source.

Some of you want to know how to make grape jelly without added pectin. Someone wants a recipe for spiced grape jelly. I have those and a recipe for grape and pear jam that is economical to make and will look and taste luxurious on your breakfast table next January.

GRAPE JELLY

Grapes should be picked over, washed and stems removed before putting into preserving kettle. It is advisable to include some that are not fully ripe. Mash, heat to boiling point, cover and simmer 20 minutes. Strain through heavy jelly bag. Do not squeeze. Measure 4 cups of juice into a large preserving kettle and let boil 5 minutes. Add 3 cups sugar, bring again to boiling point and boil about 5 minutes or until jelly will "sheet" from side of spoon or thermometer registers 218 deg. Skim and pour into sterile jelly glasses, cover with melted paraffin, adding second coating when first is set, and tipping glasses to coat sides. Continue boiling 4 cups grape juice with 3 cups sugar as above until all juice is used.

SPICED GRAPE JELLY

Five lbs. Concord grapes (try to include some that are underripe), 1 cup white grape juice (use purple if white is not available), 1 tablespoon whole cloves, 1-2 stick cinnamon, broken, 1 cup vinegar, sugar. Wash and stem grapes. Place in large kettle with grape juice and spices, tied in cheesecloth bag, and vinegar. Cook until grapes are very soft. Remove spice bag and strain through strong jelly bag. Discard pulp. Return juice to heat and boil for 20 minutes. Measure. For each cup of juice measure 1 cup of sugar. Boil rapidly for 5 minutes, then test for sheeting, or jelling on cold saucer. Pour into sterile glasses and seal.

GRAPE AND PEAR JAM

Eight cups stemmed and washed Concord grapes, 3 cups water, 10 cups chopped pears which have been washed, pared and cored, 4 1-2 cups sugar. Wash grapes, slip pulp out of skins. Add 1 1-2 cups water to the skins and 1 1-2 cups to the pulp. Simmer skins and pulp in separate containers until tender — about 15 minutes. Press pulp through sieve to remove seeds, and add cooked grape skins, chopped pears and sugar to this pulp. Bring to boiling and boil uncovered to jam stage — about 45 minutes, stirring frequently. Pour into hot sterilized glasses and seal with double coatings of paraffin. About 8 8-oz. containers.

Mother's Helper

ON A SPECIAL occasion, you may want to use a bit of hair spray to keep your little lady's locks party perfect. If she objects to the "cold feeling" of the mist, spray her hairbrush instead, and apply it immediately to her hair.

The Rebekah card parties, euchre and bridge, will begin on Wednesday October 23rd, and will work alternately with the card parties which are operated each fortnight at the St. Carthagh's School, sponsored by the C. W. L. This was agreed at the regular meeting held on Friday night at the IOOF hall, by the Rebekah ladies.

A delightful surprise bridal shower, was held at the home of Mrs. Norman Champagne, on Friday evening for Miss Kathryne Quinn, a bride-to-be of Saturday October 12th. The shower was planned and arranged by Mrs. N. Champagne and Mrs. Fred Rashotte, there were 24 guests, all friends of Miss Quinn, present. The gifts were most beautiful and useful too, for which the recipient thanked the ladies in a gracious manner. A social time was enjoyed for the remainder of the evening, with playing of games and after which refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Graham, at Fordwich, in the Owen Sound district are visitors at the homes of the farmer's brother, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Graham, while his brother is hospitalized, and also at Mrs. Jessie Graham's, Crookston Road. They are spending part of their time at the hospital, to be near the brother.

Mrs. George Dyson, the United Minister's wife from Thomasburg, was the guest soloist at the Eggleton W. A. annual bazaar held at the Eggleton United Church, Madoc Junction, recently. Mrs. Bruce Stapley played her accompaniment. W.A. groups were present from Stirling, West Huntingdon, Moira and Thomasburg.

At the C.W.L. card party held on October 2nd, in St. Carthagh's school, there were 18 tables in play, and the prize winners were: euchre, ladies' high score, Mrs. Harvey Spencer; men's high score, B. Moore; bridge, ladies' high score, Mrs. Wilfred LeSage; men's high score, Mr. David Gathercole. The door prize was won by Mrs. Norman Champagne.

A mammoth bake sale will be held October 12th, by the ladies of the C.W.L. A similar bake sale and apron table will be sponsored by Tweed Rebekah Lodge on November 23rd.

The Department of Lands and Forests, express the facts about fire and they deem that the fire hazard at this date is termed just "medium", so have made arrangements to have Mr. Ed Thomas, pilot, and his mechanic, Duncan McPhail, to remain here the most part of this month with the Forestry plane, which is so rapid and efficient in getting to and extinguishing fires in the district, they had a call near the old Flinton road recently, which burned out approximately two acres before being brought under control.. It was believed to the caused by careless hunters.

Among the graduates from the Ontario Hospital last week, was Miss Dagmar Wrightson, of Tamworth.

Mr. and Mrs. "Ted" Courneya, and family have moved from their previous home on Colborne Street, to the apartment at their Tweedsmuir Hotel. Mrs. Gegers is the mother of Mrs. Courneya is continuing on in the Colborne Street residence. It is the dwelling formerly occupied by Mr. Armand Turpin.

Mr. Ed. Thomas and family have moved into the former T. C. Graham home on Metcalfe St., after occupying the Wintour cottage all summer.

The executive sales meeting of the Bata Shoe Company, and their guests attended a dinner at the Hotel Tweedsmuir, here, on Saturday evening, October 5th.

A long-time resident of Prince Edward county, but at one time a resident of Hungerford township, Mr. James Anderson, passed away last week, in his 90th. year. He is survived by his widow, Eliza Boldrick, and one son, Arnott Anderson, of Consecon. Interment was in Plainfield cemetery.

Mr. Jack Rashotte, unfortunately had the misfortune to break his thumb, while working with packing boxes on one of the T.T.C. trucks of which he is an overseer and driver. He is now brandishing a half arm cast which will be on for some time and thus hinders the use of the right hand and arm. All trust it will heal rapidly.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Sherry were in Tweed over the weekend from his school employment on the staff at Shannonville.

McGowan Sifted, in Tweed, which has been in desperate need of repair, (but the road overseers can't be expected to do all the streets at once), has been remedied, it hasn't had its face completely lifted and done over anew, but it is smoothed off considerably and the motorists using that particular street, will be appreciative, as previously, it has been very rough.

Wayne Latta, who has been employed at Watson Lake, in Northern Quebec, spent a short holiday here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Latta, on Wednesday Mrs. Latta accompanied Wayne as far as Toronto, and he goes on to Northern Michigan, where he continues with his work in the McPhar Geophysics with whom he has been for some time. Mrs. Latta will return to her home this week.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest LeSage in the passing of their seven-year-old son, "Bobbie", on Saturday, October 5th, in Smiths Falls. Mr. and Mrs. LeSage were in Smiths Falls on Saturday, and the funeral arrangements will be announced later.

TWEED — The many friends of Mrs. A. J. Maynes, Marmora, formerly of Tweed, are sorry to hear that she found it necessary to again be hospitalized in the Belleville General Hospital. We trust she will soon be well and be out and back with her family.

Mr. Jack MacLean was home for the weekend from his temporary employment in Toronto, prior to his departure in a few weeks for the Elliott Lake district where he will again assume his electrical duties in a larger enterprise.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lefebvre of Ottawa, spent the weekend at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gehan of town.

Mr. Dick LaVallee has been employed part-time at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. James Halpenny, on South Victoria St.

The Appreciation Day weekly winner of the last Saturday, September 28, as the draw has ceased to exist, was Ross McNaught, Minnie Street, with a 10 per cent ticket on a "kitty" of $372. The "draws" drew large crowds and have been operating for one calendar year, but the merchants (who actually paid the cash) voted the project down for the coming year.

Attending the Grand Chapter sessions at the Royal York Hotel recently were: Mrs. Kenneth Fisher, Worthy Matron of Tweed chapter, and Associate Matron, Mrs. Everett Geen of Roslin, and Mrs. Elston Thompson, of Arden, who is a member of the Tweed Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, who received her jewel and commission as District Deputy Grand Matron of District No. 12. Mrs. Thompson's district extends as far as Peterborough and Port Hope on the west, east to Napanee, south to part of Prince Edward County, and north to Bancroft, comprising 18 chapters in all.

Among the speakers at the third annual convention of the Hastings County Farmers' Union, at the St. Carthagh's school on Thursday evening were: A. V. Cormack, president of the Ontario Farmers' Union; Mrs. E. Prosser, ladies' president of the Ontario union, and others. There was a good attendance at the convention.

On October 8th, Senior Captain John H. Zarfas will begin a six-day period of week-day gatherings at the local Salvation Army citadel. He is the Army's national evangelist and was born in Brighton, Sussex, England.

The traffic has been extra heavy on Highway No. 37 and on No. 7, a life-long resident related last week that he counted the cars on No. 7 one day for 20 minutes and there were 270 vehicles passed his home near Actinolite in that length of time.

For the Kinsmen Club, "Jill" Quinn was named governor of the committee in charge to the "200" club, while Doug Oddie will be in charge of the Christmas Basket project, which has come to be an annual affair with the Kinsmen of Tweed. The "splits" of the sale of light bulbs is under the supervision of Doug Spencer. Ron Way is shouldering the exercises of the president's chair with ease, with Ernie Rogers as vice-president.

Nancy Agnes Brennan of Tweed, became the bride of Laurence James Mahoney, on Saturday, September 28th in St. Carthagh's Church, Tweed. She is the only daughter of Mrs. John Brennan and the late Mr. Brennan of Tweed and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mahoney, Sulphide.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Feeney on the birth of a son in Brantford on Saturday, Sept. 21st.

Also at Grace Hospital, Toronto, a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Chambers (nee Delta Austin) on September 25.

Recently Mrs. Lincoln Elliott, of Tweed, president of the Quinte Presbyterial, was the guest speaker at the WMS afternoon meeting of that group at Centenary church, when over 50 ladies were present. Mrs. Fred Edmondson introduced Mrs. Elliott and after her interesting talk on WMS work, Christian work in the church, the number of Presbyterials in Canada being the amount of 102, etc., she was thanked very graciously by Mrs. F. Sutherland. WMS guests were present from Carlton, Holloway St., Belleville, Johnstown and Grace St. United, Trenton, Whitby, Wallbridge, College Hill, etc. Mrs. Elliott resides on a farm at Hilton, Tweed, and is, and always has been, a great worker in all church groups, especially in the Mission work of the United Church, St. John's.

Mr. G. W. Nelson, of Tweed, the Public School Inspector for this area, addressed a group at the regular meeting of Madoc public school recently. He was introduced by Mr. Ray Blash and thanked at conclusion by Mrs. Eric Lavender. The matter of interest at this meeting and the substance of Mr. Nelson's talk was regarding an impending new school to be built in the near future, if possible, there, and they now feel the school is within the realm of possibility. They were very grateful to Mr. Nelson for the facts that he brought to light and the various steps and details they will need to take into consideration.

The Plainfield School for retarded children, recently named "The Ontario Home for Mentally Retarded Infants Incorporated" is badly in need of babies' clothing. Winter clothes are not needed as they do not go outside. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Velleman started this idea putting everything they have into it, and now they need help. Toys of rubber and stuffed toys, plastic covered, are acceptable. Some of the children come from families who are able to pay, while others are from very poor families, but they all need the same care and assistance will be so welcome.

A new playground at this school was recently opened, and Tweed service clubs and welfare workers helped to make this playground possible. It was officially opened by the Warden of Hastings County, Mr. Leslie McLaren. Besides public contributions the radio, press and TV helped to raise funds for this worthy cause. It is understood that anyone can go through the school at any time and they will explain the work that is carried out.

STELLARTON, N. S. (CP)—Mayor Frank H. Sobey has quit the fight to prevent sale of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation to A. V. Roe (Canada) Ltd. He said Monday that Roe has beaten its opponents.

Mr. Sobey, a member of the 14-man Dosco directorate and president of a Maritime grocery supermarket chain, is the first of the Roe opponents to concede defeat.

He said in a statement Roe has obtained control of Dosco "and with it the tremendous responsibility for the successful operation of this tremendous industry."

R. A. Jodrey of Hantsport, N.S. the Dosco director who launched the fight to keep the giant complex out of the hands of the British-controlled Roe organization, could not be reached for comment.

LEGAL STEPS

In an open letter published earlier Monday in the Toronto Telegram, he told Dosco shareholders legal steps are being considered to have the courts declare the Dosco-Roe transaction null and void. Mr. Jodrey heads a shareholders' protective committee organized to block the sale, if possible.

Mr. Jodrey's open letter to share and debenture holders, carried in the form of an advertisement, said he feels Avro's offer is insufficient.

Mr. Sobey said Roe has won support of stockholders holding more than 1,600 000 shares and thus has obtained the necessary 51 per cent of stock on which the deal hinged.

Roe's offer — quarter Roe shares and $10.25 was offered for each Dosco share. An official announcement that Roe has received the necessary shares is expected to be made Thursday by Roe President Crawford Gordon, Jr.

Mr. Sobey urged "all interested parties, especially Nova Scotians" to co-operate with Roe "in their endeavors to maintain and expand" Dosco.

ONCE OPPOSED

"I opposed the acquisition of control by Roe," he said. "They successfully overcame the opposition presented to them and they now obtained control. . . ."

"Roe has stated it will be their policy to strengthen and maintain the separate identity and autonomy of Dosco and through their association with the Hawker-Siddeley group in England will be in a position to substantially strengthen Dosco's business compact abroad."

Dosco's group of associated companies and subsidiaries in Canada include 19 Nova Scotia mines and the Dominion Iron and Steel Ltd., in Sydney besides other interests.

Pope Concerned Over Programs

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Pope Pius said Sunday that it is "undispensable" for Roman Catholics to be consulted about television programs and some of them should "rank amongst the producers."

Addressing 2,000 lay Catholic leaders from more than 30 countries, the Pope said Catholics must "try with all their strength" to "modify" the film industry, "which more often than not presents a world in which men live and die as if God did not exist."

Every year, 12,000,000,000 persons go to the movies, he said, but many of the films did not reach a sufficiently high cultural and moral level.

Speaking of television, the Pope added: "It is indispensable that the Church should be represented in the committees in charge of making programs and that Catholic specialists should rank among the producers."

"Both priests and laymen are invited to this task."

DESEGREGATION

Will the showdown come in the big cities?

Everybody talks about the racial problem in the South. The violence, the bitterness, the shouting and arm waving have been focused on that area. But, there is good reason to believe that the real crisis in the Negro-white issue will come in the great cities of the North.

In this week's Saturday Evening Post, you'll find out the documented facts about Negro crime, morality, and "equality" in our country's largest cities — why southerners contend the race situation in the North will grow worse — not better — why the big cities of our North and West — rather than the South — hold the key to the real desegregation showdown Milwaukee Braves Hold Distinct Edge Over Yanks Heading For N. Y.

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

It was "B" night in Milwaukee from five o'clock on last evening. Beer, Burdette and the Braves.

The good burghers of the city that a certain brew "made famous" had another golden item made. The first one went to Ed Matthews for that game-clinching two-run homer on Sunday, but last night's gift biaides many others, went to nervous Lew Burdette who finished the game with a brilliant ninth-inning effort by striking out two Yankees and forcing the third to pop out.

But all the glory shouldn't go to the big righthander from Virginia. The Yankees had enough displaced persons on the bases ot stock a farm, thanks to the brilliant defensive play of the Braves' infield. True Joe Adcock committed the only Milwaukee error of the game but it wasn't costly.

Then one of those things, call it a break if you will, started the Braves off to their million-dollar run. Jerry Coleman belted a fraction of a second too long with his toss of Matthews' grounder to first. Eddie beat the throw by a whisker, then came two successive singles—and that was the ball game.

Yes sirree. All is hunkey-dorey in Milwaukee. They have beaten the vaunted Yankee power three times and need but one more victory to win their first pennant. Tomorrow, in New York's cathedral of baseball, the Yankee Stadium, they face the American League champions in the sixth game of the series. This could be the most dramatic game in history.

And don't sell these Yankees short, even if they are without the services of their wonder boy, Mickey Mantle. The blonde big gun of the Gotham Atlantic, we say that reservedly, is sidelined with a sore shoulder. He may play Wednesday. He may not.

The Yankee power, it is still there, although diminished somewhat with the Mick out of the picture, is liable to break out when least expected. That was strikingly demonstrated in Sunday's game when with the Braves leading 4-1 and two Yankees out in the ninth, Elston Howard topped a rally with a game-tying home run, only to be out-herc'd by Ed Matthews in the end.

If you noticed on your television set yesterday, there was a pitch look on the face of "Ole Case" after the third out in the ninth and the jubilant Braves were mashing Burdette in the hysteria of victory. The Silver Fox is not beaten yet, not by a long shot, and you can bet your neighbor's Grey Cup dacats the wheels will be turning in the Stengel noggin today and tomorrow morning. He has an undying faith in the ability and power of his champions to come through especially when they have their collective back to the wall.

On the National League side of the world series ledger the Braves have the advantage of a 3-2 game lead. After rebounding twice to beat the Yankees and Burdette coming through with his brilliant mound effort yesterday, Fred Haneys' zanies are confident they can take the series in six games. Tomorrow's game should be a topflight thriller with Don Larsen and Bobby Buhl likely getting the respective calls to mound duty.

HOCKEY

With hockey around the corner, the puck-chasing moppets of the city and district are getting ready for the winter's activities. Here in the city the Belleville Minor Hockey Association has organized the seasonal executive with the popular Mel Richards at the helm. Mel has done a lot for minor hockey over the years and it goes without saying the BMHA is in good hands again this season. Mel's executive are tried and true minor hockey men and some 800 kids, according to "Beat" Doran, will again see organized puck action this winter.

With Trenton's new Community Gardens now in action, some 400 kiddies of that town will see organized sport this season under the competent supervision of Mayor Ross Burtt, Gardens manager Ted Steadman and Joe Gould, besides others. This means another large quota of hockey-minded youngsters will come under the aegis of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association. Last season some 4,000 youngsters from Peterborough to Gananoque enjoyed their favorite winter sport under the OMHA.

* * *

Meanwhile, Doug Patterson and Albert Watkins, Eastern Ontario members of the OMHA executive, are readying plans. The far-reaching activities of their organization stretch further each year into this part of "Upper Canada", so much so that additional district conveners will be appointed to assist the hard-working executive members. Belleville and Trenton will look after their own arenas, but the smaller centres of the north and eastern and western areas will be taken care of by the OMHA officials.

A junior "B" loop of the district is or will be in the process of organization, with Trenton, RMC, Kingston Queen's and possibly Gananoque as entries. There has been nothing definite done, we are informed, about a Belleville entry, in fact some of the junior players of last year's city team are thinking of trying out with the Trenton squad.

Other hockey news has it that strong intermediate loops in the southern and northern sections of the district will again be organized. The Kingston CKCL's started their training camp last night with several of last year's squad out plus many newcomers. Among the latter appeals are J. Desserault, a goalie; Lee Hubert, Bill Culp and others. Trenton's squad are Goodfellow, Partridge, Topp-assinni, Levandoskie, Moore, Chiarelli and Johnson.

Armprior Girl Wins Contest

OTTAWA (CP)— Adele Grace, pert 19-year-old from the Ottawa Valley town of Arnprior, Monday night was named Miss Ottawa Rough Rider.

The blue-eyed brunette, who beat out 16 other nominees, wins a pearl necklace and a complete wardrobe for her appearance in the November Miss Grey Cup competition in Toronto. Adele is five-feet 1½ inches tall and weighs 110 pounds. Her statistics: 36-24-35.

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The proud 65th haughty New York Yankees today were in their worst position since they bowed to Brooklyn Dodgers in seven games in the 1955 world series.

Their poise and confidence shaken for the first time in the series, following Monday's twin blow to the chin—the knowledge of Mickey Mantle's almost certain loss and Whitey Ford's pacalyzing 1-0 defeat by Milwaukee Braves—Yankees find themselves in the distasteful position where one more loss will end their world championship reign. Braves' triumph gave them a 3-2 lead in the series.

Yankees' only comfort can be gleaned from the schedule which calls for a day off today. Although manager Casey Stengel is frankly pessimistic about Mantle's availability for Wednesday's sixth game, he is hoping against hope that his top slugger's sore shoulder mends sufficiently to enable him to swing a bat.

INJURED SATURDAY

Monday, just before game time Stengel announced he was withdrawing the Oklahoma strong boy from the starting line-up.

Stengel explained that Mickey's shoulder had stiffened considerably and it hurt him when he swung a bat. Mantle did get into the game yesterday, but only as a pinch runner, in the eighth inning, and was promptly cut down trying to steal second.

Yankees received a taste Monday of what it is like without the bludgeoning bat of Mantle when they were held to seven singles by Lew Burdette as Ford lost his heartbreaker to Milwaukee. Whitey himself yielded only six hits, but three of them came in one inning—the sixth—to account for the only run of the game and result in Burdette's second victory over the Yankees in the series. Ford had beaten the Bums.

A MUST GAME

Wednesday's sixth game—the do or die game for the Yankees—will pit New York's Bob Turley against Milwaukee's Bob Buhl in a duel of righthanders at Yankee Stadium. If the Yankees should win, the finale will probably find Don Larsen of Yankees opposing Milwaukee's Warren Spahn, for his third start of the series.

Stengel's nomination of Turley is a surprise. The fireballer failed to last two innings in Saturday's third game, Bob also pitched a strong relief inning Monday, retiring three Braves on 10 pitches, two of them via strikeouts.

For Buhl, it also will be his second series start. He fared even worse than Turley in Saturday's 12-3 Yankee route of the Braves Buhl faced six batters before he got the hook. He retired two batters but two others walked, one singled and another, Tony Kubek, homered. The net result was a quick 3-0 Yankee lead.

Unless Maunie makes a miraculously speedy recovery, Stengel probably will shift Kubek from left to centre field and install Enos Slaughter in left. Jerry Lumpe again probably will play third base, Harry Simpson will be at first and Gil McDougald will remain in Mickey's third place in the batting order.

Haney will return to his left-handed line - up. That means Frank Torre will replace Joe Adcock, Monday's batting star, at first base, and Bob Hazle will be in right field in place of Andy Pafko, who got two of the Braves' six hits Monday.

Haney was not without his worries. He is regarded to be back of Red Schoendienst, his brilliant second baseman, who will be replaced by the rest of the series with a pulled groin muscle. The team's veteran spark plug suffered the injury in the second inning of Monday's game when he tried unsuccessfully to stop Slaughter's ground single from rolling into centre field.

Despite Schoendienst's dexterity around second base, he'll be missed only at the plate because Felix Mantilla, who replaced him is a superb gloveman. He proved it Monday by making a particularly fine play to take a base hit away from Jerry Coleman in the fifth.

The best defensive play, however, was made by left fielder Wes Covington. He made a backhand catch of Gil's drive to deep left. Covington raced back, leaped up into the air and crashed into the low fence upon coming down, but he held on to the ball to provide the capacity County Stadium crowd of 45,811 with their first thrill.

REAL PITCHERS' DUEL

The pitchers' duel was a real thrill, however, from the time the stars Ford and Burdette were locked up in a real pitching duel. Neither side had been able to push a runner as far as third base. Yankees have not touched Burdette for four hits and Braves had only three off Ford.

Burdette retired the first two Braves in the sixth. Then came the big break. Ford, fielding a not a slow chopper to the right side, Coleman casually an alert fielder, waited for the ball to bounce to him instead of charging rin for the short hop. By the time he could get the ball and whip it to first, Mathews was across the bag with an infield single.

Henry Aaron followed with a bloop single to right that dropped between Coleman and right fielder Hank Bauer, Mathews racing to third. Adcock, whose bat had been practically muted in the previous games, came through with a line single to right, and Mathews scampered across the plate with the only run of the game.

Burdette still had his work cut out for him. He gave up singles in each of the next three innings, but only in the ninth did he face more than three batters.

Burdette faced the first two Yankees, Bauer and Kubek, in the ninth but McDougald kept New York's hopes alive with a single to right. Berra swung at Lew's first pitch, a spiker, and raised a puny popup to Mathews, ending the game.

Los Angeles City Council Votes to Accept Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles city council has finally asked Walter O'Malley for the hand of his Brooklyn Dodgers.

The move that had been stewing since last May became a reality Monday when the council —over determined opposition— mustered the necessary 10 votes to transfer the Dodgers west.

In New York, O'Malley withheld comment but his acceptance of the contract offered by the city was believed in the bag. The Dodger president has until Oct. 15 to make his decision.

Four councilmen opposed the transfer to the very end of the tumultuous six-hour session. All four said they want the Dodgers, but feel terms of the contract bringing them here are unfavorable to the city.

There was a threat from the camp of the four dissenters of trying to nullify the council action by placing the issue before the voters as a referendum.

RESIDENTS FAVOR MOVE

Councilmen favoring the Dodger transfer gave this plan little chance of success. Such an election could not be held until next summer, they said, and besides, the city's residents are overwhelmingly in favor of bringing the Bums to Los Angeles.

Under terms of the contract the Dodgers would play their games in 22,500 - seat Wrigley Field until O'Malley builds his team a 50,000-seat stadium on 300 acres of Chavez Ravine land deeded to the city by the city. Then O'Malley gives the city the 10-acre site of Wrigley Field, home of the Los Angeles Angels in the Pacific Coast League, which O'Malley picked up when he bought the Angel franchise last year.

Flu Bug Leaves Leafs With Only One Line Intact

The only line remaining intact from training camp was that of Rudy Migay, Sid Smith and Ron Stewart—which showed best in late training.

Manager Billy Reay switched Tod Sloan, who had been succeeded by Mahovlich, back between Dick Duff and George Armstrong. Sloan centred this line the last two seasons.

Gary Aldcorn, slated to join Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League, will replace Brian Cullen between Barry Cullen and Bob Pulford.

Soccer Players Pay Heavy Fines for Assault

Magistrate R. C. Taylor, who convicted players of assaulting a linesman, said:

"Racial tension runs high between teams and between spectators."

Said Magistrate Taylor:

"I think it would be wise for those who control the game of soccer to arrange it so that any concentration of one nationality should have its players dispersed among other teams.

"Also names of teams should not connote any particular nationality."

Other teams in the league include Italia, Hungaria and Malta.

BLUEBIRD STILL ROLLS

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Donald Campbell, who earlier in the day said he was ill with flu, took his jet-powered hydroplane for another trial run on Onondaga Lake Monday and reported the craft still has the roll that delayed Saturday.

Campbell said he held the Bluebird II to 150 miles an hour on the test. Afterward, he huddled with his engineers in an effort to get rid of the roll.

Prophets Wary as to Winner As National Hockey League Opens its Season Tonight

MONTREAL (CP) — Wary out and he quit the team.

Boats that may sway home to the harness game.

stick their hands in a hat to pull out the name of the winning team for the Stanley Cup. The League which opens its season tonight.

Numerous between - seasons player swaps have spread the strength around. Chicago Black Hawks, last year's cellar team, are expected to pull up into a playoff spot.

Hawks acquired leftwinger Ted Lindsay and goalie Glenn Hall from Detroit. Lindsay was last year's second highest scorer and Hall is a former Vezina Trophy winner.

Chicago has also signed defenceman Jim Conacher, last with Toronto, and forward Bob Murphy, from New York Rangers.

Montreal Canadiens last year's Stanley Cup champs, are expected to battle for the league championship with the Red Wings last year's NHL champions.

Leafs are minus veteran Ted Kennedy this year, but have strong hopes for a new recruit, forward Frank Mahovlich, up from St. Michael's Juniors.

Detroit will likely miss Lindsay, but goalie Terry Sawchuk is expected to fill in adequately for Hall. Sawchuk was brought back from Boston Bruins last year after Wings let him go two seasons ago.

Hal Patterson Heading for Scoring Title

TORONTO (CP) — Hal Patterson of Lethbridge, who gave up heading for his first Big Four football scoring title since coming to Canada, has gone to the University of Kansas three years ago.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show the 25-year-old pass-catching end with 54 points on nine touchdowns, 12 points up on second-place Tom Lewis of Ottawa Rough Riders. Patterson scored one touchdown as Als lost 41-31 to Toronto Argonauts last Saturday while Lewis was held off the scoresheet in Ottawa's 19-17 loss to Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Gary Schreider of Riders is in third place with 35 points, seven behind Lewis and five up on team-mate Bobby Simpson and Toronto's Pete O'Garro, tied for fourth place with 30 points each. Simpson scored one touchdown as the lead to Don Wright of London Lords in the Ontario Rugby Football Union race a week ago, went to the top again with a 45-point total. Lakeshore, from Sarnia Golden Bears, picked up seven points in weekend action on seven converts and a field goal while Wright brought his total to 44 with four converts and a single.

On the Tracks

NEW YORK (CP) — Claiborne Farm's Bayou showed a fondness for the sloppy going to win the fourth running of the $29,250 Maskette Handicap at Belmond Park Monday.

The three-year-old daughter of Hill Prince-Cicada, ridden by Robert Ussery, scored in the mile race by half a length over Rare Treat, who was up in the last stride to win the place by a head over Pink Velvet, owned by Bill Beasley of Toronto. The time was 1:37.

TORONTO (CP) — Stole the Ring, second 5-to-year-old daughter of the great Canadian racing mare Go Gift, was among the featured Mossbank Purse at New Woodbine Monday, running the six furlongs in 1:09 4-5 to defeat seven outstanding fillies. Windy Answer finished second while Chalk Talk was a good third.

The veteran campaigner Mandingo got a new track record of 1:44 1-5 for the mile and a sixteenth in the fifth race but was disqualified for blocking Zao Gold on the final turn. The race was awarded to Zao Gold while Mandingo was placed second and Bingo Bill third.

Following the disqualification, the stewards ruled that Mandingo's race will go into the records.

B.C. Lions Keep Faint Hopes For Playoff Spot Alive

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

British Columbia Lions and Saskatchewan Roughriders still have faint mathematical chances to qualify for the Western Interprovincial Football Union playoffs.

British Columbia kept the slim hopes alive by trouncing Calgary Stampeders 37-1 before 25,000 fans at Vancouver Monday night while Winnipeg Blue Bombers were walloping Saskatchewan Riders 37-3 before 8,500 fans at Regina.

If Lions, now tied with Riders in last place, win their remaining five games and Calgary loses its remaining five, B.C. will finish three points ahead of Stampeders, now in third place, the lowest spot qualifying for the playoffs.

Riders with four games to go could finish one point ahead of Lions, received Reg Whitehouse from the Winnipeg 31 after half Jack Hill who had planned to kick on third down decided to run after he fumbled the snap and made a first down. Another Saskatchewan first down preceded the kick.

Touchdown scorers for Winnipeg were half Gerry James with two and Cec Lunsing, half Glen Ile Shepard and fullback Bob McNama. Quarter Ken Ploen converted all four touchdowns and added two points on a pair of singles.

HAVE BIG EDGE

Winnipeg showed quite a margin both in the air and on the ground. Bombers' 24 first downs were obtained on 227 yards rushing and 33 yards passing. Saskatchewan made nine first downs, 116 yards rushing and only 33 in the air.

As Saskatchewan did, Stampeders counted the first point of their game and led after 15 minutes of play.

For Lions fullback By Bailey went over for two touchdowns and end Vic Chapman one. Half Ted Hunt kicked two field goals and counted one convert. Quarter Maury Duncan kicked a convert and Lions' other point came when Lynn Thomas of Calgary conceded on a Chapman kick.

Lions made 19 first downs compared with 16 by Calgary and had a margin in rushing. On the ground British Columbia gained 218 yards against 65 for Calgary but in the air Calgary held a 236 to 142 margin in yards.

90 Candidates Turn Up at Biltmore Camp

GUELPH (CP) — Guelph Biltmores of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series opened their training camp here Tuesday with almost 90 candidates, the largest in the club's history, ready for tryouts.

Coach Eddie Bush said he will operate four shifts a day to find replacements for forwards Bill Sweeney, Eddie Shack, Bryan Webber, Jerry Goyer, Bob Robinson, Danny Belisle and defence men Ted Mahl and Ted Swidlowski.

Two Members Barrie Flyers Fail to Report

BARRIE (CP)—Two members of last year's edition of Barrie Flyers of the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A series Monday failed to show at workouts.

They were forward Alvin Warrena, who lives in nearby Shanty Bay, and Barry Ashbee, a defenceman from Toronto. Flyers' coach Hap Emms said he will probably seek a trade for Ashbee and place Norcora on the suspended list.

Absence of Mantle Hurting Yanks Says Hurling Hero

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Lew Burdette, the Milwaukee Braves' pitching hero of the world series, thinks the New York Yankees are really hurting because of Mickey Mantle's handicap.

That's nothing new. Manager Casey Stengel and all the world champions know it. But Burdette, who got his second series victory over New York with a splendid 1-0 shutout on a seven hitter Monday, sums it up well from the Braves standpoint.

"Mantle must be considered always a threat at the plate, whether injured or not," said the 30-year-old righthander.

"But now he is considered much more of a threat on the pitch than with a bat in his hand. But, gosh, all the Yankees are threats when you are looking at 'em from the mound."

Burdette was surprised he used only 87 pitches in his whitewash job. They included sliders, fast balls, screwballs, and sinkers, but about only eight curve balls.

Burdette says he will be ready to go again when the series windup resumes in New York Wednesday if Manager Fred Haney wants him.

COULD GO AGAIN

"A couple of years ago I pitched a complete game with only two days of rest, and I could do it again," he said. "I'll go any time Haney wants me."

Burdette was in so complete charge in winning the second victory over the Yankees, after bealing them on another seven-hitter in the second game of the series, that he ran up a three-ball count on only three batters.

"I just went out there and started throwing and they kept swinging," he said. "But I never was sure I had won until (Yogi) Berra popped out in the last inning. You can't take things for granted from the Yankees.

"At the start of the ninth I struck out (Hank) Bauer with a fast ball, then I struck out (Bill) Skowron with the same way with a screwball. I just threw the same kind of stuff I did all season in winning 17 games. I think that I pitched just about the same as I did in beating them last week, but this time my control got better as the game went along."

Burdette said his greatest thrill was winning the second game of the series last week.

"How the novelty it worn off," he added. "It's just another game, but an important one. I think the first time a pitcher beats the Yankees has to remain the top thrill."

Burdette shook his head: "I remember when I was with the Yankees in 1950. I pitched only about three pitches in Yankee Stadium. Most of the time I was pitching in batting practice. Why, Casey Stengel didn't even know who I was. When he wanted me he used to say: 'Hey, you.' And I'd come running."

WANTS COACHING JOB

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Kerby Farrell, fired last month as manager of Cleveland Indians, left Monday for his home in Henderson, Tenn., declaring he'd rather get a coaching job in the major leagues next season than try for a managerial post.

Under no circumstances, Farrell said, does he intend to take up an offer by Cleveland general manager Hank Greenberg for a job piloting one of the Tribe's farm clubs.

Conn Smythe in Same Spot As Meeker 31 Years Ago

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Conn Smythe is probably indulging in some nostalgic memories these days of he predicts the return of Howie Meeker. And he's probably the only man in hockey who fully appreciates the feelings of the deposed general manager of the Maple Leafs.

Smythe was in the same spot 31 years ago. And the circumstances are remarkably similar.

The Maple Leaf Gardens president, in 1926 a successful amateur hockey club coach, was approached by Col. John Hammond who had the money, a franchise and a place to play — to round up players for a suitable New York Rangers entry in the expanding NHL.

Smythe toured the country and came up with a group that included Ching Johnson, Taff Abel, Frank Boucher and Bill and Bun Cook—some of the greatest teams ever assembled—but before Rangers ever played their first game in Madison Square Garden, he got the gate.

Rangers had received their NHL franchise May 15, 1926, and Smythe was out in the fall.

Almost 31 years to the day—May 13, 1957—Smythe announced that Meeker, coach of the fifth-place Leafs last season, had been signed as manager of the Leafs succeeding Clarence (Hap) Day and resigned. Just four months and six days later, and before Leafs opened the 1957-58 campaign, Meeker was dropped.

The statement announcing this development was signed by Smythe and Meeker. It didn't give a reason for the move except to say that Meeker and Gardens' directors with officials had "agreed to disagree."

But Staff Smythe, chairman of the team's television committee and son of Conn, later said substantially the same as Col. Hammond told his dad in 1926:

He "lacked experience."

Lord Stanley's hockey club, which got more offseason talk than any team in the NHL following their last place finish and personnel changes among the higher echelons of its coaching staff, couldn't care less if the Leafs won or lost.

That was expected to bring howls of protest from Leaf officials but Staff Smythe agreed with the Bomber halfback.

"Unfortunately," Smythe said, "what he says is true. We don't expect it to remain that way. But this attitude has been developing in for the past four or five years. Gradually it's coming up from the ball park.

"When I was a kid, it amazed me how the baseball fans would give the Bronx Cheer to anyone who committed a goof. Hap Day was general manager of the Toronto Argonaut football team and already it is true of Argo fans. Now it is becoming true of Leaf fans. . . ."

Minneapolis-St. Paul Site Logical One for New Team

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Caught short:

With New York Giants already gone and Brooklyn Bums given two weeks to either hit the road or stay here and work, they are talking about getting another National League club in the New York area. The question is what club? All the other teams seem happy in their present locations for the moment. To get another club here the league would have to be expanded to 10 teams. We still think the Minneapolis - St. Paul site is the logical one for another team. We have an idea it would be Milwaukee all over again as far as fanatical support is concerned.

So you think there is too much pitching and not enough hitting in baseball today? Good thing you don't go for softball, then. In the recent world softball tournament at Clearwater, Fla., there were six no-hit games. The final game, won by Clearwater Bombers, went 18 innings to a 1-0 decision, with the losing pitcher, Harvey Strekel, fanning 24 and allowing only three hits.

In pro golf, did you ever notice how often a player who has never done anything spectacular before and suddenly crashes through with a big win follows it up with another big victory the same year. There was Jackie Burke winning the Masters last year, then taking the PGA tournament. And Dick Mayer winning the open this year, and then taking the "world" title, just as Julius Boros did in 1952 after being 34th in the money - winning list the year before. Ken Venturi won the St. Paul Open this year and immediately won the Milwaukee open.

Here's a little item for future world series players. The P-O-N-Y League, a program for 15 and 16-year-olds until now, is entering the 15 and 16-year-old field. The Lew Hays of Washington, Pa., the commissioner, said his group was not endorsing any single existing program and remarked the main goal is to have a single organization to take care of graduates of the P-O-N-Y League.

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—Ezra Deen made his American harness racing debut a winning one at Roosevelt Raceway Monday night as the Canadian pacer splashed home through the mud to win the $4,950 Manhattan Handicap pace by 1½ lengths in 2:06 1-5.

The seven - year - old gelding, owned by J. C. Cameron of Smiths Falls, Ont., and reined by Dick Williams, came from eighth place at the three-quarters to win by a length and a half over Greentree Express. Menace finished third.

SOLOMONS AFTER FLOYD

LONDON (AP) — Boxing promoter Jack Solomons said Monday he has offered Floyd Patterson $140,000 to defend his heavyweight title in Britain next June. The promoter said he would like to match the American against Dick Richardson if the 23-year-old Welshman beats Willie Pastrano at New Orleans in London Oct. 22.

A matter of common bridge knowledge is too often forgotten in the heat of competition. If is that game in a minor suit is seldom there if an opponent has started with a sound opening one bid.

There are, of course, exceptions. As with a freak defending hand. But even then, to make game in a minor the moon must be in the right position and the weather must be favorable.

Here is world championship deal number 142:

1 C	2 C	3 C	Dbl
3 NT	4 D	Pass	Pass
4 H	Dbl	4 S	Pass

Dbl	Pass	Pass	Pass

Room two bidding went like this:

East	South	West	North
1 C	2 H	4 S	Pass
Pass	3 D	Pass	Pass
Dbl	Pass	Pass	Pass

The opening lead was from west. In room one it was queen to spades. In room two it was a diamond. But the play was about the same in both rooms losing a spade and two hearts.

As usual, the bidding by each team was different. But each of the pair knew that game in diamonds was unlikely despite the big playing trick count. If the east opening bid was sound, that is.

The east opening bid here was sound. But when east and west got to four spades that had all the earmarks of making, it paid south and north to take the sacrifice at five diamonds doubled.

Moore Likely To Defend Title Against Spieser

DETROIT (AP)—A group of Detroit businessmen Monday offered a $100,000 guarantee to light heavyweight champion Archie Moore if he will defend his title here against No. 4 contender Chuck Spieser of Detroit.

Joe Spieser, brother and manager of the fighter, said: "We have reason to believe Jack Kearns, Moore's co-manager will accept our offer within a day or so."

Joe Spieser had previously offered a $7,500 guarantee for a Detroit match between Chuck Spieser and Yvon Durelle, the Canadian and British Empire champion from Tide Site, Anne, N.B.

But Joe Spieser said "it is now obvious," that Durelle and his managers "are trying to avoid us." He said the Durelle camp had agreed to the offer verbally but will not acknowledge it in writing.

SURPRISE POSSIBILITY

In Moncton, Chris Shaban, Durelle's manager, expressed surprise at the Moore may defend his title against Spieser.

"I can't see why Spieser should get a shot at the title," Shaban said. "He was stopped in three rounds by Tony Anthony and look what Moore did to Tony."

As for a statement by Joe Spieser that Durelle is avoiding a match with Chuck, Shaban said he has made no agreement, verbally or in writing, that Durelle would fight Spieser.

RECORD FIRE LOSS

BOSTON (AP) — The United States suffered a record breaking total fire loss in 1956 for the second year in succession, the National Fire Protection Association reported today. Last year's loss totaled $1,353,078,000, an increase of $90,808,000 compared with 1955 losses, the association said in its annual report of classification of U.S. fire causes and losses.

Durante Will Return in Jan. With No Change in Format

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Durante was talking about New York while eating a breakfast of oatmeal and milk at one o'clock in the afternoon.

"When I get back here," he said, "I can't go back to bed then, because I can't go to bed, I can't get up. An' when I do get up, what do I do? Maybe I go over to the east side where I grew up an' try to find some old friends. But anymore I get lost over there. All I can find is new housing developments."

He spooned some oatmeal and looked up.

"But," he said with emotion, "there's no place like New York. I love that rustle and bustle, that rush. You walk faster in New York, gals' I didn't know where."

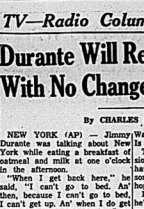
Durante is back in his home town after an absence of several months to appear next Sunday on an anniversary show over NBC-TV at 8 p.m. EDT, a special 90-minute variety program.

With Bert Lahr he will do a new song ("Or part of it, from an old song that it's now a new song"), entitled My Girls Don't Want My Money, All They Want Is Me, Viewers.

To the regret of many television viewers, Durante does not have his own program this season. But his fans should take hope.

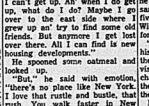
It's probable, he says, that he'll return in January with the same kind of show that enjoyed five years on the home screen. Will he make any changes in its format?

"I'll tell you—" He put down his spoon. "The trouble when they start a new form like television, everybody wants to change it. An' I ask you, want is there to change? All that he's there wants is entertainment."



Besides making guest appearances on TV, Durante plans a two-week run in a Los Angeles night club.

After his NBC-TV show, Durante will return to Calif., to his home for many years now. Why does he like southern California?



"They take it easier there. When the breeze blows not even the leaves move."

Jimmy Slade Wins Verdict

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran Jimmy Slade, onetime lightheavyweight contender from New York, made a successful comeback Monday night by gaining a split decision over favored Jerry Lisedee of New Haven, Conn., in a 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena.

Slade weighed 173½, Lisedee 169½.

Making his first start in 15 months, the 31-year-old Slade, a 5-1 underdog, came off the floor and rallied to grab the verdict. Jimmy was dropped in the third round.

"It's too bad, because he has such a beautiful face when he is slim. But it'st lost when he gets bloated."

Despite the heat and the wage problems, The Seven Hills of Rome finished only six days over schedule, a remarkable achievement for Rome. MGM, which is releasing the film, is already predicting it will restore Mario to the top rungs of the filmland ladder.

Peggie Castle Most Pleased To Work in Movie With Lanza

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Peggie Castle is back from Rome with reports of a new Mario Lanza — or is he?

Peggie met the Europe last summer to visit her husband, an MGM location manager. The day she arrived, she received a hurry-up call to report to Rome to appear with Lanza in "The Seven Hills of Rome." She did, and it was an experience.

"For the first three weeks, everything went smoothly," she remarked. "Mario was just wonderful and I thought all those reports I had heard about his temperament were false.

"Then it got hot. And oh, can Rome in the summer get hot! One day it was 138 degrees in front of the camera. We couldn't have takes more than 20 or 40 seconds long or we'd be dripping.

STRIPPED TO SHORTS

"Mario heard that one of the other studios had air conditioners. He asked the head of our studio to get one. It was refused. One day on the set Mario said 'this is ridiculous,' and he started tearing off his clothes. He had a right down to his shorts.

"I must say I was on his side. He proved his point. We got the air conditioner."

The singer's gift for the salty phrase is still in evidence, Peggie reported. But she learned how to handle him.

"The only thing to do is not react," she reasoned. "If you appear shocked, you're a goner. So when he came out with a lusty passage, I just sat as though he had said, "Hello, how are you' or something equally innocuous. It worked."

Mario's weight problems, which haunted him and MGM during his stormy career at the studio, are back with him yet, Peggie said. When they started the picture, he was in fighting trim—as slender as he ever becomes. But then —

"Mario has a fantastic ability to put on and take off weight," she said. "He does it almost before your very eyes. He can easily put on 45 pounds in a week. Then he can diet and take off 20 pounds in two days. At one time, he was on a 500-calorie diet — nothing much more than a handful of shrimp a day.

"His doctor explained that Mario was a rare case. His tissues retain shrimp as do camels with water."

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER
(Author of the new "Astrology and You")

"The Stars Impel . . . They Do Not Compel! What you make your life is largely up to you."

Aries (March 21 to April 19): This is one of those wonderful mornings when almost anything you set your hand to will turn out fine. A good day to come to greater understanding with associates, get the true picture, work along happily on new plans.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20): An ideal day for putting your cards on the table with that delightful and desirable individual whose love you covet, perhaps for life. Then, with better understanding, things will go well with you and all others.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): This is the fortunate day you have awaited for so long, and you will find that partners, ties, relations, even neighbors and competitors are ready and able to give you backing you need. Work hard all day and night.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Provided it is ethical and right for you, almost anything of a practical nature is open for action today if you see the proper parties. Whether it is yours by a percentage of profits, building fund, etc.

Leo (July 22 to August 21): Make sure you start out early and get into the world of activity and observe ways and means of increasing your abundance materially, making your life more successful. Meet people, read data, grow mentally and spiritually.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sep. 22): You may not be conscious of it, but the financial support you should have at this time is quite available to you if you stop procrastinating and go after it. Give full details and co-operate intelligently.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): This is the day you will have to face that situation which means the happiness and security of one you love. Be firm, say that you are friend, understand perfectly, but will not tolerate what is not right. Then victory is yours.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Much cruising about privately will give you the data you need to know why your financial and prestige interests have not been up to par. You will also uncover certain points that have had you puzzled for a long time.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Your head is so filled with marvelous, inspirational ideas that you scarcely know which one to follow first. It does not matter, as long as it is important and pleasing to you. Be co-operative, confide in associates.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Everything comes to the surface today so that you are able to see just what your relative position is with others. The situations that arise are but stepping-stones to success, if you accept them as such.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): The fine, pent-up ideas and plans you have nurtured for so long can today be voiced to proper and vital personalities with assured results. Show your great ability as a pioneer and be very co-operative.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20): Get a very early start and work diligently on that venture which will mean more security, add to present possessions. The experts in field are willing and able to give needed support. Take it.

If your child is born today . . . The wonderful child born today will be a veritable dynamo and so active that you may be afraid he or she is overdoing and may break down. Take advantage of this instead to place your child early in some competitive sport for best results and early fame. Then horoscope is good for the champions of tomorrow, plus having vitality to follow some highly remunerative finance profession as well.

NEW VOLCANIC ISLAND GROWS TO 50 FEET WIDE

Gases, rock and lava roar up from the floor of the Atlantic ocean near Fayal Island in the Azores as an underwater volcano continues to erupt into a new island. The boiling mass resembles an atomic cloud over the 500-foot-wide land mass. International Geophysical Year scientists may study the phenomenon.

Faubus Claims Troops in Girls' Dressing Rooms

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (PA)—Governor Orval Faubus of Arkansas today faced a wave of gentle—some in bitter language—to his accusation that male soldiers remained in girls' dressing rooms when the students changed to gym clothes at new integrated Central High School.

The White House, the army and school authorities said there is no truth to the charges.

The White House labelled the claim "completely unfair and completely untrue."

A school official termed Faubus' claim "ridiculous."

The governor, told Monday night of White House reaction, shot back this reply:

"What does the White House know about it 2,000 miles away? We'll prove it when the time comes."

A number of Central High girls said they knew nothing about any such troops into the dressing rooms.

Faubus said his information came from parents.

Troops, sometimes 101st Airborne Division paratroopers and at other times Arkansas national guardsmen under federal control, have protected the nine Negro students inside the building since the school was integrated by soldiers Sept. 25.

The school and campus neighborhood were quiet Monday. No crowds gathered, no students heckled the Negroes when they entered and all appeared calm in the corridors.

Khrushchev charged that the United States is responsible for all troubles between it and the Soviet Union because it is trying to negotiate as if the United States is strong and Russia is weak.

The Soviet leader said his country has every kind of rocket required in modern war—intercontinental, intermediate and short-range for front-line use. He said the Soviet arsenal was completely adequate for the country's defence.

"His recital of Soviet power," Reston wrote, "also made it clear that the Soviet Union was not prepared to discuss arms limitation from a position of weakness. He seemed to be say-ing: 'We are anxious to limit arms of all kinds but we want the world to know that we have them.'"

Khrushchev added that he did not think the Soviet Union is ahead in the development of these weapons. He explained that the Russians might be ahead on one thing today, but the United States would have it tomorrow and vice versa.

He termed such competition harmful and said the Russians did not want it, that they want peace.

Khrushchev made these additional points:

Soviet Union is ready to "disband" all its armies if others will do the same, keeping "a few men as a police force to keep order."

There are military circles in the United States that do not want peace, that benefit from war, and this is also true of ruling circles in West Germany.

The impression has grown among the Soviet people that the United States does not want a disarmament agreement. He believes in the sincerity of President Eisenhower and of Harold Stassen, the U.S. disarmament adviser, but there are some people, for example, Dulles — who do not want an agreement.

Taking the long view, the Soviet Union in the next 40 years "will leave the United States behind" in industrial and agricultural production. (Next month is the 40th anniversary of the Russian revolution.)

Reston said Khrushchev was "almost casual" in his reference to the earth satellite Russia launched Friday. When the engineer in charge reported by telephone that it had been sent up successfully, Khrushchev asked each other and he went to bed, he said.

Khrushchev also repeated the Soviet thesis that a missile war, if it came, would destroy capitalism but not communism. He gave this explanation:

Only capitalists would start a war. Losses would be colossal on both sides, but the Soviet Union rouse the conscience of the world against those who had started it. People would insist on the establishment of an order that met their demand for peace, and only socialism (communism) could do that.

Czech Family Flees From Reds In Oil Tank Car

VIENNA (AP)—Covered with oil, a Czech family of four has reached freedom in Austria after escaping from their Communist-ruled home country in a railroad tank car, police reported today.

Antonin Lisko, 43, his wife, Jarmila, 29, and two children, five and nine, had learned that empty tank cars were sent from Czechoslovakia to Austria regularly to pick up oil.

They quipped themselves with old military gas masks—in case the air in the oil tank was bad—and a large nylon sack to keep clothes and food.

They left their home village of Plzek last Friday, found an empty tank car on the station and awaited its departure for Austria. Then the train started.

Soon they were covered with oil which still clung to the sides of the tank and formed a shallow lake on its bottom. They were frightened when Communist customs officials inspected the tanks. But they escaped discovery.

The refugees arrived in Austria Sunday. They want to go to the United States.

Considerable Justification For Worries

NEW YORK (CP)—The Times says that Canadian worries about the United States' wheat export policy have "considerable justification."

Referring to Canadian complaints of U.S. subsidized wheat exports, the Times commented:

"Our program of 'forced exports' of wheat has been undertaken on the assumption that it will be continued only until surplus stocks have been reduced to something like normal size."

But there las no guarantee that Congress will go along on a farm program calculated to hold stocks normal.

"Until we have such assurance, it must be conceded that Canada's complaints have considerable justification."

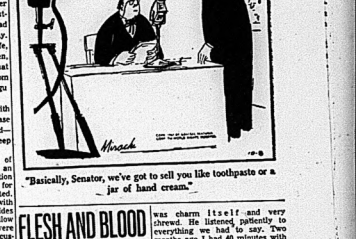
Jewish Couple To Keep Adopted Christian Child

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Adoption of a 15-month-old girl by Jewish couple was approved today by Judge George Kronke Jr., despite the objections of the child's natural mother, a Protestant.

The mother, with a Baptist-Methodist background, raised the objection under a Wisconsin law which says the child "whenever practicable" a child must be given in adoption to foster parents who have the same religious background.

The mother testified she did not know the adoptive parents were Jewish when she gave her consent to adopt. She said the child's father was a Roman Catholic and she wanted the girl raised as a Methodist or Catholic. State law prohibits the use of names of persons involved in adoption cases.

In handing down his decision, Judge Kronke said: "This child has formed attachments and doesn't even know the mother. She was given the child nothing but birth."



Save American After 65 Hours On Manitoba Isle

THE PAS, Man. (CP) — An American sportsman, waving his shirt on a pole, was rescued Monday after a 65-hour spell on a barren Manitoba island following the triple drowning of his companions on a fishing and hunting trip.

The mishap took the lives of another American and two Manitobans Friday on Rocky Lake about 220 miles northwest of Winnipeg and 45 miles south of here.

The victims: David Williams, 29, of LaGrange, Ill., and Gilbert Weller, 40, and Albert Yeagley, in his late 40s, both of Wanless. The lone survivor was Richard Kelly, 30, of Chicago.

Business Daze

"Basically, Senator, we've got to sell you like toothpaste or a jar of hand cream."

FLESH and BLOOD

Pointing to the development of the earth satellite, Khrushchev said:

"It has been said that culture dies when the working class takes power in its hands.

"Now we see how it 'dies.'"

Khrushchev also warned the U.S. and Turkey that a Middle East war "once started, can spread." He added: "We know reliably that Turkey is concentrating strong forces at the Syrian border."

The British MPs said Khrushchev told them the U.S. and Turkey are "playing with fire" in the Middle East and that "fires cannot easily be put out."

U.S. MISSILES ACCURATE

During the interview Osborne said he told the Communist party chief that two months ago he visited Redstone rocket research centre in the U.S. He said he was informed by American scientists that they could "throw missiles across the world with great accuracy."

"They can send them 3,000 miles and make them land on a small field," Osborne added.

Khrushchev made no comment on this.

The final words to the two MPs were: "It must be realized in the West that the Soviet Union is no longer a peasant country—it is dangerous to take this view."

Osborne told this correspondent he got the clear impression Russia is making great advances in numerous fields of technological development.

He added: "Mr. Khrushchev was charm itself and very shrewd. He listened patiently to everything we had to say. Two months ago I had 40 minutes with President Eisenhower and found him just as charming and just as anxious for peace as Khrushchev was today."

Superintendent of Little Rock Schools Angry, Harassed Man

By RELMAN MORIN

Blossom is superintendent of schools in Little Rock and architect of the "Little Rock plan" designed to integrate its schools.

He worked on it for three years, inching carefully toward a solution of the thousand-and-one problems. It was the hardest job of his life. Two months ago, he thought he had it licked.

Then came disaster.

On the night of Sept. 2, the night before Central High School reopened for the fall term, Gov. Orval Faubus suddenly put national guardsmen around the high school. His orders — keep out Negroes.

Virgil Blossom is a big man. He stands six feet three, weighs 250 pounds, is a former director of athletics. He will be 51 this month. He is married and has two daughters, Betsy Sue, 19, and Gail 16. He was born in Brookfield, Mo.

A YANKEE

The Capitol Citizens Council, a hard - core segregationist organization, likes to harp on the fact that Brookfield is "right next to the Iowa line." This, in their reasoning, makes Blossom a Yankee, a foreigner who does not understand Arkansas, although he went to the University of Arkansas and has lived in the state more than 20 years.

With candid pride, he says of the plan he devised:

"It is airtight legally. It preserves educational standards for all students. We think it's the best plan put forward yet. The parent - teachers associations are ready to stand up and be counted right now.

"So it's certain to be advanced in other communities in the south. That's why the segregationists are fighting it so hard. It leaves them with no valid arguments."

Blossom started working on it in May, 1954.

At that time, the school board announced it would comply with the Supreme Court decision declaring segregation unconstitutional. But Blossom said then, and still says, time is the all-important factor.

The essentials of the plan are:

1. Phasing integration over an unspecified period of years. It begins with the high schools, then applies to junior high schools, and finally to the primary grades.

2. Scheduling it in terms of finances, facilities and problems that develop as the process moves forward.

It has a unique third feature.

Any student, white or Negro, who by reason of his address would normally be assigned to a school where his race is in the minority, is permitted to go out of his district and enrol in one which has a majority of his race.

INTERESTING RESULT

The result was interesting.

This fall, all 228 white students in the predominately Negro area around Horace Mann High School elected to go to Central. Vice versa, of the 200 Negroes in the Central High area, 191 chose Horace Mann.

"I've always said the majority of people do not want integration," says Blossom "But our job on the school board is to comply with the law as set forth by the Supreme Court."

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People twice challenged the "Little Rock plan" in the courts. The NAACP petition for total integration, at once, in all grades.

U.S. district Judge John E. Miller, ruling against the NAACP, approved the plan as it stood. He is an Arkansan — not, as Faubus described U.S. district Judge Ronald N. Davies, an "imported Judge."

The NAACP challenged again last April and the eighth Circuit Court of Appeals upheld Miller and the school board.

FLU CLOSES LAUNDRY

DEVONPORT, England (AP) — Jim and Harry Wing hung a notice in the window of their Chinese laundry Monday saying: "Closed owing to Asian flu." "It's no joke," Jim told a reporter. "My brother, his wife, his two children, my child and I all have it."

GETS NINE YEARS FOR WRITING BOOK IN JUGOSLAV JAIL

Milovan Djilas, former Yugoslav vice-president and one-time heir apparent to President Tito, has been sentenced to nine years in prison for writing an anti - Communist book — "The New Class" — which has become a best seller in Western countries. At his trial, Djilas pleaded that he "wrote the truth from first to last." He was serving a three-year sentence on similar charges when he wrote the book that was smuggled out of Yugoslavia to be published in the West. This photo was made when he represented Yugoslavia at the United Nations.

To Probe Labor Charge of Leak On Bank Rate

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan has agreed to consider labor party allegations of a leakage about a government announcement on raising the bank rate.

This was announced after two senior Laborites visited Macmillan and offered "prime facie evidence" of a leakage.

Harold Wilson, Labor economic expert, said Friday a "political source" leaked the information that the bank rate would rise to seven from five per cent.

The government announced the increase Sept. 19. Newspapers headlined reports that on the previous afternoon, millions of pounds changed hands among men "in the know."

Macmillan said he will consider setting up a tribunal to investigate the allegations. James Griffiths, deputy Socialist leader in Parliament, accompanied Wilson.

Bank Manager Killed By Thugs At Blind River

Two Gunmen Make Escape Stealing Auto at Gunpoint

BLIND RIVER (CP) — Two gunmen shot and killed bank manager Walter Bridges during an attempt today to rob the Royal Bank of Canada branch in this Northern Ontario mining town.

It was not immediately known how much money was taken. First report said the bandits fled empty handed. Bank employees said later that the men got some money.

Police said the gunmen headed north into the bush at Matinenda region, apparently abandoned the car later on Highway 17 and struck into the bush on foot.

Provincial police organized a posse to search the bush country around this town, 11 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie.

A bank spokesman said the gunmen gained entry to the bank just before 10 a.m. opening when they accosted a junior clerk returning from the post office and forced him to the back door. He said Mr. Bridges, manager here for 11 years, was shot in the abdomen as they entered the automatic opening.

Mr. Solomon said two men came running down the street, shooting as they ran.

"One of them took the car," Mr. Solomon shouted to the men as they arrived in the automobile. "But give me my boy," he said as he grabbed his four-year-old son David from the car.

In Montreal, the Royal Bank announced a $25,000 reward for information leading to an arrest and conviction of the men.

In Toronto, a spokesman of the Royal Bank of Canada said the bandits met a junior clerk on his way back from the post office and forced him to let them in. Mr. Bridges, they said, went to see what was happening at the door and was shot down in cold blood.

The bandits, they said, got into the safety deck, but into the areas where money was kept. Some of the staff were inside, in the vault, when the shots rang out.

Mr. Bridges, a native of Strathclair, Man., was 50 years old and had been in the Blind River branch for 11 years. He is survived by his wife.

U.S. Now Ready To Study Control Of Space Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a policy change, the United States sought quick consultation with Britain, France and Canada today on a new proposal to Russia for exploring international control of space missiles.

The Western powers had proposed such a study at the London disarmament conference in August, but only as part of a package under consideration at that time. Russia rejected the proposal.

State Secretary Dulles, who abandoned the American standpat decision on this issue after a talk with President Eisenhower Tuesday, evidently wants to get the United States into a more favorable political and propaganda position before the world.

At the same time Dulles stuck to the line that the U.S. will not make agreements with Russia on issues which involve the interests of other nations. If Russia is ready to talk about the problem of international control of missiles it will have to be more than a two-way discussion as far as Washington is concerned.

CONFERS WITH PRESIDENT

Dulles discussed the new U.S. position Tuesday night after a 75-minute conference with Eisenhower and the president's disarmament negotiator, Harold Stassen.

The state department followed up the Dulles announcement with a more specific statement designed to define just what the U.S. will be willing to do. This "conditioned the policy change on agreement by Britain, France and Canada which together with the United States and Russia have made up the United Nations subcommittee on disarmament.

The state department recalled that during arms control negotiations in London last August the four Western powers proposed that a study be made of means to control missiles fired into outer space would be used only for peaceful purposes. The principal objective of such a study would be to devise international inspection and control systems which all the powers could agree to.

"It is hoped that this offer will be accepted by the Soviet Union" the statement said.

LONDON (AP)—Britain today declared its opposition to any new negotiations between the United States and Russia on a pact for the international control of artillery and space missiles.

A spokesman for Britain's defence said the British position. He told reporters Britain would not want to separate control of outer space missiles from the framework of a wider first-stage disarmament treaty.

He said the British government, however, does favor early establishment of an international working party that would begin studying the type of controls needed for any ultimate system of missile control.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Colder air has moved into Northern Ontario, bringing dull cloudy skies and light rain or drizzle. Pleasant mild weather still prevails over Southern Ontario but the cooler air is expected to arrive tonight. Temperatures on Thursday are expected to range from 10 to 15 degrees colder than today's. Frequent indications are that some showers will occur in Southern Ontario with the arrival of the cooler air this evening.

'ROTTEN METALS' SEEN DELAYING ATOMIC POWER

May Be 1970 Before Use Economic Here

CHALK RIVER, Ont. (CP)—The scientific head of Canada's atomic research program says "rotten metals" will delay the advent of economical atomic power stations in Canada by four to eight years.

Dr. Wilfrid B. Lewis, vice-president for research and development of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, said here in an interview that he has revised his forecast that Canadian atomic power stations will be producing economic electricity by about 1962. He now thought this goal would not be reached until at least 1966 or perhaps 1970.

One of the main reasons for the delay was difficulty in developing metals suitable for power reactors. Such metals must not stop the atomic fission process producing heat and must be able to withstand high temperatures and stress corrosion.

Dr. Lewis believed that by 1980 Canada's nuclear fuel will be economic power reactors which could be sealed after construction and run for 10 years without being refuelled with uranium.

COMPETITIVE GOAL

He said atomic power plants built in Canada would produce electricity at six mills a kilowatt hour to be competitive with coal-fired plants which would be the natural objective was 5½ mills.

Much of the success of Canada's nuclear power program would depend on results from operation of an experimental power plant to be built near Chalk River and tested to be conducted on a new 250,000 kilowatt reactor now under construction here.

The pilot power plant, known as nuclear power demonstration plant, will be built at the site of Ontario Hydro-Canadian Hydro station on the Ottawa River, 150 miles northwest of Ottawa, as a reactor, which goes by the code name NRU, is bearing complete fuel in early 1958, the project and officials hope it will be in operation by the end of the year.

The metallurgy problem will change completely after the pilot plant. It had been hoped it would be operating early in 1959 but it is now said that now until the end of 1960. Dr. Lewis said he is confident that the problem can be overcoming a small amount of time will be the answer to the problem.

Missing 2 Years, Legros Arrested

TORONTO (CP) — Detectives have arrested Phillip Legros, 44, who disappeared in 1955 while awaiting trial here on charges of receiving about $100,000 in stolen bonds.

Legros was returned to Toronto by U.S. immigration officials Tuesday after he was picked up in the U.S. There a police spokesman he was slain by gangsters.

FATHER CHARGED

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) A 2-year-old boy died in a hospital Sunday and his father was charged Monday with second degree assault. Police reported the father, Dewey L. Galloway 23, struck his son at least 10 times with a hard rubber slipper because the boy wet the bed.

Norwegians Stone British Generals Believing One to Be Nazi Speidel

OSLO (CP) — An anti-German crowd waiting to protest the arrival of former Nazi Gen. Hans Speidel, now serving in the NATO command, instead stoned two British generals emerging from a plane here today at Oslo airport.

They apparently had been mistaken for Speidel and his party, which had been diverted to another airport.

A hail of rocks greeted a party of Gen. Sir Cecil Sugden, British Allied commander-in-chief for Northern Europe, whom the crowd took to be a German. Sugden was hit by a stone and slightly injured.

One man was reported struck on the head as Sugden and his chief of staff, Maj.-Gen. Casey Cooper, emerged from the plane and fled to safety inside.

Speidel's arrival in Copenhagen Tuesday was also stormy. He is on a tour of NATO countries following his appointment as NATO commander of central land forces.

Protest meetings, demonstrations and other actions were planned here to coincide with Speidel's arrival. About 500 demonstrators were at the airport. It

Berra's Homer Gives Yanks 2-0 Lead in Third Frame

NEW YORK (CP) — A home run by Yogi Berra in the third inning scored Enos Slaughter today and gave New York Yankees a 2-0 lead over Milwaukee Braves in the sixth game of the world series.

The Braves, leading 3-2 in the world series, called upon right-hander Bob Buhl to pitch the sixth game against the injury-riddled Yankees today in an effort to end the series. The Yanks also started a righthander, fireballing Bob Turley.

Missing from the Yankee lineup was centre fielder Mickey Mantle, who injured a shoulder Saturday. Tony Kubek filled his place. Red Schoendienst, Milwaukee injured second baseman, was replaced by Felix Mantilla. The Braves' lineup also featured Bobby Hazle in right field and Frank Torre at first base.

Starting Lineups

FIRST INNING

Milwaukee: Mantilla flied to Kubek. Logan struck out. Covington struck out, missing a 3-2 pitch. Matheus also ran out the string, then tapped along the first base-line. Torre was thrown out, Turley to Simpson.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

New York: Bauer struck out. He was fooled by a sidearmed curve. Kubek was fanned, on three pitches. Slaughter walked on a full count.

Berra drilled a single past Mantilla. Slaughter stopped at second. Buhl's second pitch to McDougald was wide and slithered through Rice's glove. The shortstop advanced a base on the wild pitch, which rolled to the backstop. McDougald struck out.

No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

SECOND INNING

New York: Lumpe smashed a ground single into right field. Simpson was called out on strikes as he attempted to bunt. Turley tried to steal second on a fine throw by Rice. Coleman was forced as he walked on five pitches. Buhl took Turley's one bouncer and tossed him out.

THIRD INNING

Milwaukee: Rice was called out on strikes, looking at a slow curve. Buhl also was called out on strikes, fled to Bauer in right centre.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Liberal MLA's Wren, Reaume Hit Party's Ontario Chiefs

TORONTO (CP) — Two members of the Ontario legislature Tuesday expressed dissatisfaction with the Liberal party's Ontario executive.

"The present executive are just brass hats, completely above the people," said Aubrey Wren (Lib-Lab.—Kenora). "It is time, in the interests of the party, that they be given a rubbing and the people have a say again."

A. J. Reaume (Lib.—Essex North) said: "The Liberal members of the legislature have no confidence in the present executive."

Mr. Reaume denied knowledge of published reports that Ontario Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver was considering resigning.

Mr. Oliver was quoted in the Toronto Star Tuesday as saying that Reaume "is free to run if he mind but I have made no decision yet."

The following statement was issued by Mr. Oliver later in the day: "As a caucus of the Liberal members of the legislature held in Port Elgin, Sept. 30 and Oct. 11, I took the opportunity of outlining a long-range plan of action for the Liberal party in Ontario.

Canada First After Russia To Track Satellite's Orbit

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian scientists have tracked down the Soviet satellite in space and say their observations are accurate within 50 miles.

A Defence Research Board spokesman said Tuesday Canada announced results of three days' satellite searching, said Canada believed it was the first country outside the U.S.S.R. to get accurate information about the object's orbit and location.

DRB and National Research Council scientists here generally can tell at a given moment the satellite's altitude and where it is over the world the satellite is passing over, the spokesman said.

However, the information did not say Tuesday night whether DRB had any information on a third satellite — the protective cone that shielded the earth satellite's rocket motor from burning around the world. A second satellite—the carrier rocket—was announced Monday by Moscow.

The spokesman said the orbit was determined at a 65 degree angle to the equator — as announced by Russia — shifting slightly because of the earth's rotation. Pravda Tuesday night said the orbit is an ellipse reaching its lowest altitude over the northern hemisphere.

The Canadians — DRB scientists working at Shirley's Bay in Ottawa's western outskirts and NRC scientists at the Montreal Laval observatory — said the three eastern outskirts—first found the satellite at 8:30 p.m. EDT about 360 miles over Cochrane, Ont., at 1:15 a.m. EDT Oct. 7. It already decreased by three miles a day since then.

The scientists found the satellite arrived over the same spot on the earth once about every 96 minutes, meaning it circled the globe 15 times.

As the satellite grew it earthward, its speed increased. It now was travelling at about 17,000 miles an hour. Over a 24-hour period, its average time circling the earth decreased from 96 minutes and 12 seconds to 96 minutes and seven seconds.

Radio frequencies were determined at 40.0025 and 20.0050 megacycles, as announced by Russia, plus the unconfirmed 40.002 and 20.005.

However, the scientists would not say whether it is true to say long the object would survive in space.

Answers to questions they need accurate information on the object's orbit and location to observe it. The spokesman said the Canadian information will make things much easier for observers. The findings were being sent to the International Geophysical Year committee in the United States.

U.S. PROMISES TO DISCONTINUE BARTER SALES

Economic Talks With Canada Ended

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States has promised Canada it will dispose of surplus farm products abroad "insofar as possible" in a way that will avoid interfering with Canadian markets.

This assurance—with a particular eye to wheat—was given in a formal communique summing up two days of Canada-American economic talks which ended Tuesday.

The Canadian delegation led by Finance Minister Donald Fleming stated that "the special prices charged for surplus American wheat abroad endanger Canada of many of its traditional customers."

The U.S. answer as disclosed in the windup statement said that "the practices featuring American surplus wheat now have been revised." Each barter arrangement, it said, will be based "on the policy that American surplus must be in addition to normal imports of any foreign country rather than a substitute for usual purchases."

INTEREST ON BALANCE

Further, in cases where countries buy U.S. agricultural commodities by deliveries of strategic materials, the U.S. will charge interest on unpaid balances.

This provision will be applied "in a flexible manner" where the barter deal as near to a normal commercial transaction as possible.

The conference was considered particularly important since it brought together U.S. leaders with the Canadian cabinet members for the first time since the change of government to the Progressive Conservatives in October.

OTHER POINTS

The other main points of the U.S.-Canada joint communique were:

1. Canada "expressed concern" over possible increases in American tariff duties on shipments of lead and zinc ores. The American side promised any tariff increases would be made only to relieve serious injury to American producers and only with the policy "maintaining a reasonable relationship between imports and domestic production."

2. The Canadians "clarified the concern" frequently expressed in Canada "over the control of American money being invested in Canada's resource industries. The Canadians "made it clear" that they welcomed "the American capital but hoped such American companies would "maintain a closer and mutually beneficial relationships" with the Canadian people.

3. The Americans stated that each has "a deep and continuing interest" in each other's economic prosperity due to their big trade and common dedication to the free economy. Canadians noted in this connection that $4,000,000,000 worth of American goods went to Canada last year but that less than $3,000,000,000 worth of Canadian products were sold in the American market.

U.S. and Russia Must Talk or Fight Khrushchev's View, Seeking Parley

NEW YORK (AP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev wants a top-level conference between U.S. and Soviet leaders because he believes the two countries must either fight or talk things out, the New York Times reported today.

Soviet leaders were said to desire a meeting of Khrushchev and President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Khrushchev indicated that the launching of the Soviet earth satellite has made it necessary that two countries closer to high-level talks, Times correspondent James Reston, chief of the Washington bureau of The Times who is visiting Moscow.

Reston interviewed Khrushchev in the Kremlin Saturday, a story cleared Monday. The interview is being released daily in three parts, the second of which appears today.

"Everyone here," Reston writes, "has the same answer to complaints about United States-Soviet differences in the Middle East or Germany: High-level talks by Marshal Zhukov, whose name and picture seem to be more and more prominent, or by Mr. Khrushchev."

Informed diplomats in Moscow believe that after the current UN assembly session the Russians will try to settle any disputed issues talks involving Zhukov, Reston reports.

"Mr. Khrushchev said that the two major nations either had to fight things out or talk them out. While he said that 'apparently Washington had not thought the time was ripe for serious new conversations on disarmament, he left the clear impression that launching of the Soviet earth satellite last week might produce a new situation.

Khrushchev also showed interest in what he called a "new proposal" the United States had made to increase cultural contacts in discussions scheduled to begin in a few weeks.

"There is no doubt that the Moscow government would welcome preliminary talks that might lead to serious negotiations at higher levels later on," Reston says.

'Moon' Is Falling But Its Radio Breaks Silence

Strong New Signals Said To Be Coded Information

WASHINGTON (CP)—Russia's earth satellite, silent for a spell, gave out strong new signals today as scientists in several countries reported it was losing altitude up to as much as 300 miles an hour.

Pravda, the official Communist party newspaper, disclosed that the satellite is sending coded signals on temperatures and other data which now are being "decoded and analyzed." It said it has been actually in one of three satellites moving around the world—the others being the carrier rocket and the protective cone which shielded the globe as it was rushed into space.

And the Soviet paper promised that the Russians will launch another satellite "having animals as passengers for the purpose of studying the behavior of living organisms during cosmic flights."

STRENGTH SILENCE

The U.S. Naval Research Laboratory here said early today it has picked up "the full force" of the sphere's "beep beep" transmissions after a six-hour period during which nothing was heard.

Other monitors also reported the strengthening of silence, leading to temporary speculation the satellite's batteries might have been exhausted and were recharging themselves.

A spokesman for the Cavendish Laboratory in Cambridge, England, said early today: "The observation seems to indicate that the satellite is returning to earth rather quickly. We can't say whether it is a matter of hours or days."

Technicians at the observatory disclosed calculations which they said show the satellite was only 100 miles up at one point early today—compared with the 200 miles the Russians said the satellite was orbiting when it was launched.

While pressure for U.S. government action to speed up development and to overhaul the lower administration official and military setup continued, there was little sign of proper instruments for the satellite has held up the program.

U.S. budget director Percival F. Brundage said in Hagerstown, Md., an audience the U.S. could have launched a satellite rivalling the Russian capital but hoped such American companies would "maintain a closer and mutually beneficial relationships" with the Canadian people.

Brundage said the statement that each has "a deep and continuing interest" in each other's economic prosperity due to their big trade and common dedication to the free economy. Canadians noted in this connection that $4,000,000,000 worth of American goods went to Canada last year but that less than $3,000,000,000 worth of Canadian products were sold in the American market.

Britain Tests Missile Warhead In Australia

MARALINGA, Australia (Reuters) — Britain's latest atomic weapon was exploded above the desert today, obliterating the target area in a flash of fire and blast which sent up a 1,900-foot cloud of red-blue smoke and dust.

The device, a missile warhead, was detonated from a balloon 1,000 feet above the South Australian desert. It sent down an enormous pressure wave to crush the small target area.

Its five-mile-wide cloud of dust and smoke was still glowing with the heat a minute after the explosion.

FLINCH UNDER HEAT

The heat seared into the backs of correspondents standing seven miles away. Some who turned their backs against the explosion flinched and had to turn away again from the fierce glare of the sun-like heat.

Twenty-three seconds later a fireball rolled over the ranks of correspondents.

Testing of the warhead, called "Orange Herald," was the third and final atomic explosion in the current British series here. It was the 15th nuclear test explosion; three were H-bombs.

The rocket-borne "interceptor" is designed to wreak the most havoc against enemy missiles with a minimum of radioactive fallout to cause suffering to civilians, Reuters lie name.

VACUUM-CLEAN DESERT

Today's test was comparatively clean. This was partly due to precautions taken to clean away a large amount of loose, powdery desert dust in the area with giant vacuum cleaners.

Today's weapon was believed to have had an explosive power equivalent to between 10,000 and 25,000 tons of TNT.

The test series ended in an atmosphere of confidence. An informed Australian source claimed the weapons tested were streets ahead of anything of the kind echieved in the United States.

No one outside a small circle knows exactly what Britain has in its atomic armory but it seems safe to assume that the main one-hydrogen retaliation at any enemy who should begin a nuclear war.

NEHRU IN JAPAN

HIROSHIMA (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru today called for relief from the world's first atom-bombed city and told 50,000 persons at Hiroshima: "We do not stand alone in your struggle against nuclear weapons. Many of the school children lined the 30-mile route in the villages between the city and the Kobe railway station at Iwakuni, where the Indian premier arrived by plane."

Arnold Johnston, Iroquois, Named Board Secretary

It has been announced by the directors of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board that Arnold Johnston of Iroquois, Ontario, has been appointed secretary-treasurer of the board. The announcement was made on Tuesday by Mr. H. C. Arnold, chairman of the Marketing Board. Mr. Johnston succeeds Mr. C. N. Heath, who has been with the organization for the past ten years.

Mr. Johnston is from eastern Ontario, a son of Thomas Johnston, cheese merchant and cheese storage operator for the last half century. The new secretary received his education in the public and high schools of Iroquois and later attended Ottawa Normal School. He spent several years teaching in his home district, and then took the dairy course at Kemptville Agricultural College. After having spent a year as salesman with Kraft Foods Limited, he joined his father's firm, Thos. Johnston & Sons, Iroquois. While in his early business life he received valuable experience in the manufacturing, exporting and domestic distribution of Ontario cheese.

In 1954 Mr. Johnston joined the Cheese Producers as assistant to Robert F. Hart, sales representative. For some time now he has been manager of the Belleville and Winchester stores.

He will continue these duties with his new appointment.

Mr. Johnston is married, with two children, a son and daughter. He is interested in community activities and is a member of several organizations.

Woman and Pet Cat Admitted To Hospital

A Bridge street woman and her pet cat were taken to hospital yesterday after the woman and her pet were attacked by a large dog which got away from its master while being taken for a walk.

Police said that Mrs. Peter Pohren, 394 Bridge street, was taken to Belleville General Hospital with scratches to her arms and face, while her pet cat was taken to an animal hospital.

Mrs. Pohren was sitting in her backyard holding her pet cat in her lap as Howard Goldberg, Montgomery Blvd. was taken his dog for a stroll.

Catholics Hold Holy Rosary Hr. At Peterborough

TRENTON (Special)— Trenton Fire Department was called out on Sunday evening when a shed belonging to W. Farley, R. S. 4, was reported to be in flames. By the time the fire could be quenched, the shed was completely destroyed. Mr. Farley was puzzled as to the origin of the fire.

ROSARY HOLY HOUR

A number of adherents of the Holy Rosary Society in Trenton and Wooler joined the thousands of other devout Catholics, who journeyed to Peterborough on Sunday to take part in the Rosary Holy Hour, which was held there under the auspices of the society. The entire ice surface of the Memorial Centre at Peterborough, which had been covered in for the occasion, and on which an altar had been built, was filled with spectators for the Holy Hour, conducted by direction from St. Peter's high school, Peterborough, and by choir boys from Peterborough. The girls formed the beads in the Rosary, and the choir members and boys formed the Cross at the end of the Rosary. An eyewitness stated that the whole effect was very moving indeed.

WORK APPRECIATED

O. W. Larry, Trenton's clerk treasurer, has been appointed as head of the finance committee of the Lake Ontario Development Association. Mr. Larry, who was one of the founders of the Association, has worked hard in the cause of development in the area, and it is felt that Trenton's appointment to the post shows that his work has been appreciated.

WILL BE SOLOIST

Captain William Brown, of the Salvation Army in Trenton is to be the soloist at the 25th anniversary celebrations in Toronto on the 21st of this month. Captain Brown, who arrived in Trenton this summer, is an accomplished performer on the euphonium, and has selected "The Glorious Fountain" a very intricate piece for the occasion, which marks the anniversary celebrations. Mrs. Brown is a native of Belleville.

ATTEND CAMPOREE

Recreation Work Fully Outlined To H&S Club

The far-reaching activities of the Belleville Recreation Commission were outlined in detail to the Queen Alexandra Home and School Club at the regular monthly meeting held last night in the school auditorium.

"Lloyd G. "Red" Doran, Director of Recreation for the city told the club that the commission had been organized to carry out a properly organized program of recreation conducive to the well-being of the community, both individually and collectively. It provides recreation, physical, educational and cultural.

Mr. Doran said the program included recreation for all citizens from the "small fry" to the senior service club.

He outlined the points of interest in the proposed new recreation building. Regarding the question of the site for building, he said would be unlimited. It would provide a central location for all citizens and one whereas heretofore the commission had been using three schools, the Kiwanis Centre and the city hall for its functions.

Mr. Doran was introduced by Principal M. M. Hackett with the appreciation of the club expressed by Mr. Mac Smith.

Mr. Hackett extended a cordial welcome to the club and introduced the various teachers.

The meeting was held under the chairmanship of Mrs. Frank Stenson.

Following the Home and School Club prayer, Mrs. C. Heath, the club's social convener and her committee served refreshments.

Remembrance Day Parade Plans Completed

Plans for the Remembrance Day parade in Belleville on November 11 have been completed by the parade committee, it was announced today by Mayor Frank Sills.

The parade will assemble at the Memorial Centre at 10.45 a.m. and will march to the cenotaph on Victoria Park where the service will be held at 11 a.m.

Mayor Sills said that the parade will be headed by the Belleville Police Band and will include the Belleville Police Force, the Belleville Fire Department, the Belleville Collegiate Institute Cadet Corps, the Belleville Public School Cadet Corps, the Belleville Separate School Cadet Corps, the Belleville Boy Scouts, the Belleville Girl Guides, the Belleville Brownies, the Belleville Cubs, the Belleville Air Cadets, the Belleville Sea Cadets, the Belleville Army Cadets, the Belleville Veterans' Guard, the Belleville Legion Band, the Belleville Legion, the Belleville Ladies' Auxiliary, the Belleville Legion Pipe Band, the Belleville Legion Overseas Band, the Belleville Legion Overseas Association, the Belleville Legion Overseas Ladies' Auxiliary, the Belleville Legion Overseas Pipe Band, the Belleville Legion Overseas Pipe Band, the Belleville Legion Overseas Pipe Band

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market today broke a four-session losing streak as prices moved moderately higher in slow morning trading.

The rally, which began near the close of Tuesday's trading, swung into high gear with west-ern oils leading. Their index gained 1¼ points. Base metals were one-half point higher while industrials and golds had minor index advances. Volume at 11 a.m. totalled 530,000 shares.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—A few sales made on numerous medium to good slaughter steers were at barely steady prices at the Ontario public stockyards today.

Livestock on offer: cattle 1,400; calves 161; hogs 363; sheep and lambs 197. Included in the cattle were 500 replacements.

Slaughter cattle prices: good steers 17-18; medium 14.50-16.50; common 11-13; heavy 10-11; good cows 13-12.50; medium 10.50-11.50; common 9.50-11.50 canners 8-9; good heavy bologna bulls 13-13.50, common 10.50-13.

There were no sales in replacement cattle.

Calf prices: good and choice vealers 25-26.50; medium 18-23; common 14-18; bobers 10-13.

Sheep and lamb prices: handyweight off car lambs 21.50, off truck 20.50; a few medium lambs sold 18 a hundredweight downward; feeder lambs 17-18; good light sheep 7-8.

PRODUCE MARKET

The egg market was firm on A large but offerings were light for a fair demand, the federal department of agriculture reports. Other grades were steady with receipts equal to fair demand.

Country dealers are quoted by the department on graded eggs, delivered Toronto, in fibre cases: A large 55; A medium 36; A small 25; B 34; C 22. Wholesale to retail: A large 60; A medium 41; A small 30; B 29; C 27.

Confirms Plan To Wed Quint

MONTREAL (CP) — Germain Allard, 24-year-old finance company agent, says he and Annette Dionne, one of the famous quintuplets, will marry here Friday.

He said Tuesday night he was "confused" when he denied wedding plans Monday. "I am very sorry if I misled anyone," he said.

Mr. Allard, who met Annette at a party during the 1953 Christmas holiday, said he was hoping to have a quiet wedding "without any public announcement."

He upheld the objection of default point or less.

Senior base metals were fractionally higher. Hudson Bay and International Nickel each added ¼. Among lower-priced mines gains held an edge over losses but the price changes were generally narrow.

Bailey Selburn, a heavy loser Tuesday, climbed 30 cents to $10.25 among senior western oils.

Whites' Exped To Oust Reds In San Marino

SAN MARINO (AP)—Confident anti-Communists today expected to take over undisputed rule of San Marino by nightfall, ending a 47-year Communist rule of this tiny mountain republic.

Anti-Communists who set up a provisional "white" government Oct. 1 gave the Reds until 6 p.m. (2 p.m. EDT) to answer an ultimatum demanding "complete surrender."

"Really, we have no choice because we have been under siege by an enormous force of foreign troops," Morganti told a press conference Tuesday.

Morganti referred to Italian police who have blockaded the 32-square-mile republic of 13,000 persons. The country is surrounded by Italian territory. Italy and the United States have recognized the anti-Communist government.

Federico, Bigi, unofficial premier of the white government, sent the ultimatum. He would not say what would happen if the Reds rejected it.

LIBERAL

"He has served as a Liberal member of the Ontario legislature longer than almost any other man. He has served with integrity and with honesty. No one ever accused him of outright disloyalty to a leader.

"Service such as he has given has won the respect of rank and file Liberals everywhere and I am certain that this same rank and file will resent deeply the present disloyal, unfair and insidious propaganda against a man who was elected to office by a large majority of Liberal voters."

The statement concluded:

"If the day comes shortly when Farquhar Oliver feels that he can make one more sacrifice for the good of his party he will make it with alacrity but he will not be driven by Mr. Wren and one or two people behind him to make a premature decision."

INVITED TO BERLIN

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Billy Graham said Tuesday he has received an invitation to conduct a religious crusade in Berlin. "Because of the city's strategic location between the east and west, I have given the invitation serious thought and prayer," he said.

Comet May Smash Satellite Today Says British Expert

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet earth satellite may be smashed out of existence tonight, a leading British astronomer says.

The danger to the world's first man-made moon lies in the path of a comet named Giacobini-Zinner when the earth crosses the path of this comet sometime around 10 p.m. GMT (5 p.m. EDT).

Debris scattered by the comet on its journey through space could hit the satellite, Prof. A. C. Lovell said. This debris could deflect the satellite from its course, damage it or wreck it entirely, he said.

URGES CLOSE WATCH

He urged all observers of the artificial moon to watch it closely this evening—"a crucial time." Its radio signals might tell something of the effects of such a cosmic collision.

Lovell, head of the Jodrell Bank radio astronomy station, the world's most important centre of its kind, says this theory has not been publicized, and thinks the Russians may not realize the threat to their moon when the earth spins into the comet's orbit.

Records at the Jodrell Bank station show that when the earth passed through the orbit of the Giacobini-Zinner tail in 1946 and 1952, the earth was bombarded with vast amounts of debris. None of this debris actually hit the earth's surface. It was burned up by friction as it tore into the earth's atmosphere.

Pastes His Own Price Tags on His Purchases

VANCOUVER (CP) — A man from Moose Jaw, Sask. who went on a price-slashing spree in a downtown department store finished up paying $50 more than the regular price Monday.

Police said Park Wong, 50, made two meat purchases in the store, placing a 53-cent price slip over a $1.86 ticket on one item and a 93-cent label over a $2.90 tag on the other. When arrested, he was found to be carrying $365 in cash, an old price ticket and a pot of paste, they said.

Imposing a $50 fine, Magistrate Oscar Orr commented on Wong's "remarkable inventiveness" in his battle against the cost of living.

Russian Spy Given 7 Years

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Soble, confessed Russian spy, was sentenced to seven years in prison Tuesday. The maximum he could have got was 10 years.

At the same time, federal Judge Richard H. Level reduced a previous sentence of Soble's wife, Myra, to four years from 5½ years.

He also reduced the sentence of Jacob Albam, another member of the spy ring, to five years from 5½ years.

Lawyers for the three previously had pleaded for leniency for the three on the ground that they sincerely regretted their spying activities and had cooperated fully with federal authorities.

Soble, 54, was born in Lithuania, as was Albam. His wife, 53, was born in Russia.

THAT SATELLITE

That Russian satellite circling the earth fires the imagination.

That so many people should be eager to hear a "beep" or to see a momentary flash in the sky is proof that they have caught the significance of this crack in the invisible barrier which separates man from the stars.

Amongst the racing thoughts which may have entered the mind of the layman is that, even if he saw the satellite, he would not see it where it was but merely where it had been.

This, of course, is true of all moving objects, but up to now terrestial objects have been so close to the viewer, and the speed at which they were travelling has been so slow, compared with the speed of light, that for all practical purposes the eye caught the object where it was when seen. The duck hunter has no need to add more "lead" to compensate for the time it took the light from a muzzle blast to his optic nerve.

With the satellite, things are different. Yet, if we take paper and pencil, we discover, perhaps to our amazement, that even a height of 560 miles and a speed of 18,000 miles an hour does not put much distance between the spot where the satellite is "seen" and where it actually is at the time when the sight registered in the observer. This is because of the truly awesome speed with which light travels, 186,000 miles a second, compared with the satellite's five miles a second. If our arithmetic does not betray us, that means that the satellite will have moved only 26 yards between the time light rays leave it and the time these rays reach a human eye, supposing that the observer is directly below the satellite.

Of course, if the satellite were not directly above the observer but at the extreme limit of the range at which it could be seen -- one Moscow report placed this at 6,000 miles -- the arc through which the satellite would move would be much greater and the distance would be proportionately larger. If our figures are correct, at 6,000 miles, the satellite would actually be some 300 yards from where the eye placed it.

These figures do two things -- they give one a new respect for the power of the human eye which, if Moscow is correct, can see a 23-inch ball 6,000 miles away with only the aid of binoculars and they provide us with a sobering revelation of the immense size of the universe which man, having managed to project this small ball 560 miles above his earth, is now talking of exploring. For that light which takes only three one-thousandths of a second to flash from the satellite to the eye of the observer requires a million years to travel from the outermost star in the universe visible to us. To reach the edge of the universe, the Russian satellite would have to travel for many millions of years at five miles a second. But a flight to the moon at that speed would take only 13 hours.

From thoughts like these we return to earth, or at least to the satellite, to grapple with conflicting reports and possible misinformation. There is the possibility, for instance, that a misplaced decimal point in the Russian announcement may have exaggerated the size of the satellite ten-fold, thereby creating much of the amazement expressed by men of science at Russia's achievement. Then there is the wonder at not that man could give a new moon in the sky, but that this moon should be so heavy, for to lift 184 pounds into an orbit 560 miles above the earth implied the use of rockets of tremendous power. Then there is the question of what information will be obtained from the satellite. Some observers in the West say that its radio signals are in code -- a statement we deny this maintaining that the signals give no information other than to indicate the location of the satellite. One American specialist is reported as saying that the satellite passes over the U.S. and Canada about six times every 24 hours, on a north-south course. If the satellite is always travelling from north to south in this approximate direction, it means that, besides its orbit around the earth it must be travelling from west to east, just as the earth spins. Otherwise, the spinning earth would bring America around to the other side of its orbit, where it would be travelling from north to south. And this is exactly what happened with the satellite's appearance above Moscow, according to one television broadcaster. Interested in its appearances there, first on one side and then on the other side of the orbit. Which interpretation is right? Scientists know but the layman does not -- and it becomes evident that the man in the street will have a lot of things to learn within the next decade or so if he is going to be able to help Junior with his homework on the mechanics of space travel.

JOY

I never knew the joy of getting a home,
Never knew how fast a heart could beat,
I never tasted joy
Till the day my little boy
Came running up to meet me
On the street.

I never knew the pleasure of a smile,
I never knew the music of a voice
Till I heard my baby greet me,
Call me dear to meet me
In a way that made my weary heart rejoice.

I never knew a welcome half so true
Till I heard his "Hello, daddy!" down the street,
And though weary as could be,
When he scampered up to me
There was comfort in the patter of his feet.

I never knew the charm of laughing eyes,
I never knew how happy I could be,
I never knew the cheer
That makes worry disappear
Till the day my baby first ran up to me.

Arctic Empires Compared

By O. Fisher in The Canadian Geographic Magazine

During the last year or two Canadians have become increasingly aware of the Soviet Union and in particular there has been much comparison between Russia's north and our own. Such interest is only natural since Canada and the Soviet Union are the largest owners of Arctic real estate.

Development in the northlands of the Soviet Union has proceeded on somewhat different lines from our own. For the purpose of this article "the north" is considered to be that area beyond the north of contiguous settlement.

In winter the north of both Canada and the Soviet Union is cold and, while the Russians claim the world's coldest locality, the temperatures encountered in the two countries are the same order. The only exception to the general picture here is the Canadian West Coast where it is unseasonably mild, a sider to be part of our northlands.

January temperatures in European Russia are also much less severe than in those corresponding latitudes in Siberia or North America. Leningrad, situated at the same latitude as Ungava Bay, has winter temperatures comparable to Ottawa or Montreal, and even at Archangelsk, at the head of Dvina Bay, which is the head of the mercury keeps in much the same range as it does in Quebec City.

The port of Murmansk, farthey west on Kola Bay on the Barents Sea, is open all year round. East of the White Sea and particularly in Siberia, the winter climate resembles that of our own north, being marked by long, cold winters and relatively little snow, except in mountainous regions.

In summer, however, there is a marked difference. The great continental land mass of Eurasia heats up much more quickly than does our north. In particular the great ice-cellar of Hudson Bay, which keeps things in northeastern Canada low until late in the season.

The great bulk of northeastern Canada is occupied by the Canadian Shield. This ancient geological structure is rich in minerals, but largely devoid of soils suited to agriculture.

Soils in the Soviet Union are, on the whole, more favourable. In the extreme east and west conditions are not too good, but in the large area between they are usually well drained and quite suited to the raising of crops.

The difference between the soils of the Canadian Northland and those of the northern Soviet Union is largely the result of Pleistocene history. All of Canada was covered with ice which scraped many parts clear of soil, leaving bedrock in what is now the Soviet Union was very much less severe.

Soviet territory is covered by forests up to about the 70th parallel and the limit of the tree in Eastern Canada dips to the 55th. Much of the Soviet north is tundra, a land covered by sparse vegetation. Permanently frozen ground is near the surface, so that despite little precipitation, Ponds and lakes in summer because the water cannot run off. Only in exceptionally well-drained areas can such land produce any crops, even of the most limited kind.

* * *

Most of Ontario and Quebec drain into the Atlantic Ocean through the St. Lawrence river and its tributaries. The rivers which flow into Hudson Bay, such as the Nelson and Churchill, are relatively few and abound in rapids, which makes them unsuited to extensive navigation.

The Mackenzie River, however, is navigable (and this proved of immense importance up the West), but it drains into Lake Athabasca instead of flowing through the Nelson into Hudson Bay.

The only major North American river system which drains north and is suited to navigation is that of the Mackenzie and some of its tributaries, though even this system has several difficult stretches.

The drainage pattern of the Soviet Union differs considerably from ours. While in the northwest rivers are not generally navigable to any great extent, in Siberia they are mostly very long rivers with slow-flowing. They run north and drain about 20 per cent of the Soviet Union. Only 15 percent of the country's rivers drain into other oceans.

* * *

The Soviet North is in many respects more hospitable than ours; therefore it could support a larger native population. During the period when most European nations sought to establish colonies overseas, Russia moved eastward and carved out an empire for herself in Siberia.

In order to assert her dominion over these regions, she also sought to settle them. In the era when Britain sent her convicts to Australia the tsars sent theirs to Siberia.

By the time the revolution came, there existed not only administrative and mining centres, but also pockets of ex-convict settlers, some of whom had intermarried with the natives. Farming, mining and lumber communities grew up in the interior. Along the shores of the Arctic Ocean ports were developed to handle the produce from the north on the rivers and along the Northern Sea Route, which in turn required extensive navigational, meteorological and coaling facilities.

* * *

It can be assumed that Soviet capitalism in the North will go on. The Soviet Union continues to be engaged in an enormous program of exploitation and scientific research, which is aimed at improving the standard of the Northern Sea Route, and an atomic icebreaker is to go into service in 1958. Geological prospecting is proceeding on a large scale and there are now oil and coke ovens returns from past investments should become increasingly visible.

There will certainly also be more activity in Canada's North. How fast or how extensive this increase will be must remain a matter of conjecture. The nature of our soil and climate limit the possibilities and it is to it a growth mainly to the West, except for horticulture to supply local markets.

Even where agricultural growth is possible it will depend largely on markets and prices. The mining industry is likely to go ahead further north to satisfy the world hunger for minerals. If technological advances such as atomic power, should make extensive processing at the mine site economically feasible, secondary industries may follow.

However, unless Canada's population increases very considerably, it is unlikely that a large part of our people will live in the north.

Infinting the Balloon

Christian Science Monitor

Around the world today men in authority are deeply concerned about inflation. Of course, everyone talks of "new conditions." There never was a "boom and bust" that did not arrive under new conditions. And there never was one which did not largely result from human self-ishness and fear. Unhappily, there is little evidence that those basic causes have ceased to operate.

Strength for The Day

REAL VALUE

We read in the New Testament that on one occasion the disciples returned to Jesus from a preaching tour and reported their success even unto demon possession. "Even the demons were subject unto us in Thy name," they cried. And the Lord's reply was to rejoice not that the spirits are subject unto you but rejoice rather because your names are written in Heaven."

The teaching of the Bible is that the thing supremely to be sought for in human life is not material or spiritual triumph. To come to the end of one's life with great wealth but lacking in moral character and religious faith is to have failed. On the other hand, to have come to the end of one's life a simple believer full of expectation as regards the life to come, indefinite, is to triumph.

Names written in Heaven! Be assured that this is the highest life possible. We may not like the idea of God keeping books with us or of our receiving books with Him, but Jesus said that for every idle word we speak we must give glory and account thereof in the day of judgment. The humor of our heedless conversation. Nothing goes unnoticed by God in God's universe. Nothing is to be achieved, merely and spiritually, is the only triumph worth having.

"Rejoice . . . that your names are written in heaven." There is nothing else of equal value in life.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A burglar acquaintance of mine, who had occasion to borrow a couple of dollars from me lately to tide him over from some opportunities, was relating to me some of his more intimate thoughts.

It is his opinion that elderly spinsters are the burglar's dearest hazard.

"They usually live together," he says, "two by two, and some times three of them, all in one house." Needless to say the burglar would try to burgle the home of such ladies. I can't imagine anything more terrible than finding myself in a houseful of them.

"No, the hazard doesn't come from direct contact with them. But elderly spinsters don't sleep very well. They are always waking up in the middle of the night and going to sit by the front window in the dark. There they sit peering out from behind the curtains. The last time I was said I had been in the jug was all on account of elderly spinsters. I don't usually go to work until around three o'clock in the morning. By that time, most of the parties are over, and the streets are quiet. You can take a pretty fair cruising two blocks away, and so take evasive action. At that hour, too, all snakes come out, also all the deepest sleep. It is the perfect hour for my kind of job. But how am I to know that some sleepless old lady isn't sitting at a window with a strong pair right across the street? In fact, as I say, the last couple of times I was interrupted it was by two ladies who called the cops. And there I was.

"What we normally do, in my profession, is peddle something from door to door, thus discovering if there are any elderly spinsters in the block. If we find any, we avoid that block like the plague. The ideal neighborhood is one occupied by families with teenage children who are always racketing around in the night, so everybody is accustomed to strange sounds. Like any other profession, we got to do our research."

Student Aid

Woodstock Sentinel-Review

One of the differences between the old days and the new in the field of higher education is the stress that is put on practical subjects as engineering. For students prepared to study for the necessary degrees there is available help through business channels like Imperial Oil, but the same assistance for the students who are concerned with teaching for instance, or the social services, yet these are most essential in the schemes of things.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

October 9th., 1937.

The Teachers' Institute of South Hastings in convention assembled yesterday elected the following officers: hon. president, Mr. H. J. Clarke, B.A.; president, Mr. Charles Brown; vice president, Miss Cowain; delegate to the O.E.A., Mr. J. E. Bateman; alternate, Mr. W. D. Wyre; auditors, Mr. Harold Orr and Mr. Fowler; secretary-treasurer, Mr. C. I. Frederick; executive committee, Belleville, Mr. Fairman; Sidney, Miss E. Ketcheson; Thurlow, Mrs. Sisco; Tyendinaga, Mr. Sherbert; Separate School, Sister Mary Philip.

Night School registrations exceed all expectations; the interest in adult education is very marked. At the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School last night 700 adults and youths registered to attend the night classes during the winter. Classes were to be held every Tuesday and Thursday evenings, but the registrations are so great that Principal MacLaurin has been authorized to add an additional evening which will be Wednesday. The members of the Advisory Vocational Committee of the Board of Education is composed of Messrs. Fred G. Deacon, H. A. Allen who is the chairman of the Board, Dr. Gregg Bigg, Moncrieff, W. A. Rankin, Ross Stiver and W. J. Harrison.

October 9th., 1927.

Miss Annie Hector, Yeomans Street, has entered Kingston General Hospital as a nurse-in-training. Her many friends wish her every success in her chosen vocation.

Capt. Reg. Abrams and Mrs. Abrams, East Bridge Street, have returned home after spending a few days at the King Edward Hotel in Toronto.

They never thought of moving pictures. From our file copy of this time in 1897: The Magnascope production of the great Jubilee procession as it appeared in London, England on June 22nd, was given at the Opera House and gave entire satisfaction. The pictures are shown with remarkable clearness and an excellent view was obtained of Her Majesty in her carriage which was drawn by eight cream-colored horses. The marching of the Canadian Contingent of military men was shown being enthusiastically cheered.

40 YEARS AGO

October 9th., 1917.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wallace and daughter are taking up residence in Oshawa, much to their friends regret their departure from the city.

Mrs. Claude H. Ball and children of Winnipeg and Mrs. G. F. Kimberley of St. Catharines are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Lang, Dunbar Street.

Capt. W. H. Bottum and Mr. D. Grass will leave tomorrow to spend some days hunting and fishing in the northern part of the country.

Mrs. Egan, North Front Street, will leave shortly to reside with her daughter at Baltimore, Ontario.

Mr. E. A. Geen is spending a few days in Toronto.

Fee-Splitting Is Revealed

Windsor Star

Fee-splitting is generally known as a practice within the medical profession, in which specialists refer part of a percentage of their fees to the doctors who refer patients to them. This system, happily, is now frowned upon in the profession and in many places eliminated.

Ramifications of the practice, however, is shown by an appeal of 17 Vancouver eye specialists against income tax on $325,000 they had received in kickbacks from an optical company. They were assessed on the amount of correct fees paid by their parents, $4.50 for every prescription they wrote for glasses or repairs. The appeal was dismissed.

In other words, the patient was paying the specialist's fee and paying the optical company for the glasses. And, without knowledge of it, also paying the optical company an extra $4.50 (included in the bill) to be rebated to the specialist.

This isn't an isolated instance. In Michigan a short time back there was evidence of bribery in an attempt to cover up such manipulations in the optical business. Where there is an extra $4.50 so hidden in the cost of eye glasses it is no wonder they cost so much.

Personal Health Talks

So You Had Your Babies at Home?

So you had your six babies at home. That isn't news. Everybody had 'em at home at one time. In fact people were inclined to count on their fingers when some resident went to the hospital to have a baby. It didn't seem quite regular.

It would be more significant if you were to tell me you had your first baby or your first two or three babies at home. That would set you apart from the general run of fecundative families today.

Young expectant fathers find it easy to duck all the responsibilities that should belong to the head of the family by playing the body role assigned by the funnies. This is corny enough for a TV drama, but being as ignorant of childbirth as I am of what goes on under the hood of an automobile when I press the button, that's how I accept the bucktoothed role, and that's the way the doctors and other hospital "authorities" like it. Makes it easy to convert the delivery room into a cigar shamber. What happens there is none of the husband's business.

Not long ago a young expectant father in the Middle West suggested that his wife arrange to remain at his wife's side, where he can remember her during the miracle. I'm not sure, but from newspaper reports of the incident, I inferred that the young man's father is a physician. Maybe an attorney should have legal counsel in court. Anyway he made a technical error. He asked the court to issue an order or something so he could "witness" the birth of his baby. He don't remember if he said the court did about it. I lost interest in the incident. Childbirth is not a peep show. If that's the fellow's motive, take him by the scruff of the neck and throw him out of there, I say.

Making such a matter into court is typical of the aim of expectant fathers today — to duck whatever responsibilities parenthood imposes upon them.

If the young man had attended a fair break in high school or in his teens he'd probably have included a course in prenatrist hygiene. If he had received such premarital instruction, he and his wife would have studied prenatal hygiene, embryology and childbirth together. If the young couple had studied these subjects together it is likely that they would have had their baby at home. I take it a young lawyer is a home fit to have a baby in.

In a home there is no star chamber. A doctor whose chin is clearly visible will think twice about saying or even implying to a man's home that it is not quite the thing for him to be present when his baby is being born.

The attitude of young expectant fathers, uneducated ones, I mean, was well described by a child-study leader in a article to a discussion of natural childbirth and presently brushed the hair from her forehead during the pause that when she had a baby she'd have her husband sleep with an anesthetic and wake up to find her baby had arrived while he slept.

It would never occur to such a child-study leader to ask whether the baby that arrived while she slept were really her own or maybe one which some smart pupil nurse had plucked from the show window.

THOSE LITTLE EXTRAS

Scattered all through our daily lives are little surprises, discoveries, and unexpected thrills. These give spice and interest to all that we experience. How happy we are to get news we were not looking for, and to learn secrets we had never known before! Little extras dropped into life to bring it warm and full of cheer and hope.

Those little words — "please," "thank you," "I'm sorry" — are forever fitting in and giving zest to conversation as we need it. That kindly letter to a friend, that encouragement given at the right time, usually to those who need it or expected it, are the golden rays of sunshine without which consciousness would be too many dark days to life!

Those little extras cluster, and then they break up and swarm in people's hearts. How much we like they are! And each costing only our urge and desire to be helpful to others. Life can be made continually beautiful. By watching the good in life and people.

We come across so many extras we experience. How many are we to get news we were not looking for, and to learn secrets we had never known before! Little extras dropped into life to bring it warm and full of cheer and hope.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

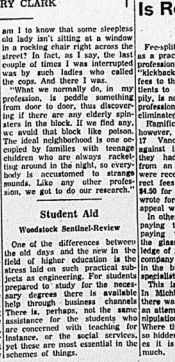
(ARTICLE ONE in a weekly series submitted by members of the Hastings County Historical Society.)

Probably very few of Belleville's citizens are aware that their city once was deemed as the possible capital of Canada.

It happened exactly one hundred years ago, when the Canadian government was trying to stabilize the government offices, which then alternated between Kingston and Montreal.

Bitter political rivalry between Upper Canada (Ontario) and Lower Canada (Quebec) made a decision impossible, and the ministry accordingly asked Queen Victoria to decide where the capital should be located.

Among the cities to seek the honor were Montreal and Quebec in Lower Canada, and Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, Kingston, and Belleville in Upper Canada.



As Belleville, a public meeting was held and a petition drawn up outlining the reasons why this loyal city of 6,000 inhabitants should be selected. This petition, bearing the signatures of many of Belleville's leading citizens, was submitted through the Canadian Governor General to Queen Victoria.

However, probably because Belleville and the other southern cities would be less easily defended in the event of an American invasion, and also because Ottawa was on the boundary dividing the rival provinces, the Queen's decision was in Ottawa's favor.

The fine fabric coat richly garnished with top - flight fur has made a well-defined place for itself in the sartorial scheme. Here is an excellent example, a beauty of a coat of black and white checked woolen. As do so many of the nicest and newest coats, it subscribes to the fitted, double-breasted line. Slit pockets are worked into the gores of the flared skirt and there are two buttons at the back of the waistline which is seamed to a V. An oversize collar of black - dyed mink tops this handsome coat, so right for general town wear.

BCIVS Home School Assoc. Names Executive

The October meeting of the Collegiate and Vocational Home and School Association was held Monday evening in the boys' gymnasium at the Collegiate, with a good attendance to get the fall season under way.

The president, Mrs. R. G. Williams, conducted the meeting in order and thanked all those who were on last year's executive and others who had helped to make the year a success.

The names of the new executive members for 1957-58 were then read and approved, and are as follows: president — Mr. R. Freeman; vice-presidents — Mrs. J. Layton, Mr. A. Fewtrell; recording secretary — Mr. W. G. Bogley; corresponding sec. — Mrs. J. M. Hughes; treasurer — Mr. M. R. Linscott; executive — Mrs. J. E. MacKeen; Mrs. S. A. Rydman; Mr. W. Burkitt; Mrs. W. Burkitt; Mrs. A. McDougall; membership — Mrs. G. L. Wandboldt; dance — Mrs. H. Frid; social — Mrs. W. Soule.

Mrs. Williams asked the new president, Mr. R. Freeman, to come to the platform. Mr. Freeman expressed his pleasure at being in the chair, and hoped that the attendance at future meetings would continue to be good, and that with the co-operation of all, the coming Home and School year would be a successful one.

Mr. Freeman called on Mr. A. Fewtrell, who was in charge of the program, to introduce the leaders of the discussion groups who were: Mrs. T. Colden, Mrs. J. Dyble, Mrs. D. Jones, J. Deacon, Mrs. A. G. Tooth, E. Fellwell, Dr. Anderson, D. Burr, R. Tanner, and M. Linscott.

The questions under discussion were: (a) What do you want to know about the school? (b) How can parents best assist the school? (c) What do you expect from the school?

By all appearances some lively discussions took place in the various groups and the findings are to be tabulated and turned in at the next executive meeting, and reported to the November meeting. Questions such as these will surely make for a better understanding between teachers and parents.

The meeting was called to order again and Mr. A. G. Orr, the principal, on behalf of the staff, gave a sincere welcome to all present, and spoke of the good relationship already existing between teachers and parents and hope to keep it that way. Mr. Orr asked that the parents would please feel free to speak to him or Mr. Stirling, the assistant principal, or to the teachers in regard to any problem at any time. He then introduced the teaching staff among whom were several new teachers who were heartily welcomed.

After the introduction of teachers, a social time was spent in the cafeteria where the tables were marked with the form number, and parents, whose children were in the same form, enjoyed having coffee together.

Quinte Field Naturalists Visit Valley Croft, Study Fall Migration

An annual trip of the Quinte Field Naturalists has, for some years been arranged to view the spring migration and to find the species of wild plants growning around Valley Croft, home of the Moorcroft family, north of Madoc. This is an ideal location of well-kept farm land, meadows, and nearby swamp and woods.

This year the invitation came to make a fall visit, on Saturday last, and to enjoy with the genial hosts—also keen naturalists —a day's outing there.

Some of the guests, taking advantage of the sunny day and the brilliant foliage, used color films to record the panorama of beauty along the way.

Every so often, cars stopped and the occupants scrambled out to watch small flocks of migrant birds cross the roads to feed on seeds and wild fruit. Some of these birds were difficult to identify as they are now in fall plumage. Others, whose "winter coat" differs little from that of summer, were recognized more easily.

TURKEY VULTURE

One of the highlights of the day was to see a turkey vulture gliding over the farm. These birds are recent comers to Ontario, their northern boundaries, seemingly, having been extended, as have those of many other birds formerly considered "southerners" or "westerners."

A delight to some members was a close-up view of about 50 bluebirds, apparently flocking for the fall "round-up." Being seen now only in localities affording thorn apples and rood—shrubby fence rows and pastures, this once common bird has become scarce. Flitting around a bridged culvert, dipping into a small stream, flitting into bushes and back and perching within twenty feet of the onlookers, these bits of animated sky-blue enjoyed themselves.

Mindful of an editorial in these pages recently, and of a comment made by a Toronto university professor — director of the popular Billie Bear Naturalists' Camp near Huntsville this summer—that one must never treat a sight such as the one viewed as commonplace, for it might happen once in a lifetime—some minutes were passed in quiet watching of these birds. Seeing such a large flock of them is encouraging, as it appeared they, like some other species, were nearing extinction.

CHRISTMAS FERN

No trip is complete without one "to the woods." Here we found plants to recognize and study. A fern of interest was the Christmas fern showing the fertile and sterile fronds. Nearby was the Maidenhair fern. These last are often found growing in close proximity and usually in a maple woods.

Some members saw a group of blue beeches, others visited a high shelving rock to identify the walking fern. "No, it can't follow one out of the woods." It requires a year to take a step!" is quoted.

A tally of "finds" includes a vacated Cooper's Hawk's nest, hobble bushes and their relative; the maple-leafed viburnum; ground cedar and bog club moss —these last change very little from season to season. Nor have they changed much from one million-year period to the next; polypody fern found growing only on rocks; beech drops —plants lacking chlorophyll and so named being found at the roots of beech trees; woolly looking, white bark lice; a larva of the largest saw-fly, which feeds commonly on willow; many mourning cloak butterflies; one monarch butterfly. It would seem that the height of the monarch migration is over, as being one of the very few butterflies which do "go south for the winter." The sunlight shifted among smooth, grey beech trunks to brighten to glory the colored maple leaves behind. These—and more—were for adults. And the small folk? Well, the sky was blue, it was a most interesting woods—a fine adventure. And the dried milk-weed pods poured forth treasures of silken umbrellas.

Who could appreciate more the signs of bounty everywhere, than those who understand the life in every living thing.

Women's Institute

RIVER VALLEY W.I.

STIRLING — Mrs. Percy Craighead was hostess on Thursday for the October meeting of River Valley Women's Institute with 18 members and one visitor in attendance.

Mrs. Ralph Utman presided and Mrs. J. R. Donohoe gave a roll report.

Plans were made for a Hallowe'en party at the school on Friday evening, November 1st, under the leadership of Mrs. Gerald Brooks, Mrs. Vernon Harry and Mrs. Glenn Bush.

The euchre parties will start to function on Friday evening November 8th.

Plans were made to have the history of River Valley prepared for "The Stirling Centennial Souvenir Book."

The program on "Citizenship in Canada" was arranged by Mrs. Don Donohoe and Mrs. P. Utman. In their absence Mrs. Roy Bush took charge and opened with a patriotic song.

Mrs. Allan McDonell presented the motto, "Citizenship Like Charity, Begins at Home."

Readings were given as follows: "Your Mission" by Mrs. Sheldon McIlmoyl; "Youth" by Mrs. Phil Conley; "Just a Married Woman" by Mrs. Gerald Brooks"; "No Artist" by Mrs. J. L. Donohoe.

The president introduced Mrs. Jack McCaughen, Stirling, who gave a demonstration on an electrical appliance after which she was presented with a cup and saucer the gift of Mrs. Percy Utman. She was also tendered a vote of thanks.

The hostess was thanked for hospitality. Refreshments were served.

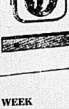
You can't go ALL-OUT



If you feel ALL-IN

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This added strain on body and brain makes physical kidney action be less—harder to regain. Today's lesse living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, nagging headache, "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Doan's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 33

Weddings

PIETTE — HARRIS

A wedding of wide interest was solemnized, recently, in Stanford Memorial Church, Stanford, California when Mary Irene Harris, of Belleville, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Edward Harris, was united in marriage to Lawrence Hector Piette, of Niles, Illinois, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Piette. The Reverend R. Minto, Chaplain of Stanford University, officiated before a stained glass window highlighted by a golden cross in a candlelight ceremony.

Mr. J. Nanny, church organist, provided the wedding musical background which continued throughout the ceremony.

The bride, who entered the sanctuary door, was escorted to the altar by her bridegroom. Her bridal gown was in floor-length of beautiful lace over slipper satin fashioned with fitted bodice having short sleeves. She wore a matching headdress, finger-tip veil of tulle illusion, and carried a bouquet of roses and stephanotis.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Neal Peterson, of San Francisco, Cal.

Following the ceremony, the reception for a few immediate friends was held at the home of Miss Shirley Randow, of Palo Alto, where the bride's table was appointed with white damask, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped by a cluster of silver leaves.

For the wedding trip to Carmel, California, the bride chose a charcoal grey two-piece ensemble with grey and red plaid top and jacket with matching lining and accessories. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Piette will reside on the campus of Stanford University where they will be host and hostess to foreign students.

Mr. Piette is a research engineer with the Varion Associates in Palo Alto, California; also a graduate of North Western University, in Evanston, Illinois. He recently obtained his doctorate in chemistry from Stanford University.

Mrs. Piette is an honor graduate of Queen's University, in Kingston, and is completing her course for M.A.

Plan Business Women's Clubs Meet at Ottawa

TORONTO (CP) — Some 400 women from business, industry, the public and government services will attend the 12th annual three-day conference of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Ontario to be held in Ottawa beginning Oct. 18.

Provincial President Elsie Gregory MacGill of Toronto will conduct the business sessions which will deal with the enforcement of the federal equal pay law, compulsory jury service for women and the raising of the age for juveniles in the province from 16 to 18 years.

PIONEER FAMILIES

The first generation of Norman settlers in Canada numbered 800 families with about 2,000 children.

Belleville East Section W.M.S. Presbyterial Meets in Foxboro

The Belleville East Section of the Women's Missionary Society of the Belleville Presbyterial of the United Church of Canada was held recently at Foxboro United Church.

Mrs. J. Williams, vice-president of this section, presided at both morning and afternoon sessions. The theme of the rally was "What Does He Require of Me?"

Cannifton WMS conducted the morning worship using as its theme, "Unto Him Every Soul Shall Bow." Mrs. C. Bird read the Scripture from Philippians, followed by meditation, stating in part: "On one hand we have a picture of Christ, the humble one. Christ who laid aside His glory, Christ a servant, put to shameful death. On the other hand we see Him exalted by God above all others, to be adored by everyone and everything on earth and in heaven."

Mrs. R. J. McCrae rendered a lovely solo and Mrs. G. Brenton closed with prayer.

Mrs. C. Holmes, vice-president of Belleville Presbyterial, introduced the Presbyterial officers who were present and the guest speaker of the day, Miss Violet Saunders, on furlough from Japan. Mrs. Holmes also brought greetings from the president, Mrs. L. Elliott, Tweed.

FINE ARRAY OF LITERATURE

Mrs. R. MacMullen, Stirling, Literature secretary of Belleville Presbyterial, displayed a fine array of literature with short reviews of the new study books which deal with Japan as well as other interesting Missionary books.

Mrs. R. G. Coulter, acting Presbyterial treasurer, and Mrs. F. Adsett, acting Presbyterial Christian Stewardship secretary, held a question and answer period which revealed the fact that every organization in the church should work or donate, or do both for WMS. "Let us be missionary-minded, not only a day now and then, but all the time. There is an increase in our allocation for 1958, so everyone must strive to make up this increase."

Mrs. D. Williams, Associate Membership secretary, gave many worthwhile thoughts. How many lady church members are members of the WMS? The aim is to unite all the women of the United Church for world missions. If there are more associate members in 1958, then there will be more active members in 1959.

Mrs. N. McKibbon, Picton, Christian Citizenship secretary, stressed the idea of one sitting at home and commenting on events taking place around them. "We are not good, but does nothing about it. "Do we write or speak to the members of our own council, or members of parliament about certain conditions for the betterment of our community in which we live? Do we stress temperance education and what about social reform, racial brotherhood and world peace?"

Mrs. D. Baxter, Bloomfield, Candidate secretary, told about the need of missionaries, teachers and nurses in the mission field, both overseas and at home. "Do we try to recruit girls for full time service in the church?" Mrs. Baxter showed slides stressing the need for workers in the mission field.

Foxboro ladies served a delicious dinner.

AFTERNOON SESSION

Thomasburg Affiliated Society opened the afternoon session with Mrs. Preston, Mrs. Dyson and Mrs. Vance taking part. The Scripture dealt with the parable of the wise and foolish virgins. "If you had only one hour to live, how would you live it?"

Mrs. F. Yorke, Corbyville gave highlights from the School for Leaders which was held at Whitby in August. The morning worships and the fellowship she had there seemed to be one of the highlights of the school.

The "team" consisting of corresponding secretary, Mrs. Chas. Johnson, Trenton; Baby Band secretary, Mrs. Wilkins, Elzida and Mrs. E. Eggleton, Stirling, each spoke about their work.

It was stressed that all reports be given to the new officers and be sure to send them in early.

The home is the most important place to begin Christian living—family altar, family Bible reading, attitudes of goodwill and friendships.

The press secretary stated that "when the press speaks, the public is informed. Press reports to the paper should not be too lengthy, but kept interesting and in on time."

Miss Violet Saunders is a school teacher and does evangelist work in Japan but who is now on furlough, was the guest speaker.

Miss Saunders said in part: "The Japanese now want to know English for several reasons.

Japan has a great responsibility to her neighbors. She seems to take leadership and can become a lighthouse of all Asia. Japan will send a delegate to the World Christian Education Convention which will be held in Japan next year.

In 1959 100 years of Protestant Missions in Japan will be celebrated.

JAPAN SEEKS FAITH

Christianity in the world is in the minority and the same is true of Japan. The Japanese are a people seeking a faith; one that gives faith in the future.

Women are about the same the world over and have about the same problems. The women in Japan are learning cooking, child care and dressmaking.

Secular groups are spreading temperance and anti-gambling here being made by the Christians in Japan.

Many Japanese businessmen are looking longingly to the Philippines and Indonesian opportunities that need developing, but as a result of the wars, relations with those countries are far from ideal, although at a conference not long ago, Koren and Phillippinos overcame their old feeling toward the Japanese and broke down barriers.

Miss Saunders told two stories, one of the farmer and another of an editor of a prominent paper. These tell how both men became Christians and their influence brought about a reconciliation between Japan and her neighbors. Miss Saunders also showed slides which dealt with her work and work done by the missionaries.

Mrs. S. Romans presented the courtesies, thanking all who had helped to make the day's program so full of inspiration and worthwhile and the Foxboro ladies for their delicious dinner and hospitality.

An invitation to Shannonville for next year's rally was accepted.

Energetic Club Pays Visit to Entomology Lab

The regular meeting of the Energetic Club of Holloway Street United Church was held last Friday evening.

Over 45 members gathered at the church and then were taken on a tour of the Entomology Laboratory of the Canadian Department of Agriculture, on Dundas Street, which proved of great interest to all. Later all returned to the church for devotional and business periods.

The theme of the evening was "Thanksgiving" and was read by Mrs. Cam Hinds, the president. Thanksgiving hymns were sung and the Scripture read in unison. The Rev. T. F. Townsend led in prayer.

During the business period, plans were made for the rummage sale in November and a paper drive this month.

All enjoyed the fellowship hour and refreshments.

Y.P.C.C. Holds Season's First Meet, Sees Film

Belleville Youth for Christ held its first meeting of this season at the Masonic Temple. The meeting opened by the singing of the Y.P.C.C. song "Christ for Me," and other choruses led by Mr. Ernie Belch. Mr. Jim Blackwood gave the invocation.

The Belleville Y.P.C. choir sang "Revive Us Again," led by Carl Green, after which the choir hummed softly, "Sweet Hour of Prayer" during prayer led by Herman Tice from Bowmanville.

Mr. Blackwood announced the Y.P.C.C. rally on October 19 with Bob Bradford from Los Angeles, California.

The film, "Wine of Morning" was presented and stirred every heart, featuring the story of Joel from a boy to the crucifixion and later when he found Jesus was risen again.

Carl Green rendered a solo. Mr. Blackwood closed the meeting.

Christ Church Little Helpers Hold Service

About 300 Little Helpers, parents and friends, were welcomed at Christ Church on Sunday by Mrs. A. Swain, the Little Helpers secretary, her assistant, Mrs. C. Reid, and members of the Afternoon and Evening branches of the Woman's Auxiliary, at a special service in the church.

The theme, "Gifts of a fall day added to the sweetness of tiny voices as children sang the opening hymn, "Jesus Loves Me," reminded one of God's precious gifts to man.

Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan led the children in their prayers, and many tiny voices joined in the Little Helpers' own prayer.

The Rev. E. Smith read the 23rd Psalm, and the Scripture lesson was taken from St. Mark 10:13-16.

While the little ones, guided by members of the Woman's Auxiliary and Girls' Auxiliary, brought their mite boxes to the chancel steps, the hymn "Can A Little Child Like Me" was sung. Later, four of the older children, Ian Mongard, Susannah MacDonald, Gregory Sloan and Stewart Foster, carried the offering to the Sanctuary where it was presented and dedicated for the work of the church in the mission fields.

A film was shown to the children, "God's Wonders At the Zoo," in which the narrator explained how God, who cared for his children so much, also cared for the animals.

Archdeacon Creeggan pronounced the benediction and, after the singing of the hymn, "Jesus Bids Us Shine," the children were given a little remembrance of the service as they left the church.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Your reporter is out of the city for this week so T & T asks your indulgence because there is no Shopping Tips today. However, in passing we thought we would tell you about a unique gadget for milady's boudoir table in case you haven't noticed it yet. It is a new invention that will make the trickiest part of feminine make-up a lot easier. This is a mascara machine for applying extra color, length and density to lashes.

They say this "mascara-matic" has a way of doing the next to impossible. It works and keeps on working for the four to six months of daily applications it carries. You remove the cap of what looks like a slim fountain pen. Each time it becomes a wand dispensing enough mascara for both eyes.

For the near-sighted, the mascara machine is so long and skinny it can operate perfectly behind eye glasses. Just perch them a mile lower on your nose. The machine's treated tip even separates the lashes as it applies and prevents them becoming unbecoming little clumps.

Good shopping until next week, same time, same place.

For a women's magazine, we read the following, written 50 years ago: "Twenty-five million records for talking machines were sold last year. Many of them were trashy melodies of vulgar slang and coarse innuendo, morally dangerous and musically contemptible." (Kallon Bok.)

In our day, fifty years later with radio, TV and the juke box craze, we are offered a gold list of records for talking machines every week. One does not have to be a longhair or a classical critic to feel that either Bok's condemnation of fifty years ago is different or only relatively. Then the mass media was the talking machine. Today it is the talking machine plus all our new media. All one has to do is to contrast a popular song sung nicely and well with the same song put through the gyrations of a Ukrainian corkscrew.

Oh, well, we have had the upsurges before and no doubt will periodically continue to pass through them. Time seems to have a solution and what is undesirable has a habit of fading from the stage while the true singers go on and on. Indifference is not invariably a weakness and indifference to the vulgar often is its deadliest enemy because lack of adulation is painless anywhere. One hundred years from now editor Bok will be referred to in connection with some debauched craze.

A unique experiment is being carried forward in New Zealand. The Crippled Children Society of Auckland has opened a commercial knitwear factory for crippled children, in their teens. The children's ability is assessed at an occupational therapy clinic. After qualification, they are sent to a training centre where they learn to run the machines. They make a working team because what one is unable to do, another can and thus the mechanical operations are mastered. When they go into the factory they are paid on the basis of production. What they earn along with their pensions make them independent and prevents them from being useless. Many live at home and transportation is provided free by the Crippled Children's Society. Then there's cooperation—the goods produced are equal to the best in spite of the old-fashioned machines they use to cope with a modest financial start. The children are prepared to secure modern machinery. Already there is a ready sale of the garments being made by the crippled children.

SIMPLE TRICKS and jokes (the kik sort, sweet cheese, etc.) are fascinating to six-year-olds and over. For a birthday gift, how about a collection of them? Choose them carefully according to the age of the child, wrap each one individually, and put them in a box.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT HOME PERMANENTS

Directions for giving yourself a home permanent are extremely important. Re-read them before each perm to be sure you're right.

There have been so many changes and improvements in home permanent wave kits during the past year that our mail has been deluged with queries from readers who want to know just what's what with the new home perms. In cooperation with one of the largest home permanent wave manufacturers, therefore, we'll try to answer all your questions here.

SHOULD HAIR BE CUT BEFORE A HOME PERMANENT?

Shaping and trimming should be done before a permanent. If you have a knack with your hair and the scissors, do it yourself. Or perhaps a friend will lend a helping hand. Otherwise, better find professional help.

SHOULD HAIR BE WASHED BEFORE A HOME PERMANENT?

If your hair has been washed in the last few days, you need not shampoo immediately before a wave. Just be sure hair is clean before you begin.

HOW OFTEN CAN I HAVE A HOME PERMANENT?

As often as you like, if your hair is in good condition and you trim away the ends of the old permanent before each new one. However, the texture, the style and the rate of hair growth varies a great deal and women who wear their hair tightly curled or in a short bob may want to wave their hair every three or four months.

HOW CAN I GET A GOOD WAVE?

Follow the home waving directions in your kit carefully. Always re-read them before each home permanent. Use all the lotion in the bottle when giving a complete wave. Wind the hair firmly, but not tightly, on the curlers. Neutralize according to directions or follow drying directions carefully if you are using a self-neutralizing wave.

WHICH CURLERS SHOULD USE FOR MY HOME WAVE?

It is the size of the curler which determines the tightness or looseness of the wave. For best results, use rod-type curlers for a longer-lasting wave. Select regular spin curlers with the thin curling rod for firm all-over curl. For firm curl with a neutralizer permanent: Remove excess moisture from the hair before neutralizing. Neutralize thoroughly. For firm curl with a self-neutralizing wave: never dry hair artificially. Let hair dry naturally on the curlers as directed. Choose the soft-style spin curlers with the thin curling rod for finer and curlier or looser all-over curl. Midget curlers* are designed for wave-resistant neckline hair only. For spin curl permanents which give soft, casual waves, use the new pink plastic bobby pins. They grip the hair firmly and slide easily into place. Only one pin is needed per curl.

The neckline section, because it is usually more stubborn to curl.

WHY SHOULD AN APPLICATOR BOTTLE BE USED WHEN HOME WAVING?

Most leading home wave brands are now available with special applicator bottles. The applicator bottle takes the messiness out of waving — eliminating the splashing or dripping of lotion and the use of fingers and cotton. The applicator bottle insures thorough, even waving because it spreads the lotion on smoothly and evenly in one clean stroke. It is also used for neutralizing thoroughly.

CAN WAVING LOTION BE SAVED FROM ONE PERMANENT TO ANOTHER?

No. Waving lotion tends to lose its effectiveness shortly after it is opened and may not give a satisfactory wave. (The exception: when you use a home permanent in a tube, you may save leftover lotion. Why? Because the tube is air-tight — only the amount squeezed out comes in contact with the air — so that the remainder in the tube keeps its strength.)

No. Midget spins are designed especially for hard-to-wave neckline hair that is more resistant to curl than hair in other sections of the head and they will give a "too-tight" curl if used for a complete wave.

Tomorrow we'll answer some more of your queries regarding home permanents.

ST. ANDREW'S W.A.

MARMORA — The October meeting of St. Andrew's United Church W.A. was held in the church parlors on October 1st and were hostesses to Springbrook and Madoc associations. Mrs. A. Murphy, president, presided.

It was also decided that the WMS have a sale table at the bazaar. Mrs. J. Aukland moved that $15 be given the new CGIT group for literature.

Mrs. Airhart gave a reading entitled "The Monument."

Two ladies were appointed to supervise the junior congregation for October. An invitation to visit Zion WA on Oct. 16th was read and accepted. A "thank-you" note from Mrs. Charles Brady, on behalf of the IODE was also read.

Visiting ladies were asked to rise and give their name. Mrs. Jackson of Madoc, spoke briefly and read a short poem and Mrs. C. Burkitt of Springbrook, also contributed a poem.

A skit was put on by Circle No. 1, followed by a reading by Mrs. Aukland. Mrs. Murphy read "The Hands of Christ," and Mrs. Thomas Bateman read the Scripture lesson from John 15: 1-19.

Mrs. James Heath rendered a solo.

Meditation by Miss Richards. After the meeting closed refreshments were served and a social time spent.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Martin M. — I believe her, but how can I convince my mother?

* * *

Harriet R. — I am a divorcee of 40 and I have four children. I never wanted a divorce. I am the victim of a malicious woman — my sister-in-law — who poisoned my husband's mind against me to such an extent that life with him became unbearable.

I recently met a bachelor, two years younger than I. We are very fond of one another and are considering marriage. I want so much to rebuild my life and make a decent home for my children.

The problem is, as a result of the vicious campaign my sister-in-law waged against me, there has been a good deal of gossip about me in the community. Martin, the man I am contemplating marrying, doesn't believe a word of it, but his mother does. He is seriously disturbed about her. How can I convince her of my innocence?

* * *

Martin M. — I am the only son of my mother's five children left in our home community, so it is important that she like and accept my wife. Otherwise she will be entirely alone. As things now stand, she says she doesn't want to see me or my wife if I marry Harriet.

Harriet has begged to meet my mother and has even written to her. She says she is sure she can convince her that she is nothing like what those gossips say, but my mother is very stubborn and refuses to meet her. She even tore up Harriet's letter.

I am at a loss to know what to do. I have never been so happy in my life as I have been in the time I've known Harriet. My mother thinks it's ridiculous for me to marry a woman with four children, but I really love her. Yet I know this marriage would destroy my mother.

* * *

The Council: Harriet appears to be leading with her jaw for another experience like her past one. For some reason she seems to be attracted to, and to repel, men who are under the influence of some other woman.

If Harriet's husband must have been a pretty weak character to allow his sister to influence him against his wife, and Martin is certainly not much stronger. At the age of 38 he should have enough self-confidence to be able to choose a wife without undue influence from his mother.

Of course, consideration for his mother is natural, but Martin should realize if he were firm in his own judgment and took a clear, hard stand in this matter, his mother would be swayed by him. If she were not convinced on the subject of Harriet's "innocence," she would at least be convinced her son had truly found the woman of his choice.

In this case, considering Martin's age, her opposition to the match would be unfair and unreasonable and Martin would have every reason to disregard it.

As things now stand, Martin's own hesitation gives his mother the power to control this situation. Harriet is very foolish to again place herself in the position of having to fight some other woman for a man. There is no basis here for the "decent home life" she wants to create, unless Martin suddenly makes himself a free agent.

Buffet Supper

By Mary Moore

On Monday last I gave you the menu for the christening buffet supper and the method for preparing "green" shrimp and the cocktail sauce for shrimp cocktail. Today I will give you the recipes for some of the other dishes on the menu and suggest you give serious consideration to using them for a Thanksgiving buffet supper, when the excitement is in the air over the Queen's opening Parliament, for many of you will have an opportunity of seeing or hearing her on TV or radio.

SHRIMP CURRY

Cook 1/2 lb. long grain rice and when it is fluffy and tender arrange it in a border around edge of heated platter. To make the curried shrimp saute in 6 tablespoons butter one-half of a chopped sweet green and red pepper, 1/2 cup chopped celery, 1 tablespoon chopped onion until limp but not brown. Stir in 6 tablespoons flour, then add 2 1/2 cups hot water and stir until thick. Add 1 10-oz. can of mushrooms and about half of the 5 lbs. of shrimp — the de-tailed half. Add curry powder with caution — 1 or 2 teaspoons but be sure to taste as you add. Add also if desired, 1/2 cup cream or evaporated milk. Heat through, being sure vegetables are tender enough. Pour into rice ring and serve very hot.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Roast Shoulder of Pork with Spiced Grape Jelly (see Tuesday); Glazed Sweet Potatoes; Frenched Green Beans; Chopped Chives and Lettuce Salad with Cottage Cheese Dressing; Chilled Compote of Spiced Pears; Cookies; Coffee.

CHICKEN TETRAZZINI

Boil a 3 1/2 or 4 lb. fowl in water to cover until tender. As soon as possible lift meat from bones. In a large casserole arrange 1/2 lb. noodles which have been boiled until tender, added them to 1/4 cup butter, 2 tablespoons each cream and chicken fat and some salt and pepper in a frying pan. I covered them and lowered the heat and let the whole business heat through slowly, stirring frequently, until milk in corn kernels was barely set and corn was piping hot. If you do not overcook this you will have one of the best corn dishes yet created.

PARENTS WILL NOT ATTEND QUINT'S WEDDING

First of the surviving Dionne quintuplets to marry, Annette Dionne reportedly will weg Germain Allard, 22, in a private ceremony at Montreal on October 11. In Callender, Ont., Oliva Dionne, father of the bride, said he and his wife would be unable to attend the wedding because they are sick with the flu. He added that he knew nothing of the proposed wedding until Annette, 23, and her fiance, a Montreal university student visited the family over the past weekend.

Annette Dionne May Be First Quint Married

NORTH BAY (CP) — Annette, one of the four surviving Dionne quintuplets, may be the first to wed.

Her father, Oliva Dionne, said Monday Annette announced during a surprise visit at nearby Callander that she is to marry Germain Allard, 23-year-old student, Friday.

It was understood, however, that Mr. Dionne was told during Annette's visit to the Dionne home in nearby Callander Sunday that all necessary arrangements had been made for a wedding Friday.

Meanwhile, Mr. Dionne said he and his wife, both recovering from an influenza attack, may miss the wedding.

WOULD BEAT SISTER

Should Annette's marriage take place Friday, it appears she would beat her sister, Cecile, to the altar by about a month.

Cecile announced her engagement to Phillipe Langlois, 26-year-old CBC camera man, seven months ago. No date for the ceremony has been announced officially, but Nov. 23 has been mentioned as a likely day.

All four of the remaining quints now live in Montreal. The fifth, Emilie, died of suffocation during an epileptic seizure at Ste. Agathe, Que., in August, 1954.

Mr. Dionne said Allard is a native of Drummondville, Que., and a brother of two girls who attended school with the quintuplets during their childhood in a private school set up in the former Dionne nursery building.

The young student of finance at the University of Montreal said in an interview with a Montreal paper last March that he met Annette at a party in Montreal during the 1953 Christmas season. He said they found they had similar tastes and shared a love of good music.

Allard said he and Annette appreciate good theatre and both dislike rock 'n' roll.

He was quoted at that time: "There can be no question of plans for the future, since neither of us has yet completed our studies."

He is scheduled to graduate next June.

Each of the quints came into more than $200,000 when they reached their 21st birthdays May 28, 1952.

Princess Ready To Marry Man Father Selects

PARIS (Reuters) — Princess Laila Aicha, 28 - year - old elder daughter of King Mohammed V of Morocco and founder of a movement for female emancipation in Morocco, said she will marry the man her father chooses for her. "In these matters emancipation does not mean marrying the first attractive young man you meet," said Princess Laila.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DOUBLE BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR 16-YEAR-OLDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My sister-in-law and I are planning a combined birthday party for our children, a boy and a girl. They will be 16 years old on the same day. The party is to be held in a hall: the hours 5:30 to 10 o'clock. It will start with a buffet supper arranged by a caterer, and will be followed by dancing. Our first problem is: How should the invitations read, keeping in mind that they are each inviting their own friends, and that there will be a buffet supper? Also how do we go about finding out how many will attend so that we can arrange for the number of places with the caterer?

2. Is it proper to have a juke-box? We parents would like to hire a band, but it seems the teenagers much prefer records.

3. Have you any other suggestions for us? Thank you for any help. — Mother

1. You and your sister-in-law are properly the hostesses of this party, and it is important that you both should make this perfectly clear by being the ones to extend the invitations. (In other words, don't, as you wrote, let "each invite their own friends.") I advise you to get from your 16-year-old the list of names and telephone numbers, you to telephone each invitation, giving all information, and then receiving the answer at once: your sister-in-law should do the same. This will speed up plans, give you accurate number for caterer. It is really courteous to ask to speak to the mother of each guest you are inviting, giving her information about the invitation.

2. By all means have the juke-box, as the teenagers prefer! Then they can have the numbers they choose, can have fun with the procedure.

3. Suggestions! (a) Make a dramatic "Big Thing" at the serving of the two Birthday Cakes. You might ask the caterer to provide a strong spotlight, turning it first on the girl-birthdayer's cake as it is brought in glowing with candles and during the blowing-out of the candles, and the singing of "Happy Birthday" . . . and then on the boy's cake with the same radiant procedure. (b) You might like to give to each girl a corsage (small, simple, informally-designed) and to each boy a boutonniere, perhaps one small red carnation. (c) Have some kind of a take-home favor, something on which or for which the occasion-ides, the date, and so forth can be written. Object: souvenir!

Mrs. Geo. Drew Setting Pace In Social Rounds

By SYLVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Mrs. Florenza [redacted] Canada's new first lady in London is setting a swift pace in the social rounds expected of a diplomat's wife.

Tuesday Mrs. Drew, a slim, chic figure in a dark tailored suit, called at the Norwegian Embassy and had tea with Madame Per Prebensen, whose husband is dean of the London Diplomatic corps. Today she will meet Madame Pandit, Indian high commissioner, and Lady Harrison, wife of the Australian high commissioner.

Although she arrived in London only 22 days ago, Mrs Drew already has a list of engagements covering several foolscap pages. Her appointments include courtesy calls, official luncheons and appearances at women's clubs.

One of the highlights came when she called at 10 Downing [redacted] home of the British prime [redacted], and "fell in love" with Lady Macmillan.

HOSTESS DUTIES

"She is very, very charming, and I fell in love with her on the spot," says Mrs. Drew, who speaks in friendly and unaffected fashion of her new duties as hostess at 12 Upper Brook Street, the Canadian high commissioner's residence in Mayfair.

As a recent arrival in London, she has spent most of her time so far "just getting my bearings" in the five-storey 19-room house off Hyde Park, which now bears little evidence of the pounding it suffered in the wartime blitz.

She and her husband George have brought some 50 paintings or prints from Canada. Most are by Canadian artists, and many are of Canadian cities. The furniture is a blend of antique and modern, with French influence predominating in two first-floor salons. The oblong-shaped dining room is carpeted in moss green and hung with crystal chandeliers.

"I'm sure I'm going to like it," she says. "I like people and life in London will really not be too different from what I have been doing most of my life."

As the daughter of Edward Johnson of Guelph, former manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company, she often acted as hostess for her father.

Luxurious Tote Bag

By TRACY ADRIAN

This very handsome carry-all is made of soft shirred fur and matching leather and was imported from Italy from whence come some of the best made handbags in the world.

The one pictured is in a large flower pot shape and double handles of leather are quilted through gold plated square eyelets. The oval base is also in leather. Chestnut and brown are the color choices.

Before the cameras, she says, she always felt a little frightened. But when she spoke to the General Assembly, "I didn't have any stage fright and I didn't see anybody else that did."

"They were all talking about something they believed in," she commented. "They weren't trying to dream it up, and so they weren't nervous about it."

In the assembly Miss Dunne, auburn-haired, green - eyed and trim in a grey tweed suit, had announced that the United States would give $21,900,000 for Palestine refugees in the fiscal year to end next June 30.

Wearing glasses, she told fellow delegates that the refugees "look to the United Nations for their very life." She spoke for five minutes, and there was brief polite applause as she walked back to her seat.

Miss Dunne's work at the UN is chiefly concerned with the trusteeship committee, which looks into trust territories administered by UN members, and the special political committee. The latter is concerned with admission of new members, South African race problems, the Palestine refugees and enlargement of UN councils and the World Court.

Auto Racer Weds Daughter Of Millionaire

LONDON (AP) — Automobile racing driver Stirling Moss Monday night married Miss Katie Molson, 23-year-old daughter of a millionaire Canadian brewer. The wedding was in St. Peter's Anglican Church.

The 26-year-old Moss explained the ceremony was held at night —"not to attract attention but because so many of my friends have to work for a living and they couldn't otherwise attend."

Moss and his bride were late arriving. They got caught in a traffic jam.

Kingston Man Up on Murder Count Remanded

KINGSTON (CP) — Bernard Ambrose Hess, 36, father of three, charged with murder in the stabbing of his wife Edith, 36, was remanded Tuesday for trial to Oct. 15 by Magistrate James B. Garvis after evidence counsel H. L. Wright asked for a mental examination.

A son, William, 19, is in serious condition in hospital. Two daughters, Barbara, 14, and Patricia, 8, also were cut in the attack Oct. 1.

Police were called to Hess' Barriefield home, one mile east of Kingston, by a neighbor, Paul Beckett. The two girls had run to his house shouting, "Something's wrong with Daddy."

Police found the wife and son lying in the house. Mrs. Hess died a half-hour later.

Two Organizers Beaten, Forced To Walk Miles

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario labor leader Tuesday told the legislature's select committee on labor relations two organizers were beaten and forced to walk miles in 18-degrees-below-zero weather when they were caught in a lumber camp two years ago.

William Stefanovitch, regional director of the Ontario provincial council, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America (UCJA), did not identify the men but said the incident took place near Hearst, 136 miles northwest of Timmins.

Mr. Stefanovitch told the committee unions now charter planes and fly organizers into lumber camps because the camps fence in their employees. Other companies charge tolls for the use of roads leading into their camps, he added.

Attorney-General Roberts gave his word to the committee that crown attorneys and part-time crown counsel would not be permitted to act as counsel for companies in legal disputes.

The union had contended in a brief that crown officials had been representing companies in labor relations activities.

U.S. AND RUSSIA

The last top-level talks between the United States and the Soviet Union were at Geneva in July 1955. Zhukov attended those meetings, but in a secondary capacity.

Reston says "there is now an evident strength here to bring him into negotiations with President Eisenhower."

Krushchev said in the interview that the United States had rebuffed Soviet attempts to arrange a visit by Zhukov to Washington last summer after Eisenhower said at a press conference July 17 that it might be useful for the marshal to meet with Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson.

The Soviet Union in a note July 23 offered to send Zhukov to Washington, Khrushchev said but was told Eisenhower's remarks had been wrongly interpreted. No invitation was issued.

"That is a bad thing," Khrushchev said. "We are a proud nation and we do not want to go down on our knees to arrange these things."

'MOON' IS FALLING

Senator Mike Mansfield (Dem. Mont.) suggested the establishment of a "Manhattan-type project" to direct the U.S. missile and satellite programs. The Manhattan project was the code name for the program which developed the atomic bomb.

Several members of Congress have called for an investigation to determine why the United States apparently is lagging behind Russia in the field of satellites and some other technical areas, and a Senate subcommittee staff already has started a preliminary inquiry.

The president of Brandeis University, Dr. Abram L. Sacher, said Tuesday night "McCarthyism" enabled Russia to launch the first earth satellite. Most of the brilliant scientists and best state department career diplomats were driven from active life by investigations conducted by the late Senator McCarthy, Sacher maintained.

Elsewhere there were these developments:

1. The Russians reported that the variations in the radio transmissions from the satellite are due to "light-sensitive elements" reactions to changes in temperature or elements encountered in the orbit.

2. A Soviet scientist, Yury A. Fodedonostev, said in a Moscow radio broadcast that Russia is working toward creating a manned space station for launching space ships. The scientist described that as an ultimate aim, "the accomplishment of which is not far off."

Russia's Victory Causing Soul-Searching in U.S.

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Russia's victory in the race to outer space is causing soul-searching in the United States.

The Soviet feat of making an earth satellite and pitching it off into the unknown is a spectacular example of how far the Russians have come in a scientific way.

Questions — sometimes angry — are being asked in the U.S. as to why the Russians were able to succeed in this historic venture ahead of the Americans, traditionally proud of their inventive cleverness and energy.

UNLIMITED FUNDS

A study of statements and predictions by scientists indicates that it was not so much a case of the Americans letting up in their efforts.

Instead, the Russians stepped up their research vastly and their progress was sadly under-rated by the West. Money was lavished on the satellite project by the Communist chiefs.

The satellite—sputnik, as they call it—was not their first victory. Perhaps their recent announcement that they alone have tested an intercontinental ballistic missile successfully should have been a tip-off that more news was yet to come.

WISHFUL THINKING

The New York Times lists a number of important achievements by the Russians and says that U.S. authorities were inaccurate in their gauge of Soviet progress.

The consistent tendency to underestimate Soviet capabilities . . . appears to have deep roots of a psychological and emotional nature," the Times says in an article.

Americans were inclined to think of most Russians as ignorant and illiterate peasants.

The U.S., as the richest country in the world, was prone to think of itself as automatically first and best in anything important.

And, says the Times, antipathy to communism "results in being substituted for facts."

BROAD PROGRESS

The Russians, it is certain, did not manage to launch an artificial moon into the heavens without enormous sacrifice. Unlike democratic governments, the Kremlin is in the position of being able to allocate fantastic sums to such a project without answering to anybody.

Already this year Russia has completed the world's largest atomic-smashing machine for research, and has made great strides in nuclear and thermonuclear science and weapons.

A Soviet scientist, asked about costs, said a few months ago:

"We tell the government how much it is going to cost—and they give it to us without questions."

GOES WAY BACK

Excavations indicate Rome Cave in northeast Alabama 10,000 years old, and further digging may show it is still older.

PRESS COMMENT

Linton Martin
Philadelphia Inquirer:
"In my most impressive play of this or any other season. In appearance, voice and stage presence, Val Balfour is ideally suited to the role of Christus."

Harry Martin
Memphis Commercial Appeal:
"Mr. Solomon never intends to PLUG the ordinary drama but there is a play almost beyond the world, and no platitude can be done by one, ten, or one hundred columns. You must see it to realize what I am saying."

Robert Casey
Chicago Daily News:
"Val Balfour as the "Christus" gives the finest individual performance it has been my privilege to witness."

Charles Beneman
Washington, D.C., Times-Herald:
"Val Balfour's portrayal of the 'Christus' is superb. His clear commanding voice dominates the stage, even as his 'Christus' dominates the action."

Govt. Pondering Decision Of New Marketing Legislation

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is pondering a decision under new marketing legislation that might have far-reaching effects on both producers and consumers in future.

Opinion favoring the legislation which would give marketing boards wide new powers to control distribution of their product, is generally that it will help bring a greater measure of stability to selling the producers' output.

On the opposing side are several views, including concern that the boards will work into a monopoly position in handling their product.

Under consideration is an application from the Ontario cheese producers marketing board for the right to operate under legislation passed by the last Parliament.

This includes the right to assess a form of direct taxation—a power previously reserved to the federal government — as a special fee from buyers to help equalize producer earnings.

ONUS OF PROOF

The legislation also places the onus of proof in any cases arising from its application not on the prosecution but on the accused. That is, a farmer or buyer who fails to comply with board regulations must show that he did not come under its jurisdiction, or automatically be found guilty.

Similar powers have been available to some of the 75-odd marketing boards in Canada under provincial legislation in the past. But the legal position of such provincial legislation was weakened by a ruling of the Supreme Court of Canada earlier this year. The legislation, passed unanimously, was drawn up to overcome this.

At the time, Prime Minister Diefenbaker in his pre-election role as Opposition leader expressed general approval of the legislation. But he had one reservation.

"I am of those who through the years have opposed legislation which places the onus upon an accused or defendant in a prosecution," he said in the Commons. He added he did not consider that clause of the legislation necessary to proper functioning of the boards.

CLAIM NEED POWERS

The boards argue that they need the powers to ensure orderly control of marketing the product each handles. They seek the special fee for three purposes:

1. To equalize returns to producers; that is, to pay each producer an average price, although the actual market price may fluctuate from day to day or week to week, over the season.
2. To build up reserves against future needs.
3. To compensate for losses that might appear in one year by making payments from funds accumulated in better years.

Some opposition to the boards is on grounds that indirect taxing powers should not be given to any but an elected body—one responsible to the voting public.

But supporters of the marketing board idea argue the boards come under close control by the government, which must decide to whom powers under the legislation are extended and can limit reserves a board can build up.

IDENTITY SOUGHT

TORONTO (CP) — Police are seeking the identity of a 60-year-old man who has been lying in a coma for the last week. The man was taken to hospital by a taxi driver Oct. 1 after t hevrdi found him lying on the street. Hospital attendants said the man apparently suffered a stroke and fell to the pavement.

BEATEN UNCONSCIOUS BY BANK BANDITS

Face-to-face with two masked and armed bandits on his first day as manager of the Bank of Montreal at St. George, Ont., Victor Broughton, above, was pistol-whipped into unconsciousness by the robbers. They escaped with nearly $4000. Mike Farmaniak, a Polish guerrilla fighter in the last war, was beaten on the head with a gun by one of the thugs as the former was entering the bank.

Terrific Speed Keeps 'Moon' Going Vth No 'Gas' Needed, Launch'd With Rockets

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

NEW YOR(AP)—A strange new moon roped "Made in Russia" is zing around the world over heads of startled, puzzled pe-

The Russ calmly say they'll soon give his baby moon a brother, a hint of bigger surprises to come. They even talk of landing the moon in fairly brief ye to come.

Questi flood forth. What does it can? How can a moon be hun the sky? Does it spoil good relig?

Abo two years ago, Russia and t United States each announ it will tackle baby moon pro gram. There's nothing mysteri ous how you do it.

Swerful rockets, firing and an dropping off in stages to ost the speed, are the sling. he moon is cradled in the nose. The rocket first rises straight up. Then its flight is controlled so it curves and flies parallel to the earth at a pre-selected altitude. Now the final rocket fires, shoving the moon forward, then letting it go.

The speed is critical. Shoot the moon forward at only 10,000 miles an hour and gravity hauls it back to earth, as with a baseball. Shoot it 18,000 miles an hour and the moon gets in balance with gravity.

Gravity tries to pull it back, but only succeeds in making it curve around the earth. That's why our real moon keeps swinging around the earth. If you could shut off gravity, the real moon and baby moon would shoot away in a straight line.

Shoot the moon at 25,000 miles an hour and it thumbs its nose at earth's gravity. It escapes and goes roaming through the universe.

The fantastically thin amount of air finally slows the moon down — after days, weeks, or years—and it spirals down into the thick atmosphere to burn up and disappear like a shooting star.

Russia said little in advance. Until the stunning news last Friday that a moon weighing 184 pounds was speeding around the earth at 560-mile height every hour and a half. It's a ball 22 inches wide.

How did they do it? Why no advance notice?

"We do not brag about plans in advance, we wait until the experiment is successful," said Soviet scientists.

A big help was using the booster stage of her recently announced rocket which Russia says could deliver an H-bomb anywhere in the world.

She concentrated whatever talent and money was needed without regard to cost.

Her success means she has excellent rocketry and guidance, mechanisms.

Some observers think she waited until her moon was up before giving any inkling of the attempt. A failure would be embarrassing, though explainable due to difficult pioneering.

The moon is broadcasting radio signals. These are being used to determine the exact orbit.

One Soviet expert says it contains only batteries and the radio voice equipment to track it. But others say that it is also counting the cosmic dust or meteorites it whams into. If so, it could be radioing that knowledge back in a code.

Accurate observations of the flight path can tell much about the thinness of air in space, something about the shape of the earth and how to improve the launching or behavior of future moons.

Russia has another moon ready to go "in the nearest future." And Moscow says future moons will be bigger and heavier. All this has many other people wondering and asking questions.

Rail Workers Preparing New Brief on Wages

MONTREAL (CP) — Representatives of 150,000 non-operating railway employees are expected today to put finishing touches to demands probably featuring substantial wage increases.

The 14 unions involved have been meeting for the last two days here behind closed doors. Their existing two-year contract expires at the end of the year.

New demands to be negotiated in a fresh collective bargaining agreement must be submitted before Nov. 2. It is expected major issue discussions will encounter railway opposition.

Declining rail revenues in the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways, the Big Two in the country, are regarded as a basis for this view.

The non-operating staff are the personnel in yards, shops, offices and stations not directly involved in train movements.

Recruiting Men For Ministry Pressing Need

STRATFORD (CP)—A developing economy and the growth of urban areas has made the recruiting of men for the ministry of the Anglican Church of Canada the most pressing need now facing the church, Most Rev. W. L. Wright, Archbishop of Algoma and Metropolitan of Ontario, told the provincial synod here Tuesday.

To meet the need, he suggested the use of vocational guidance in secondary schools, conferences for boys of high school age to study the possibility of the ministry and an appraisal of the church in rural areas where many vacancies are found.

Referring to the movement to unite the Protestant churches, the archbishop said that such steps should not be made as the result of compromise.

"The Anglican Church bears faith and order of the early undivided church from which it has never departed," he added.

Rev. Percy Gwynne Lightbourne was re-elected protocutor of the lower house. The House of Bishops was asked to elect Archbishop Wright; Rt. Rev E. S. Reid, bishop of Moosonee; Edna Moore, Toronto; Dean F. F. Nock Sault Ste. Marie, and Canon G. H. L. Sadler, Smiths Falls, make a study of the appointment of chaplains to public institutions.

The synod, the first in Ontario to have women delegates, appointed a committee to canon law to permit a diocese to have a bishop coadjutor and suffragan bishop and to establish a committee to study the educational needs of the church.

The synod Tuesday voted, on a motion by Bishop Reid, to turn back to committee for further study a report on increased stipends for clergy. The report was presented to synod by Rt. Rev. Walter Bagnall, Bishop of Niagara, and chairman of the stipends committee.

A report on conditions in the Ontario Hospital at Smiths Falls was presented by Canon G. H. L. Sadler of Smiths Falls.

There children die and are buried in potter's field, "forgotten by everyone but God," he said. The only religious ministries for the 1,800 residents in the institution who are educable came from two women who visit the hospital once a week.

Bishop Reid, whose diocese includes Smiths Falls, said the provincial government is prepared to pay the salary of a chaplain and have an arrangement with the Canadian Council of Churches if a qualified person is available. He suggested a committee be appointed from synod to study the qualifications and requirements for the chaplaincy

Found Guilty Of Trying to Kill Niece

TORONTO (CP) — William Wood, 31, of Toronto was found guilty by an assize court jury Tuesday of attempting to murder his niece, Eleanor Annis, 12, last May. He will be sentenced Friday.

Evidence was that Wood planned to fill the home of his niece and her five brothers and sisters with gas fumes and blow up the children and himself but changed his mind after putting his plan into ex-cution and told his brother-in-law, Norman Lock-wood, what he had done. Lock-wood phoned police and they roused the children from the gas-filled home.

VISITORS SEE HOMESTEAD LIFE OF LAST CENTURY

In the middle of the last century, Johannes Schmidt arrived in Ontario from Pennsylvania and built a log cabin in what is now Vaughan township. Today his log cabin is a national site, maintained by the Metropolitan Toronto and Region Conserva-tion authority for visitors who are curious to know what life was like in the early homesteading days. Chief Pale Moon of the Six Nations Indians was on hand to sample apple butter when it was boiled in this huge kettle. Thomas and Mrs. George Watt, both honorary Indian chiefs in recognition of their conservation work, were there to see the butter was up to old-time standards. On one weekend 2,000 visitors inspected the weaving, farm implements and furniture.

This is how great-grandma made sausages. A strong arm was needed on the pump-handle and the meat was forced into the sausage covering at the bottom of the cylinder. Mrs. Elmo Keefer of Maple, Ont., wears an authentic 19th centfry costume for the sausage making at the old Schmidt log cabin as part of the first annual pioneer festival of the Dalziel Conservation area.

Union Treasurer Admits Juggling $10,000 in Funds

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — A former union treasurer, on trial for theft of $10,000 of union funds, has admitted he juggled the books to a union officer that he had juggled the books, but was not guilty of theft.

Kenneth Soutter, 49, ex-treasurer of Local 599, International Union of Electrical, Radio and Mechanical Workers (CLC) is charged with theft by conversion and theft by failing to give an accounting.

He pleaded not guilty to both charges.

The union's Canadian district head, George Hutchens of Toronto, said Soutter made the admissions when he surrendered the union books to Hutchens and another union official last February.

Hutchens said Soutter assured him no one else was involved, and that there was no theft. He said Soutter complained the union books were not in good shape when he took over as treasurer.

The charges allege Soutter took the money between June, 1954, and February this year. The Crown is expected to call 14 more witnesses in its case. The trial is expected to continue for the rest of this week.

TONIC TOO POWERFUL

TORONTO (CP) — Patrons of Lorenzo de Marchi's restaurant always enjoyed a glass or two of "tonic" before their meals. De Marchi and his wife Tuesday were convicted of keeping liquor for sale and each fined $500 and costs. Analysts testified the Italian-made tonic contained 6.8 to 60.5 per cent alcohol.

Conflicting Reports Come In On Course of Flu Outbreak; Expect Peak End of Oct

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians, warily watching the bush-fire advance of influenza, have got conflicting reports on its course.

Two cities — Hamilton and Edmonton, Tuesday reported flu on the wane. Ontario health officials say however, said Asian flu patterns in other parts of the world indicate the peak may hit Southern Ontario around the end of October.

Edmonton, meanwhile reported its fourth death from flu complications within the last two weeks. Health officials said all four victims apparently had recovered from the illness they were hit by pneumonia. In each case, they said, the victims failed to rest properly before resuming normal activities.

Dr. G. M. Little, Edmonton medical officer of health, said the city may be over the hump in its outbreak since fewer cases are being reported.

Hamilton's assistant MOH, Dr. John Kitching, also reported fewer cases developing.

But Dr. T. Watt, Ontario's deputy health minister, and Dr. W. G. Brown, the district health officer, said the Asian flu will probably be around the middle of the province until the end of November.

The disease, they said, generally hits a peak about six to eight weeks after the first reported cases. This would put the Ontario peak in about the last two weeks of October.

The Manitoba-in Halifax two cases of Asian flu were confirmed in passengers who arrived aboard the Italian liner Vulcania Sept. 10. The patients were discharged after quarantine with no apparent ill effects.

Flu still was not apparent in Halifax schools but in the Annapolis Valley, absenteeism among teachers and students hit 30 per cent. In Minto, N.B., a mild form of flu cut school attendance by 30 per cent and also hit many teachers.

Quebec — Quebec City closed two schools and 22 classes at about 15 other schools as 40 per cent of pupils and teachers were hit. Dr. Berchmans Paquet, city health service director, estimated 2,500 of the city's 28,000 students now have flu.

Earlier Shawinigan Falls, Le Tuque and Grand'mere closed some schools and considered further closings.

Ontario — Ottawa's medical health officer, Dr. R. A. Kennedy, opposed a suggestion that schools remain until after the Queen's visit Oct. 13-16, saying the closing would not decrease the incidence of flu.

Toronto's Metropolitan separate school board planned to maintain classes with one-third of the 30,000 pupils absent. Six of the 60 schools were reported closed Tuesday.

In Timmins, three more district schools closed while two closed at Hearst, 136 miles northwest, and a third shut at Smooth Rock Falls, 50 miles north. Timmins schools will reopen Oct. 15.

The test—in Winnipeg, Dr. R. M. Creighton, director of provincial medical services, listed 1,746 flu cases including eight proven cases of Asian flu. Northern Manitoba was hardest hit with 800 cases in Flin Flon and 200 each at Lynn Lake and Sherridon.

U.S., Russia to Put Forward Rival Disarmament Plans

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The United States, Russia and India were scheduled to take the wraps off rival disarmament plans today. The UN political committee meanwhile cleared the decks to begin the arms debate Thursday.

The 81-nation political committee decided to give disarmament top priority after appeals from the East and West.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said disarmament was the most urgent problem before the assembly and should be discussed at once. His views were backed up in a rare show of unanimity by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister V. V. Kuznetsov and Indian delegate V. K. Krishna Menon.

Earlier Menon urged that the United States, Russia and Britain agree to suspend nuclear tests as a first step toward disarmament in the new "interplanetary age." He suggested a UN agency could monitor suspension.

Later an Indian spokesman said the success of India's arms plan "lies in the hands of the big powers." Immediate suspension of nuclear arms tests is the key point, as it is in the Russian plan.

The United States is not expected to go along with any such idea. The Western proposal, outlined in general in the London talks of the 25-nation subcommittee, specified suspension only after agreement is reached to stop using atomic materials for weapons, reduce armed forces and evolve comprehensive inspection system.

Leaves Estate Of $72,967

Mr. Hindmarsh's will was probated Tuesday in surrogate court.

Most of the estate was listed as securities valued at $57,533.

W.A. Holds Fine Service Of Thanksgiving

JOHNSTOWN — The October meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Curtis on Thursday afternoon with a fine attendance.

The service opened with the "Theme Song" and "General Thanksgiving" in the hymnary. Psalm 33 was read by Mrs. Earl Sickels. "The Lord's Prayer" was sung by Gracie Fields on the record player.

The theme of the meeting was "Giving Thanks," by Mrs. C. J. Brunt, who reminded the WA that "we should be a very thankful people for we have so much to be thankful for. We are so used to the common things that we have to use, that we take them as a matter of course. A thankful heart is loved by God."

Mrs. Clapp thanked Mrs. Curtis for the use of her home. "God bless This House" was sung by a recording by Gracie Fields.

Mrs. W. Smith gave a reading, "Remember."

It was arranged to have a Harvest Home supper on Tuesday evening, following the anniversary services which will be held on Sunday, October 27th, at 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. The speakers will be announced later.

A bee will be held Oct. 8th to wash the walls of the church and a good attendance is requested. All are to bring refreshments.

A record, "Jesus Remembers" was played, and Mrs. W. Harry gave a reading "The Thing That God Forgets," and a record "In the Garden" was also played.

A contest was put on by Mrs. Smith, "Thanksgiving" and won by Mrs. McLean.

The fine program was arranged by Mrs. Brunt and Mrs. Smith. The conveners and hostess provided refreshments and all enjoyed a social half hour.

CONFEDERATE FLAG APPEARS AGAIN

Adding historical color to their segregationist struggle, two Little Rock Central high school students wear a Confederate flag and cap used during the U.S. civil war. Two arrests were made during the brief demonstration in which an effigy of a Negro was hanged.

Bringing Up Baby

A MOTH COLLECTED by Mrs. Jean Cook (MOTHER OF 3)

A budget-minded mother offers this up to other budget-minded mothers: "Clear sheet plastic, by the yard, can't be beat for an inexpensive means of waterproofing."

• Ideal as waterproof sheeting for a crib mattress.

• Good protective agent for furniture or rug when baby's visiting in the living room.

• • •

Hidden treasure. You can't see calories, but they pay rich dividends in energy for your growing baby. That's one reason why Gerber Baby Cereals are so important throughout baby-hood. Another is that these specially prepared Cereals are enriched with extra iron, bone-building calcium and the important B-vitamins. Gerber's New Baby Cereals come in both Strained and Junior versions. Your choice of 8 that aid growth. Add to this, delicate flavors, a smooth texture, and you have 6 easy ways to invite an appetite. All 6—Rice, Oatmeal, Barley, Oatmeal-Barley, Mixed Cereal and Cereal with Meat. Mixed Cereal and Protein Cereal with Meat. Food are ready to serve with or formula.

Cute "train" of light. How about making a clothing train for your toddler? Take several empty Gerber Cereal boxes and string 'em together, end to end, tight at one end for the engine. Makes a bright-colored "choo-choo" hours of fun.

Brand new! Extra meat flavor, extra protein, extra goodness! Gerber's New Meat Dinners have 3 times as much meat, and therefore much more protein than regular Vegetable and Meat Combinations. This is important because meat, combined with cereal and vegetables and cereal, provides a special kind of protein that is especially valuable for growing children. Gerber's New Meat Dinners are enriched with extra iron, bone-building calcium and the important B-vitamins. Dinners come in both Strained and Junior versions. Your choice of 8: Beef Noodle, Veal Chicken, Chicken Rice, Turkey and Liver and Bacon. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

Little Benny's Notebook

Us fellows were talking and arguing about different things, and Sam Cross started to go past, saying, You fellows better not even try to guess where I'm going, so I might as well tell you. I am going to give a secret message to a dangerous criminal, he said.

Aw go on, like heck, that's just another one of your big ones, we said.

Meening his big lies, on account of him being famous for them, and Sam Cross said, Okay, if you dont want to follow me and see me give him the message, that's your hard luck.

And he kept on going and we started to walk with him just for luck, me saying, What's so dangerous about him?

He's got a big long knife and he cuts up his victims, Sam said, I've got a discription of him so I will know him when I see him. He'll be dressed all in white, with a straw hat, he said, and Putin Simkins said, Well why are you the one that has to give him the secret message?

I cant tell you, I've told you too much already, Sam said. You better start walking a little behind me now, I'm suppose to be alone for safety reasons. But you can keep following me if you're careful, he said.

Which we did, and he walked ahead of us into the market and went to the butcher department and one of the butchers asked him what he wanted and Sam said, 3 pounds of chuck cut up for stew.

Which the butcher started to do, and Sam made secret motions to us to notice the butcher's white clothes and straw hat and big knife.

Proving it was just a trick to have company to the market, and we went back without waiting for him, for revendge.

CRASH KILLS WOMAN

WINGHAM (CP) — A two-car crash east of here Monday claimed the life of one woman and sent three other persons to hospital in serious condition. Dead upon arrival at hospital was Mrs. Henry Haehnel, 65, of Detroit. Others admitted were Gartfield Wagner, 68, of Detroit; his wife Adeline, 67, and Elwyn Petrie, 29, of Port Elgin.

Rear Admiral Horatio Lay to Retire in Jan.

OTTAWA (CP)—Rear-Admiral Horatio Lay, 54, of Walkerton, Ont., Ottawa, who commanded the first aircraft carrier operated by the Royal Canadian Navy, retires in January after 40 years of navy service. He is a native of Skagway, Alaska.

Vice-chief of naval staff at headquarters here since August, 1954, Rear-Admiral Lay goes on retirement leave Jan. 24, the navy announced Tuesday. He will be succeeded by Commodore Ernest Patrick Tisdall, 50, of Victoria and Ottawa who will be promoted to the rank of rear-admiral.

Rear-Admiral Lay served as commander of the destroyer Restigouche in the early days of the Second World War. When the navy decided in 1943 to broaden its activities to include naval aviation, he was named commander of the Royal Navy carrier Nabob, the first flat-top operated by the Royal Canadian navy.

Under his command the Restigouche took part in the withdrawal of Allied troops from French channel and Bay of Biscay ports in 1940. The Naboh under his command participated in 1944 air strikes against the German battleship Tirpitz which had taken refuge in a fiord on the Norwegian coast.

On Aug. 23, 1944, the Naboh was hit by a torpedo and heavily damaged. However, the crew patched the vessel and she sailed safely 1,100 miles to the Scapa Flow naval base in Scotland.

CHURCHMEN HONORED

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Rt. Rev. J. W. C. Wand, retired Bishop of London, England, who is now editor of the Church Quarterly Review, was one of four to receive honorary doctor of divinity degrees at the University of Western Ontario's convocation Monday night. TOP RUSS SCIENTIST

Professor A. A. Blagonravov, Russia's top satellite scientist, is shown taking notes at the Russian embassy in Washington where a meeting was held to "coordinate" the U. S. and Soviet satellite programs. Blagonravov was the first to announce that the Russians launched the earth satellite. It is said to measure 23 inches and weigh 184 pounds and was spinning around the earth 558 miles off in outer space at 18,000 miles an hour. Later, U.S. scientists said it was more than likely the satellite weighs 18.4 pounds.

Cards were signed by all present for the sick.

Mrs. Warner McFaul presided at the piano. Collection was $5.51. Mrs. Walter Nind took up a collection for the flower fund.

Mrs. Morton, assisted by Mrs. Will Morton, and Mrs. Lyle Leavens, served refreshments.

CLAIMS NATO HIT

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany's Communist party boss Walter Ulbricht said Monday night the Soviet earth satellite has "ruthlessly destroyed all plans" of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He said the satellite demonstrates Russia's desire for peaceful coexistence but also the "unthought of power of the Soviet and the Socialist camp."

JOHNSTOWN

Young Couple Feted With Many Gifts

JOHNSTOWN — A happy event took place on Saturday evening when friends, neighbors and relatives gathered at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Harry, in honor of their son, Frank, and his bride, the former Miss Lois Armstrong, whose marriage took place at Washington United Church, in Scarboro, on the previous Saturday afternoon.

The master of ceremonies for this occasion was Mr. Alec Vandervoort. The short program opened with a reading, "Teaching Men to Drive," by Mrs. Douglas Harry. Miss Evelyn Harry, sister of the bridegroom, entertained with a piano solo; Mrs. Arnold Harry gave a reading called, "On Moving the Furniture."

An address was read to Frank and Lois by Mrs. Alec Vandervoort, wishing them many happy years together, and asking them to accept the gifts that had been brought to them. After the gifts were unwrapped, the bride signed to where an oil painting stood, saying she was "very proud of it" and told them it was done by Mr. Arnold Meyers of Johnstown. Mr. and Mrs. Harry were high in their praise of all that had been given them thanking all for their kindness, also inviting them to come and see them in their new home. They will reside in Brockville near where Mr. Harry works at Maitland for the Dupont Nylon Co.

PRESIDENT MAY VISIT

LONDON (AP) — The Empire News says plans are being discussed for a state visit to London by President and Mrs. Eisenhower. The Independent Sunday newspaper says the Queen will issue the formal invitation in Washington. Her tour of the United States begins Oct. 16.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Bayside Home and School Club held its first meet for the fall season recently at Bayside school with a good attendance.

Miss Barbara Shoemaker, nurse - in - training of Kingston, spent the past weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Shoemaker.

The many friends of Mrs. Latham will be glad to know that she is progressing favorably at her home following an operation at Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wiley, of Oshawa, spent last weekend with her mother, Mrs. Sarah Acker.

Mr. and Mrs. Burt Smith have just returned from an enjoyable motor trip to Mexico.

Mrs. Reg. Elliott, of Frankford was a Friday afternoon visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Wilson.

Mrs. Vera Sine spent the past weekend with her sister, Mrs. Fred Meyers, of Brighton.

Mr. Clifton Rush spent Friday with her daughter, Mrs. Clare Millar, Mr. Millar, and family, of Belleville.

Mrs. Malcolm Wilson attended an Avon representative meeting at the YMCA in Belleville, last week.

Mrs. Lorne Hunt, Mrs. Walter Jones and Miss Robert Percival attended the WMS rally at Stone church. Mrs. Hunt and Mrs. Jones took the offering and Mrs. Percival led in the prayer of dedication.

"SEA MONSTER" IS SEEN IN BOTTOMLESS QUEBEC LAKE

Scotland's Loch Ness has its monster and British Columbia's Lake Okanagan its ogopogo, and now Quebec's Mocking Lake—or Lake Pohenegamook in Indian language—has its question mark. Natives and visitors are keeping a watch on the waters for reappearance of a creature or disturbance on the surface which convinced spectators they were seeing a genuine monster sea denizen. Left two watchers are Jeannine Plourd and Mrs. Jacques Painchaud, both of Estcourt, Que. Right is Estcourt's Mayor Gaston Painchaud, who has binoculars ready if the apparition, if that's what it is, appears again. The lake has unknown depths and is connected with the ocean, making it possible that some unknown salt water denizen is making Mocking Lake its home.

Tweed

TWEED — Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Morton were in Kingston last week, visiting their son, Laird, who is at residence, ill with the 'flu, from his attendance at Queen's University.

Mrs. A. Seazmith of Queensboro, was a caller at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Fobert on Saturday.

David Morton, who is enrolled at the University of Toronto, came to his home here on Friday night due to illness. He was unable to return to Toronto on Sunday evening as planned, so will remain at the home of his parents until he is better.

Mr. John Laton of Peterborough and Mr. Jerry Laffin of Queensboro were renewing old acquaintances in Tweed one day last week and called on Mr. and Mrs. John Fobert while in town. They hadn't seen the former since 1918.

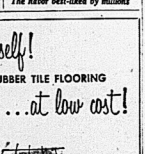
Pleased to report Dr. R. S. Berry is some improved after being confined to his home through illness. His many friends wish him a speedy "get well."

Dennis Attwood has been ill at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Attwood, with a bad case of the 'flu. All trust he will soon be back at high school and his studies. Also out of school with 'flu are Bobby MacLean and Clara Cournyea.

Mr. Hamilton, the principal of Tweed High School, has stated that his classes are very slim as far as attendance is concerned on account of this epidemic.

Milk prices were increased here last week by one cent a quart. The increase was granted only after many aspects of the dairy industry had been investigated, with special emphasis on rising costs. It is understood that Belleville and surrounding communities put the 1-cent increase into force as well.

Mrs. Sheridan of Carrying Place who has been a recent guest of Mrs. Jennie Gegere, accompanied her on a trip with the Misses Laura and Ana Thompson, to Sudbury and other points this past week.



EIGHT THREE BEARS

When Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Allore were on their way to their home at R. R. 3 Tweed, from the village (Mrs. Allore teaches north of Tweed), they came upon three bears near Kanata Beach; a huge one, presumably the mother, and two cubs, each as big as a good-sized sheep. One was directly behind the other as they manoeuvred themselves across the Tweed — Bulphide Road. The Allores were quite excited over the sight and said the bears took their time in crossing the thoroughfare.

A meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directors was held on Thursday night in the municipal hall, presided over by the president, S. J. Anderson. Plans were made for autumn dinners, obtainable speakers, and committee set-ups for the autumn and winter programs.

Will Operate Bonspiel for Another Year

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Curling Association decided Tuesday to run the Ontario Bonspiel for another year and then probably return it to Toronto clubs.

The decision came at the 84th annual meeting of the group held at the Granite Club where had been pressure from some groups to discontinue the competition, started in 1928, because of the many other bonspiels and the steadily dwindling number of rinks from outside points.

Other officers named included: B. C. Phippen, Senia, S. S. Lee, Brantford, and A. J. Parkhill, Oshawa, as vice-presidents.

EXTEND RACING SEASON

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Jockey Club plans to extend the Canadian thoroughbred horse racing season an additional four days, concluding Nov. 21, the OJC announced Tuesday.

The added days result from a four-day suspension of racing during Old Woodbine's spring meeting in May when the jockeys protested that wet weather had left the track in dangerous condition.

Cardinals Will Retain Coaches

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals announced Tuesday they are keeping intact the coaching staff of Stan Hack, Al Hollingsworth and Terry Moore that helped guide the club to a second place National League finish this year.

Manager Fred Hutchinson was signed earlier.

This past season was Hack's first with Cards after a long career with Chicago Cubs as player and manager. Hollingsworth, a former Cardinal scout, joined the coaching staff last April.

SEEKS STADIUM DONOR

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Nathan Phillips says a gift of $5,000,000 to $7,000,000 to Toronto for a sports stadium would be a profitable advertising investment.

He told the Advertising and Sales Club of Toronto Tuesday: "The donor's name would be appended to the stadium and would appear almost daily in every newspaper in North America."

Hamilton to Study Facilities For Stadium

HAMILTON (CP)—The board of parks management Tuesday unanimously approved a $5,000 study of the city's stadium facilities.

The study had been shelved when first proposed some time ago, but nearly 21,115 crowds at Civic Stadium at three of the four Hamilton Tiger-Cats home games in the Big Four Football Union apparently brought it up again. The fourth game, played in rain, drew 17,900.

Mayor Lloyd Jackson recommended that the city's entire stadium facilities be included but other members favored restricting the study. The exact limits were not made clear.

On the Tracks

NEW YORK (CP)—Mrs. Ogden Phipps' Neji toted 168 pounds to victory in the 57th running of the $32,250 Grand Netional at rain-soaked Belmont Park Tuesday. Neji laid off the pace in the three-mile and a furlong grind until the approach to the final fence when he swept by Independence to win by six lengths. The time was 3:35 1-5. Third money went to His Boots.

Ayrshire Farm's Bull Strength, a 6-to-5 favorite, raced to a 1¼-length victory in the featured Stonehaven Purse at Suffolk Downs.

Colonel Ed gained the place money by a head over Onmyway. Time for the six-furlong flash was 1:14 4-5.

WELCOME FOR THOMAS

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands (AP)—Virgin Islanders paid tribute to catcher Valmy Thomas, a native son who played with New York Giants last season, who arrived home Tuesday morning.

The governor proclaimed the homecoming a holiday. Parades, dances and a public reception in Government House will be held in his honor.

Flu, Engines Defer World Speedboat Trial

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (CP) — Donald Campbell, British speed boat record holder, said Tuesday an attempt for a new mark on Onondaga Lake has been postponed till Thursday.

Campbell found himself with engine trouble in his boat, the Bluebird I, chest trouble in him self, and rebellious timers.

His eight-man crew was working on the turbo-jet engine but his heavy chest cold didn't keep him from running a 163-mile-an-hour test this morning.

Campbell said he will have the problem of Timers solved by Thursday. The two he had lined up announced on the weekend the 10-mile drive from their homes in Rochester to Onondaga Lake was too difficult and Campbell's schedule too uncertain.

Teeps May Form Junior B Team

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — St. Catharines Teepees have so many excellent candidates for their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A team this year that coach Rudy Pilous says he is considering the entry of a St. Catharines Junior B team in the Niagara District League.

Teepees have 14 players returning from last year's team which went to the Ontario finals with Guelph Biltmores.

Impressive in workouts held this week have been John Macbeanie, Matt Ravlich, and Stan Nikita, all returnees, as well as newcomers Bill Auger from Houyn, Que., and Dennis Wenc chuk of Sault Ste. Marie.

Sacrifices Seat To 'Fair Lady' For TV Series

SUMMIT, N.J. (AP) — Mrs. Naomi Gage, an ardent New York Yankee baseball fan, plans to make a supreme sacrifice in order to watch her team on TV today in the world series.

For one year Mrs. Gage has treasured a ticket to today's matinee performance of the broadway hit musical, My Fair Lady.

But she had no way of knowing a year ago that her team would be meeting Milwaukee Braves in the world series about the same time the curtain rose on the musical.

TO WEAR MILT'S JERSEY

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Bruins have announced that the famed No. 15 jersey of coach Milt Schmidt is being brought out of retirement at the suggestion of the former National Hockey League great.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Some sort of an idea of the potential strengths of the McFarlands and the Kingston CKLC's for the coming season should be available over the weekend.

Both clubs meet the Kitchener Dutchmen in exhibition tilts, the Macs here on Friday night and the Kingston team on Saturday evening.

The Dutchmen, it is recalled, is the club that provided the stiffest opposition for the Whitby Dunlops in their successful quest for the Allan Cup last year, and the eventual right to represent Canada in the world tournament.

The Dutchies were, and are, a powerful club. More so this season, western observers state, than the team of a year ago that won the western Ontario senior "A" championship.

It was during the second-third period intermission of the dramatic seventh game of the Kitchener-Whitby Onkaris series that a grey-haired Kitchener fan waylaid some of the press-box habitues on their way to coffee and "dogs." He wagged a gnarled forefinger under the newspapers' noses and said in a high-pitched voice, "Believe you me, men, this game is not over, but I'll tell you something. The team that wins this game and series wins the Allan Cup. And you can bet your shirts on that."

The wrinkled prophet was so right.

While western Ontario teams and fans generally, got behind the Dunlops in their late battles for the Allan Cup against North Bay and the western Canada champions, there are still some fans up around that way that insist if the Dutchies had not been so affected by injuries, a different page in Allan Cup history would have been written. Another Allan Cup plaque would be hanging in the foyer of the beautiful Kitchener arena. And it could be they are not too far wrong.

However, that is hockey, and one of those things that occur in sport. In fact if the injury gremlin had not been riding herd on the Macs last year, the Dunlops would have been extended to greater efforts than four games in the Eastern Ontario senior league finals.

Being grounded with the flu, and writing these columns so far this week on a bedside typewriter, we have not kept up with the activities of the Macs but understand from visitors that Coach Ike Hildebrand is drilling them hard for the forthcoming clash with the Dutchies. Via television and Maxie Jackson comes word that Couch Bun Cook has his Kingston training camp under way with a bevy of newcomers bolstering not a few of last season's squad.

Back to the Kitchener Dutchmen game Friday night, which by the way starts at nine o'clock, genial Ernie Gosman, secretary manager of the western Ontario champions, has sent along a run-down on the Dutchies' pot-official line-ups will be published in the Friday edition.

In goal they will have Harold "Boat" Hurley, who alternated with Bob Senior in the senior playoffs last year. Senior, we understand, is trying out with his home town club in Kingston.

Veterans of the Dutchies' defence for many seasons are Ralph Hosking and Art Hurst, while rounding out the six-man blueline corps are Howie Lee, a controversial figure a couple of years ago; Beryle Klinke, last year with Stratford; Ted Maki, last year with the Guelph Biltmores; Frank Carroll of Elmira Polar Kings and Bob Paul, a former American League pro.

Top goal-scorer and all-star of the western league last year is left-winger Gerry Theberge. Also parading the left flank are those well-known Dutchies, Don Hope and Floyd (Dutch) Martin. Acting them will be two 1956 Stratford Indians, Charlie Brooker and Denny Flanagan, member of the Indians' famous line of Roth, Flick and Flanagan.

On right wing will be the school-teacher Dutchman star Jack MacKenzie, Buddy Horne, Joe Hogan and Elmer Youngberg.

Coach Ike Hildebrand has not announced any lines as yet. Meanwhile young Joe Richard has been released and Larry Marineau signed to a Macs' contract. Tony Foeta, who was reported to be training with Kingston has turned out with the Macs and is bidding for a berth. Manager Drury Denyes told this department via telephone yesterday that Don Ashbee of the Victoria Cougars is on his way to the Belleville camp. Ashbee is a former teammate of "Wiener" Brown, and as the "Wiener" puts it, "is a better player than I am." That is definitely enough recommendation for the former Cougar.

CHICAGO (CP) — The trade that brought Ted Lindsay and Glenn Hall to Chicago Black Hawks paid quick dividends when the two-placed Hawks to a 1-0 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs Tuesday night in the first game of the National Hockey League season.

Left - winger Lindsay counted the game's only goal and goalie Hall made 26 stops, several spectacular, as Hawks pleased 11,180 fans in a bruising game.

Lindsay and Hall were acquired from Detroit Red Wings during the summer and were two of the six new faces Hawks showed in their 18-man lineup.

The revamped Hawks, aiming at a playoff spot after several seasons in the cellar, showed that on the basis of their latest acquisitions they could be successful.

Lindsay, who along with Hall was named to the league's first team all-stars last year, sparked several rushes with his linemates Eddie Litzenberger and Eric Nesterenko, a former Leaf.

Just past the 15-minute mark in the second period he took a pass from Litzenberger at mid-ice, sliced across the Leaf net and backhanded the puck past Ed Chadwick.

It's at margin stood the rest of the way though both teams had good opportunities because of frequent penalties; there were 18 minors, 10 of them to Chicago.

Chicago appeared to have a slight edge in play in the first period. Leafs put on most of the pressure in the second frame and buzzed around Hall after Ron Murphy, a former New York Ranger now with Black Hawks, went off for high-sticking at 5:14.

In the final period Toronto, minus four players through illness and injury, slowed down in the early part but Chadwick, who turned back 21 shots, took up the slack.

Tod Sloan showed best for the Leafs, who finished last season in fifth spot, a notch ahead of Chicago. Sloan, a winger was moved to centre between Dick Duff and George Armstrong when three Toronto centres came down with flu.

The three, rookie Frank Mahovlich, Billy Harris and Brian Cullen, may be available when Leafs make their next start at home Saturday against Detroit. Winger Pete Conacher was the other absentee, out with a training camp injury.

Eskimos Have Four Players In Top Five

WINNIPEG (CP) — Gerry James, hard - running fullback with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, appears to be the only player with a chance to halt the league-leading Edmonton Eskimos from making a runaway with the top spots in the individual scoring in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show that Eskis have four players in the top five, including leader Jackie Parker, their shifty-running back.

Parker has scored 11 touchdowns and booted one single for 67 points in Eskis' 11 games to date—one point better than teammate Johnny Bright, the league's leading rusher, and James, each with 11 touchdowns.

Close behind are Edmonton's place-kicking end Jim Stobbs with 61 points and fullback Normie Kwong with 60. Mobra's total Eskimata of two touchdowns, 34 converts, five field goals and two singles. His convert and field goal totals are tops in the league.

Whitby Edges Dutchmen 5-4 In Exhibition

WHITBY (CP) — Whitby Dunlops, Allan Cup champions from last day sight defeated Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series 5-4 in an exhibition game.

Whitby took a 1-0 lead after 20 minutes' play on a goal by Lawrence Smolenko but Dutchmen topped that with two quick goals by Jim Uniac and Dinny Flanagan in the final moments of the second period.

In the third period, Maxwell and Gordie Myers scored for Dunlops and Uniac and Jerry Theberge for Kitchener.

Expansion Mooted

With Bums, Giants a Memory Gotham Seeks National Club

By ED WILKS

NEW YORK (AP) — With Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants now officially headed for the west coast, National League baseball czar Warren Giles today said expansion to 10 or 12-team leagues is the next logical step for major changes in the major league baseball map.

"I don't know of any club now considering relocation," said Giles. "If any cities not now included in the major league baseball makeup are to have major league baseball it would seem to have to come through expansion, not additional franchise transfers."

Giles, commenting on the Dodgers' decision Tuesday to follow the Giants, Boston Braves, St. Louis Browns and Philadelphia Athletics in franchise shifts which have rearranged the baseball map since 1953, said expansion has been discussed frequently and for some time by the majors on an informal basis.

NOT IN FAVOR NOW

He added, however, that there "has been no sentiment favoring expansion at the present time in the National League."

"I don't believe there will be any such expansion, however, in the immediate future," said Giles, "say in the next two or three or four years."

While expansion to 10 - team leagues or to three leagues has been most frequently mentioned in baseball circles, some owners and other officials, in both the majors and the minors, now favor two 12-team leagues as the final answer.

With 12-team setups, each league would be divided into eastern and western divisions. The two division winners in each league would meet in a five or seven - game playoff for the league championship and those two winners then would meet in the world series.

The eastern division would make one swing through the west, and the west one through the east, in each league during the regular season.

UNANIMOUS AGREEMENT

Dodgers, in anything but a surprise move, formally announced Tuesday that club directors and stockholders had unanimously agreed that the necessary steps be taken to draft the Los Angeles territory."

The announcement came with-in 24 hours of action by the Los Angeles city council approving an acceptable offer to the Dodgers — swapping a 300-acre chunk of accessible Chavez Ravine for Brooklyn-owned Wrigley Field in Los Angeles.

Dodger president Walter O'Malley, still meeting with club directors when the shift was announced formally, already had received unanimous N l i o n a l League approval to transfer his Brooks.

So, as outlined in a 52-word statement, the Brooklyn Dodgers are dead, ready to open the 1958 season in Los Angeles while the Giants get under way in San Francisco. The National League no longer has a home in New York, now American League territory as the home of the Yankees.

TRY FOR OTHER CLUB

New York Mayor Robert Wagner, however, had barely waved the Dodgers goodbye than he announced he would appoint a committee in the next few days to start a campaign to lure another National League team to New York.

The National League's return to the big town, however, will have to be threshed out in joint league meetings. The American League already has favored a "compromise" plan offered by Chuck Comiskey, Chicago White Sox vice-president and an alternate on baseball's executive council, which proposes a swap of New York territory for the right to put American League clubs in Los Angeles and/or San Francisco.

The National League's new alignment, the first since the Braves started all this by moving to Milwaukee in 1953, places Los Angeles, San Francisco, St. Louis and Chicago in the western division, Milwaukee and Cincinnati shift to the eastern division, which keeps Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Neither Los Angeles nor San Francisco will have its new baseball team ready until 1959. Until the Los Angeles plant, figured for 50,000 seats, is completed the Dodgers will play in Wrigley Field (22,500) or the Coliseum (101,528) or both. The Giants will play in Seals' Stadium until their 45,000-seat home is completed.

Still to be settled is the amount of damages to be paid by the Giants and Dodgers to the Pacific Coast League and its Los Angeles and San Francisco clubs, for invasion of its territory.

Braves Favored 2-1 Before Game Time

Were Eager to Wrap It Up Due to Spahn's Condition; Flu, Injuries Affect Clubs

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Fred Haney's battling Milwaukee Braves ruled the 2-to-1 favorite today to win the world series as they faced the New York Yankees in the sixth game needing only one more victory to clinch it.

With the weatherman predicting clear skies, after three straight wet days in New York, a capacity crowd of some 67,000 was expected to be on hand at Yankee Stadium to see a return match between Bob Buhl of the Braves and Bob Turley of the Yankees.

Haney, needing a victory to stay alive, were handicapped by the absence of their celebrated centre fielder. Mickey Mantle, who has a torn tendon in his right shoulder. Milwaukee also had a top flight star on the sidelines in second baseman Red Schoendienst, who has a pulled groin muscle.

SPAHN HAS GRIPPE

Braves, who lead the series three games to two, were eager to wrap it up today because of the uncertain physical condition of Warren Spahn, their ace pitcher. Spahn, considered a certainty to pitch the seventh game, if it were needed, currently is laid low by a slight case of the grippe and upper respiratory inflammation, leaving his status as participant in the series in doubt.

Late Tuesday night, the veteran lefthander was undecided whether to obey the command of the Braves' physician to remain in bed and watch this afternoon's event on television. Should the Yankees win today and there be no improvement in Spahn's condition, the chances are that Lew Burdette, who has already beaten Yankee twice, will try to become a three-time winner.

KUCKS AILS TOO

Yankees also had a pitcher born de cuna in Johnny Kucks. The young righthander spent Tuesday in a hospital, wrestling with a case of the flu—not the Asian kind—and he is not expected to see action today or Thursday.

The Yankees' other invalid, first baseman Bill (Moose) Skowron, felt a little better although his sacroiliac muscle is still painful. The Moose, who has missed the entire series with the exception of the first two innings of the opener, said he can pinch-hit but cannot possibly play in the field.

Mantle, alarmed when he woke up Tuesday and found he could hardly raise his right arm, was whisked to a hospital where x-rays showed there were no breaks or bone damage in his right shoulder but that he suffered a torn cartilage. The condition stemmed from his collision with Schoendienst at second in the first inning of the third game in Milwaukee.

NEEDS TIME TO HEAL

Glum over the diagnosis, Mantle said the injury was worse than he originally feared.

"I don't think it will be okay for the series no matter how long it goes," he said. "Those things take a long time to heal." Schoendienst was just as downcast over his injury. After a visit to a local doctor, he said:

"It's worse than it was yesterday. I don't see how I can play any more in this series. I had a similar injury four years ago and it kept me out 18 days."

With Mantle and Skowron out and Yogi Berra without an extra base hit or a run batted in during the series, Yankee managers Casey Stengel sought desperately to inject some more punch into his lineup. He finally settled for one new face.

Casey benched Harry Simpson with another lefthanded hitter, Joe Collins, at first base. Simpson has been batting best of the series with one hit in nine times at bat.

The rest of the lineup was the same that lost the 1-0 heartbreaker to Burdette Monday in Milwaukee. Tony Kubek was Mantle's replacement in centre, Enos Slaughter was in left field and rookie Jerry Lumpe at third base. Jerry Coleman, who took Mantle's place for Monday's loss when he deliberated too long in fielding Eddie Mathews' infield single, which eventually was converted into the only run of the game, was back at second base.

"I won't take him (Coleman) out," Stengel said Tuesday after rain postponed workouts by both teams. "It would look as though I was punishing him and I don't want that."

MANAGERS CHEERFUL

Both managers appeared cheerful despite the injuries that have hobbled their teams. Stengel, confident Turley would tame the Braves today, already has earmarked Don Larsen as his seventh game pitcher.

"And we'll be in it," said the grizzled skipper.

Haney was in a jovial mood despite the fact that Red Schoendienst was a definite and Spahn a possible loss for the rest of the series.

"I don't expect it to go seven games," the Milwaukee skipper said. "Even with Red out, we're in pretty good shape."

This was Haney's way of expressing confidence in Felix Mantilla, who replaced Schoendienst at second early in Monday's game and gave a fine account of himself in the field.

LEFTHANDED LINEUP

"Mantilla will lead off," Haney said, and added he would use his lefthanded lineup with Frank Torre replacing Joe Adcock at first and Bob Hazle supplanting Andy Pafko in right.

This was the second series start for both Buhl and Turley. The pair started on, but lasted briefly in the third game, only torpedoed game of the classic so far. Buhl retired only two batters in a three-run first inning. Turley lasted an inning-and-two-thirds before he was wild. Yankees won on to win, 12-3, behind Larsen's six-hit relief pitching while the Braves used six pitchers.

Casey's decision to use Turley, as his last hope today, was occasioned by the fireballer's strong performance in relief on Monday. Pitching the eighth inning, Bob retired the side on 10 pitches, getting the last two Braves on strikeouts.

Set Junior All-Star Game For Jan. 8

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association Junior A council Tuesday night approved Jan. 8 as the date for the first annual all-star game.

The team heading the series Jan. 5 will meet a team of all-stars from the other six clubs. The game will be played on the home ice of the leading team. The stars will be selected by team coaches and will be announced by Jan. 1.

Team representatives turned down a bid from Sam Pollock for the OHA all-stars to meet Ottawa Junior Canadiens at Ottawa Oct. 15. They also eliminated his players from the OHA match.

Pollock originally suggested the game be played at Ottawa with Queen Elizabeth as a spectator. OHA teams lost interest when it was learned the Queen could not attend.

Council also voted 43 against allowing Peterborough to have two extra eastern branch - to-branch imports this season.

OASA Declares Seven Champions

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Seven championships have been declared and 13 are still to be decided in Ontario Amateur Softball Association playoffs, executive secretary Percy Pickard said Tuesday.

All other championships will be declared by Thanksgiving weekend.

They are: Senior B, Oshawa at Sudbury; Intermediate AA, Hamilton at Sarnia; Intermediate A, Toronto at North Bay; Intermediate B, Rangeburg at Cobourg or Walkerton; Intermediate C, Brooklin at Capreol; Intermediate D, Brougham and Electric, third game at Woodstock on Oct. 12; Junior A, Oshawa or Hamilton at New Liskeard; Junior D, Appin and Binbrook; Juvenile A, Lardner Lake at Toronto Follet Haulage; Midget, Timmins at Toronto Seeburg Music; Bantam, Galt at New Liskeard; Peewee, Belleville and Simcoe.

Two teams, Cornwall in Midget and Oshawa in Bantam, have had to withdraw because of influer.

World Series Notes

But here he is the Milwaukee second baseman, courtesy of Red Schoendienst's groin injury, as the Braves met the New York Yankees in the sixth game of the series today.

"I never figured when I got up Monday that I'd be playing that day," the little utility infielder said. "I was a little uneasy, but then they hit a couple at me right away and I forgot about it."

"I don't see how Red can play, he was hurting so badly," said Logan. "But I still think our fielding and hitting will be all right even without Red."

American League Opens Tonight

The two teams which failed to make the American Hockey League playoffs last season, Buffalo and Springfield, are expected to get right into the scrap for playoff places when the 1957-58 AHL season opens tonight.

Buffalo Bisons have had a big player turnover and will present an almost new team from player-coach Harry Watson on down.

Springfield Indians have entered into a working agreement with Boston Bruins of the National League and received a number of players Boston farmed out to Hershey last season.

Like Buffalo, Springfield will operate under a first-year coach, Cal Gardner, who also will be a player. The other new coach is Roly McLenahan at Rochester, whose Cincinnati team in the International League won five straight league and playoff titles.

Cleveland, the 1957 Calder Cup winner, has all of last year's scoring and defence stars, plus a new goalie, Johnny Bower, acquired in a trade with Providence. The 31-year-old Bower was rated the most valuable player last year.

While he refused to take Jerry Coleman (the self-admitted goat of Monday's loss) out of the lineup, Yanks' manager Casey Stengel revealed he had been toying with the idea of starting Bobby Richardson at second base in that contest.

"But I didn't," he sighed. "If I had been able to get ahead of them I would have put the kid in because he covers more ground defensively than Coleman."

Stengel, by the way, is all praise for Milwaukee pitchers Lew Burdette and Warren Spahn.

"The Braves' pitching is better than any I saw in past series with the Dodgers," rasped the professor. "That open date helps, but they are good. Burdette knows how to pitch to lefthanders and Spahn knows how to pitch to righthanders."

Seven Reds Down With Flu

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Seven Providence players were bedded with the flu today as the Reds travelled to Springfield for their American Hockey League opener with the Indians.

Jerry Reardon said that the Reds will be forced to play with 12 men unless help from other clubs arrives in time.

The seven players stricken after returning from an exhibition tour were Paul Larivee, Ken Daneyko, Gerry Pierzchaj, Bob Robertson, John Hanna and Aldo Guidolin.

Providence Reds acquired somewhat younger and almost equally adept Jean Paille in the trade. Other clubs with added strength in the goal-tending department are Hershey and Rochester.

Hershey has Gil Mayer back in condition after an operation and newcomer Bobby Perreault, who finished last season with Rochester. Rochester Americans signed veteran Gerry McNeil.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop was smoking in back of his paper, and he said, Confound a cigar throws its ashes without waiting for instructions. When I pay for one of them a cigar I expect better service, he said.

Sutch an outburst over nothing, ma said. I'm the one that has to clean up the mess, but I'm as cool and unruffled as a provincial cucumber, she said, and pop said, Come to think of it, I've been sore at the world all day. It seems very unreasonable, the world is no worse than it was yesterday, he said.

It's not unreasonable at all, William, ma said. Otherwise why should people spend vast sums of good money lying on a couch while a syko annalist delves back into their erly childhood? she said, and pop said, What is the dooce have the syko annalist got to do with it?

Everything, ma said. You're still angry at the entire universe because of some trivial, incident that happened erly this morning and I can tell you what it was. You got a notion that I've been squeezing the tube of tooth paste from the top again, instead of the bottom, and you couldn't of acted more upset if your own foot had been squeezed in the door of an iron safe. So now maybe you'll realize the far reetching effects of putting too mutch stress on unavoidable trivialities, she said.

My dear, you're a sycological wizard, and I'm cured, pop said.

Film on Russia Will Show How People Really Live

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — North American moviegoers will get a chance to see how the Russians really live, thanks to a tough little capitalist who roamed behind the Iron Curtain with cameras and film.

The man is Sid Feder, and he has brought a documentary called This is Russia which universal-International is releasing. A vaudeville actor as a child, Feder has some film theatres and other interests.

Feder's Iron Curtain caper arose while he was in London during the Bulganin-Khrushchev visit last spring. He figured he would test whether the Kremlin leaders were serious in their offers of friendship, so he applied to the Russian Embassy for permission to photograph Russia.

"I was lucky," he admits. "The Russians have a great respect for inventions. I happened to have been in on the first 3-D picture, Bwana Devil. I put up the money. Since the Russians have a theatre where 3-D movies are shown without glasses, they were interested in my visit."

After much red tape, Feder was admitted to Russia. He was not allowed to bring a cameraman, so he had to shoot the film himself. He brought along three cameras and lugged 100 pounds of equipment.

FIRM NOTIONS

The Russians had firm notions of what he should photograph, he said, but he had other ideas.

"They showed me the huge factories, which were impressive, but not what I was interested in," he says. "I wanted to see the faces of the people—see them at work and at play, in their homes, at the theatres and on vacation.

"They arranged for me to visit a model apartment—and it was a model! It was all fixed up with a refrigerator, television set and electric toaster. There was only one trouble. There was no electricity in the building, nothing to plug into.

"I used my camera for all of the things they wanted me to shoot. I always kept one with no film in it just for that purpose."

Though often harassed by the police, Feder managed to get what he wanted. He travelled to Georgia at a time when the region was seething with unrest. He went to remote areas of Asian Russia — Samarkand and other areas where Marco Polo travelled and Genghis Khan ruled.

He saw another sight forbidden to most Western visitors — the slave labor camp of Siberia.

With some hairbreadth escapes, he managed to get his film out of Russia. Most of it was in good shape.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER
(Author of the new "Astrology and You")

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Today would be wisely spent being expansive with those you see. Know very well, giving correct and precise details of your case. Complete honesty will get you results beyond your wildest dreams.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—Get going on that streamlined method you have worked out today, and the right people will note that you are not all tied out as it has appeared lately. Impress them with innate power and dynamism.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—Don't be afraid to take chances in your today's activities, for the more originality, forcefulness, constructive criticism you employ, the greater strides you make. However, be generous and kind where necessary.

Cancer (June 23 to July 21)—This is the day to approach your superiors and give them the benefit of your ideas and desires. They will be ready to listen attentively and give you full recompense. Be at your best, especially in worldly matters.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — Now is the time to quickly delve into that pile of printed matter for the data you need, or to get from your TV, radio or local papers, that you may raise concept as to ideas. Also, you can reach that great friend today.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 23)—New arrangements are being effected with other person that will be very advantageous to you. See that you keep alert and listen with great care to him or her for this day will clear you of problems for a long time to come.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Your own co-operative attitude and diligence will decide proportionately what the recompense will be for you in today's activities, whether with public in general or regular associates, family ties, etc.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — The day is fine for accomplishing much around the house or office, place of work. Keep busily engaged all day and good part of the night. Appeals good for better understanding with co-workers, more co-operation.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Get your dull-doldrum duties attended to speedily this a.m. so you may devote remaining hours to the pursuits of a cultural nature you so love, P.M. excellent for romantic, other heart-warming interests.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Whether at home or in outside world, make the welfare of your children the uppermost thoughts in your mind. Do what you think will please them. Tonight bring in little gifts. P. M. have ideal time at home.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — This is your kind of day when you can jump from writing important letters to making a big deal, sign contracts, study, get affairs in order, put pretty touches to surroundings, sell. Then go out for an ideal evening.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Getting real estate in better condition and setting up a better system of finance for your immediate needs should be the first things on the agenda today. Roll up your sleeves and go to work, be sure to get on the Security Road.

If Your Child is Born Today ... The lucky child born today will be endowed with a great mind plus tremendous bodily energy. So it is your duty to early teach practicality and seeing a job through before putting it aside, and in this fashion your progeny will soon have great earning power and be able to do more in half a day than others will in two. Here is the ideal secretary or right-hand man for the big executive — and the successor thereto.

CONVICTS DONATE RIBS

OSSINING, N.Y. (AP) — Two human ribs, used in a rare bone operation performed Tuesday in Philadelphia on a 22-month-old child, were donated by two anonymous convicts at Sing Sing prison, prison officials said. The child, David Dubelman of New York, underwent a bone marrow transplantation.

Saw Soldiers In Locker Room, Girl Declares

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A 19-year-old girl said today she saw soldiers inside a locker room at Central High School while school girls were changing clothes for a gym class.

The girl, who identified herself as Mickey Wright, is not now a student at Central. Reporters questioned six girl pupils who said they had not seen or heard of any such incidents. Miss Wright volunteered her story to reporters.

Governor Orval Faubus of Arkansas has accused federal troops of invading the privacy of girls' dressing rooms while enforcing racial integration at Central High. The White House, the army and Faubus himself denied it.

Asked whether the soldiers were actually watching the girls while they undressed, Miss Wright replied:

"No, but they could have. They were standing talking to each other inside the door."

Car Hits Bridge, Two Meet Death

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Two Oakville residents were killed Tuesday night when the car in which they were riding left the road and shot 25 feet across a creek, struck a bridge abutment and crashed back into the water.

MANVILLE SHEDS NO. 10

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommy Manville, much-married playboy heir, said his 10th wife, the former Pat Gaston of last year's Follies, left her and Manville night for Reno, Nev., for a divorce. "She's in love with me, but she thinks we'd get along much better if we weren't married," he said. They were married last May 5.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, very striking improvement was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—that improvement was maintained in cases where doctor observation were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make their statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And most satisfying of all, results were of a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Bio-Dyne is now in use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenience Preparation H. Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Sputnik Racks Up 2 Million Miles, Still Going Strong

'Beep' Changes to 'Psst' As 78th Orbit Completed

LONDON (CP)—Russia's earth satellite, now past the 2,000,000-mile mark in its breakneck race around the world, continued to send out strong radio signals today, although with varying tones. One report said the signals had changed from their original "beep beep" to "psst, psst."

There was some difference of opinion among scientists whether the satellite is maintaining its rate of speed and its altitude. But broadcasts for Moscow said the man-made moon will stay aloft for a long time. Agreeing with this, one British astronomer said "it's got lots of life yet."

The Russian satellite, first to penetrate outer space, has been dashing around the globe since last Friday. It is travelling at about 18,000 miles an hour, sending back automatic radio signals as it goes.

Moscow radio said the Soviet satellite passed its 78th orbit around the earth about 2 a.m. GMT today (11 o.m. EDT Wednesday).

Reporting the satellite's multi-million miles journey, Moscow accused "some prominent Americans and a number of newspapers" of insinuating that Russia would use the satellite to blackmail the West.

"There could be nothing more absurd. The Soviet Union is now carrying out experiment under no circumstances means a change in its stand on disarmament. Everything depends on the U.S. leaders."

The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia said: "The technical qualities of the Soviet satellite are much higher than the qualities of the satellite which the United States intends to launch."

The Vienna Observatory said the satellite's time in circling the globe has not changed significantly and that it appeared over Vienna today virtually on the schedule announced by the Russians.

Dr. Fred Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory at Cambridge, Mass., said no new information had been received to define more closely the satellite's orbit, which Canadian scientists have figured within 30 miles' accuracy.

U.S. Proposes Separate Space Missiles Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States said today it is ready to begin multi-power talks immediately on steps to harness space missiles for peace. The statement was made by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge as the UN's political committee plunged into a detailed debate on disarmament.

Lodge said the U.S. is willing to separate the discussion of space missiles from the general disarmament debate and proceed with it independently.

He said the U.S. 10 years ago had taken the initiative in proposing international control of atomic energy. If this proposal had been accepted, he said, widespread international anxiety could have been avoided.

"We now have a second opportunity to harness for peace mankind's newest efforts in outer space," he said. "We have therefore proposed to work out an inspection system that will be a sufficient guarantee that such missiles will be used exclusively for peaceful purposes.

"The United States is prepared to join in this initiative without awaiting the conclusion of negotiations on other substantive issues."

The U.S., along with Britain, France and Canada, had proposed in the London meetings of the UN disarmament subcommittee that the supervision of space objects be included in the work of a general disagreement.

Lodge told the committee international control of outer space missiles is urgent because they can either be restricted to peaceful uses "or they can be used to blow us to bits."

Grant of $5,000 Made To Kingston Hospital

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal health department today announced a grant of nearly $5,000 towards construction of a seven-storey addition to the Kingston General Hospital to house a cobalt 60 therapy unit.

RUSSIA PREPARED TO FIGHT TURKEY IF SYRIA INVADED

Turks Would Not Last Day Says Khrushchev

NEW YORK (AP) — Nikita S. Khrushchev has made it clear that the Soviet Union is prepared to use military force if necessary to defend its interests in the Middle East, the New York Times says today.

During an interview with James Reston of The Times, Soviet Premier and State Secretary Dulles of inciting Turkey to start a war in the Middle East by attacking Syria. The Communist party boss challenged the U.S. Senate to investigate his charges.

The interview took place Monday in Communist party headquarters in Moscow. The final portion was released by the Soviet government for publication today.

THREAT AGAINST TURKEY

Reston reports that, in what seemed to be a clear threat of Soviet intervention in any Middle East war, Khrushchev said:

"If war breaks out, we are near Turkey and you are not. When Turkey guns begin to fire, the rockets (missiles) can begin flying, and then it will be too late to think about it. . . Turkey would not last one day in case of war."

Khrushchev charged that Secretary of State Dulles, Vice President Nixon, Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, deputy undersecretary of state, to incite Jordan against Syria and to control Ley W. Hender

Coe Hill Motorist Kills Big Moose On Highway

It was out of hunting season and all rather unexpected, but a Coe Hill motorist can lay claim to bagging the first moose of the season.

Provincial Police at Bancroft stated that Vernon Ferguson was driving on Highway 62 just south of L'Amable when as his car topped a knoll, he struck the moose standing on the highway.

Mr. Ferguson swung sharply to the left in an attempt to avoid the moose, but at the same time the moose moved directly in front of the car. Police from Bancroft despatched the badly injured animal with a rifle shot.

The carcass was turned over to the Department of Lands and Forests for disposal.

School Children To Get Holiday, Queen's Request

Announcement that October 15 will be an official school holiday in the province to mark the visit of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II and His Royal Highness, Prince Philip, has been made by the Premier of Ontario, Mr. Lawrence A. Kells, public schools administrator said today.

This will give school children of the province a "long week-end" of four days since Monday, October 14, is Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. Kells stated that a special meeting of the school board has been called this evening at the request of Mayor Jack Forrester and the possible implications to the board will be in holding elections every two years.

Many Things Done

Enthusiasm Marks Meeting Of McFarlands Booster Club

Enthusiasm again keynoted a meeting of the Belleville McFarland Booster Club held last night when it was announced that paid-up membership totalled with more salesmen yet to report, estimated to nearly 600. President Dick Beare who chaired the meeting said he was confident the club would exceed the 1,000 mark.

Many items of important business were dealt with and a number of important announcements made.

Ed Lewis reporting for Jim Ward of the Ways and Means Committee stated that receipts from the tickets draw had amounted to over $400 with many returns yet to come in. Tickets will be sold at the Mac's Kitchen ennel Reserve night with Tom Neill, Harry Rollins, Tom Orr and Mrs. Edna Miller acting as salesmen.

Treasurer Lewis stated that the "Meet the Mac" dance was a tremendous success socially. Financially it netted the club $50. The club's bank balance, he said, was over $1,000.

An announcement of extreme importance was made to the effect that the Whitby Dunlops club had secured a limited number of tickets for the Belleville Booster Club for the Russia-Dunlops gave in Toronto, November. Tickets will be sold to members only and through Secretary Bob Temple only. The first come will be first served. Prospective buyers are requested to contact Mr. Temple by letter or phone WO 8-6455. All requests must be submitted by October 15. There is a possibility Booster Clubbers will travel by bus. Tom Taylor is looking after arrangements.

The club will be incorporated as a non-profit organization with an Ontario charter. Secretary Temple is looking after the legal arrangements.

A letter from the Ann Commission was read stating its appreciation of the efforts and requesting efforts be made to stimulate attendance at Tuesday night games.

WILL HOLD DAY

The club decided to operate a "Gasorama Day". Mr. Earle Ashley has donated his service station on Coleman street and its facilities to the club for one day. The club will receive five cents per gallon on each sale. Ten Booster Club members will man the pumps, while ladies members will assist in cleaning windshields etc. The day will be announced later.

A supply of the official tams or Balmorals have arrived in the city, and are now on sale at Jim Mathews Coffee Shop, Moe Benoit's Coffee Bar and Ted's Restaurant, Dundas Street. Ted Mowers and Ken Soden are in charge of the distribution. The price is $2.25.

Manager Dzury Dewers of the Macs told the club that sufficient apartments had been obtained for the players thus far, and expressed the Macs appreciation of the club's efforts in this respect. Andre Mercier told the club he had secured a position for Eddie Marineau.

Tom Taylor has donated a Union Jack for the arena which will be installed by the commissionaire. The flag and the followed and arena lights dimmed when the National Anthem is played.

President Beare expressed his appreciation of the entertainment committee's efforts in sponsoring the 'Meet the Macs' dance and noted that Don McNevin had donated the use free gratis. The committee asked for more members and the following were named, Armand Duffy, Lum Carson, Violet Christopher, Clarke Potter and Clifford Bellai Jr.

Following the meeting, the club enjoyed a motion picture film of the 1956-57 Stanley Cup playoffs, thanks to Ed. Lewis.

Police Blotter

Theft of close to 1,500 rounds of .22 ammunition, and a quantity of cigarets from McAinsley's Garage at Marysville, was reported to provincial police at Belleville this morning.

Constable Ivan Tilson, who investigated, said that entry had been gained by smashing a window. Nineteen boxes of ammunition and nine cigarets were taken.

Otherwise both city and provincial police reported a quiet night.

Peterborough Man Injured in North

NEW LISKEARD (CP) — A 29-year-old Peterborough man, John J. Gerow, is in hospital following a car-truck collision Wednesday on Highway 11 just south of this Northern Ontario town.

Bar Visitors At Hospital Owing to Flu

The Belleville General Hospital will be closed to visitors after Thursday afternoon until further notice.

Hospital Administrator Kenneth Jones said today the move is being made to protect patients from coming in contact with influenza, which has launched an attack on the city.

Dr. S. O. Moores, superintendent of Trenton Memorial Hospital, said the doors of that institution may be closed in a day or so if flu reports increase. However, visiting day there is being are told differently. Miss Moores asked persons not feeling up to par to please refrain from visiting anyone in the hospital.

First Part Work On Curling Rink Now Completed

Work on the new curling rink at the fairgrounds is proceeding satisfactorily according to the president, William Gault. The trench for the water and sewer mains has been dug, the trench around the entire rink is also done and forms are in for the bases to hold the roof rail as the clubhouse. It is expected that the pouring of cement in the forms will be started shortly and it will not take long to enclose the structure as the trusses for the roof have been made and on their way to the job.

At the present time there are 175 paid-up members and the executive feels with the start of the building, the remaining 125 members will be quickly added and ready to start curling before Christmas time. The contractor in making sure there will be no ice heaving and a large quantity of stone will be placed under as well as weeping tile will be put in to ensure proper drainage at all times.

The Canadian Ice Machine Company has been contracted for supplying the artificial ice plant, this the latest portable ice plant completed and will be ready to go to work as soon as the surface is ready for the stone. Later on in the construction volunteer labor will be required and it is proud of. Devotees of the roarin' game will have a brand new place of stones to curl with this season as the rocks have been ordered for some time.

Population Up At Record Rate

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's population increased at a record rate in the first nine months of 1957 and is expected to reach the 17,000,000 mark by April of next year.

The bureau of statistics said today the increase in the eight months totalled an estimated 401,000, bringing the population at Sept. 1 to 16,743,000. The increase compares with a January-August rise of 374,000 in 1956, 362,000 in 1955 and 304,000 in 1954.

The Sept. 1 figure represented a gain of 644,000 from the June 1, 1956, census total of 16,061,000 and a rise of 3,738,000 from the 1951 census count of 14,000,000.

More than half of the population gain in the eight months was the result of increased immigration. During this period an estimated 225,000 immigrants arrived in this country.

Bureau officials say Canada's population, at the present rate of immigration, is increasing by 1,000,000 every two years.

Paralytic Polio In U.S. Declines Eighty Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Welfare Secretary Marion Folsom today reported an 80 per cent reduction in paralytic polio in the United States during the last two years. There was a sharp decline in the less severe non-paralytic cases.

He said the success of Salk polio vaccine provides the means for "a decisive blow" to the dread disease next year if the millions of Americans under 40 who still have not done so will get the full three recommended doses.

Folsom reported that the number of paralytic polio cases this year at Sept. 28 was only 1,576, compared with 7,986 two years ago, before widespread use of the Salk vaccine, and 5,241 cases up to the same time in 1956.

38 THIS YEAR

U.S. deaths from polio in the first seven months of this year were estimated at 130, compared with an estimated 228 for the same 1956 period and an actual 337 in the corresponding 1955 period.

"If people will use the vaccine available, it is possible to wipe out paralytic polio," Folsom said. "More than 37,000,000 Americans under 40 have received no vaccine, and 44,000,000 have had only one or two doses and have yet to complete the full schedule of three doses.

"It will be a tragedy if, simply because of public apathy, vaccine which could prevent crippling or even death lies on the shelf unused."

BUILD UP SUPPLIES

He recalled that a big supply of unused vaccine developed last fall only to disappear quickly with the start of this year's polio season. Supplies again are starting to build up, he said, adding:

"If unvaccinated persons will start now, they can finish the full schedule of three doses before the next polio season begins."

Dionnes Will Attend Wedding Of Daughter

Their departure was the first confirmation the parents would be on hand for the marriage, in Montreal Friday. Annette, 23, will be married in a private ceremony to 22-year-old Germain Allard, a finance company employee.

Burlington Skyway May Be Toll Bridge

TORONTO (CP)—The $20,000,000 Burlington Skyway over the entrance to Hamilton harbor on the Queen Elizabeth Way may become Ontario's first toll bridge.

Highways Minister Allan said Wednesday department engineers have been asked to prepare estimates of the cost of installing toll equipment.

Mr. Allan said his position has always been the bridge would not be a toll structure unless an alternate route was available.

"Now another route will be built," he said, referring to federal government's decision Tuesday to build a $1,500,000 combined road and railway bridge over the Burlington Channel underneath the Skyway.

Forceps Found Inside Woman

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Mavis Lake, 45-year-old mother of two, lived the last 16 years with a nine-inch pair of surgical forceps in her womb, a hospital disclosed Wednesday.

Two months ago she developed a numb pain in her back. An x-ray showed the forceps and an operation performed is said to have been successful.

Drew and Wife Lunch With Queen, Prince

LONDON (CP)—George Drew, Canadian high commissioner in London, and Mrs. Drew lunched today at Buckingham Palace as guests of the Queen and Prince Philip.

Mrs. Drew wore a dress of a pale cherry color with a matching feathered hat and black accessories.

The luncheon was arranged in connection with the forthcoming royal visit to Canada and the United States. The Drews, along with members of the American diplomatic corps, have also been invited to attend an informal evening party at the palace Friday night.

This will give them an opportunity to bid farewell to the royal couple, who leave Saturday from London airport.

Whites Mistaken for Negroes Flee New York Town, Refuse to Return

COPIAGUE, N.Y. (AP) — A white family, apparently mistaken for Negroes, has moved out of its rented home in this all-white community following reported threats of violence.

The head of the family of four is William Delgado, 34, a partly-disabled war veteran of Spanish descent.

The Long Island community knows now that the family is white. But Delgado said Wednesday that, even though he might be left alone, he won't come back here.

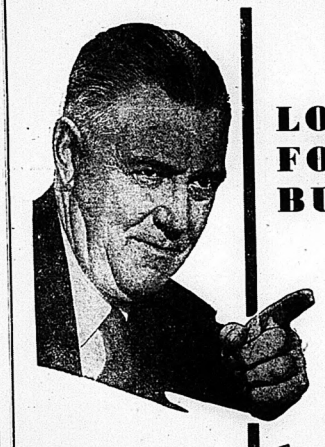
"I don't want to live near people like that," he said. "I want my kids to grow up in a decent place."

Delgado said: "My kids couldn't sleep after they heard about the threats."

Delgado, his wife, Evelyn, and two daughters, Lorraine, 10, and Sheila, 14, moved into a small $85-a-month home a week ago Tuesday.

The telephone in the home was not connected immediately. But their landlord, Joseph Platania, said that three days after they moved in he started getting telephone calls warning that if the "Negroes" did not move out quickly they would be beaten up or their house would be burned.

Platania said he received about 15 calls—in both male and female voices—during last Friday and Saturday.



The landlord said he thought it best to inform Delgado about the telephone calls. Delgado packed up his family and moved them back to the attic quarters with his father.

"They're fine people and I'd be glad to have them," the landlord said later.

TORONTO (CP) — Police Wednesday reported 'scaling a cache of $50,000 worth of postal money orders and stamps in western-central Toronto. They said it may be the loot from a score of post office robberies in the area the last few months.

Police said two revolvers also were found and that two men were being held for questioning. Sub-post offices in suburban North York and Scarborough were robbed in the last three months with an average loss in each of about $50,000.

Truck Piggyback Service Opened By Two Railways

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's two major railways announced the beginning Wednesday of the country's first piggyback service to haul truck trailers by flatcar between Montreal and Toronto.

Specially built flatcars will carry the trailers of Quebec and Ontario trucking concerns overnight between the two cities. The following morning the trailers will be transferred back to the highways.

Canadian National Railways and Canadian Pacific Railway officials say that piggyback combines the flexibility of trucks with the efficient mass movement of goods by rail. Trailers are handled at special piggyback terminals in Montreal and Toronto.

If the operation is a success, it will be extended to other points in Canada.

HOLDING MUNICIPAL OFFICE

"News Letter," published by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, reports that "at the annual meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada last July the young men appealed to the leaders of Canadian industry and business to give consideration to creating policies within their companies which would permit a higher percentage of qualified candidates to stand for municipal office in Canada."

That there should be any necessity for such an appeal is alarming. It means that one of two situations exists. Either companies at present seek to discourage their employees from participating actively in municipal politics in their spare time or municipal councils have permitted themselves to become so tangled in detail work that members can no longer discharge their responsibilities in their own time but can only serve on councils by leave of their employers.

The truth of the matter probably is that both these undesirable situations exist, but by no means to the same degree. There may be some firms which put obstacles in the path of those employees wishing to stand for council, school board or some other municipal body, but they are certainly in the minority. For every firm which acts in this manner, there is another which takes the opposite attitude and do exactly what the Junior Chamber of Commerce is requesting, "creating policies within their companies which would permit a higher percentage of qualified candidates to stand for municipal office." We know of at least one firm which practically permitted the president of the plant union to come and go as he liked, in order that he might serve as mayor of the city.

It is probable, though, that good management and frill-trimming might make it possible for a man or woman to fill the office of mayor of a small-sized city without needing to ask for many special favors from his or her employer. Certainly a thorough-going revision of municipal methods would make it possible for anyone to perform all the duties of an alderman in his or her spare time.

Frill-cutting is the first essential. There is no sound reason why the mayor of a city should be expected to attend every function held by every organization in the city. Nor should aldermen be expected to play similar tunes.

Councils would have to display self discipline, curbing debate so that the same points are not raised over and over again by different members, or even, as sometimes happens at present, by the same members on different occasions. Most important step would be to wipe out that tendency to procrastinate whenever it seems evident an amicable agreement is unlikely. Delays in reaching decisions breed bitterness more often than they result in compromises acceptable to all.

Council members would also have to refuse to become involved in details. They would have to ignore the possibility of lost votes and defend their decisions themselves with Joe Smith's sidewalk and Mrs. Jones' battered garbage can, referring the complaints to the proper municipal officials. They would have to permit paid municipal employees to carry on the work of administering the city's affairs within the framework of the policies laid down by council, and would have to insist that these paid employees attended to these details without bringing every problem to council as a whole or to some member of council.

Finally, councils would have to act as if being a member was a part-time job for men and women who had other full-time jobs. They would have to refuse to schedule meetings for mid-morning or mid-afternoon.

It could be done. But until it is done the number of candidates for municipal office will always be restricted to those who can devote time to municipal affairs without restrictions of any kind.

REAL COOL

Cigaret manufacturers will be delighted with a book by Dr. Julian Huxley, famous scientist, on "Biological Aspects of Cancer." All this talk about smoking being a possible cause of lung cancer has been concentrated against cigarets, with alternative methods of smoking escaping practically scot-free. Dr. Huxley, though, has proven that one of the cancers most prevalent in South-East Asia is found among persons who smoke cigars. Of course, they do have one little habit which may have a bearing on their susceptibility to cancer. They put the lighted ends of the cigars in their mouths.

THE BLIND HUSBAND

He loves his wife,
He gives her his pay,
Yet he lives his life
In a selfish way;
And he doesn't see
That she hungers more
For his company
Than his yellow store.

He is fond of her,
And he's not unkind,
But it doesn't occur
To him selfish mind

That she needs his arms
When he leaves her there.
And wants the charms
That his friends call fair.

She wants the smile
That his friends all know;
Not his golden pile
With its hollow show;
But since love began,
Let me write it down:
She wants the man
That is the downtown.

Letter To The Editor

Supports Writer's Views on College St.

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

In your issue I read the letter by Mr. J. N. McKibbon concerning College Street West. I am heartily agree with him. This road is a death trap for drivers and cars alike. Also in the winter time it is a common sight to see cars had in the ditch and half on the road.

It has been asked of the city council to put a cinder path on the city property for the protection of city children going to King George School and Quinte Secondary. Some of these children are only five years old. In the township, buses are supplied but in the city no provision whatever is given. Therefore these five-year-olds have to walk on the traffic side of the street. It is no side of the road.

When city council was asked to put a cinder path along College Street West it was said that would take it under consideration. But what's there to consider when children's lives are at stake?

It is my opinion that no citizen or taxpayer would object to the spending of a few hundred dollars for a cinder path. Say if it was going to be the means of saving our children from being killed or badly hurt.

I do not know the cause of the tragic accident which just this street then they and they alone would have to take the responsibility if any accidents to children occur while walking on this road.

Billboards Beautiful?

Denver Post

The continuing battle to keep billboards from fouling up the country's new 41,000-mile superhighway system has brought forth some fantastic inventions from the outdoor advertising industry. They show tell us "nature lovers" that they try to landscape their billboards to make them lovely — implying that a big sign showing a swine being signing a soft drink is actually an improvement on nature, which is doubtless true. Others try to make reference to "studies" . . . showing that a driver who gawps at billboard signs along the road is actually benefited in his driving. Still others claim the posters will "relieve traffic fatigue."

This is the sort of baloney we are bound to be subjected to until the battle is finally overcome.

Tru reason is pointed out by Printers' Ink magazine, Changing Times. The magazine notes that "a few big chiefs can see their billboards than ever on the highways, you are so right. Back in 1946, we spent about $44,700,000 putting up billboards. This year they're going to shell out than $200,000,000 for the same purpose. By the time the new superhighway system gets going—

Obviously the battle of the billboards is going to be a long, long siege. But it is going to require some comic genius to show that the advertisers have run out of reasonable arguments and they had to resort to such wacky nonsense as claiming they are artistic and beautifying qualities for their contributions to the landscape.

Owing to the absence of the magistrate the bench at the police court this morning was occupied by Mr. Lorne Marsh.

Mrs. A. G. Parker of Hamilton, formerly of this city, is spending a few days here with friends.

Mr. Walter Dobbs has returned to Montreal after visiting his parents here.

Miss Madeline Dumble has returned to New York City accompanied by her aunt, Miss L. Neilson.

Mr. John E. Thompson of Kingston is the guest of his father-in-law, Mr. David Price.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kelso of Kansas City are visiting friends here. Mr. Kelso is a former resident of Belleville and is 15 seventeen years since his last visit to the city.

Could Carry This Too Far

Vancouver Sun

American press comment on Sydney Smith's appointment as Canadian ambassador has been favorable. And Associated Press in the U.S. has been right for its readers the Canadian appointment with a comparison of Sydney Smith with John Foster Dulles.

Concluding paragraph in Associated Press dispatch on the appointment reads: "Like his American counterpart, John Foster Dulles, Smith is an enthusiastic trout fisherman and a lawyer by profession."

It is a universal human failing to find similarities between points of similarity. Thus some Americans may achieve a sense of satisfaction in endorsement of Dulles by an unconscious extension of the now-point likeness in the two statesmen.

Many Canadians, however, may think that any similarity between Dulles and Smith ends at the trout pond and a law degree.

Diefenbaker Likes Spuds

Montreal Star

It turns out that Prime Minister Diefenbaker's favorite dish is potatoes, and we hope this does not mean that he is fancy about it, that he likes them only baked, or scalloped, or au gratin, mashed, or hommade and so on. The real potato-lover just likes spuds in any form at all, and indeed we have heard of one such person who gladly eats them raw. But the person of our acquaintance goes for potato-peelings and says they make a real meal.

Mr. Diefenbaker follows a distinguished line of potato-fanciers. Sir Walter Scott, a noted writer, was invited to a prominent club by a member. He was very busy, but was introduced to many famous persons including William Dean Howells. When he sat down to dinner Howells asked who the stranger across from him was, and was told he was Lafcadio Hearn. Immediately he got up and went to take his hand. Lafcadio Hearn meant nothing to him, but Lafcadio Hearn meant much, and a friendship was there cemented.

It's what we do with the name that is given us at birth that counts much, but most often we owe something to make the name remembered. The name Edison meant something after he had invented successfully, the electric lamp. And the name Henry Ford became a household name after he had sold his Model T. The name Abraham Lincoln is one that is loved and reverenced increasingly over the years. We must never forget that we are in the name that we hold!

Big Lobster

Charlottetown Guardian

The world's record lobster, caught in deep water south of Boston in 1953, was more than three feet long and weighed forty-two and a half pounds. This giant may have survived for fifty years or more. New grounds recently discovered in deep water along the Continental Shelf run to large lobsters and if fishing in this area continues the survival record may soon be broken.

Did Argos Take This Tip?

Manchester Guardian

The keen debate among football fans in Africa last season as to whether or not team managers should employ the services of a witch doctor has been revived in a letter to the "African Weekly," in which a worried supporter of the Kumasi Ashanti Brodeis, makes out what seems to us to be an unanswerable case for such employment.

"I wonder (he writes) why the organizers of Ashanti soccer football at Darwendale do not want to look for witch doctors to give them magic to play football just as teams in big centres such as Salisbury do.

"They seem to depend on the skill and experience of their players alone but this will take them nowhere. They will continue to suffer terrible defeats.

"Let me narrate briefly a story why it is important to consult these clever old men who have here to help us even in football.

"There were three young men long ago who thought old men and women useless. So they decided to kill these aged fathers. One of them, however, thought he would not kill his father but ther in a cave.

"One day a snake came and coiled itself around the neck of the local chief, who had also killed his old father. He thought he could be found to kill the snake as stabbing it had the danger of killing him also. So he went to consult the witch doctor.

Atom-Power Locomotives

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Locomotives have changed so often over the years that interested observers may be excused if their attention must wonder what will be next. They won't have to wonder any longer, because Edward J. Kehoe, formerly of the United States Atomic Energy Commission, said in Buenos Aires that railways can have atomic engines in operation by 1965. Engineers, steamers, turbines and Diesels may be forgotten in the early part of the century, if Mr. Kehoe's prophecy comes true.

The president of Mr. Kehoe, who is staff assistant to the manager of the Albuquerque, N.M., operations of Tracerlab Industries, was included in a speech made before the Pan American Railway Congress. He said that the first atomic locomotive will be a curiosity and probably would be unable to compete with Diesels in operation. But he said that by 1970, atomic rail engines should be able to justify their existence economically through high speed and better service and thus be competitive with Diesels.

As all obstacles in previous rail way locomotive development have been surpassed there is no reason to believe that they won't happen again. Thus speed on tracks may get closer to airlines' speed and cheaper than those of the older large-scale land transportation medium in the world.

High Cost Of Repairs

Hamilton Spectator

New carpeting is being laid in the House of Parliament. The wool-willon about half an inch thick — at a total cost of $10,-526.

We are glad about this. Not only should both Houses of Parliament be decently furnished but our senators, who rarely indulge in the sound and fury of the Lower House, particularly need surroundings conducive to comfort. And then, the old carpeting in the Senate has been there thirty years or more and in the nature of things must have been quite shabby.

The breakdown of the total cost is interesting. The carpeting itself is to cost $7,000 and there is $1,048 for a rubber underpad and $1,275 for installation.

Most readers are pretty forcibly about these figures is their proportions. Obviously it costs more to lay a yard of carpet than it does to pay for a yard of rubber underpad—almost seven per cent more, in fact.

And then, it costs nearly as much to lay six yards of carpet as it does to pay for one yard.

We have never been able to see a lot of awkward turns in the Senate that a carpet-layer has to negotiate, but, taking the rough with the smooth this works out at more than 21 cents a square foot.

It is this service-in-relation-to-cost-of-material ratio that makes many people throw away $100's piece of equipment that is repairable and purchase a replacement rather than pay the cost of labor involved in repairing.

It Is Difficult To Convince Doctors

Editor, Ontario Intelligencer.

Dear Sir:

In your issue of October 1st. you have a letter from Mrs. Ethel Hall, Wellington, Ont., in which she tells of the birth of her baby without an anesthetic, please. It seems to be very difficult to convince doctors that one prefers childbirth without an anesthetic. Not that the anesthetic bill, $15 and up, has anything to do with it."

I am a member of the booby class show her ignorance by sounding off about this. It may be well to remind readers that in natural childbirth, the method popularized by Dr. Grantly Dick Read, an anesthetic is always ready for instant use whenever the patient wants it. Generally the patient does not want it, but it is there just in case.

Dr. Read's book that has sparked the popularization of natural childbirth is available at the public library or at any bookstore. Title of the book is Childbirth Without Fear. Published by Harper Bros. It is good reading for young prospective parents, whether they go for natural childbirth or not.

What Mrs. P. W. H. says about hospital versus home delivery expresses every prospective mother. She doesn't say that the baby born in the hospital was born in natural childbirth or without an anesthetic, but apparently that's the way she delivered. It is based on experience.

One smart young woman, probably bright before a student labor pain, delivered me for advocating home delivery and asked me just what pray, I'd do if this, that or the other complication occurred in the course of childbirth, at hand. She mentioned so many possibilities that I was a little frightened for a moment. But then I remembered that in the few instances such complications had occurred in my experience or knowledge I had made no difference whether it was at home or in the hospital. That may have been something to consider in the nineteenth century. It is of no importance in these days of quick and easy transportation. We anyway not enough to weigh against the hazards of hospital delivery.

Let no one presume that I would withhold anesthesia in childbirth. On the contrary, anesthesia to the obstetrical case was routine in my hospital and private practice before I ever heard of natural childbirth. By "obstetric stage" I mean just enough to take the edge off the labor pains, yet not enough to make the patient unconscious. Under such anesthesia the patient settles down and soon gets it over with.

In short, it is difficult to convince some doctors about these things. Especially if you insist on patients going to the hospital for confinement. With the patient so isolated from home days go off to the ball game or go home to work, and friends and interest will take care of the patient if the baby arrives before the doctor who knows whether he was there or not? The fee will be the same in any case.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A CONFIDENCE GAME

In his memoirs, Vincent Shean tells how as a college student he deliberately took any courses. "It was a kind of confidence game," he wrote of his early college days, "of which the victim was, of course, myself."

Many of us could truthfully describe ourselves as our own victims. To say that a man is his own worst enemy may be a trite remark, but it has become trite largely because there are always so many people to whom it can be truthfully applied.

Take, for example, the matter of food. How often people complain that they don't have time to eat well. They rush, rush, rush, spend with their families, and so on. "If there only were more than twenty-four hours in a day!" they say sadly. But watch how many of those hours they waste in coffee breaks, in abbreviated snatches of a magazine, in aimless gossip with some other supposedly busy person.

Or consider the problem of between-meal eating. What wouldn't give," someone sighs, "to lose twenty pounds?" But what actually will he give, or rather, give up? Probably nothing — he will just right on eating meals, between-meal snacks, and fattening foods.

Take your problems. Of how many are you yourself the chief cause? Remember, you can stop losing your own victim any time you have the will to want to do so!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the restaurant at noon, a man and three girls had the cubicle next to us. They had a birthday party for a staff. One of the girls had the infectious laugh that will be remembered for a year in the annals of laughter. But rising above all this merry din was the sound which in less than a minute had us smiling and relaxed, turning our heads to cast smiling glances in her direction. As a matter of fact, the lights in the room seemed to grow brighter. There was a rather different greenery-effect in paint on the restaurant walls. And so help me, as the laughter rippled through the air, a pleasant golden tone. In our cubicle, we were all grinning cheerfully at one another, and more than one of us remarked that we wished we were in on the joke, whatever it was.

Then I noticed that the people adjoining cubicles and at tables some distance away were all grinning, too. Obviously people were looking at one another with amused and happy faces. This girl, I said to my companion, is like a sort of Fred Astaire. She is putting a spell on us.

I caught the eye of a man grinning broadly at a table across from us. He gave a barely perceptible nod, as if to say I don't mind me. In a cubicle back of me sat a man and three middle-aged women. Their sour pusses I never beheld. Their mouths were set in expressions of disapproval. Their eyes were cold with distaste. They eyed the merriment of happy sound with open repugnance. They were not happy and not obscene, perhaps even a blasphemous sound.

A quick glance about me assured me that as many were smiling and laughing at the four pusses as were infected by the happy girl.

There is little sympathy anymore with the woebegone.

Richard Carle of the Boulder laboratory of the national bureau of standards in Colorado, says that plots made at the laboratory showed the Moscow moon to be slowing down and has slowed at the moment to one revolution every seven and a half seconds. Previously the rate of spin had been calculated at one revolution every three seconds. Dr. Shapley said this indicated the globe would eventually drop back into the ionosphere. He gave the satellite a month of existence before it swings back towards earth and burns up as does a meteorite.

Army Changes Coming Says Globe and Mail

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says changes in Canada's militia and regular army are planned next year to meet requirements of a short atomic war.

It says:

"Militia camps as known in the past will disappear and militiamen will attend training with the regular army in June, informed observers state.

"The militia will be organized to operate largely in a civil defence role and will provide highly trained mobile flying columns in future air raids. The regular army will be reorganized to operate on a brigade rather than a divisional scale."

Nasty Remark Made on Talks Says Paper

TORONTO (CP) — The Star says in a Washington dispatch U.S. Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks told reporters at the conclusion of the U.S.-Canadian trade conference Tuesday: "We fixed 'em."

The story, by staff correspondent Harold Greer, says Mr. Weeks made the remarks in a reception room as he left the conference and that he obviously thought the waiting reporters were Americans while actually they were Canadians.

"That's not for attribution, of course," Mr. Weeks was said to have added.

Mrs. B. Simmons New President Of Scout Group

TRENTON (Special) — Mrs. Bernice Simmons was elected the new president of the Third Trenton Scout Group Ladies Auxiliary at the meeting of the group Tuesday evening. The meeting, which took place in the Orange Hall, was opened by Mrs. Ken Shoniker, the retiring president.

Gordon Simmons, one of the Trenton Scouts who attended the World Jamboree in Sutton Coldfield, described his visit to England. Gordon, who is one of the sons of Mr. and Mrs. P. Simmons, plans to make scouting his career. He described how he stayed with an uncle and aunt in Devon, England, and how he and the other boys visited Buckingham Palace, and watched the changing of the Guard.

Gordon also described the camp at Sutton Coldfield, and the various personalities seen by the boys in England, including the Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh, the Duke of Gloucester, Lord Rowallan and Lady Baden Powell, widow of the founder of scouting, and herself chief Guide. The boys in Gordon's group were on British television.

Mrs. Shoniker thanked Gordon for his interesting talk, and the members then asked him questions.

The possibility of having a bake at a stall on Trenton market was then discussed by members, also the question of catering for a Christmas party. The president mentioned that Scout Apple Day was soon coming up, and asked for, and received two lady volunteers to polish apples for the day.

The president thanked all the ladies who were expecially Mrs. P. Reed, secretary and Mrs. L. Fowens, treasurer for the great help that they had been to her in her year of office.

The officers were then elected as follows, Mrs. P. Simmons, president; Mrs. F. Wessels, vice-president; Mrs. P. Reed, re-elected as secretary; Mrs. M. Burford, treasurer, Mrs. A. Pollock, visiting convener, Mrs. D. Cretney, social convener, Mrs. M. Reynolds and Mrs. E. Fowens, joint program conveners and Mrs. M. Marchese, press reporter.

Mrs. M. Bays suggested during the meeting that it would be a good idea if members were to bring some sewing or smocking to work on during future meetings, as then they would be making a growing stock of articles for the forthcoming Fall sale and tea. Mrs. S. Collar, a new member entered the Australia for the first time on Tuesday evening.

Police Requested To Probe Report Says Telegram

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Telegram says the RCMP has been asked to investigate reports a mysterious three-man delegation from the Kadar government in Budapest is in Toronto making "travel arrangements" for Hungarian refugees who wish to return home.

The newspaper says the department of external affairs and the department of citizenship and immigration have no record of the entry into Canada of such a team.

It reports Hungarian leaders in Toronto have expressed concern and fear a "come-home" campaign by the Kadar regime.

Winner of Car Will Not Learn to Drive

"I don't drive, and I'm not going to learn" was the immediate reaction of Mrs J. A. "Pat" Matthews, 17 First Street, after learning that she had won a new 1958 car in the Loblaw product picture game. Thrilled, however, at being a winner, Mrs. Matthew is shown with her husband and daughter "Pat".

Trade Talks Reassuring Says N.Y. Times

NEW YORK (CP)—The Times says the recent trade talks between Canadian and U.S. officials in Washington apparently were "at least reasonably reassuring to both sides."

"The issue of America's 'exploitation' of Canada's natural resources by the United States investors has been raised in Canada chiefly at the political level," The Times says.

"But one gathers from the statement" issued following the meetings of the joint U.S.-Canadian committee on trade and economic affairs "that, whether these apprehensions are genuine or not, they are not shared by the present Canadian government which has no intention of taking any steps to curb the inflow of American dollars."

The Times adds:

"Basically more important, perhaps, than any of the . . . individual issues is the fact . . . that the delegates from both countries were in agreement on general domestic economic policies such as economic expansion coupled with stability and with the principles of international trade embodied in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade."

Mrs. J.A. 'Snipe' Matthews Wins Car in Loblaw Contest

A young Belleville mother, who came to Canada 11 years ago from England with her soldier husband, is the proud owner of a new 1958 Chevrolet car, the first of 12 cars offered as prizes in the big prizes Housing for their product picture game.

But young mother doesn't receive zed at the moment says the has no intention of learning.

"I still don't believe it," Mrs. J. A. Matthews, 17 First Street, shared yesterday after she and her husband had confirmation of their win from Loblaw in Toronto.

Mrs. Matthews operates a coffee bar and lunch counter in the market square which scales buildings, while her husband, popularly known as "Snipe" Matthews, is the assistant vendor of the Ontario Farmers Co-operative Central Board store on Bridge St. They have one daughter, Pat, age 12, going at Queen Elizabeth public school.

Although quite certain they had a winner when they sent in their contest card, Mr. and Mrs. Matthews were not confident the ropes until they received confirmation from them Mrs. Matthews said she could hardly believe their good fortune.

ALREADY OWN CAR

Although owners of a 1952 model auto, the Matthews yesterday were not decided what they would do with the new car.

"If we sold it there would be a thousand and one places where we could use the money," Mr. Matthews said. "For one thing we would like to have a new oil furnace."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Matthews are sports lovers and are big boosters for the Belleville McFarland hockey club. Mr. Matthews helped to organize the hockey "booster club" and acts on the club's executive.

He is a veteran of the Second World War, having served overseas with the 32nd-34th Battery.

He met his wife in England and brought her to Canada following the war.

Washington Sees Khrushchev Not Eager for Pact

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials see no present possibility of practical agreements between Russia and the West on major world issues such as international control of space satellites.

They feel that Soviet Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev is not seriously interested in reaching any such agreement at this time.

This estimate of Khrushchev manoeuvres in foreign affairs is based primarily on an assessment of State Secretary Dulles' talk here last Saturday with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

It also is described as taking into account the positive purposes of Khrushchev's apparently well planned diplomatic offensive in connection with the launching of the earth satellite.

In the U.S. view he is seeking simultaneously to impress the world with Russia's scientific progress and military power, and to promote the Russian propaganda line that the Soviet Union is actively seeking peaceful settlements with its power rival, the United States.

The Dulles-Gromyko conversation impressed Dulles and other officials chiefly by demonstrating that they are from the "inflexibility" of Soviet policy on the disarmament problems talked about. These were mainly the Middle East, disarmament and the European situation.

Gromyko, according to authoritative information, gave no confirmation of any Kremlin willingness to change position on any of these subjects.

Since the Moscow announcement of the satellite launching last Friday, Khrushchev has made a number of public statements. He has alternately taken a tough line emphasizing the strength of Soviet arms and insisting on stressing his contention that Russia is trying to gain U.S. acceptance of peaceful coexistence.

He has called for direct understandings between Washington and Moscow.

WILL NOT JOIN

President Eisenhower made clear at a press conference Wednesday that the United States has no intention of joining with Russia in any "attempt to dictate to the world."

Dulles told reporters that there would be no bilateral talks with Russia—talks from which Agencie's Allies would be excluded.

That policy, it appears, may have been a factor in what Khrushchev called this week a

Liberals Will Not Enter Candidate in By-Election

MARMORA (Staff) — Liberals in the riding of Hastings - Frontenac have decided not to contest the Nov. 4 by-election made vacant by the resignation of Geo. S. White, who since has been appointed to the Senate.

Rumors to this effect had been heard earlier but it was made official at Marmora Wednesday afternoon as executive members of the riding Liberal organization met and decided not to name a candidate.

It is expected that Dr. Sidney Smith, former president of Toronto University and now named as External Affairs Minister, may receive an acclamation. Conservatives are holding a nomination meeting today at Madoc and it is almost a certainty that Dr. Smith will receive the nomination.

So far nothing has been heard whether the CCF or Social Credit would enter a candidate.

Although deciding not to enter a candidate against Dr. Smith in the by-election, Liberals at Marmora yesterday gave notice that they would prepare early for the next general election. They will call a riding convention on June 28th at Marmora to elect new riding officers and to name a candidate to contest the next general election whenever this may be.

Yesterday's meeting was presided over by the Liberal Association President, Frank Andrews of Norwood.

HAVELOCK, Ont. (CP) — Cecil Jenkins, defeated Social Credit candidate in the June 10 federal election, said today that as far as he knows his party will not contest the Nov. 4 by-election in Hastings-Frontenac.

However, Jenkins said he has received no word from Social Credit party headquarters.

HELICOPTER HUNTS BLIND RIVER AREA FOR TWO KILLERS

Walter Bridges, manager of the Royal Bank branch in Blind River, Ont., was shot and killed during the robbery of his bank by two masked men. His murder has started the biggest manhunt in the Ontario northland in years with provincial police from all surrounding areas called to participate. After the attempted robbery the gunmen's car refused to start and they ran up and down the main street firing a rifle and 4 pistol. A helicopter was despatched to facilitate the search in the rugged bush country.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Royall, 36 Chatham Street, Belleville, wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Elizabeth, to Joseph Paul Ryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ryan, Belleville. The Marriage to take place on Saturday, November 9, at 10 a.m. in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel.

• • •

Miss Barbara Boyle, who has been holidaying at her home, Trent Road, has left for a six weeks' vacation, visiting Texas, Mexico and California, then returning to Calgary where she will reside.

• • •

Dr. John Burrows, of Jacksonville, Florida, is the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Burrows, 111 Hastings Drive.

Mr., Mrs. J. Lott Mark Golden Anniversary

On Tuesday afternoon and evening, Mr. and Mrs. John Lott, 97 Donald Street, were 'at home' to their relatives and friends on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary. Lovely potted chrysanthemums adorned the rooms, sent by Mrs. Lott's former S.S. teacher, Miss F. Hitchon.

The guests were received by the hostess who was attired in a cream lustre gown, with shoulder corsage of yellow roses.

The tea table was attractively appointed with white linen damask accented by green border, a gift from a cousin in the United States. The hostess, herself, presided at the silver tea service, and the serving was done by a number of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Lott were married in Peterborough Baptist Church by the Reverend J. Welsh, on a beautiful sunny October day much like Tuesday of this week, said the bride of 50 years. She was the former Miss Alice Genora Spratt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Spratt, of Devonshire, England, and Mr. Lott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alford Lott, of Plainfield.

After the wedding ceremony, the bride and bridegroom came to their own home in Belleville, where they resided for some time, later moving to Peterborough where they lived for seven years on Gladstone Avenue.

Mr. Lott works for himself as teamster. His hobby is fishing, and he is never happier than when hauling the finny prey from the water. Mrs. Lott, herself, is also a follower of Izaak Walton, besides being adept in such fancy work as crochet, and also top-notch in confectionery.

They were the recipients of a lovely, gold monogrammed Holy Bible, presented on behalf of the members of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, by the Reverend L. Keith Daniel. Other gifts included a pair of gold wall sconces, which had come from England, presented by Mr. and Mrs. Price, as well as a number of beautiful cards of congratulation bearing best wishes for the future.

Mr. and Mrs. Lott have no children.

The citizens also extend to Mr. and Mrs. Lott kind wishes for their diamond anniversary together.

FIFTH VICTIM DIES

RENFREW (CP) — John Andrew Mosco, 37, died Monday the fifth victim of an explosion of a pot of molten metal Sept. 26 at the Dominion Magnesium Mine at Haley, 12 miles northwest of this Ottawa Valley town. Four fellow employees died the day of the accident. A sixth man is reported out of danger.

Leopard spots are definitely a grand touch for the smart clothes of the season and they don't have to come right off the back of that feline. Now, in a humane way, they are reproduced in materials to give the same effect in silks and other fabrics.

For instance, this handsome silk scarf is done in a boldly patterned leopard print. It is shown tied in a capelet collar on a simple jersey dress but it is equally dramatic as a fill-in inside the neckline of a suit.

Wedding

BEDORE — WHITEMAN

A very pretty fall wedding took place on Saturday, September 21st, at 10.00 a.m. at the home of the Reverend W. P. Healey, P.P., Cooper, Ontario, when Wilma Winnifred Whiteman, of Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Whiteman, became the bride of Leo John Bedore, of Marmora, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dermont Bedore. The double-ring ceremony was solemnized before a background of autumn flowers.

The bride was charming in a waltz-length bridal gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta, with coronet headdress and fingertip veil of tulle illusion and carrying a bouquet of red roses mingled with white baby mums.

Mrs. William Argue, of Toronto, attended the bride as matron of honor, wearing pink lace over nylon, with matching headdress, and carrying a bouquet of white mums.

Mr. Douglas Bedore, of Marmora, was groomsman for his brother.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home, where the bride's table was appointed with white damask, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake, flanked by white candles in silver candelabra.

The bride's mother was attired in pale blue with pink accessories, and corsage of white mums. She was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in turquoise viscose with navy accessories and corsage of roses.

For travelling to Owen Sound where Mr. and Mrs. Bedore will reside, the bride chose a blue wool suit with matching accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

Previous to her marriage the bride entertained at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Fred Bailey, of Cooper, and Mrs. Ted Bedore, of Marmora.

Contact Club Plans Peanut Campaign

Monday night's regular meeting brought out many members of Contact Club to participate in the work projects, which included layette work and the Moose Factory parcel.

Vice-president, Helen McCormick was in charge of the meeting. Secretary Doris Stewart read the minutes, roll call and correspondence, and treasurer Mickey Lake gave the present financial standing.

A letter was read outlining the needs for the new Sunday School addition, as suggested by the properties committee and members voted to buy the curtains for the new stage. This will be financed from the proceeds of the peanut campaign, which is now in progress. Prizes were established for the attractive parcels and conveners Marjory Bunnett, and Margaret Niles, later distributed samples to the members to be used for taking orders.

Margaret Shappee and Mary Rompen displayed samples of toys which could be purchased to be included in the Christmas parcel for the Moose Factory Indian Residential School and asked for other donations of good used toys, games and books. A sum was voted to further the purchases for this project.

It was announced that the next meeting will be cancelled, due to the holiday, but the following Monday will be spent working on the Christmas parcel.

Mr., Mrs. Harry Smith Celebrate Twenty-Fifth Wedding Anniv.

STIRLING — On Monday afternoon some 50 neighbors, friends, and relatives, tendered Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith, Church Street, a delightful party on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

The party was sponsored by Mrs. John Smith, who received the guests. She was assisted in serving the refreshments by Mrs. Fred Houskie, Mrs. M. Malloy, and Mrs. Richard Hewton.

The rooms were decorated with silver baskets of asters and 'mums and pink and white streamers with matching wedding bells.

The dining table was covered with a cut-work cloth and centred with the three-tiered anniversary cake suitably decorated for this auspicious occasion. The cake was flanked by tall pink candles. In this room the various gifts were displayed on the buffet, which consisted of electrical appliances, costume jewellery, carpeting and, an assortment of useful articles. There were also numerous congratulatory cards on display.

The living room table was covered with a lace cloth, tall pink lighted tapers set in silver and a low bowl of pink asters.

Numerous flash pictures were taken during the afternoon as a memento of the occasion.

ADDRESS READ

Mrs. Richard Hewton read an appreciative address on behalf of the neighbors and Mr. and Mrs. Smith were the recipients of a pair of bassocks in grey brocade, for which grateful thanks were expressed by the bride of 25 years.

Mrs. Smith and her daughter-in-law each wore lovely corsages, the gifts of a neighbor from her garden.

The guests included: the Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Secker, of St. John's Anglican church.

That evening a family dinner party was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were married October 9th, 1932, and the bride said it was a lovely day and she didn't need a coat with her bridal gown and hat. They have one son, John, and one granddaughter.

Stirling friends extend greetings at this time.

Queen to See Fall Finery During Visit

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — There'll be autumn leaves and fall flowers outside the Queen's windows during her stay at Government House.

The royal suite which Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will occupy during their four-day visit here overlooks lawns, gardens and trees on the 88-acre estate.

There still are fall flowers—purple, white and red—banking the stately limestone mansion. And at Government House, as elsewhere in the capital and surrounding country, maples, oaks and other hardwoods now sport their fall finery.

The royal visit, which begins Saturday, will mark the second time the royal couple have been in Ottawa in October and have occupied the royal suite.

VISITED SIX YEARS AGO

The first time was six years ago, when the couple, as Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, visited the capital as part of a Canadian tour.

The suite itself, on the second floor of the two-storey building, includes a main bedroom, sitting room, smaller bedroom and two bathrooms.

The furniture—a combination of small chairs and deep cosy lounge - chairs—is painted a cream color. The window drapes are chintz and the pattern is in a predominately maroon shade.

A wide fireplace, small table lamps and Canadian paintings complete the main bedroom. Decorations for the sitting room and small bedroom are similar to the large bedroom.

LONG EXPERIENCE

TORONTO (CP) — When 94-year-old Richard Toomath walked down the aisle of St. John's Anglican church to give his daughter Sylvia Jean in marriage, he was making the trip for the 14th time. The bride is the youngest of his 25 children, the 14th of 15 girls to be married.

B.G.H. Alumnae Welcomes New Graduates

The Alumnae of the Belleville General Hospital held its monthly meeting Tuesday evening in the lounge of the Ritchie Memorial Residence.

There was a large representation of members present. The alumnae was particularly happy to welcome the new graduates of the class of '59 into the group.

It was learned during the business session that many of the members had turned in their talent money to the alumnae fund. Some of the methods utilized in order to raise the talent money proved to be both ingenious and hilarious.

Following the business session, a demonstration of the latest inhalation equipment used in the Belleville General Hospital was given.

After the meeting closed, refreshments were served by Mrs. Bessie Bonter and Mrs. Mary McCreary.

SONS PLAN GOLDEN WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

"We've invoked 'sons are we' — and 50's are having a grand time making plans for the celebration of the Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary of our mother and father. (We are their only children.) The official anniversary date is Friday, November 1] but we are following your advice you gave in a reader recently, and having the Open House on the following Sunday, November 24. Since Mother is hot too strong these days, we have decided to limit the hours for the Open House to between 2 and 6 o'clock. Our first concern is ordering the invitations, which we would like to have in good form and good taste and interesting as mementos of this significant occasion. So what do you suggest. Mrs. Beeck- [illegible] And may we send you [illegible] (questions later?) Thank you for any suggestions. — Six Brothers

Salutations to "six devoted sons"! I'd like to have you highlight this event-to-fact dramatically in the invitations. So I suggest this form:

A Thanksgiving Dinner Fit For A Queen

By Mary Moore

The mouth-watering duty of giving a Thanksgiving dinner; menu that you cannot wait to prepare is mine, right now.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY (Guests)

Melon—Ball Fruit Cup; Chicken Tetrazzini (see Wednesday); Hot Whole Wheat Rolls; Tossed Salad; Prize Red Chocolate Layer Cake; Coffee.

SUNDAY

Roast Prime Ribs of Beef with Horseradish Gravy; Stuffed Baked Potatoes; Whole Carrots with Parsley Cream Sauce; Green Salad: Pepper Rings, Lettuce, Spinach, with Herb French Dressing; Chocolate Angel Food Cake with Raspberry and Lime Sherbet (1 scoop of each); Coffee.

When I think of that luscious first slice Pete is going to carve into on one of Barb's prize Emperor turkeys and the custardy pumpkin pie with whipped cream around a spoonful of hot-spiced fruit, I wonder I don't weigh a ton.

With the Queen eating her Thanksgiving dinner on Canadian soil with us it is only right and proper we should compete with those top-ranking chefs who are preparing the royal feast. See how this appeals to you.

THANKSGIVING DINNER MENU

Hot broiled Grapefruit Halves with Maraschino Juice
Roast Turkey with Mushroom and Celery Stuffing
Giblet Gravy,
Fluffy Mashed Potatoes
Broccoli with Lemon - Herb Butter
Relish Tray: Individual Cranberry Jelly Moulds, Ripe Olives, Carrot Curls, Celery Hearts, Chunk Pickles.
Custard Pumpkin Pie with Whipped Cream and Liquid Honey.
Salted Nuts.
Coffee.

Without giving you 2 or 3 recipes in detail I will give you quick directions for preparing all of the items that may not be familiar.

To Broil the Grapefruit Halves remove seeds and with grapefruit knife cut membrane loose from inner skin. With scissors remove centre. Sprinkle with brown or maple sugar sparingly and broil slowly until heated through and tinged with brown. Add a little maraschino cherry juice and serve hot.

To Make the Mushroom and Celery Stuffing ask one of the children to pull apart or dice finely 1 average-sized loaf of bread. Gently melt 2/3 cup butter or margarine or chicken or turkey fat in a gently sauté 2 cups each chopped celery and sliced mushrooms, 1/4 cup chopped onion, 1 teaspoon rosemary crumbled, 2 teaspoons salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, until vegetables are limp. Then mix with prepared crumbs and stuff into turkey.

To prepare the Lemon - Herb Butter for the Broccoli in a small saucepan melt 1/4 cup butter or margarine, then remove from heat and stir in 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice and 1/2 teaspoon dried basil. Pour over broccoli.

CUSTARD PUMPKIN PIE

Sift together 1/2 teaspoon salt, 3/4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/2 teaspoon ginger, then mix them into 2 large beaten eggs. Add to that 1 2/3 cups whole milk and 1/2 cup cream or evaporated milk and 1 1/2 cups mashed cooked or canned pumpkin. Pour into deep pastry-lined 9-inch pie plate with high fluted crust edge. Bake at 450 deg. F. for 10 minutes; reduce heat to 325 deg. and bake 35 minutes longer or until centre is set. Pie should be cooled to room temperature to cut neatly. Serve each piece with a spoonful of unsweetened whipped cream over which spoon a small pool of liquid honey.

When you give thanks remember to count your blessings.

DON'T PANIC

If the contents of a frying pan catch fire turn off the heat and cover the pan quickly — dashing water on it merely spreads the flame.

Women's Institute

RYLSTONE W. I.

RYLSTONE — On Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Stanley Kerr, president, was hostess to the Rylstone Women's Institute. Sixteen members and several visitors were present.

An item of interest to the ladies was the presence of one of the original members of the Rylstone Women's Institute, Mrs. Fred W. Barnum, who the day before had celebrated her golden wedding anniversary. Mrs. Barnum has always been a Rylstone resident, as she was born on the Twelfth Line, and attended Rylstone Church and Sunday school.

She came to her present home as a bride 50 years ago, and has always had a keen interest in all the affairs of the community, having been both president and secretary-treasurer of the Rylstone Institute during her 33 years of membership.

Mrs. Barnum was called on for a few words of reminiscence of her wedding day and told of several interesting incidents and comparisons of weddings in those days and in modern times. She also thanked the members for the bouquet of bronze 'mums given to her by the Institute and also thanked anyone who had contributed to the two chairs and hassock which the communities of Petherick's Corners and Rylstone had given her and her husband.

In closing, Mrs. Barnum said she hoped she would be able to attend the Institute meetings for many years to come, as the W.I. and W.A. of the church were both dear to her heart. She was warmly applauded and wished again many more happy years of wedded life.

The topic of the day, "Whole some Homes are Stepping Stones to a Good Country" was given by Mrs. Wilfred Spencer; a reading "Poor Husbands," was given by Mrs. Minnie Petherick and Mrs. Charles Stewart gave a reading "Grandpa's Wind-Mill."

Mrs. Percy Reid conducted a contest "Jack of All Games."

Mrs. Stanley Kerr was elected to be delegate to the Institute area convention to be held in Belleville later this month. Refreshments were served by the hostess and the lunch committee.

Decorating Ideas

by DORIS LOVE

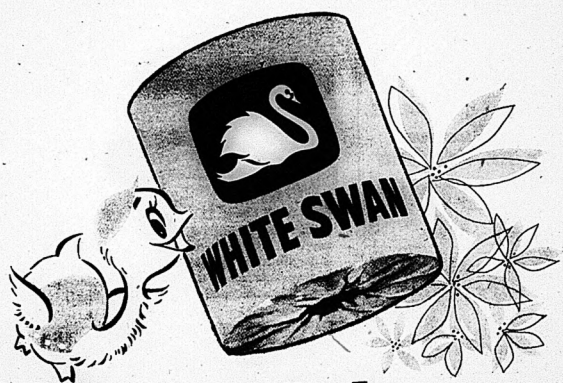
Well known Canadian Colour Consultant

We live in an age of colour . . . coloured fabrics, coloured tile, coloured walls, coloured floors, coloured counters and coloured accessories. It isn't just by chance that a pleasing colour creation evolves but it is often the "accent" colour which controls the colour attempt of the room.

For instance in the modern bathroom, with its considerable counter space, to incorporate in the plan, if it is brilliantly coloured pumpkin, peacock, or perhaps coral, it would be wise to select draperies, shower curtain, towels and tissue in a softly contrasting colour. For instance, Colour-Styled White Swan Tissue in Sea Spray Green goes beautifully with pumpkin . . . delicate Dawn Pink Tissue is exquisite with peacock tones . . . and Azure Blue Tissue is a wonderful accent for coral. Now, if your counter top is linen-textured, choose a definite colour like Marigold Yellow White Swan Tissue. It will blend with any tiling and fixture colour—and it's so very gay looking.

Marble topped tables and counters . . . are very popular these days. If you have such an area in your bathroom, feature its colouring by introducing Sea Spray Green or Dawn Pink tissue.

"Bright" is right for fall . . . Don't reserve your "extra" decorating touches for guests or the monthly bridge club. Let the entire family enjoy interesting colour accents every day of the week—bright towels and tissue to add that individual touch which every bathroom needs. White Swan Dawn Pink and Marigold tissues are so warm, cheerful decorative colours for this time of year.



The cost of living is up . . . no one needs to tell the housemaker. Naturally you're watching for happy shortcuts to protect your shopping budget. Why not consider coloured tissue for a dainty cleansing tissue, for blotting lipstick, for general cosmetic use in the bathroom?

And of course . . . no hostess can afford to be without White Swan serviettes. They're really wonderful—firm, in spacious size, and excellently patterned. Whether it's one or two ply, white or coloured, White Swan serviettes are a shopping bargain.

A handy travelling companion . . . White Swan towels go travelling because so many people have found them invaluable in a car—wiping off headlights and muddy windshields; for cleaning shoes or drying hands. If you haven't a roll of White Swan now—toss one in the car—you won't want to be without it! This is merely one more use to be added to the many uses for White Swan Towels in the home.

White Swan Paper Products, towels, tissue and serviettes are an essential commodity for daily comfort. They're practical, decorative and economical. In fact, no modern housekeeper should be without these fine products.

4 beautiful pastel shades to blend or contrast pleasingly with every bathroom

Newest colour idea for your bathroom—Colour-Styled White Swan Tissue. Each exciting shade colour-keyed to your favourite bathroom colour scheme by Doris Love, well-known Canadian Colour Consultant.

What's more Colour-Styled White Swan is gentle-textured . . . soft, yet amazingly strong and absorbent. Next time you're shopping choose the Colour-Styled White Swan that harmonizes best with your bathroom. It's your best colour tissue buy—by far!

marigold yellow
The sunniest colour possible . . . splendid with cocoa, green, turquoise and plum. In fact, Marigold Yellow is beautifully adaptable to any colour scheme you can imagine.

azure blue
Accents white beautifully and is a perennial choice with the new apricot, melon and honey tones. Select Azure Blue White Swan for sophisticated colour treatment that are different looking.

sea spray green is as free of decorating limitations as the ocean itself. Combine it cleverly with deep green and lilac or gold and cocoa. Sea Spray Green is the most refreshing colour possible.

dawn pink
Always favourite—especially with contrasting backgrounds, as wedgwood blue, aqua, misty gray and charcoal. Dawn Pink White Swan is dainty, pastel and in keeping with attractive modern colours.

sparkling white
a beautiful accent in any bathroom. Sparkling White is always a favourite and complements any colour scheme.

This particular material is similar to broadtail but is weightless and very supple. Jet buttons, little patch pockets and a black satin bow underscore the drama of

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Eunice B. — Gerald doesn't care about the sacrifices made for him.

Gerald B. — I do realize — I'll make it up to her.

* * *

Eunice B. — My husband and I made a very foolish, very early marriage. We would have split up after a few months, but a baby was on the way and we decided to stick together for the child's sake.

We were so miserable together that we talked divorce many times in the ensuing years, but I always managed to keep the home together. My husband went his own way, but I devoted myself entirely to bringing up our son, Gerald.

We have been told he is a gifted boy. His teachers predict a wonderful future for him in the scientific field. He already has a job offer for when he gets out of college next year, but he had planned to go on to professional studies.

I say "had planned" because now, at the age of 20, Gerald wants to marry. This will be the end of all his big plans because he'll have to go into the service and then to work.

It does no good to talk to him about the mistake of our own early marriage and the enormous sacrifices made for him. He doesn't seem to care about everything he is giving up. How can he be made to understand?

* * *

Gerald B. — Mother doesn't realize how much it hurts me to have to disappoint her. I understand all about the sacrifices made for me and I know how much she looked forward to seeing all her dreams for me come true. What she doesn't realize is that I don't have to give up "everything" in order to get married.

Jean and I know we can do what countless other young couples do today. She can work while I study and work part time. Mother says that's no good, it can't work out, etc., but we don't see why not. Of course, it will take longer, but it is worth it in order to be married and with the one you love.

Mother won't believe me, but I feel sure I wouldn't be able to work as well without Jean. Mother thinks marriage is distracting, but I think it's more distracting to be single.

The way I see it, Mother is afraid to be left alone when I am married. She denies this, but I know how she feels. She sees very little of Dad and she has no friends, no real interests outside of me. Jean and I would do everything to make it up to her and not let her be lonely.

* * *

The Council: Eunice weakens the validity of her argument against early marriage by the recital of the sacrifices she has made for Gerald. She shows she expects him to make up to her for all her frustration. She would hate to be charged with selfish love, but there is no other word for it.

Eunice should try to recognize that her "sacrifice" was not a real one — only a gesture. If two people agree to remain together "for the sake of a child," they must do more than live under one roof together. They must work to create an atmosphere of love in which a child can grow into his own individuality — without the sense of having to fulfill his parents' needs.

The question of whether or not Gerald should marry at this time is entirely separate from the background his mother describes. If Gerald and Jean are two very unusual individuals, they may have the maturity to choose a mate wisely and to follow through with the ambitious program they have set. The chances are, however, they both have a good deal of growing up to do and Gerald will find marriage somewhat more distracting than he anticipates.

TABLE DELICACY

Ontario is the chief Canadian centre of production of caviar from the roe of the sturgeon,

Following yesterday's column, today we are answering many more of your questions regarding home permanents, and hope that you'll find the answers, which were prepared in cooperation with the leaders in the home perm field, helpful:

WHAT IF YOU GET MORE WAVE THAN YOU WANT?

Trimming, strong brushing and creme rinsing will greatly help to eliminate this problem.

WHEN SHOULD I USE AN END CURL KIT?

Sometimes a month or so after a permanent, curls need "touching up." This doesn't mean that the permanent was not successful. Need for a touch-up is the natural result of hair's growing half-an-inch or more a month, or because or regular cutting and trimming. For end curls or a touch-up, use a tip curl kit that contains everything necessary for permanenting about 20 curls.

WHAT ARE THE ADVANTAGES OF WAVING WITH ONE OF THE NEW HOME PERMANENTS IN A TUBE?

The new home permanents in a tube eliminate messiness with cotton and bowls or dripping. The kit's special waving cream is pressed gently from the applicator tube directly onto the hair.

HOW CAN I WAVE EXCEPTIONALLY LONG HAIR?

Rod-type home permanents. You may need more than one home wave kit and one set of curlers if your hair is longer than eight inches or thicker than average. Saturate hair thoroughly with waving lotion.

CAN I WAVE NATURALLY CURLY HAIR?

Yes. Choose a rod-type home permanent and use the very gentle kit. Follow directions carefully.

WILL GRAY HAIR TAKE A HOME PERMANENT?

Yes. Gray is a natural hair color, not a condition. If graying hair is healthy, it should take a perfect wave. The "silver curl" home permanent is specially formulated to give extra lustre and a long-lasting curl, lend manageability to gray and snowy white hair.

HOW SHOULD I WAVE COLOR-TREATED HAIR?

Use a rod-type home permanent and the very gentle lotion formulated specially for this type of hair. Discontinue color rinses or tints several weeks before your permanent. Take preview curls according to the directions in your home wave kit before giving a complete wave. Do not use a pin curl permanent on color-treated hair.

WILL CHILDREN'S HAIR TAKE A HOME PERMANENT?

Yes. Contrary to popular belief, children's hair is more resistant to waving than adult hair. Use the specially formulated home permanent for children.

MAY I GIVE A CHILDREN'S HOME PERMANENT TO A YOUNG CHILD?

Children's home permanents are specially designed for children from 4 to 12 years. Though satisfactory waves can be given younger children's hair, parents should use their own judgment for young skin is extremely sensitive even to soap and water. Young hair often has elasticity and often won't curl.

WILL HAIR TAKE A SATISFACTORY CURL DURING PREGNANCY?

Yes. Hair that is healthy will take a good home permanent. Because pregnancy rarely affects general health adversely, a home permanent can be given at this time. Hair is in good condition when it appears naturally lustrous, the fibres are springly and do not fall or break easily.

Shirley Harmer Casts Lot With Hollywood

By DIAL TORGERSON

Blonde, petite Shirley Harmer made her second appearance on the George Gobel show Tuesday night. For Shirley and her husband-manager, George Murray, this second appearance means that their gamble paid off.

"We both had network shows in Canada," Murray explained. "And I had a part in a five-a-week radio show I'd been playing for 18 years. These were wailing for us when we decided not to go back."

Murray and Shirley quit their Canadian jobs and she went into rehearsal for the first Gobel show of the season two weeks ago.

"We were booked for one show only," said Murray, "and we were giving up two whole seasons of Canadian television. We thought: Should we or shouldn't we? Is it worth it.

"Then we decided, well, why not Let's take a chance.

The result of the first show was a season contract for Shirley —10 Gobel shows at $1,000 a show, with more possible if her options are picked up.

"In Canada we were making a lot more money," said Shirley between rehearsals for the show. "We had to sacrifice a lot, to come down here. But I'd gone as far as I could go in Canada—and we hope I can go farther here."

In Canada, Shirley was star of General Electric Showtime, and Murray played a leading role in the musical Juliet. Now she gets to sing, act and dance a little with Gobel. And Murray gets to manage.

Shirley was a little girl from Thornton's Corner, near Oshawa, when she got a job singing on a Toronto radio program called the George Murray Show. Murray, who is from Winnipeg, was already a veteran on radio then. When television was getting started in Canada he helped Shirley get started with it.

George arranged for George Gobel to meet Shirley last summer when they visited Hollywood and saw to it that Gobel and his co - producer, Dave O'Malley, viewed kinescopes of her Canadian shows.

The result was the one-show contract and a chance for more. Shirley is 24 now and, thinks George, has a great future ahead of her.

Luxurious Leather Coat

By ALICE ALDEN

The longer-than-short coat, so good on its own and going nicely with a slim skirt to form a suit, is a major fashion success this season. It appears in everything from fur to leather and here it is in luxurious suede. Bonnie Cashin gives this coat a handsome helping of distinction. It is double breasted with self covered buttons, and closes high. A broken mid-line gives the slashed pockets a reason for being. The collar is flattering and the coat length and line make it compatible with any slim skirt.

Women's Activities

UNITED CHURCH E. A.

President, Mrs. C. Cleave, opened the meeting with a poem "Strength for Today", and welcomed all members and visitors. Twenty members were present; two visitors. 14 calls were reported.

The 31st rally of the W.M.S. held in Centre Church was held October 2nd. All general Mills box tops collected should be in by the end of November. The November meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. James Dick.

Mrs. Elliott, supply secretary, reported that diapers are needed and clothing for older children.

Mrs. H. Dick reported on Christian Stewardship. It was decided that Mrs. H. Dick write up a petition to send to the government, to aid the blind and to be signed by members at the next meeting.

Correspondence secretary reported sending cards to Mrs. B. Gibson, Mrs. H. MacDonald and Mrs. C. Burr. Thank you cards were received from, Mrs. William Adams and Mrs. C. Burr.

Mrs. Ben Gibson kindly thanked the president and members for the sympathy card sent her on the loss of her mother.

Mrs. Helen Laver gave an interesting devotional taken from Philippians.

An introduction to Japan and the Study Book, "Cross and Crisis in Japan", given by Mrs. D. McKenzie, followed by a lovely piano solo by Mrs. N. Foster.

Scout Eddie Vandusen kindly showed his pictures and told of his trip to England and the Scout Jamboree. This was much enjoyed by all present, and again a 'thank you, Eddie'.

The next meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Bev Gibson, Mrs. M. Snider, Mrs. G. Harris and Mrs. E. Shannon.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by the ladies in charge.

Christ Church E.B.W.A. Holds Business Meeting

Members of the Evening Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary of Christ Church met Monday evening in the parish hall for their monthly business meeting with president Mrs. L. Mason, conducting the devotional and Mrs. F. Clare at the piano. Mrs. J. Spencer read the portion of Scripture and the secretary, Miss F. Reid, read the correspondence including a note of appreciation from Mrs. A. Bongard for card during her husband's recent illness; the monthly W.A. letter from Kingston.

The "Living Message" subscriptions are now due and all members were urged to attend to this as soon as possible, a letter was read regarding the Extra-Cent-a-Day-fund; the annual Deanery meeting is being held this fall at St. Margarets-on-the-Hill and Mrs. A. Watson requested an idea of number of women who would be attending the luncheon.

Mrs. A. Cooper thanked Mrs. J. Swain and Mrs. Bongard for the well arranged Little Helpers' Service.

The treasurer, Mrs. J. MacDonald, gave a most encouraging financial report. It was agreeable that the group share the cost of material for uniforms for the Junior Auxiliary.

Two members, Mrs. H. Eaton, and Mrs. J. Cooke, were reported patients in Belleville General Hospital and it is hoped both will have speedy and complete recovery.

Mrs. B. Wells read the Sunshine report.

Following discussion, some members will assist in the nursery at the Sunday morning 9.30 family service and others at the 11 o'clock service.

Mrs. W. Lancaster volunteered to look after the sale of children's prayer plates and mugs, the proceeds of which will go towards the purchase of three chairs for the rector's new office.

There will be a rummage sale later in the month.

Mrs. S. Beggs and Miss V. Shambo served tea and an assortment of dainty cookies.

HAMILTON WOMAN CLAIMS BRITISH TITLE

Two sisters of Hamilton, Ont., say they were told a secret on the death of their mother in England which may mean a title for one of them. Mrs. Bernice Knickle, right, shown with her sister, Mrs. Violet Screvse, says she is the granddaughter of the late stage and screen star, Lady Laura Margaret Anderson, of Guildford, Eng. The sisters say the family secret was kept for years because of Lady Laura's entanglement in a divorce.

Union Cheques Deposited in Joint Account

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — A chartered accountant testified on Wednesday at the theft trial of ex-union treasurer Kenneth Souter that in 148 instances union cheques were made out to Souter and shortly after similar amounts were deposited in the joint account of Souter and his wife Florence.

Chartered accountant Elwood McDonald said that the similar day on the day after the cheques were issued.

Souter, 49, is charged with theft by conversion and theft by failing to account for about $10,000 in union funds while he was treasurer of Local 599 of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CLC). He pleaded not guilty.

The trial was adjourned until next Tuesday at the request of defence counsel H. T. Farquharson, so Mr. McDonald could prepare a summary of the complex financial transactions during a period of 2½ years.

Mr. McDonald testified his examination of the union books showed $19,695 was drawn by cheque from the union account during the 2½-year period ending Feb. 21 this year.

Most of this amount went to Souter; his wife or was in the form of cheques payable to cash and endorsed by Souter, Mr. McDonald said.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said Souter was entitled to withdraw $6,956. Judge J. de N. Kennedy said it appeared the difference between what Souter received and what he spent on union business was $12,538.

ROSLIN

Edith Bailey Heads 'Cereal Shelf' Club

ROSLIN — The first meeting of the Hallis-Oil Club, "The Cereal Shelf," was held at the home of the leader, Mrs. Edith Bailey.

The meeting opened with the election of officers: president, Betty Bailey; vice-president, Margaret Bates; secretary, Doris Golden; press reporter, Hazel Slingerland.

A name of the club was discussed and was decided to be called "The Happy Homemakers." It was decided to hold the meetings on Saturday afternoons at two o'clock. The next meeting will be held on October 19 at the home of the assistant leader, Mrs. John Empson.

Members' pamphlets and Food Guide for Health were distributed at an earlier date. Requirements of a club member were discussed and read. Several books were shown and new members learned the points of a good record book.

Plans for a bus trip to Peterborough to Canada Packers Limited and Quaker Oats of Canada, were discussed. Ten members decided to go and those members must meet at the intersection on No. 37 Highway at 8 o'clock on Tuesday morning, October 8th.

Cereals and parts of a kernel of grain were discussed.

After the home assignment was given, the meeting was adjourned.

Wooler

WOOLER — The Wooler United Church annual anniversary Thanksgiving will be held Oct. 13th, morning and evening, with the guest speaker, Rev. Whitehorn of Seymour United Church. The choir will furnish special music, both morning and evening.

DELEGATES TO FRIENDS' COMMITTEE

Fifty or more delegates of the Canadian Friends' Service Committee were in session in Wooler Friends meeting house on Saturday and Sunday.

On Saturday evening a group of the Women's Association served dinner in the United Church Sunday school room and another group served luncheon at Sunday noon in the Sunday school room.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dorland and children called on Mrs. L. Terrill on Sunday at Bayside Rest Home, and enjoyed a drive around the Bay of Quinte.

World-Wide Communion Service was conducted by Rev. R. G. Newman on Sunday morning in the United Church. Three new members were received: Mrs. Hugh Fox, Mrs. Arnold Whaley and Mrs. Harold Gainsforth. The choir anthem was enjoyed. Mr. Newman was assisted in the communion by Elders Percy Whaley, Clarence McMaster, Wesley Down, Carman Richards and Jack Dorland.

Mr. Dave Blair and niece of Neche, N.D., with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Charlesworth of Frankford, called on friends in town Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Mabel Benners entertained to dinner on Sunday evening: Mr. and Mrs. Herb Wessels, Mrs. N. Burrill, Mrs. J. C. Herrington and Mrs. A. Smith.

The Rev. R. G. Newman and Mrs. Newman were in Camborne on Monday in charge of a funeral for Mr. Lean.

Messrs. Jim Dorland and Gordon Smith were at Niagara Falls on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. MacDonald.

A few homes are stricken with the 'flu.

Mr. and Mrs. N. N. Haggarty were home over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Orvis and family of Peterborough, spent Sunday in town.

AFTERNOON AUXILIARY ENTERTAINS

On Tuesday afternoon the Afternoon Auxiliary entertained the Evening Auxiliary and the Frankford Auxiliary in the auditorium of the United Church with the president, Mrs. E. McMaster in the chair, who welcomed the guests. The worship service was taken by Mrs. R. G. Newman.

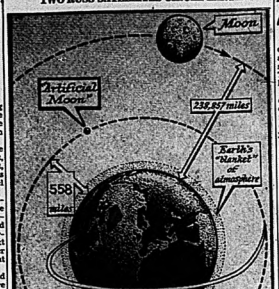
Mrs. A. G. Austin read the minutes of the last meeting. Mrs. Newman sang a solo.

Mrs. McMaster called on the president, Mrs. Noble Crosby of the Evening Auxiliary and Mrs. Fred Charlesworth, president of Frankford and Mrs. Beach of Batawa and Mrs. Lott gave a reading.

Mrs. S. L. Terrill of Wooler, introduced the guest speaker, first vice-president of Cobourg Presbyterial, Mrs. Allen of Castleton. She gave a Thanksgiving message and later with Mrs. McKague gave a skit, composed by herself (Mrs. Allen) on Auxiliary local problems and it was most interesting.

Mrs. A. G. Austin thanked these ladies for the interesting skit. Mrs. Newman again favored with a solo.

The ladies were served delicious refreshments downstairs in the Sunday school room. Mrs. Reed of Frankford, said a few kind words of appreciation.



Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Fox and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fox in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tamblyn of Cannacy, spent the weekend with Mrs. S. L. Terrill.

Mrs. L. Perry, Mrs. E. McMaster, Mrs. L. E. Bryant, and Mrs. G. R. Putnam attended the funeral of Mr. Lean at Camborne on Monday.

Miss Lela McColl of Toronto, spent the week at home.

TWO RUSS SATELLITES CIRCLE EARTH

This sketch illustrates orbit of the earth satellite launched by the Soviet Union in relation to the natural moon. The artificial moon is spinning around the earth 558 miles off in outer space at 18,000 miles an hour and circles the earth every 95 minutes. The cylinder which housed the satellite is also spinning around the earth but, not being equipped with a radio, gives off no "beep-beep" signals.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop and ma went to a movie called Ashes of Embers last night and this morning at breakfast pop started to laff to himself, saying, That was a really funny comedy last night.

Why William, I never stopped dabbing at my eyes the whole evening, ma said. It was wonderful but how can you say it was a comedy for land sakes? I meen you of all people, William. You usually sit on unwilling pins and needles all through any picture where a woman goes through trials and tribulations just as she would in real life if she happened to be that unfortunate. You must of gone to sleep and got it mixed up with some other movie, she said.

Not at all, I was awake and injoying every minute of it, pop said. I remember everything that happened to the gerl, from the beginning when the poor sap refuses to listen to reason and marries the rich young drunk to reform him, to the end where her son kills himself because he realizes he is just like his father, and the mizzerble woman is overcome by her sense of gilt and throws herself through a heavy fog tords the river, he said.

And you still insist it was a comedy for land sakes? ma said, and pop said, But of course. There wasn't a single popcorn eater within earshot of my seet. I'll never forget the wellerling sense of freedom from crunching jaws. I really believe I could sit through the whole sappy, lobby ing again under the same happy circumstances, he said.

NEHRU ON STATE VISIT TO JAPAN

On a ten-day visit to Japan, Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru, right, is greeted by Japanese Premier Nobosuke Kishi at the latter's official residence in Tokyo. The two ministers had a two-hour meeting this weekend with Japanese Foreign Minister Aiichiro Fujiyama sitting in. Among the things discussed were world disarmament and the banning of nuclear weapons.

CAMPBELLFORD

Two New Schools Approved, Council Vote Not Unanimous

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford town council approved a total of $400,000 in school projects at the regular monthly meeting held on Monday night. They approved construction of a new public school building at an estimated cost not to exceed $120,000, and an addition to the Campbellford High School which may cost $280,000.

Council gave tentative approval to the public school project at an earlier meeting, but the school board needed definite approval. The board however, is not likely to proceed with any actual work on the school until the issuing of the necessary debentures has been approved by the municipal board.

The North-East Northumberland High School Area Board was given council's approval to go ahead with the construction of a $280,000 addition to the Campbellford High School. The addition was specified as four new classrooms, the conversion of the present auditorium into two classrooms, and the construction of a new $90,000 gymnasium-auditorium.

At the present time, there is no government grant on the construction of the gymnasium - auditorium, but it is hoped that provision will be made for such a grant in provincial legislation next year.

If such a grant is forthcoming, the board will go ahead with the new auditorium, but if no grant is made, the board is expected to hold off on the construction of such an auditorium, and will build only the four new classrooms.

A polled vote on the approval of the addition resulted in five affirmative and two negative votes. The results are as follows: Yea — councillors P. G. O'Sullivan, Geo. H. Free, George Nicholls, F. S. Linton, Charles Thompson; Nay,— councillor P. H. Macmillan and Mayor D. R. Maybee.

APPROVAL NEEDED

The fact that Campbellford council has approved the construction of the addition to the high school does not necessarily mean that the project will get started in the near future. The school board needs the approval of two of the councils of the three municipalities involved in the high school area, and so far Campbellford is the only council to voice their approval. The other two councils, Seymour and Percy Townships both wrote to the Campbellford council on the matter, stating their views.

Percy said that it had passed a resolution asking that the issuing of debentures be put off for one year, or until the situation is "more settled".

Seymour said it would take no action on the request of the high school area board until it received assurance as to whether or not a grant on the gymnasium-auditorium would be made, and how much the grant would be.

A communication was received from the Board of Transport Commissioners, stating that they had noted the town's objection to the proposed rate increase by the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, and that hearings would commence on November 18 at 10 a.m. in Ottawa.

A letter from the town solicitor, N. Alex MacColl, Q.C., informed council that a clear deed had been obtained for the recently annexed property in the southern section of the town. This is being used as an industrial site.

Mayor D. R. Maybee reminded council of the Lake Ontario Improvement Association meeting to be held in Cobourg on Friday evening, saying that Mayor Jack Burnett of Cobourg had invited Campbellford council to attend.

Mrs. Flossie Scott of Front St. Inq. N., addressed council on its responsibilities for the erection of a new fence adjoining her property. She said the old fence was destroyed by cars using the town parking lot which adjoins her property, backing into it. Council offered to pay for half of the fence, but refused to pay for the whole thing. Mrs. Scott took up a petition of residents of the area of the town in which she lives saying they thought the town should pay for the fence.

The town solicitor advised council that the petition was not actually a petition because it could not be qualified, but said he believed the document presented by Mrs. Scott should be considered as a delegation, addressing council for the same purpose.

Mrs. Scott said the new fence belonged to the town, and that they should pay for it.

The town's insurance company has disclaimed responsibility, as did the town solicitor, who explained that the matter should come under the "Line Fence Act", which provides for joint upkeep, repair and maintenance of a line fence, which he said, this fence was in fact.

A letter from a Belleville lawyer, however, written on behalf of Mrs. Scott, said that the fence was the responsibility of the town because the town permitted adjacent property to be used as a parking lot. He said the total cost of erecting the new fence should be borne by the municipality.

Councillor George Nicholls said that he originally made a motion asking that an estimate of the cost of the fence be obtained last year, but that the fence had been completed without the consent of council, and before any estimate had been received.

Councillor Charles Thompson made a motion that the town pay Mrs. Scott for the entire fence, and of about $147, but he did not get a seconder for his motion.

READY FOR LEGAL ACTION

After more discussion, Mrs. Scott said she was prepared to spend any monies necessary in legal action to make the town pay for a new fence. Councillor F. S. Linton and councillor P. G. O'Sullivan both stated that they were prepared to commit council for half the cost of the fence, but council decided to wait for an answer to a letter they were recently in an insurance adjuster, asking his opinion on the matter.

Mrs. Scott said she had received a reply from the adjusting firm and that they had disclaimed any responsibility for paying for the fence. Council said they had tendered a cheque for half the cost of the new fence, but it had been refused.

Councillor George Nicholls chairman of the Police Committee said that a new set of traffic lights, erected at the intersection of Bridge St. and Kennedy Avenue would go into operation this week. Formal approval of the installation of the lights would be obtained shortly from the department of highways.

Council endorsed the action of the property committee in clearing stones and brush from the property known as Kennedy Park, and authorized the spending of additional money on the project, within the budget of the committee. Council also authorized the purchase of $100 worth of tulip bulbs for fall planting, with the property committee to look after the planting. The bulbs will be planted in the area surrounding the cenotaph, and possibly in the new park along the canal on Grand Road.

Other organizations have signified their willingness to provide additional bulbs, and the property committee will also undertake to plant these. Present plans call for the planting of some 1,200 bulbs this fall.

Council adjourned after passing the annual accounts.

Queen Elizabeth and Philip Will Travel Most of Ottawa's Scenic Routes During Visit

By DON PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will be driven over some 58 miles of roads and driveways in and about the capital during their four-day visit.

While being seen by thousands of Canadians the royal couple will also have a chance to do a little sight-seeing themselves. They will travel some of Ottawa's most scenic routes.

On their arrival Saturday at 4:30 p.m. EDT, they will drive from Uplands Airport, on the capital's southwestern outskirts, over a 16-mile route to Government House, where they will stay while here.

THROUGH FEDERAL PARK

The route will take them to Hog's Back, a federal park near the airport where the Rideau Canal and some of its locks skirt swift-dropping rapids in the Rideau River. They will travel the highway through suburbs leading Farm.

The colors of autumn will be upon the trees in the arboretum there and the Driveway leading from the farm around Dow's Lake, an artificial lake that forms part of the Rideau Canal system. Some of Ottawa's finer homes are built around the parkland there.

From Dow's Lake Elizabeth and Philip will be driven along side the Rideau Canal to Confederation Square in downtown Ottawa. Skirting the National War Memorial, they will move into Sussex Street, which leads beside the Ottawa River to Government House.

On Sunday, Oct. 13, from the official residence of Governor-General Massey, the royal couple will drive 3.4 miles up the east side of the Rideau River, on Charlevoix Street and Riverside Drive in east-central Ottawa, then along Rideau Street, a main capital artery, to the War Memorial.

The Queen will place a wreath at the foot of the memorial, in it by centre of Confederation Square in the heart of the capital, at 10 a.m. She and the prince then will drive another mile, most of it along downtown Sparks Street, to Christ Church Cathedral.

AT MORNING SERVICE

They will attend the 11 a.m. service in the 125-year-old Anglican cathedral. Joining the royal couple in worship will be seven to 800 others, those of the 1,200-odd church members large enough to get tickets for the available seats.

The return trip to Government House, on the eastern edge of the Park, will take the Queen and the duke over another three miles.

In all their motor processions the royal couple will be driven at speeds of eight to 10 miles an hour.

The drive along Sussex Street, through Confederation Square to Parliament Hill for the opening of Parliament will be the first session of Canada's 22rd Parliament, will cover 2.2 miles each way. The Queen is to arrive at the Senate door for 3 p.m.

On Oct. 15, the royal visitors will travel 13 miles on a trip to neighboring Hull, Que., returning on a roundabout route through Ottawa that includes a stop for the Queen's official inauguration of a new super-highway project through the capital, the Queen Elizabeth Way.

Their trip to a Tuesday afternoon reception at the Chateau Laurier Hotel will cover a total of four miles and the short hop to Uplands Airport for their departure about noon Oct. 16, will take them 13 miles more.

2 Toronto Men Found Guilty Of Conspiracy

EDMONTON (CP) — Two Toronto men, charged with conspiracy in connection with an alleged plot to defraud banks in Edmonton of an estimated $70,000 have been convicted in Alberta Supreme Court.

David Liederman, alias Pascan, with a previous conviction for conspiracy, Wednesday was given a $1,000 fine and a two-year penitentiary term. Fred George Zakarow, with no previous convictions, was given a $500 fine and an 18-month jail term.

During the seven-day trial, Detectives John Reid, David McIntosh, Robert Robertson and Kenneth Vanfleet told of shadowing the two men for 25 days here in September, 1956.

Witnesses told of accounts being opened in 11 downtown banks with $200 cash deposits, of deposits and withdrawals during September, of a series of cheques for up to $1,000 late in September, and the "cancellation" of the alleged plan with the burning of other cheques on the river bank by Liederman.

"The agreement was the crime," Mr. Justice L. Y. Cairns, in his charge to the jury, said. Actions corroborated evidence a plan was made in Toronto to defraud banks here through worthless cheques bearing false certifications.

Mr. Justice Cairns said he believed the plan was to gain the confidence of Edmonton banks, open no deposit accounts, to improve the appearance of the accounts and to cash "certified" cheques before the earlier deposits were found worthless.

He termed Liederman and Zakarow "the executive directors, or managers."

Defence counsel Neil D. Maclean contended the case should not have been tried in Alberta since evidence stated the alleged crime in the "agreement" — occurred there.

Liederman was ordered imprisoned three years if he defaults on the $1,000 fine, and Zakarow two years if he defaults on his fine.

ROCKET SHIPS FOR MOON TRIP

"If" a rocket will be sent to the moon is no longer a question. The only unanswered question is "when?" With a Russian satellite already in the sky, there is little doubt that the world is on the verge of seeing moon travel, whether it be manned or unmanned. This rocket ship, to be called the Meteor Junior and it has been developed in Akron, Ohio, for space travel. Drawn from engineers' descriptions of it, it is said to be designed to carry a crew of three, and to be powered by advances in U.S. rocket design, physicists say that it is most likely that Russian rockets will reach the moon first.

Another U.S. project well on the way to completion is the Air Force project "Farside," a rocket designed to reach and photograph the far side of the moon, which has never been seen by human eyes. This artist's drawing shows the apparatus, after having been carried to a height of 100,000 feet by balloon, is rising on the thrust of its first-stage rocket. In four stages it would be circling the far side of the moon, sending back television pictures of the topography.

Auto Chamber Submits Brief On Labor Laws

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce today presented a three-topic brief to a select committee of the Ontario legislature on labor relations.

The brief asked the committee consider recommendations on: The procedure by which unions become certified; strike votes; the inability of unions to sue or be sued in their own names.

The brief asked that laws governing communication between employers and employees engaged in forming a union be relaxed. It said unions communicate freely with employees during a union organizing campaign, but employers were reluctant to do so for fear of being accused of "unfair practices."

The chamber asked the committee to consider government-supervised secret votes before and during strikes. It said the proposal would provide a means of determining employees' wishes before they take opportunity to consider progress made in bargaining and the current position in negotiations.

The brief said the inability of unions to sue or be sued in their own names was "a major weakness in our current labor legislation."

It urged the committee to consider amending legislation to provide that unlawful acts of union members relating to labor disputes or labor relationships be presumed to have been done on behalf of the union.

Increased Claims Can Be Made Against Fund

TORONTO (CP)—A spokesman for the Ontario attorney-general's office says a judgment handed down by a Supreme Court justice may result in increased claims against the province's unsatisfied judgments fund.

Mr. Justice D. C. Wells ordered Highways Minister Allan to pay $4,737 from the fund to Solomon R. Mester of Montreal for damages incurred in a Sudbury car accident in June, 1955.

Quebec courts are normally excluded from the fund because the decision in the only previous case in Quebec was based on a reciprocal system benefitting Ontario.

The fund pays compensates motor accident victims unable to collect damages normally through court action, has paid out nearly $10,000,000 in 10 years. It is financed by a $2.00-$5.00 motorists who pay $1 per annum in fees.

Judge Wells said even though Mester was a native of Quebec he was living in Ontario for the necessary as a student, and was entitled to collect.

Newfoundland Makes Bid For Better Position Before 3-Man Royal Commission

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Newfoundland's bid for a better "position among the Canadian provinces" rests in the hands of a three-man federal royal commission.

The island province, eight years in Confederation, is looking for a new financial deal from the central government to enable it to keep public services at existing levels without boosting its taxes.

For this, it wants $17,000,000 a year in grants from the federal treasury. That is almost half what it now raises from its own taxes.

After earlier sittings in Newfoundland, the royal commission ended hearings here this week. It is headed by Chief Justice J. B. McNair of New Brunswick, and the other members are Chief Justice Albert Walsh of Newfoundland and J. J. Deutsch, a professor at the University of Columbia and former assistant federal deputy finance minister.

PART OF TERMS

The commission was set up as part of the terms of Confederation under which Newfoundland—then a British colony — joined Canada in 1949. The federal government promised a royal commission within eight years of the signing of the terms of union.

Newfoundland has told the commission that its tax rate already is higher than that of the neighboring provinces and that its cost of living is 12 per cent higher.

Up to now, Newfoundland has been getting three types of subsidy from the central treasury: a basic one of $190,000 a year, another 80 cents a head based on a population of about 325,000, and $1,000,000 a year to compensate for its sparse population and unfavorable geographical location.

In building up its public service from a low pre-Confederation level, Newfoundland also has dipped into so-called "transitional grants" from the federal treasury amounting to $40,000,000. In all, the province contends it has gone "into the hole" by more than $50,000,000 in jacking up the services that are under study. The problem now is how to maintain them at present standards.

The province contends it needs $53,000,000 a year to do this but can raise only $36,000,000 under its present level of taxes. It claims the $17,000,000 difference should come from the federal treasury.

Ottawa has taken the attitude that the commission will be morally binding on both the federal government and of Parliament. He said his government needs more money to keep up services.

"We want to have the Newfoundland government say to the people here in Newfoundland come of the advantages of Canadian citizenship," he said.

He told the commission earlier that even now the province's public services are at just about the stage where those of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick were in 1920. "This applied to roads, schools, hospitals, health services, public housing, development of hydro power and other aspects of public life."

In evidence before the commission, Newfoundland's school system was often termed the poorest in Canada, and its roads have been described as the worst. The province has only 100 miles of paved highway.

Eisenhower Terms Faubus Of Arkansas 'Mistaken Man'

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The chance for a reasoned solution to the integration impasse in Little Rock is gone, for the time being at least. The period of name-calling and recriminations has begun.

President Eisenhower describes Governor Orval Faubus of Arkansas as a mistaken man. The White House calls him "vulgar." A cabinet officer accuses him of "malicious falsehood."

Faubus in turn obliquely accuses Eisenhower of "double talk," addresses the U. S. army general in Little Rock as the "commander of the occupation forces," and claims federal soldiers invaded girls' dressing rooms at the Little Rock high school.

Amid this name-calling, Eisenhower is standing firm on his decision to keep federal troops around the high school until Faubus guarantees there will be no interference whatsoever with the court orders directing admission of Negro children to the high school.

Faubus is equally adamant in his refusal to go beyond his statement that there will be no obstruction of the court order "by me." His use of those two words has left the implication he might, and, if not encourage, others to obstruct the court order.

Eisenhower took a step of great political risk to his Republican party in sending troops into Arkansas. In the 1958 presidential election, he made striking political strides in the South, almost solidly Democratic since Civil War days, and the Republicans had hoped to consolidate their gains in the congressional elections next year.

It is clear to most political observers that Faubus a Democrat had hoped to climb to stardom for a third term as governor by obstructing the entry of the nine Negro students to the previously all-white school. But he may find, after disconcerting troop occupation lengthens out, that his political strategy will boomerang.

Inevitably, it must be Faubus, not Eisenhower, who for the state of Arkansas, who must give way. Eisenhower, who acted for all of the country, people in calling out the troops, cannot budge.

Economic pressure may prove to be the instrument that forces the governor to back down. Already in Sevilla, which has begun to flex its industrial muscles only in recent years, is hungry for economic development. But industry, if it is to thrive, must have a stable community. The Rockefellers and other northern industrialists have large business interests in Arkansas.

Cheques Won't Bounce, So Ex-Con Fails to Win Desired Prison Haven

SEATTLE (AP)—An ex-convict who wants to get back to the security of the state penitentiary has had tough luck. His cheques didn't bounce.

Merrick La Fowler, 36, did get as far as the city jail, but even that stay there may be limited.

Fowler, who has served prison terms since 1950 for larceny, surrendered at the state probation and parole office He said he'd passed a couple of bogus cheques and wanted to go to jail.

But Detective T. C. Jorgenson said he found Fowler had earned the money involved and his cheques were legitimate. Detective Dave Hart said Fowler first came to police last July 24 and admitted a string of burglaries in an attempt to be sent back to the penitentiary at Walla Walla, Wash.

Tough luck that time, too. The burglaries were so old that the statute of limitations had run out.

Jorgenson said Fowler admitted he made up today's story.

"Yeh, I want to go back to 'the walls' pretty much," Fowler told a reporter. "It's too rough on the outside. A lot easier in there."

Fox Attacks Woman's Baby In Carriage

MacTIER (CP) — A fox attacked a MacTier woman's baby in its carriage Tuesday near the intersection of highways 69 and 103 in this district 37 miles north of Orillia.

Mrs. K. Fitchett said the fox jumped on the baby's carriage and attempted to claw the child. David Davis, a trucker, came on the scene and the fox turned on him with bared fangs. Mr. Davis killed the animal with a piece of steel pipe. No one was bitten.

Guard Picked For Attitude, Says Tiny Davis

OTTAWA (CP)—"Mental attitude" took priority over appearance in the selection of the Queen's household guard.

Sgdn. Ldr. R. S. (Tiny) Davis, chief flight officer and disciplinarian, worked on that principle when he began forming the ceremonial guard early in September for Queen Elizabeth's Thanksgiving visit here.

Men had to be "emotionally balanced" and have "a sense of humor and the ability to get along with each other" to get into the guard.

The household guard is to be on duty at Government House, home of Governor-General Massey, which will become the Queen's temporary home for her four-day stay here, accompanied by Prince Philip.

Sgdn. Ldr. Davis' theory they'll be a copy of the household guard at Buckingham Palace," said Sgdn. Ldr. Davis. "We are not involved with security. We prohibit people to be left performing a purely ceremonial function."

A great factor in discipline, he says it "makes men predictable—a great thing in any business."

'Preferred Hosts' Win Liquor Vote

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Voters in suburban Stamford Township Wednesday approved selling of liquor by dining rooms and cocktail lounges.

The provisional votes: Dining rooms—1,771 yes, 2,182 no; cocktail lounges—3,732 yes; 2,219 no. The affirmative vote was 63.2 per cent on the first question and 62.8 on the second, topping the necessary 60 per cent. A total 14,285 persons were eligible to vote.

It was the first such vote in the township. Campaigning was carried on by two groups: the Preferred Hosts Association favoring a yes vote and the Association for the Preservation of Community Standards opposing.

MOSLEMS GUILLOTINED

ALGIERS (AP) — Three Moslems convicted of terrorist acts were guillotined today. The executions bring to 79, by unofficial count, the number of rebels who have died on the guillotine since the start of the insurrection nearly three years ago.

Just a Few Brought Shame To Little Rock 'Black Monday'

By RELMAN MORIN

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—On the morning of Sept. 23, a Monday, 99 per cent of the people of Little Rock were nowhere near Central High School.

That was the day when a relatively few people, about 400 in all, beat up Negroes and newspaper men, fought with police, and raged in the streets, and screamed at children inside the high school. "Come out! Don't stay in there with the niggers!"

SHAME, DISGRACE

1. Brought shame and disgrace to a community of good people.

2. Fashioned a deadly propaganda weapon for the Communists to use against the United States in Asia and Africa, among the black, yellow and brown races the U.S. wants as friends.

3. Rescued Governor Orval Faubus, who had predicted violence, from what had appeared to be the role of a false prophet.

4. Figuratively tarred and feathered those people who are patiently searching for the answers to the immense problems that sprang from the Supreme Court ruling that segregated schools are unconstitutional.

Only a handful are responsible for this and more.

The rest of Little Rock was in its homes and offices and places of business as on any other day. This is not to say that they approve integration. They don't. They overwhelmingly oppose integration and want no part of it.

BELIEVE LAW

But they also believe in obeying the law. And there is no question.

Today, many people in Little Rock are sick and tired of "this mess" as they call it. They are prepared to accept moderation and to see the lesser of two evils.

Still others, businessmen who are thinking of the future development of Arkansas, are anxious to regain the country's respect.

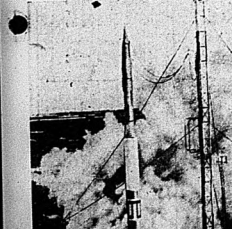
There were some hard-nosed haters, looking for Negroes and "Yankee reporters" to slug—provided the odds were right.

Some were merely curious, some were crusading for kicks.

Finally, there were the women. They were the most frantic of all, the noisiest, the most vulgar. Apparently average housewives suddenly turned into harpies, screeching, crying, tearing their hair. They had a fine old emotional binge that morning, a real spree.



Hydro Workers Take Contract

TORONTO (CP) — A contract calling for an across-the-board wage increase for all 10,500 members of the Ontario Hydro Employees Union has been approved by the membership, the union announced who voted, 74 per cent approved.

The new one-year contract, retroactive to April 1, 1957 where applicable — mainly in wages — calls for an average hourly increase of eight cents for trade groups. Top hourly rates will climb to $2.28 from $2.20. The minimum rates will increase to $1.44 from $1.39. Weekly salaried employees in the top bracket will get an increase to $131.29 from $126.85, and in the lowest bracket $51.93 from $50.17.

The employees also secured certain fringe benefits.

TO LAUNCH U.S. EARTH SATELLITE

Project Vanguard, a three-stage vehicle, undergoes a firing test at the U.S. Air Force missile testing centre at Cape Canaveral, Fla., in preparation for full-scale operation. This firing of the 72-foot rocket is described in a series of seven prior to actual launching next spring of a U.S. satellite to orbit around the earth. Date of the launching may be advanced now that the Russians have launched a satellite.

"Jest a Second"

"Charlie's in one of his moods again."

USE HELICOPTERS TO RETRIEVE DRONES

WELLINGTON

Young Couple Feted With Gift Shower

WELLINGTON — On Thursday evening a number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ferguson (nee Mary Fritz), a recent bride and bridegroom, gathered at the town hall to honor them with a miscellaneous shower.

The evening was spent with social chit-chat, after which the bride and bridegroom were seated at a table, where Miss Louise Smith read an appropriate address.

After the gifts were opened and admired both the bride and bridegroom thanked everyone for their kindness. Refreshments were served by the sponsors of the party, Miss Clarabelle McFaul, Louise Smith, Judy Sivel and Mary Goodman, assisted by others.

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — Wallbridge W.A. held the potluck dinner recently with a good attendance. Proceeds were $21. All enjoyed a good hot dinner.

Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Ben Hamman and Mrs. H. Ketcheson read the lesson.

Business part was taken by the president, Mrs. Sam Nicolson. The secretary, Mrs. Cecil Sine gave her report on the last meeting also the business meeting held in September. Mrs. Barton Highcliffe, treasurer, gave a full report on the ice cream social, dinner proceeds; money collected from children's supper, also money received from cleaning school house.

It was decided to paint the dining hall on October 9th and all members are requested to come and bring their brushes.

Mrs. Frank Harris gave her report on cards sent for the past two months. It was also decided to hold the bazaar on November 13th from two till four p.m.

Next dinner will be held on the first Wednesday in November.

Mrs. Harold Garrison expressed their thanks for all cards sent them and the beautiful TV lamp given them by the Wallbridge friends and neighbors.

Mr. Lorne Sine, accountant of Royal Bank at Penticton, B. C., flew home by plane to spend three weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Sine.

Mr. and Mrs. Morley Phillips, and daughter, Nancy, are spending their vacation in the United States.

Very few attended service at Wallbridge on Sunday morning. The minister, the Rev. W. McMullen felt quite disappointed on such a small attendance as it was communion. Three of the young men joined the church. Mr. Roy Sine and Mr. Alex McNaught, and Mr. Douglas Thompson.

Next Sunday is Aiken's

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pound and grandson, Dale Pound, were Thursday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris.

Mrs. John Chisholm was a Sunday guest of Mrs. Lawrence Ketcheson.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Spencer entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ben Aiken to dinner on Sunday.

The farmers are busy at their fall ploughing and apple picking is the order of the day.

Mr. Arthur Brunell, of Kingston, and Miss Maud Phillips, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Langbeer, were Sunday callers of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris.

Glad to report Mr. Ed. Spencer, who has been confined to his home for a few days with a bad cold, is able to be out again.

Greener Thumbs

BY JOYCE SMITH

Evergreen doorway planting makes entrance an inviting picture. Select from among a variety of contrasting plants: 1. Hicks Yew (Taxus media), tall, columnar form, beautiful dense flat sprays. 2. Alberta Spruce, low compact ball of dark green needling. New spring growth looks like small candles. 3. Creeping Juniper, low and spreading with long, creeping branches. Blue-green foliage.

Madoc Junction

MADOC JUNCTION — Several from this community attended Madoc Fair on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Ashley, Sandra and Heather, of Bataws, visited Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Ashley, last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wilson, Valerie and Ronald, of Peterborough, were weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith.

Mrs. Bruce Stapley, Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. Maurice Clancy, Mrs. Harold Chambers, Mrs. William McMullen, and Mrs. Clarence Fitchett representing the Eggleton W.M.S. attended the autumn rally of the Belleville West Section of the Woman's Missionary Society, which was held on Friday at the Stone church, 4th concession of Sidney. Owing to the absence of Mrs. B. Morton, the assistant Mission Band secretary, Mrs. Maurice Clancy, led in a "quiz" on Mission Band work at the morning session.

Members of Eggleton Auxiliary Mrs. William McMullen and Mrs. C. Fitchett gathered the afternoon offering, which was dedicated with prayer by Mrs. Bruce Stapley.

The guest speaker for the rally was Miss Violet Saunders from Japan, who is home on furlough.

In an interesting manner she described conditions in Japan and also showed lovely colored slides which all present greatly enjoyed.

Several here have been quite ill with severe colds during the past week.

Mrs. Murney Kirkey attended the wedding of Miss Virginia Pearl Mudd, and Mr. William C. Irvine, which was solemnized at the United Church parsonage in Stirling, on Saturday afternoon with the Rev. Arthur Packman, officiating.

The reception was held at the home of Mrs. Jennet Utman, Stirling, with Mrs. Utman and Mrs. Kirkey, co-hostesses.

Communion service was conducted by Mr. George Dyson, at Eggleton church on Sunday afternoon.

During the service he delivered a special message based on words found in I. Corinthians, chapter XI, 24-26.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Williams and children of Stirling; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Merrick and Carolyn of Mount Pleasant were dinner guests Sunday night, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Clancy.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Ashley were recent callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Elliott and Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Sills, of Roslin.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fitchett visited Mrs. A. Andrews at the Cain Rest Home, on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Jackson, of Minto, were dinner guests on Sunday night, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Reid.

Mr. Clinton Juby, of Kingston, visited Mr. and Mrs. Murney Kirkey, on Sunday.

RCAF CORONATION TRUMPETERS TO WELCOME QUEEN, DUKE

When Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth and His Royal Highness Prince Philip step from the plane in Ottawa this Saturday, the clarion of notes of these seven trumpets will herald their arrival. The fanfare will be played by the Coronation Trumpeters of the RCAF band. They will be heard again during the wreath laying ceremony at the National War Memorial on Sunday.

TEST FALLOUT EFFECT ON AQUATIC LIFE

Samples of water plants and algae from a pond at the Hanford, Wash., atomic plant are analyzed by a General Electric Company biologist during tests of possible effects of radioactive fallout on aquatic life. Doses of radioactive cesium were later placed in the water to study the results of this isotope on underwater plants. The Atomic Energy Commission instituted the program to check the effects of the huge plutonium plant on the nearby Columbia river.

Huge Hydro Development Likely in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The people of British Columbia have been told that they can expect a multi-million-dollar hydro development to follow surveys conducted in the remote Rocky Mountain trench area of the north.

Premier Bennett said in a statement Tuesday that findings of an engineering firm retained by the Wenner-Gren organization indicate that a 4,000,000-horsepower development would be feasible.

The project would cost $400,000,000 to $600,000,000 and would begin supplying power in 1964.

It would be the biggest hydro project in the world from the standpoint of energy, generating four times the horsepower manufactured by Colorado's Boulder Dam, at present the biggest.

HOBBY MUSHROOMS IN TO WELL-STOCKED ZOO

Six years ago, Fred Tapley started collecting a few animals in his garage as a hobby. Today, his hobby has mushroomed into a well-stocked zoo and visitors come from many parts of Ontario to see the varied types of wildlife which roam freely at Tapley's Cedar Trail ranch near Galt, Ont. His collection includes bears, Mexican burros, monkeys, oriental birds and reptiles. Young deer like one showed have the run of the ranch but the Tapleys find few of the animals stray from home.

ANCIENT SITE

COSGROVE, England (CP) — Remains of what is believed to be a Roman villa have been unearthed in a field near this Northamptonshire village.

PAID AT LAST

BRANDON, Man (CP)—Brandon General Hospital received a money order for $23.75 in payment of an overdue bill. It had been overdue since October, 1910.

BAN CHICKENS

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — After 15 years of intermittent agitation city council passed a by-law prohibiting the keeping of domestic fowl within the city.

Breath Analysis Test Case Likely

REGINA (CP)—A case now before Saskatchewan courts may prove to be a test case as to whether a breath analysis is admissible evidence in cases of impaired driving.

Provincial Treasurer Finey said Tuesday the Saskatchewan government may appeal a decision by a provincial magistrate who refused to admit as evidence a breath analysis of a woman charged with the offence. She pleaded not guilty.

Magistrate E. Z. Anderson ruled that breath analysis was not acceptable evidence in the case of Mrs. Belle Wallace of Rowatt, near here.

He held the objection of defence counsel Nicholas Marko which who contended the breath analysis was not voluntary. The case, which officials said may turn into a test of Saskatchewan's new breath analysis legislation, was adjourned to Oct. 28.

CHARGED IN JULY

Mrs. Wallace was brought to RCMP headquarters July 21 and charged with impaired driving. A constable asked if she wished to take a breath analysis test. When Mrs. Wallace refused, she was told she might lose her license. Mrs. Wallace then agreed to the test.

Rawdon

RAWDON — Mr. and Mrs. John Hueston, Dresden, Ontario, spent the weekend with their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Will Potts.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Sine entertained Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kipton of Belleville, on Sunday.

In the afternoon the group enjoyed a trip around the countryside that was familiar to them before they moved to Belleville to take up residence.

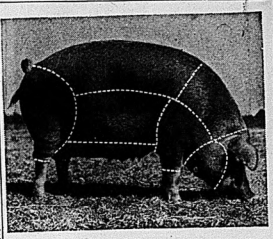
The Rev. W. G. Fletcher, B.A., sclemnized wedding communion on the Rawdon circuit, on Sunday.

Mrs. A. A. Farrar, Mrs. Gerald Farrar and Robbie, Trenton, spent a day last week with Mr. and Mrs. Milford Wrightman.

Miss Shirley Rennie, Reg. N., Peterborough, visited Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McConnell, on Friday evening and attended a shower in the church hall for Mr. and Mrs. Craig Watson.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jeffs were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Williams at Hoards. They visited with their cousin, Mrs. Howard Jeffs and daughter, Phyllis, of London, England; also Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Jeffs and family, or Aurora, Ontario.

On September 26th, Dr. Howard Jeffs suffered a heart attack and died at Ottawa while he was in that city making plans for his retirement. For a number of years he has been overseer of the Immigration Department of Europe with seventy medical doctors under his jurisdiction. He has resided in London, England, for the past 30 years. Just recently he and his wife came by boat to Canada. This week Mrs. Jeffs and her daughter are returning to England by plane.



Mr. and Mrs. Garth Joslin were tendered a noisy charivari last Wednesday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Linn, Mount Pleasant. All were invited in and enjoyed light refreshments.

Mrs. C. Warring, Picton, spent a few days last week with her sister, Mrs. Will Potts. She is leaving soon to spend the winter with her daughter in Edmonton.

Mr. Frank Jeffs, Mrs. Eric Summers, Mrs. Milford Wrightman and Mrs. Percy MacMullen, attended West Belleville WMS rally at the Stone church, on Sidney circuit, on Friday.

Poor Calf Crop Pares Canada's Caribou Herds

OTTAWA (CP) — One of the poorest calf crops in years has slashed the caribou herds of Canada's northlands to an estimated 200,000, federal wildlife officials said Tuesday.

The continued rapid disappearance of the North's most important game animal has given rise to new recommendations urging stringent control measures and indicating a possible review of Indian and Eskimo hunting rights.

Dr. Frank Banfield, until recently chief mammalogist with the federal wildlife service, estimated this year's calf crop was only 12 per cent of the total herd at about 200,000. In 1948 the calf crop was 25 to 28 per cent of a $700,000 herd. In 1954 the herd was reduced to 300,000 and has been declining since.

QUARTER TON CATCH

Ghana Minister Is Ousted From Delaware Cafe

NEW YORK (AP) — Finance Minister K. A. Gbedemah of Ghana says he was hustled out of a restaurant at Dover, Del., Monday because "colored people are not allowed to eat in here."

"If the vice-president of the United States can have a meal at my house when he is in Ghana and if Adlai Stevenson can come into my home, then I cannot understand why I must receive this treatment at a roadside restaurant in America," Gbedemah said.

Urges Canadians Ease Pressure For Services

MONTEBELLO, Que. (CP)—Stuart Armour, economic adviser to the Steel Company of Canada Limited, Hamilton, has called on Canadians to ease pressure for government services.

Mr. Armour was addressing the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating here Tuesday.

He said easing the pressure would allow Canadians to ask the government to reduce taxes, adding: "It is of no use to cry out against our tax burden while at the same time we continue to ask government for more and more."

Marmora

MARMORA—No further light has been shed on the recent robberies of the 5-$1.00 store and Simpson-Sears, when the 5-$1.00 lost their winter store of blankets, the best grade of Christmas dolls and towels. The Simpson's-Sears safe is still missing.

The outage of Dr. C. W. Wallace at Marble Point was entered and although no loss was reported there was evidence that meals had been prepared.

Friends here were shocked to learn of the accidental death in Belleville on Saturday of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McCauley (nee Grace Prentice). The grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Prentice, Marmora, left immediately for Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Lough of Alberta, have returned home after spending several weeks with the former's sisters here, and other relatives. Mr. Lough noted many changes in and around his birthplace.

HOUSE BURNED

Fire destroyed the residence of Lloyd Dafoe in Cordova on Tuesday. The house is situated just inside the boundary of Marmora. Belmont fire equipment could not be used out of the township and Marmora township fire department is not complete. It is doubtful if the building could have been saved, it being an old frame structure. Mr. and Mrs. Dafoe and nine of their 11 children are being cared for by the neighbors. Nothing was saved and there was no insurance.

Mr. Ernest Harvey has been appointed bailiff and clerk of the Division Court following the resignation of Mr. George R. Hartley.

Messrs. William Bedore, Don Peters and Grant Doughty and the Misses Doris Dickens, Joy Peter sand Freda Reynolds motored to Watertown last weekend.

BEAR CUBS SHOT

While hunting partridge, Paul Quinlan, of Marmora, shot two bear cubs this week. He was using a shotgun with bird shot and although he wounded the mother bear she got away, but the cubs were each killed with one shot.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Rice visited their daughters in Toronto on the weekend.

Marmora Cubs enjoyed a hike to Marble Point Lodge on Saturday with dinner in the woods. Dan Bateman was their leader with Scouts Herb Parkin and David Hunt assisting. Their project for this week will be a canvass for fruit baskets.

Mr. J. R. Barker spent the weekend with his mother, Mrs. John Barker of Cooksville.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Taylor of Port Credit, spent the weekend in Marmora with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Johnston.

Students of Lorne Park College, Toronto, have been home for the past week; the college being closed due to the 'flu.

Miss Donna Osborne and Miss Janey Fox, student nurses in Civic Hospital, were home for the weekend.

Mrs. A. J. Maynes has returned home from Belleville Hospital somewhat improved in health.

LIFT BOOK BAN

CANBERRA (AP) — Customs Minister Denham Henty said today he has lifted the Australian ban on J. D. Salinger's novel Catcher in the Rye. Henty said he approved the American book after consultation with the literature censorship board. Henty recently announced a complete review of Australia's book-banning machinery.

OPPOSE SKYSCRAPER

LONDON (Reuters) — London county council will oppose an Anglo-American plan to build a 34-story skyscraper hotel in London's fashionable Park Lane, chairman Richard Edmonds of the county town planning committee stated Tuesday.

Rylstone

Nearly the entire community called on Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barnum on Wednesday afternoon and evening when they were at home to over 200 of their friends and neighbors, on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

The Thanksgiving dinner nobody wanted to eat

It was planned for six o'clock. But their son, Phil, had phoned to say they would be late leaving home. At six thirty they still hadn't arrived. At seven Dad glanced anxiously at his watch. Mother, meanwhile, was busying herself in the kitchen. But that Thanksgiving dinner was never to be eaten. The harsh ring of the telephone momentarily startled them. Dad walked over and picked up the receiver.

The following day the newspapers carried the message of that phone call: "Mr. Phillip Vines, his wife, Valerie, and their sons, Peter and Timothy, were seriously injured last night when their car piled into the side of a transport at Pallance Ave. and Somerset St. The driver of the truck, Al Barnes, said the Vines' car was travelling at high speed, and apparently the driver didn't see the stop sign until it was too late. Mr. Vines and family were on their way to his parents' home for Thanksgiving dinner."

Mr. Vines will drive much more carefully in the future . . . provided he is physically able to drive when he leaves the hospital. The Ontario Department of Transport asks you to learn Mr. Vines' lesson the easy way. Start driving carefully now, before it happens to you.

RUSSIA PREPARED

After Reston expressed disbelief at the accusations, Khrushchev went on:

"I quite understand you when you say you are flabbergasted, but it is true. Perhaps there may be factors new for peace and for war, but the United States is pushing Turkey into war with Syria. We will do everything to prevent it.

"NOT LAST ONE DAY"

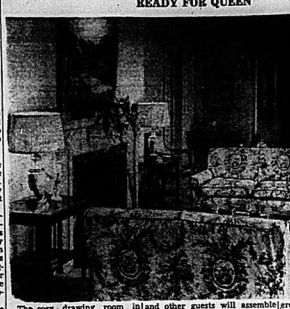
"In moving their troops the Turks are even laying bare some parts of their frontier with us. They should not do that. They are very weak. Turkey would not last one day in case of war."

Later Monday, at an East German Embassy banquet, Khrushchev repeated his charges against Turkey and his slightly veiled threat of Soviet retaliation by any attack on Syria. The Turks have rejected the charge of aggressive intent and said their troop movements are a defensive measure made necessary by Soviet arms shipment to Syria.

Khrushchev told Reston there were documents to prove his charges which eventually will be produced.

It would be useful if the American Senate would acquaint itself with the instructions which Henderson received from Dulles. . .," Khrushchev said.

REMINDS OF SUEZ



Reston reminded the Russian leader that the United States had gone against its major allies in the Suez crisis to bring peace to the Middle East and now is confronted with a new Communist arms and provocations in Syria.

Khrushchev replied with condemnation of the Eisenhower doctrine. He said: "From the Soviet side there were no provocations in Syria. There is not a single Soviet soldier in Syria. There is but an economic delegation with a group of technical experts."

Khrushchev conceded that Soviet arms had been supplied to Syria but added that the U.S. was supplied arms in the Middle East.

Khrushchev declined to discuss two topics Reston proposed for the interview. One was on internal political developments in the Soviet Union since the death of Stalin and recent Kremlin shakeups. The other was on problems raised by the new Soviet programs for agriculture and the decentralization of industrial management.

Whipple said he is satisfied that "all the visual observations to date were of the final stage rocket . . . not the satellite itself." Russian and Western scientists have said both the satellite and the rocket that propelled it into the heavens are revolving about in outer space. The Russians say the rocket's nose cone also is orbiting.

Whipple said "some reasonably reliable visual sightings" Wednesday indicated the rocket now is travelling ahead of the satellite.

ENGLISH HEAR IT

Scientists at Cambridge, England, said the satellite passed almost directly over that university city Wednesday night and that it sent out strong signals heard for 6½ minutes. Engineers of the BBC said they picked up weak signals about the same time.

A spokesman at the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory said the difference in signals might be explained by a variation in receiving equipment or perhaps the location of the sets in relation to the path of the satellite.

Two Moscow radio broadcasts, both for home listeners, gave conflicting views on the moonlet's speed. One said it was speeding up. The other said it was slowing down. There was no attempt to explain this conflict.

Meanwhile, there was no sign that the satellite had run into any debris from a comet which a British scientist had said might wreck the moonlet or deflect it from its course.

The earth was scheduled to cross the path of the Giacobini-Zinner comet at about 11 p.m. GMT (6 p.m. EDT) Wednesday night. The satellite was reported over England about an hour after that time.

They also were the first to confirm Russian-announced information that the satellite revolved around the earth at a 65-degree angle to the equator in an elliptical path.

Dr. Beals said the location of the Newbrook observatory is ideal for photographing the object because scientists there can capture the satellite at its turning point at the northernmost part of its orbit.

At Newbrook, Mr. Griffin said he hoped to get more photographs of the satellite today. He used a conventional type camera in meteor research which has a very fast but not long-range lens. "It (the satellite) doesn't make a spectacular picture," he said. "It looks like one of the stars in the background of the picture but it has long streaks behind it because it is moving so fast."

Mr. Griffin, who Dr. Beals says is in his 30s, has been with the federal observatory staff for several years. He is in charge of a project of triangulation photography of meteors and aurora using cameras at Newbrook and Meanook, Alta., about 50 miles distant.

MAY LAND IN CANADA

Earlier, a scientist at DRB's telecommunications establishment said there is an outside chance the satellite may eventually land in Canada. Dr. Peter Forsyth, superintendent of the establishment's radio - physics wing, said Canadians don't know for sure that the satellite will burn up in its eventual descent towards earth. It depended on the material in it.

The Dominion Astronomer said the most important aspect of the satellite, in his opinion, is that it will provide new information about the density of the earth's upper atmosphere. This could be gleaned by observing how the satellite's orbit changes.

The Canadian data was being forwarded to Harvard University in the U.S. where satellite studies are being made, he added.

The satellite was seen from the Dominion Observatory in Ottawa at 6:22 a.m. EDT Wednesday by scientists using binoculars.

Howard Hitchcock, 25-year-old transport department radio operator, told in a telephone interview of spotting the satellite from his weather station near Churchill, Man., early Tuesday. "bright, yellowish ball" with his naked eye after having picked up the satellite's signal by radio. "There was no doubt it was the satellite."

Canada Council Will Assist Four Orchestras

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canada Council Wednesday announced grants totalling $80,000 to assist four Canadian orchestras, a ballet group and an opera company.

The grants, from the council's $50,000,000 endowment fund, include $25,000 for the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, $15,000 each for the Halifax Symphony and the Ottawa Symphony Orchestras and $5,000 for the Winnipeg Symphony Orchestra. The funds are to be used for additional concerts, in particular to school children, and adding personnel.

The council also announced it has agreed to cover the expenses of a visit to the West Indies by Eyewitnesses said he was shot by the elder bandit who carried a rifle.

Nine other bank employees were ordered to drop to the floor and a tenth, Archie McKay, 22, teller, was directed to open the vault.

Witnesses said the bandits were distracted by pounding on the bank's street door and left quickly after a brief consultation.

The boy was pushed half out of the car and tumbled to the pavement. The car sped north toward Elliot Lake.

The killers were said to be roughly dressed and may have been bushmen. Police said a car abandoned in front of the bank, apparently the one the bandits arrived in, was stolen and contained food and camping equipment, indicating the men may have planned a long hideout in the bush.

Yankees Favored To Take Series After Turley's Brilliant 3-2 Win

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

According to a Canadian Press item today they're afeudin' and afussin' east and north in the Eastern Senior Hockey League.

It seems Wally Lesser, Pembroke's Man with the Golden Arm, has gone above and beyond the call of duty as a senior hockey club owner-sponsor and hurled criticism at Manager Ray Miron's Cornwall Chevies.

While no one apparently knows the potential of the Pembroke Club it is such that it has drawn the remark from Lesser that the Chevies will do well to finish in fifth place in the league "while Pembroke is batting it out for first with Whitby."

All of which draws the reply from Miron suggesting Lesser stop worrying about other clubs and show a little more co-operation.

Just in case Mr. Lesser does not know it, the Whitby Dunlops won't be around when the eastern circuit decides its champions. They may be around in one sense of the word, resting, we hope an laurels won at the world hockey tournament, but they will not be taking part in any battles in the eastern league playoffs.

And just in case Mr. Lesser forgets, there are two other teams in the league, Kingston and Belleville, which may have something to say, or do, about playoff top spots. The Ottawa-Hull Canadians, too, may have something to do about Pembroke's final resting place in the league schedule.

Speaking of the Chevies, playing coach Joe Lepine had 23 hopefuls with "more to come" in the club's initial training camp workout.

The Chevies reliable goalie, Gerry Devaney, has shed the Kingston air and turned out with his old club along with Claude Cousineau of Cornwall, who will likely be carried as the spare goalie.

Three defence veterans are back, including coach Lepine, Bob Briggs and Bernie Lincoln. These are bolstered with aspirants Ted Szydlowski, Guldor Levesque, and Pete Champagne. Carman Marshall will likely be back in harness.

Seven pivot men are trying for the centre ice spots. These include Guy Henri, Moe Savard, Mort Belmore, Rheal Savard, Doug McPhee from the Maritimes, Tod Campeau and Ray Leduc.

Neil Burke and Rheal St. Jean top the right-wingers, while newcomers are Frank Dorrington from Indianapolis, Brian Anderson, last year with Ottawa juniors, and Ron O'Brien of Ottawa.

On the left flank are Ronnie Muir and the veteran Pete Payette, brother of our Paul; Bob Leger and Jean-Paul Bienlien. Leger played in the Maritimes while Bienlien is a reinstated pro having played with Chicoutimi and Three Rivers in the Quebec League.

The Chevies brass says that George Aiken, stormy petrel of the Western Ontario League, who has been trying out with Windsor will line up with the riverside club.

Meanwhile here at home the Macs' management, fully aware of the fact that a topflight defenceman is needed is dickering with two or three good senior "A" rearguards-men.

Great believers in pre-schedule exhibition games being the best conditioners, Coach Ike Hildebrand and Manager Drury Denyes have arranged no less than four for the budding Macs before the opening date with Whitby (October 25th) in mind.

Tomorrow night they meet the western Ontario champions, the Kitchener Dutchmen, in a game that should be a thriller. On Friday, October 18, the St. Catharines' Teepee Junior "A" team will be the Mans' guests, while on Monday, October 21, they will entertain the newly-formed Louisville Rebels of the International League. An exhibition game with the Cornwall Chevies has also been arranged for Sunday, October 26.

ATTENTION BOOSTER CLUBBERS

It is vitally important that all tickets and monies on the draw be turned in to the shops of Jack Diamond and Don Stanton, Front Street, by four o'clock tomorrow (Friday) afternoon. The draw will be made during tomorrow night's game, and these tickets and monies must be in the hands of Jim Ward's committee by early evening. Do it now.

Ottawa Riders Take Arnett

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders have picked up tackle George Arnett, placed on waivers by Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

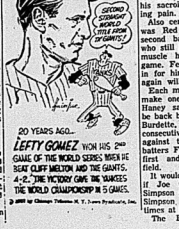
His signing will permit Riders to dress 30 men for their home games. They had been dressing 29 since a recurring shoulder injury knocked out halfback Bob Pinkney several weeks ago.

Clair said he is thinking of adding reserve fullback Ron Quilling from Tulane University, to the lineup for the Thanksgiving weekend home-and-home series with Montreal Alouettes.



MITEFF SOON FELLED

Miteff weighed 202, Dejohn 205¼.

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Yankees ruled the favorite over Milwaukee Braves today to defend successfully their once-askew crown in the seething world series, for the third straight year, record into the seventh and final game.

The Yankees squared the series at three victories apiece with a 3-2 victory Wednesday.

The odds-makers justified their selection of the Yankees to take it all with the argument that New York manager Casey Stengel has mailed a startling pitcher who has had four days of rest compared to only two for the Milwaukee starter.

New York's selection was Don Larsen, pitching hero of the 1956 world series. Milwaukee's choice was Lew Burdette, the pitching hero by dint of the 1957 world series. Both righthanders, Larsen will be making his first start of the series, Burdette his third.

Larsen hurled five-hit relief ball throughout Wednesday Saturday to receive credit for the 12-3 triumph.

FORD ORIGINAL PICK

Whitey Ford was Stengel's original choice to hurl the finale but the star southpaw suffered a few bullpen pains in the last two innings of Wednesday's game, which the Yanks won on account of the four-hit pitching of Bob Turley.

Burdette went the route only today, in the fifth game. The lean, righthanded hurler won that game 1-0 to give the Braves a 3-2 edge in the series. Prior to that, he pitched a 13-inning game, defeating the Yankees 4-3 on seven hits in the 1957 opener.

A perfect day was predicted with fair skies and the temperature near 60 degrees. Stengel scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. EDT. A capacity crowd of 68,420 was expected as contrasted to the 61,406 spectators who attended the sixth game, for which the bleacher section was half empty.

Burdette, who said he has polished off only two days' rest before and saw no reason why he shouldn't do it again, became "I'm bigger, stronger and dumber now," that becomes the first hurler with a chance to capture three games in one classic since Harry (The Cat) Brechers accomplished the feat for St. Louis Cardinals against Boston Red Sox in 1946. Only six other pitchers in 53 previous world series have accomplished the feat, six pitched and won four.

SPAHN HAS FLU

The choice of Burdette was a desperate one by manager Fred Haney. Southpaw Warren Spahn was to have been the "ace" pitcher but he was smitten with the flu shortly after the team arrived in New York and spent Wednesday in his hotel room.

The 30-year-old Burdette readily accepted the iron-man role. "Hell, skip, I've got all winter to rest up the old soupbone," he drawled.

Spahn, who defeated the Yankees 7-3 in 10 innings Sunday after dropping the opener of the series 3-1, was to be in uniform.

"Spahn will be in the bullpen, ready to work in relief, if we need him," said Haney. "In fact, all my pitchers will be in the bullpen and I'll call upon all of them if I have to."

STENGELESE VERSION

Stengel said the same thing about his pitchers, although he phrased it differently.

"You go out there for me and tell all those guys to get ready," he said. "I'm shootin' the works. I'll use any pitchers if I have to, and (Mickey) Mantle because he can't swing a bat. But I'll need a runner to score a run late in the game, that runner will be Mantle, you can bet on that. He can't hit and he can't throw but he can run."

Center fielder Mantle still is bothered by the lame right shoulder he hurt last Sunday. First baseman Bill Skowron said he felt better but he could not bend his supercellular back without feeling pain.

Also certain to miss the finale was Red Schoendienst, brilliant second baseman of the Braves who still is hobbled by the groin muscle he pulled in Monday's game. Felix Mantilla, who filled in for him the last two games, again will play and lead off.

Bob Buhl was expected to make one change in the lineup, Haney said Del Crandall would be back behind the plate to catch Burdette, who has a string of 15 consecutive series innings against the Yankees. Lefthand batters Frank Torre remained at first and Bob Hazle in right field.

It would not come as a surprise if Joe Collins replaced Harry Simpson at first for the Yankees. Simpson has one single, in 12 times at bat.

The Braves probably would have been back in Milwaukee today, hailed by their frenzied followers as the world champions, were it not for three Yankees, namely Yogi Berra, Hank Bauer and Bob Turley.

Berra, entrusted with carrying the hitting load in the absence of Mantle, came through with three of the Yankees' seven hits. One of them was a screaming home run into the lower right field stands, following a walk to Enos Slaughter, that began the third-inning knockout of Bob Buhl.

After Frank Torre and Henry Aaron rocketed home runs, in the fifth and sixth innings, respectively, to tie the score at 2-2, Bauer drove the game-winning homer against the cable connecting the 32-inch screen to the left field foul pole, in the bottom of the seventh. The ball landed, according to Jim Thompson, the umpire-in-chief, one inch fair, one inch fair.

Ernie Johnson, who relieved Buhl in the third and pitched brilliant one-hit ball up to that inning, became the losing pitcher.

Turley, who failed to last through the third inning in his previous start but was magnificent in taming the Braves with four hits, struck out eight to turn in the best Yankee pitching job of the series. He walked only two, neither causing any damage. His record will rank in the annals to leadoff batter Eddie Mathews, retiring up a tingling situation in succession Aaron and Torre, who had already hit homers, were two of the next three batters.

Turley solved that problem by disposing of Aaron via three successive fly balls to right and Covington to hit into a game-ending double-play after Torre started that twin killing himself.

Reds, Americans Bears Take League Openers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Providence Reds already have served notice that they'll be tough to dethrone as champions of the American Hockey League.

The Reds opened the 1957-58 season Wednesday night by defeating Springfield Indians 5-4, despite the fact eight Providence regulars were sidelined by flu.

In two other games, Cliff Mayer marked his return to full-time operation as Hershey goaltender as the Bears defeated Cleveland Barons 4-3, and Rochester Americans turned back the rebuilt Buffalo Bisons, 5-4.

The crippled Reds used two amateurs to fill out the squad and didn't score the winning goal until Ed Shack counted at 17:44 of the final period. Veteran Zeddie Tagnazzini paced Providence with two goals and Bruce Carbol, Cleveland goalie, blocked 39 one each. Gerry Ehman scored twice and Buddy Boone and Stan Ballard added the other Springfield goals.

ZEIDEL LIVENS THINGS

Mayer, out most of last season with an injured knee, performed excellently. Johnny Bower, who returned to the Cleveland goal after an absence of four seasons, was unimpressive. Two ex-Leafs, Willie Marshall and Len Haley, Al Dewsbury scored the winner for Al Dewsbury scored the winner in the third period. Larry Zeidel, Hershey defenceman, received a 10-minute misconduct and game misconduct penalties for starting a general free-for-all in the last period after he had been penalized for fallingi on the puck. Ted Taggart and Earl Balfour each had a pair and Skip Burchell one for the Americans. Buffalo's Les Lilley with two and Bob Hassard and Wally Hergesheimer each one for the armor of Gerry McNeil in the Rochester cage.

Swedish Star Tries Out With Quebec Aces

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec Aces have gone as far as they could as a team to complete the roster they hope will bring them repeat wins of the Quebec Hockey League title and the Edinburgh Trophy they captured last season.

Sven Johansson, Swedish import who figured strongly in his country's victory over Russian Dynamos in the world amateur hockey championships in Moscow, has agreed to a three-game trial as Canada's pro ranks. He will centre a line with newcomers Bob Sabourin and Jacques Gagnon when the Aces open against Montreal Royals here tonight.

Johansson, a Boston Bruins' property, is a hustling player who can cuss out annoying referees in cleverly fumigated, sizzling Chinese. His play with Sweden's international soccer team has given him an edge in the footwork department—he kicks hockey pucks with other skate if his stick is tied up.

After the three-game trial with the Aces the Swede will decide whether he will stay in Canada or return home to get another crack at the Russians 'n world play.

REBELS, GREYHOUNDS TIE

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Louisville Rebels of the International Hockey League spotted Sault Greyhounds of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association two early goals Wednesday night, then came back to gain a 5-5 tie in an exhibition match before 1,129 fans.

"Now, Kid! Go out there an' make him EARN his winner's share of the purse!"

Casey Tired But Confident Before Series Drama Ended

By ED WILKS

He seemed as spry as ever when the first wave of reporters squeezed into his office under Yankee Stadium Wednesday after that 3-2 "must" victory over Milwaukee Braves. But when the morning paper writers had left and he came to their typewriters looked tired and maybe a little jaded by the battle his New York Yankees had to present a big game that would have lost the title.

Casey wasn't winking. And except when he was asked about possible lineup changes for today's payoff game, his voice wasn't husky and his words weren't witty. He looked like a loser instead of a winner.

FIRST BASE HEADACHE

About the lineup question, which obviously referred to first base, where Stengel has stayed with Harry Simpson and suffered, Casey said:

"Everybody's been trying to find out about first base, to tell you the truth.

"Even you?" somebody asked.

"I dunno," said Case. "I always wind up with a first baseman maybe I don't want and thinkin' that if I do he'll be there a lot out and I miss him when I need him because you can lose one game that way.

The idea is that Casey has stayed with Simpson, a good fielder, and has hesitated taking him out for a pinch-hitter. Stengel has said the idea Simpson might give him a hit when he needs it, and if he pinch-hits with Elston Howard, a righthanded as opposed to lefty Simpson, he either has to put Howard in at first, an unfamiliar position, or lose Elston's bat with good-fielding Joe Collins taking over at first.

The worst Stengel would say about Simpson, who came to the Yanks from Kansas City in the Billy Martin deal, was "he's just off the beam."

It's an understatement. Simpson is 12-for-1 and hitless in his last seven at bats. What's worse, he has boomeranged into double-play grounders in his last seven at bats, twice starting the twin killings with strikeouts.

Still, Case says "he's just off the beam—and I can't afford to have too many guys off the beam because our two big men Mickey Mantle and Bill Skowron are out."

"The way they've been pitchin' him outside," said Stengel, "I've just been waitin' for him to pop one out there to left, because in this game it takes that would have lost the title.

Hamilton Team Argos Fear Most

TORONTO (CP)—Coach Hamp Pool of Toronto Argonauts Wednesday said he's afraid Ottawa Cats the team he fears most in the Big Four Football Union and he considered what effect it might have on his rejuvenated Argos.

Argos, winners of their first game last week against Montreal Alouettes after eight straight defeats, play Hamilton in back-to-back games this weekend.

Pool made the statement at a meeting of Toronto Quarterback Club, and explained it:

"Montreal will beat you but they won't hurt you. They just out-finesse you. But Hamilton can beat you and hurt you. They can give you a good physical beating. They have such fine Canadian talent, they're deep in reserves."

Flu-Stricken Habs Entertain Black Hawks in Home Debut

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Illness, which hit hard at Toronto Maple Leafs just before their first National Hockey League season, has reached into the camp of the Montreal Canadiens with a vengeance of its first game.

Montreal Canadiens make their season's debut at home tonight against Chicago Black Hawks without goalie Jacques Plante and right winger Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion. Plante was to enter hospital today be operated on for acute sinusitis while Geoffrion is a flu victim.

The Hawks won their own home opener Tuesday night 1-0 over Leafs who had three players out of action with the flu and another out with injuries.

New York Rangers defeated Detroit Red Wings clash tonight at Detroit. This be the first game of the regular season for both clubs.

HODGE CALLED UP

Plante's illness became known Wednesday after medical examination. He had been ailing and was believed to have flu.

A club official said Plante will be out a week. He will be replaced by Charlie Hodge, who had been assigned by Montreal Royals of the Quebec Hockey League. Hodge saw limited service with the Habs in similar circumstances last year and in 1954-55.

Geoffrion was still recuperating from a severe flu attack and, according to his own diagnosis, will take "at least two months to get into shape again." Club officials said Geoffrion is expected to miss several games.

What with earlier cases of the flu and now with two of his stars in hospital, Habs' coach Toe Blake said "this has been one of the phoniest starts of a hockey season I have ever seen."

BONIN WON'T SIGN

He has another minor or less minor difficulty. It became known that Marcel Bonin, picked up via the draft last summer from Boston Bruins, hasn't signed his contract. Bonin, who toiled for Quebec Aces of the QHL last season, won't be dressed for the opener against the Black Hawks.

Meanwhile Leafs, inactive till Saturday, shuffled two players into sick bay as three prepared to return to action.

Dick Duff and Al MacNeil reported with heavy colds while Brian Cullen, one of the three centres who missed the Hawk game because of flu, prepared to resume skating. The other two Frank Mahovlich and Billy Harris, may have to wait a few more days.

GALT VS NEW LISKEARD

GALT (CP) — Galt Bantams were in the Southern Division finals of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association when flu and injuries forced Galt to default the deciding game, scheduled at Brampton. The teams had been tied 1-1 in the best-of-three series. Galt will meet New Liskeard in the Northern Ontario town Saturday and Monday for the Ontario bantam championship.

World Series Do Not Affect Yankees' Berra

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — To Yogi Berra, playing in his 53rd world series game is no different than playing in his first.

"You never get hardened to stuff like this," the New York Yankees' gnome-like catcher said today. "It's still the world series. You still get excited and get butterflies in your stomach. You know a lot hangs on every play."

Lawrence Peter Berra, born in St. Louis 32 years ago, set a record for playing in the most world series games when he reported for No. 53 Wednesday. He went ahead of such series regulars as Babe Ruth, Joe DiMaggio and Phil Rizzuto, the last holding the previous mark of 52.

THREE TO REMEMBER

Looking back over the years, Yogi picked out three series games which stand out most in his memory.

"The first was in 1947 when I became the first to hitch a pinch-hit home run in the world series. It was against Brooklyn in the third game. I pinch-hit for Sherman Lollar in the seventh inning but we didn't win the game.

"The next two were last year. One of them was hitting three home runs off Don Newcombe of Brooklyn, one in the seventh game to win it 9-0. And, of course, I can never forget the experience of catching Don Larsen's perfect game. I was on edge all the way."

OWES MUCH TO DICKEY

The pinch-legged receiver said when he came up to the Yankees in 1946 he was the rawest of rookies and felt he never could have made the grade without the aid of Bill Dickey, the great Yankee catcher and later coach.

"I was terrible behind the plate. I couldn't catch and I couldn't throw. But Bill worked with me hour after hour after everything I learned I owe to him."

Berra wears his laurels humbly.

In the Yankee dressing room he is one of the most patient and considerate of athletes to the bombardment of newspaper questions which sometimes reach a staccato pitch. He is one of the last to dress and one of the last to leave the quarters.

The Yankee catcher was voted the American League's most valuable player in 1951, 1954 and 1955.

Series Notes

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Ominous note for the Yankees: Of the 13 series that were tied 3-3 after six games, the visiting team won the deciding game seven times and the home team six.

Whitey Ford who would have started today's game for the Yanks, had he not warmed up for two innings Wednesday, appointed that Don Larsen was getting the assignment.

"I'm ready," he said.

"Why not Larsen?" challenged Yank manager Casey Stengel. "He's had four days rest and he pitched a no - hitter last year. Maybe he'll repeat."

In Larsen, the Braves will get their second dose of a "no windup" pitcher in two days. Bob Turley, who beat them Wednesday doesn't wind up, either.

Braves' starter Lew Burdette is a cool customer. Asked if he was going to try and win the finale for his sick roommate (Warren Spahn), he said:

"Stop it or you'll have me crying in my beer."

Yogi Berra's two - run homer in the fifth was his first of this series. His 10th in the ball classic. It tied him with Duke Snider of Brooklyn and the late Lou Gehrig for second most series homers. Babe Ruth set the mark with 15.

On the Tracks

The three-year-old was eased up in the stretch by jockey Eddie Arcaro but was still clocked in 1:21 2-5 for the seven furlongs, three-fifths of a second faster than Roseben's mark set Oct. 16, 1906.

Bold Ruler won by nine lengths over Tech Scot. Si. Amour Ellis was third.

Bold Ruler earned $16,000 net and returned $2.80, $2.40 and $2.20.

TORONTO (CP) — Weight stopped Canadian Champ Wednesday afternoon as he made a valiant attempt to win the $7,500 Seagram Cup Handicap at New Woodbine. Burdened with carrying 117 pounds and receiving a 10-pound concession from Canadian Champ, won a photo finish as he ran 1:44 1-5 for the mile and a sixteenth.

Henry B. Good was a bang-up third.

After the race the presentation of the cup was made by Mrs. Margaret Eaton Richardson of Canada's oldest horse racing enthusiast. At the age of 102, Mrs. Richardson is a frequent visitor to the race track. She was jubilant after handing four winners during the afternoon.

TORONTO (CP) — Spinney, winner of the $100,000 Santa Anita Maturity Stakes, has been assigned top weight of 126 pounds for Monday's $15,000 Jockey Club Cup at New Woodbine. The Jockey Club Cup at a distance of 1¼ miles on the grass course, will be the feature of the Thanksgiving Day racing program.

Second highest weight of 124 pounds has been assigned to Marshal Ney 2nd, owned by Joseph Tomlinson of Oakville. Grand Canyon, winner of the $50,000 Southern Cross Stakes at Gulfstream Park, has drawn 123 pounds.

Canadian Champ has been weighted with 121 pounds but he is unlikely to run on the grass.

Whitby Defeats Dutchmen 5-3

KITCHENER (CP) — Whitby Dunlops punched home four last-period goals Wednesday night to defeat Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 5-3 in an exhibition hockey game.

Whitby, Allan Cup champions and Canada's representatives in the world hockey championships, took a 1-0 lead in the first period with a goal by Sandy Alic.

Kitchener-Waterloo of the OHA Senior series replied with two by Danny Flanagan in the second. They added another by Don Rope in the third before Whitby scored four by Gordie Myles, Wally Maxwell, Doug Williams and Ted O'Connor.

Kitchener outshot Whitby with 39-27.

Green Leaflets Flutter Down On Ball Game

NEW YORK (AP)—The sixth world series game was interrupted briefly in the third inning Wednesday when packets of green leaflets were sent fluttering down on the field from the upper stands of Yankee Stadium.

The leaflets, approximately eight by five inches, called for the U.S. to support Fidel Castro against Batista in Cuba.

Police arrested a man who was not immediately identified. The leaflets covered a large portion of the diamond near the Milwaukee dugout.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP) — Authentic an Owen Sound entry driven by Bill Simmons, won the first race, Tomlinson of Oakville, a one-mile 2 pace at Blue Bonnets Wednesday night, and paid $4.50, $3.20 and $4.80.

A Stratford mare, Bonnie Doon with Bill Gardner aboard, was third in the final event and paid $2.30.

Dressing Room

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK (AP)—There were bread and milk all ready in the New York dressing room after the Yankees squared the world series at 3-3 Wednesday but the happiest guy of them all was Bullet Bob Turley who pitched and won his first victory in the autumn classic.

Robert Lee Turley, a 27-year-old native of Troy, Ill., had just limited Milwaukee Braves to four hits and won a tight 3-2 verdict, although two of them were home runs by Frank Torre and Hank Aaron, the six - foot - two, 217-pounder was as smiles as he accepted congratulations.

"He certainly pitched hard," said manager Casey Stengel. "All they did was hit two balls on him that couldn't be caught."

LONG IN STENGEL EYE

Stengel had his eye on Turley in the 1954 season when he pitched for Baltimore Orioles and tied for the American League lead in strikeouts with 185. Then the Yankees got the big fire-baller in the trade for nine-for-one player deal that all but broke the hearts of Baltimore fans.

Turley said he was using a sinker mostly with some curves thrown in'' during the late innings. After he walked Ed Mathews to open the Braves' half of the ninth, he said he breezed a third strike past Aaron with a 95-mile-an-hour sinker. Both homers off him came on fast balls.

Fred Haney, the Milwaukee pilot, still remained confident his Braves would win today's final game as he announced Lew Burdette would be his mound choice.

"There wasn't much we could have done about that game," he mused. "Those home runs (by Yogi Berra with one on, and Hank Bauer) licked us. I don't know of a thing I would have done differently."

"But this is another day and we'll throw everything at them."

BEEF ABOUT UMPIRE

The Braves felt another umpire's decision—that of plate umpire Jocko Conlan on Bauer's half-swing in the seventh just before he hit his home run—may have cost them a possible victory and a 4-3 lead.

But they admitted they had to reach a bit for any legitimate gripes.

On the Bauer swing, the count was 2-2 on the Yankee right-fielder started to go for a ball and then decided to hold up.

Conlan called it a ball and both catcher Del Rice and pitcher Ernie Johnson registered mild protests, arguing the' Bauer had swung.

"At the time I thought I had two strikes on him and I thought this would have been a perfect ''call,'' said Johnson, who pitched superbly in relief of Bob Buhl.

"Of course, the half-swing call was important," Johnson said. "It's always good to be ahead of a batter and I would have thrown him something different."

BC Lions Need Playoffs to Make Money

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions, among the biggest money-makers in football since they joined the Western Interprovincial Football Union in 1954, may register a loss this year.

General manager Herb Capozzi says the Lions will have to get into the playoffs to make a profit. They have only a mathematical chance of getting there.

"We are presently facing a deficit if we pack the stadium for our last two home games, we'll come close to getting off the hook."

Losing money would be a new experience for the Lions—they made $47,000 in 1954, $80,000 in 1955 and $50,000 in 1956.

Capozzi said the Lions, who spent $293,000 in 1954, will probably overspend their budget of $315,000 this year.

BIG PAYROLL

Increased player traffic and their program to develop more Canadians are two reasons, Apart from their 12 active imports, Lions have seven more ot ulary and are carrying 10 more homebrew players than they need on full or partial pay.

Financial aid to minor football has jumped from $5,000 in 1956 to $23,000 this year. A nightly training table and post-game suppers for players and their wives —something new in the Lions' operation — will probably cost $10,000.

Capozzi says attendance is down "about 15,000" from last year. And exhibition game revenue has also dropped. This year it was down $30,000.

Lions have won only two games and tied one out of 11 played.

MENDYK IN RESERVE

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers have signed halfback Denis Mendyk, a Michigan State alumnus cut by New York Giants.

Junior B Has Two Divisions

GALT (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association junior B section has 16 teams entered in two divisions, the teams in each division will enter playoffs with winners meeting for the championship, it was announced Wednesday night.

Both divisions will play 30-game schedules. In the eastern division are Guelph, Waterloo, Kitchener and Owen Sound. In the western are London, St. Marys, Seaforth, Stratford, Goderich, Woodstock and Sarnia.

Convener Jack Pearson of New Hamburg said play will begin at the end of the month and must be completed by Feb. 15.

TON OF TOAST

LOS ANGELES (AP) — What's the result when a delivery truck driver slams on his brakes to avoid a crash, overturns and spills 2,000 loaves of bread that catch fire from spilled gasoline? Burnt toast. The toast, more than a ton of it, caused a mile-long traffic jam on the freeway Tuesday before crews cleaned it up.

Leslie Caron, Little French Doll, Refuses to Dance Again

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—No matter what you say, Leslie Caron won't dance.

It seems a shame, because the little French doll brightened the screen with her dancing in An American in Paris, Daddy Long Legs and other musicals. Now she's back in Hollywood after a two-year absence, doing a non-dancing role in Gigi.

She's a changed girl. During her absence she acquired a new husband, British director Peter Hall, a new son and a more confident attitude toward life. She firmly predicts that she will never dance again.

"Oh, if a studio came up with a really interesting story of a ballet dancer, I might do it," she said. "But I can't see that ever happening.

DULL, STUPID, DIRTY

"Why? Because the life of a ballet dancer is dull, monotonous, stupid and dirty. It is a terrible life, and I don't know why I did it so long. I haven't danced now for two years, and I must say I don't miss it a bit.

"Dancing exercise is not only stupid, it is against nature. Human dancers are made to walk with their feet straight forward. But in ballet you are forced to make your feet go like this." She indicated the position.

Leslie, now 26, started dancing when she was 10. Her usual daily routine was three full hours of conventional exercise and dancing.

"Of course, when I was in a picture, it was impossible to practice every day," she said. "Toward the end of the picture I would lack the stamina to dance because I hadn't practised. It was a vicious circle."

When she left here after Daddy Long Legs with Fred Astaire, Leslie was determined to leave dancing behind. She did a straight play with director Jean Renoir in Paris, then played Gigi on the London stage. That's when she met her husband, who directed the show.

"I'd rather be known as an actress than a dancer," she said. "That's why I got so much satisfaction out of doing the plays. At first Jean said I didn't project enough. I had the same trouble in London, and it was difficult projecting in a language that is not your own. But I worked on it, and now I think I project very well."

Fran Allison Without Puppet Chums to Star in Pinocchio

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Not long ago when Fran Allison went into a drug store without her puppet chums, Kukla and Ollie, a little girl exclaimed to her mother: "It's the puppet's girl friend, mommy. But how did she get out of television?"

Well, she's not out of television. Although the team of Kukla, Fran and Ollie is not appearing together at present on the home screen, they're all working—and they miss one another.

The tall, slim Miss Allison makes a departure as a performer next Sunday when she appears in "Pinocchio" (NBC - TV and radio 4:30 p. m., EDT), a musical based on the fairy tale about a wooden puppet who became a real boy. Mickey Rooney plays the title role and Walter Slezak has the role of Papa Geppetto who created the puppet.

"I'm the blue - haired fairy queen," said Miss Allison. "It's a big production in color. Life after he has learned he can't be selfish if he's going to be a human. It's a delightful show, directed primarily to children, though we feel that people of all ages will thoroughly enjoy it."

She describes rehearsals as "loads of fun"—which is understandable when you realize Jerry Colonna is playing the circus ringmaster, Stubby Kaye is the town crier and Martyn Green plays the fox.

What are her hopes of reunion with Burr Tillstrom's puppets, Kukla and Ollie, who have been appearing recently on the Perry Como show?

"If I thought I wouldn't be working with Kukla and Ollie again, I'd be heart-broken."

CONTRACT TROUBLE

Miss Allison is doing a series of TV commercials for two firms and appears on Don McNeill's Breakfast Club radio program (ABC) as Aunt Fanny.

Kukla, Fran and Ollie had such a large following, however, that rumors persist of its eventual return to television. While nothing positive can be reported yet, it seems unlikely that Miss Allison will be "heartbroken."

At The McCarthy

The story of Jeanne Eagels is one of the most fabulous in all show business, a star who burned with a flame that not only made her great but consumed her too soon. The brilliant actress is portrayed by fabulous, talented Kim Novak in George Sidney's "Jeanne Eagels", Columbia Pictures' drama opening today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. Jeff Chandler's leading man with Miss Novak and Agnes Moorehead is costarred.

George Sidney, who directed Miss Novak in a previous hit, "The Eddy Duchin Story," reportedly has come up with another absorbing story of show business that is both gay and sad, triumphant and tragic. With "Jeanne Eagels," he is said to have endowed a remarkable stage personality, who is now all but a legend, with flesh-and-blood attributes that bring her story alive.

Miss Novak plays the small-town girl with an unquenchable thirst to be an actress. She first makes contract with show business in a beauty contest staged by carnival man Jeff Chandler. She joins his troupe and is by turns a live target for a knife thrower, a "coach" dancer and, finally, dramatic actress.

Always with her eye on the main chance, even at the expense of her personal happiness, she climbs the Broadway horizon like a meteor. But sparks that was to make her a show business immortal ironically enough seemed to deny her fulfillment as a woman. With unlimited horizons facing her and limited ambition and blazing talent, she has no time for the solid romance that Chandler offers her. Too late, she realizes what she has lost.

Featured supporting players in "Jeanne Eagels" include Charles Drake as the former All-American who marries Jeanne Eagels, Larry Gates as her producer, Virginia Grey as a fading Broadway star, and Gene Lockhart as the president of Actors Equity.

AT THE PARK — George Montgomery stars in "Pawnee," Republic presentation in Technicolor opening tonight at the Park Theatre. Also co-starring are Bill Williams and Lola Albright. The picture is a story of love, for your enjoyment. "The Quiet Man," starring John Wayne, Maureen O'Hara and Barry Fitzgerald.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

(Author of the new "Astrology and You")

The Stars impel . . . They do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to you.

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Today's expenditures for pleasures and enjoyment could prove the ridiculous if you permit, although you are determined to have fun at all costs. Curtail this spending, learn to balance pleasure with earning power.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—A family tie is ready to make the fur fly, and it may well be you are deserving of it, so the wisest thing to do is apologize, unruffle feathers, or time spent settling at some comment will take away from working energy.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—If you give into temptation to feel sorry for yourself over ill health or some existing unhappy problem, you will be unable to attend to important matters. So, chin up and get going now. All will be well soon.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)—Listen to dear pal who gives you a talking over the coals because of extravagance you displayed in several instances. Follow wise advice and the future is easier, though it does go against the grain to economize.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Today you could easily strike out at a higher-up with vengeance, but this would be wrong and ruin the progress already made. Stick diligently to work, follow every regulation piously and to-morrow you will feel better.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21)—If you continue to give that unpleasant situation more importance than it merits, it will become a monster to you. Go out instead and find the right solution quickly. Or find it via newspaper, TV, radio.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)—Give an ear to the truly fine pal who knows your problems and is desirous of seeing you in a far better position in life: The advice is fine. Don't become a pennypincher, or you will never grow. Take a chance, be generous.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21)—Associate and higher-up are at dagger's point. Don't get involved or you become snippings, too. Keep busy at own tasks with one ear cocked. Later you can give own opinions, advice wisely and you bring peace and prosperity.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) That dull existence you have made for yourself is threatening to engulf you completely. Step right out of it today and talk with others, those who are most successful. Get right slant on life and make new arrangements now.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—It is necessary to wear a happy countenance today if you are to ward off that fierce argument with closest ties over financial matters that have you very worried. Give them affection and soon something will turn up.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have to be shrewd today if you are to gain the benefits of both family and outside possibility of which they strongly disapprove. Schedule your time to segregate both efficiently and cleverly. You know what you are doing.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—An unexpected event will keep you from your work today or result in argument with fellow worker who is not the understanding sort. But see that you get your errands done, make your necessary business, social contacts.

Negro Barred By Cafe Eats With Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first Negro minister of Ghana had breakfast with President Eisenhower today and received a presidential apology for a Delaware restaurant's refusal to serve him because of his color.

"It "makes up for what happened," the Negro minister, K. E. Asamoah, said as he left the White House.

Obodemah, talking with reporters, made reference twice to a personal apology from Eisenhower. He said Eisenhower was "a little worried" over the snub in Dover, Del., Monday.

Obodemah said Eisenhower as saying there are "little things like that all over the place and you don't know where they're going to blow up or when."

He said he enjoyed the breakfast of bacon and eggs and it "makes up for all that happened."

Vice-President Richard Nixon also was a guest at the one-hour breakfast session. One reason was that Nixon was entertained at lunch at Obodemah's home in Ghana last March.

Guides Bomber Away From City, Dies in Crash

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—A burning B-47 Stratojet bomber exploded Wednesday, killing three crewmen U.S. Navy and Royal Air Force officer. The pilot had guided it away from a populated area.

Col. Michael N. W. McCoy, 52, pilot of the B-47 carrying crewmanders, was believed to have been piloting the six-engine aircraft. He is survived by his wife, John Woodrofe of the RAF, Lt.-Col. Peter Hunt, 38, and Mel. Vernon D. Stuff, 30.

Witnesses said the plane was at an estimated 1,000 when it burst into flames and that the pilot flew it over the city toward an open pasture. They said he apparently did all possible to keep from crashing into a populated area.

Wreckage hit several houses but the damage was negligible.

Suggests Queen Visit Russia

EASTBOURNE, England (AP) A civic official has suggested Queen Elizabeth visit Russia.

Ald. G. H. Goodwin, deputy mayor of Bexhill, told a meeting of 30 mayors and former mayors here that the Queen should go to the Soviet Union after her tour of Canada and the United States.

"If the Queen were to go to Moscow on a goodwill visit we should probably find ourselves on a very much better position."

Nature Program Called Sadistic

LONDON (AP) — The British Broadcasting Corporation received a protest Wednesday against a children's nature program that told young listeners to watch big larvae eat little larvae.

The BBC's radio network Tuesday carried a suggestion that species of water beetle be placed in a jar of water. Then, the children were told, watch how the big ones devour the little larvae.

The League Against Cruel Sports wrote:

"It is hard to see the BBC's purpose, which we feel sure it is not, to train children to become little sadists, a more difficult task to achieve this end could not have been devised."

SEEK BUILDING FUNDS

WINDSOR (CP)— Dr. G. Edward Hall, president of the University of Western Ontario, announced here Thursday in connection with a campaign to raise $6,000,000 to add five buildings to the London, Ont., university campus.

STUDENTS BURN FAUBUS IN EFFIGY

Toronto university students staged a Ku Klux Klan parade from Victoria college to the university campus with an effigy of Orval Faubus, governor of Arkansas, who ordered National Guardsmen to prevent entry of Negro students into school at Little Rock. The effigy was burned on the campus as the white-hooded students cheered. One speaker labelled Faubus a "demagogue of injustice."

SHELL KILLS 4

KETTLESING, Eng. (Reuters) Four members of a grouse hunting party were killed Thursday and five injured when an artillery shell they uncovered exploded on Yorkshire Moors. The dead and injured were members of a party of beaters who were flushing birds from the heavy underbrush.

RAWDON

Household Gifts Presented to Young Couple

RAWDON — A large number of friends and neighbors gathered in Mount Pleasant Church hall on Friday evening and tendered Mr. and Mrs. Craig Watson a miscellaneous shower. The pastor, the Rev. W. G. Fletcher, was master of ceremonies and the program opened with a sing-song of romantic selections with Mrs. Carleton Potts as pianist.

Vocal selections were given by little Miss Anne Watson, of Wellman's, and also by Miss Judy Cooney. Appropriate selections were read by Mrs. Grant Hubble, Mrs. Milford Wrightman, Mrs. Douglas Campbell and Mrs. Percy MacMullen.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Richardson contributed two vocal duets. Dianne and Freddie McAdam also contributed a selection.

The address of appreciation was read by Mrs. Kenneth Weaver after which Betty and Craig opened the large array of wrapped parcels which revealed a galaxy of lovely household articles.

The newlyweds each voiced grateful thanks for the lovely gifts, program and party in their honor and invited the group to visit them at Wellman's.

Refreshments were served and a social half-hour enjoyed.

17 Children, Seven Sets of Twins in Ten Years

Favorite customers of the milkman in Alma, Que., is the Tremblay family. Fourteen quarts are left on the doorstep each day for the 17 children. The youngsters, 14 of whom are twins, arrived in ten years. From left to right, are: Raymond, 10, whose twin died at birth; Ronald and Ronalde, nine; Jacques and Jacqueline, eight; Suzy and Suzanne, 16 months; Jules and Julien, six;

HUGE PLANT

MOSCOW (AP) — Builders of the giant kuibyshev hydro-electric plant promised to have the 20th and last generator in operation by Oct. 15. The first 14 turbines, already in use, have a total capacity of 1,470,000 kilowatts.

TIRES FROM CHINA

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist China has begun exporting rubber tires, the New China news agency said in a dispatch from Shanghai. Most of the tires are being sent to Romania, North Viet Nam and North Korea.

Pleven Abandons Attempt to Form French Cabinet

PARIS (AP) — President Rene Coty today resumed his search for a new French premier after Rene Pleven abandoned his attempt to end the 10-day cabinet crisis by forming a government.

Sources close to the president said Coty had no likely candidate in mind to head France's 24th post-war government.

The political crisis provoked by the parliamentary defeat of Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury deepened with failure of Coty's second choice to win enough support in the National Assembly.

The president's first nominee, Socialist Guy Mollet, refused even to try to form a cabinet after 48 hours of talks with party leaders convinced him they would not support his program.

Pleven, a member of the small Democratic and Socialist Union of Resistance, gave up Wednesday night after 36 hours. He said he quit because the Radical Socialists of Bourges-Maunoury, who is serving as caretaker premier, refused to back his program.

Pleven had demanded that all parties except the Communists and the extreme-right Poujadists join his cabinet and unite in a one-year political truce.

Ottawa And Hull All Dolled Up For Royal Visit

Queen and Prince Will Arrive on Sat. Afternoon

OTTAWA (CP)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip come to Ottawa Saturday.

At this point in the capital you don't have to be told—a quick turn around the block is all you need.

The city and neighboring Hull, Que., are all dolled up for the four-day visit. It starts Saturday at 4:30 p.m. EDT when the British airliner bearing the royal couple lands at Uplands, airport, on the southern outskirts.

The preparations, under way for a couple of months and more, have reached a frenzied pitch this week.

But on Saturday afternoon shortly after a Big Four football game between Ottawa Rough Riders and Montreal Alouettes, the Queen and her prince will take over the capital. They will be the spotlight until next Wednesday when they fly south for a visit to the United States.

SATURDAY PROCESSION

Elizabeth and Philip will cover 14 miles Saturday on a processional route that will take them through parts of Ottawa's most scenic sections to Government House, official residence of Governor - General Massey where they will stay.

The 31-year-old monarch will write a new page in Canada's history Monday when she opens the first session of the 22nd Parliament. It will be the first time a reigning monarch has ever opened Canada's Parliament.

Weather permitting, she and Philip will ride together to parliament hill for that Monday afternoon ceremony in a horse-drawn open landau. A 24-man mounted escort—members of the RCMP's musical ride—will accompany the state carriage.

In the Queen and the prince will meet 10 Canadian Indians Tuesday afternoon. The Indians have been invited from all parts of the country.

The press will meet the royal couple at the first official function of the Wednesday evening. About 400 of the 1,000-member corps of newspaper and radio reporters accredited coming here from several countries to cover the visit will spend an evening with Elizabeth and Philip at a Government House reception.

CHURCH SERVICE

Sunday morning, on their way to services at Christ Church Cathedral, the Queen and Philip will pause in Confederation Square to place a wreath at the base of the National War Memorial. After church the afternoon is free. They are expected to slip off to some quiet place, perhaps in the autumn-painted Gatineau Hills north of Ottawa, for a few hours.

At 9 p.m. EDT Sunday Her Majesty will speak to the nation by radio and television. It will be the first time she has made a full length "live" television speech.

Britain's Major Reactor Pile Out of Action

LONDON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Authority announced today that Britain's major atomic reactor pile producing plutonium for nuclear weapons has been knocked out of operation "for some months" by a rare accident.

The accident occurred at the Sidescale plutonium factory, in Cumberland near the Scottish border.

Its machinery is driven by power generated from Calder Hall, the first atomic plant in the world producing atomic energy for peaceful uses.

An atomic energy spokesman said a number of uranium cartridges Thursday became "overheated to point of red heat — and some oxidation of uranium has occurred."

A spokesman said "there is no evidence of there being any hazard to the public." But a number of workers, estimated at about 200, have been ordered to "remain under cover" at the factory area.

Posse of Angry Men Prowls in Bush for Killers

BLIND RIVER (CP)—A combined reward of $27,500 drew more guns today into the manhunt for two bandits who shot and killed a Blind River banker two days ago.

Prospectors, trappers, lumberjacks and sportsmen showed up by ones and twos to join a special police-led posse that already numbered 135. Feeling ran high and police warned the searchers against wild shooting in the deceptive shadows of the Grenanry Lake-Clear Lake bushland.

Sgt. J. K. Brennan of the OPP, heading the search which began Wednesday morning when C. A. Walter Bridges, 50, was slain in his Royal Bank branch here, said he believes the killers are still in the wooded region 15 miles from here.

NOT SEEN FROM AIR

He said roadblocks and aerial patrols by planes and helicopters probably have kept the fugitives under cover. They got no money in the robbery attempt.

Police reinforced roadblocks during the night, hoping that the fraying nerves and the cold would flush the gunmen from hiding. The ground and air search is pressed by day.

Police have checked out dozens of rumors and reports. One was to the effect that one of the bandits is an itinerant diamond driller well-versed in the bushland.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Cool moist air is maintaining cloudy skies in most of Ontario this afternoon. Cloudy skies will be general throughout the province this afternoon. Cloud is likely to cover our skies again tonight, reducing the risk of frost in the southern half of the province. A high pressure area will move into Lake Ontario region early Saturday, allowing skies to clear and temperatures to climb to near normal values for mid-October. Winds in Ontario are expected to be light today and Saturday with an exception of the James Bay region where a gradual increase in the winds is indicated.

Prime Minister, Candidate Talk With Children

Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and Dr. Sidney Smith, Minister of External Affairs, speak with Madoc school children following Thursday afternoon's convention at Madoc Armouries which saw Dr. Smith named as Progressive Conservative candidate for the riding of Hastings-Frontenac. The nomination virtually assures Dr. Smith a seat in the House of Commons as the Liberals will not contest the riding in the November 4th by-election and Social Credit party officials in the riding have also indicated no candidate will be named.

RESERVE FORCES MAY BE ON WAY OUT OF EXISTENCE

No Summer Camps For Militia in '58

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's 54,000-member reserve forces may be on their way out of existence.

The army announced Thursday that there will be no summer camp for the militia in 1958. Instead, "selected" militiamen will be attached to regular army units for one week for training.

Training time for the militia throughout the year will be cut from 60 to 40 days and more emphasis will be placed on civil defence work. The training reduction will mean a saving of about $5,000,000 to the defence department because annual maximum pay earned by a militiaman will be cut one-third.

WANT TRAINED MEN

Main reason for the militia overhaul is the increased emphasis on forces-in-being—that is, troops who would not need further training in event of war.

Informants say that increases in equipment costs must result in manpower cuts unless defence expenditures are to be allowed to soar. The corps' traditional field for manpower cuts is the reserve forces — 42,000 in the militia, about 6,000 in the naval reserve and some 5,500 in the RCAF reserve.

Moscow Says Sputnik Faces Trial by Comet Dust Oct. 20

LONDON (CP)—Russia's earth satellite streaked on through space today, apparently undeterred by a shower of meteorite fragments.

Nearing the end of its first week aloft, the sputnik—as the Russians call their manmade moon—was said to be maintaining course and speed, circling the earth once every 96.1 minutes.

Since the Russians shot their sphere into the upper air last Friday night, the satellite has travelled more than 2,500,000 miles, according to Soviet estimates.

Moscow radio said that "since it has been launched, not a single meteor body has noticeably harmed our little moon. This means the major meteor bodies have not yet crossed its path."

At the U.S. naval research laboratory in Washington a spokesman said the satellite came over as scheduled Thursday night, several hours after the Moscow broadcast about the meteorite bombardment. The spokesman said the satellite was emitting a steady signal.

Moscow radio said the real danger period for the satellite will come during three days beginning Oct. 20, when the earth and sputnik will pass through meteor debris left by the Halley Comet.

The broadcast also said that in the last stage of its existence, the sputnik will come closer to the earth and give off light like a meteor and that "its light will be observable for a long time." The Russian scientists estimated the satellite would remain aloft for months.

Forecast Old Age Pensions To Be Raised to $55 Monthly

OTTAWA (CP) — A $90,000,000-a-year boost in old-age pensions, coupled with increased aid for veterans, the blind and disabled, likely will top the Progressive Conservative government's legislative program to be presented to the Queen in the new parliament Monday.

In line with Prime Minister Diefenbaker's election promise to increase aid to Canada's 800,000 pensioners, informants say it is almost certain the monthly payment, hoisted by $8 to $46 by the former Liberal government earlier this year, will be pushed up by the Conservatives to $55, another $9.

The central government pays the full $46 for the current $46-a-month pension paid to all 70 and over. About 800,000 get such cheques. Another 100,000 get similar payments made to the needy in the 65-69 age category, with the cost shared 50-50 by the federal and provincial governments.

Payments to the blind and disabled and to veterans likely will be scaled up in line with the general pension increase.

Sputnik Puts Them in Real Tizzy Macy's, Gimbel's, Santa All Busy

Even Santa Claus has changed his plans.

In Allentown, Pa., Hess Brothers department store is making a last-minute switch in arrangements for their Christmas parade, instead of gilding down on the Allentown fairgrounds in a horse-drawn sleigh, Santa will make a dramatic appearance aboard a motorized satellite.

"Our designers are working on it now," says the store.

In New York one department store is doing what it calls a "real rush job" on a new sputnik in the toy department completely devoted to interplanetary space. It will feature such things as earth satellite balloons (20 cents), geophysical computers ($1.98), and satellite battle stations ($3.98). Also a 20-inch vinyl plastic globe ($12.98).

Not to be outdone, Gimbel Brothers is running full page newspaper ads proclaiming: "Not even the Russians have this satellite launcher — a sky sweeper."

In the first week of its stellar gyrations, sputnik has brought about a veritable boom in sales of binoculars, telescopes and science fiction.

Book stores reported a demand for tomes on all treatises dealing with interplanetary flight.

Sputnik has even affected photograph record sales. In heavy demand right now is the record-ing: Sounds from Outer Space.

CASH ADVANCES ON STORED WHEAT TO HELP ECONOMY

Govt. Ready to Pass Enabling Legislation

OTTAWA (CP) — The sagging Prairie economy likely will be bolstered by a big outpouring of cash soon after Parliament opens Monday. And the flow may have some benefits throughout the country.

One o fthe first pieces of legislation the Progressive Conservative government will place before Parliament will call for payment of cash advances to Prairie growers for farm-stored wheat.

Officials are tight-lipped about details. But it is understood the advances will be made to the farmers through the Canadian wheat board on a limited portion of prairie wheat production.

The board would have to raise the money by borrowing from the banks at negotiated interest rates. Usually such costs are borne eventually by the farmers, whose wheat is marketed by the federal board.

But in the case of cash advances the government may well charge the interest costs to the public treasury.

Undoubtedly the scheme — a Progressive Conservative election promise—will release a new amount of purchasing power.

Truckers Win $6.66 Damages From Railroads

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A civil damage suit involving claims and counter - claims for $370,000,000 has ended in victory for the trucking industry over the railroads' counter suit.

The truckers, joined by the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association, had sought $250,000,000, contending the railways, backed by the Eastern Railroad Presidents' Conference, had formed a conspiracy to drive them out of business.

Sixteen railways and the conference countered with a suit of their own seeking $120,000,000, charging a conspiracy in restraint of trade.

Some Boy or Girl Now in School Could Be First to Reach Moon

NEW YORK (AP)—Some boy or girl now in school could well become the first earthling to set foot on the face of the moon.

That girl, grown into a slim young woman, could be the first housewife to visit the moon, which weighs less. Weight could be critical in deciding who goes explore big space.

Space trips by humans are apparently coming.

This is the quickening promise of the space age, opened just 16 days ago by Russia's sputnik or baby moon.

Free - flight gravity is first break in the chain of gravity keeping mankind bound to earth. The success has scientists soberly predicting rocket flights to the moon within a few to half a dozen or 10 years or more.

Sending animals up in moons is a next stage, says one Russian scientist, to see how life in the cosmos affects them.

He foresees creation of space platforms, 621 miles or more out, much as sputnik is doing. These would be created by sending up big space rockets, timed to become a train of closely bunched rockets. They would, in self-propelled space suits, manoeuvring in space powered by their own rockets, couple, uncouple, could pull the cargo sections together, build space platforms, assemble a ship inside the space platform.

They'd be whizzing around the world at 18,000 miles an hour—but never notice it. With this head start of speed, they could easily blast off (a rocket ships to reach speeds of 25,000 miles an hour. That would let them escape from earth's gravity, and go exploring the moon or nearby planets.

Madoc Armouries Filled As Smith Named Candidate

External Affairs Minister Receives 45 Nominations

MADOC (Staff) — Dr. Sidney Smith, Canada's External Affairs Minister and former president of the University of Toronto, was the unanimous choice of Hastings-Frontenac Progressive Conservatives yesterday as they met at the Madoc Armouries to name him their candidate for the November 4th by-election.

The riding seat has been left vacant by the resignation of George S. White, since appointed to the senate, who stepped out to open a Commons seat for Dr. Smith. Senator White has been riding member for 17 years and at the June 10th general election rolled up a majority of over 6,500 votes.

Prime Minister John Diefenbaker was the main speaker at yesterday's convention and, after paying tribute to Senator White and also his External Affairs Minister, went on to say that his Progressive Conservative Government next week, with the opening of Parliament, would go about carrying out its election promises.

The Madoc Armouries was jammed almost to capacity for the nomination as delegates from all parts of the riding figured into the hall long before the official party arrived.

The Prime Minister flew in from Ottawa, landing at Crystal Beach on nearby Moira Lake. Later there was a parade through Madoc's St. Lawrence street, headed by the Madoc Municipal Band. The official party, with the Prime Minister and Dr. Smith in the lead, was then piped into the convention hall by members of the Havelock Pipe Band.

Riding Association president Hugh Neal was chairman for the meeting and after official opening ceremonies called for nominations.

Dr. Smith was the only candidate named and received a total of 45 nominations from the floor of the convention hall. Included among the notables on the platform were Senator George S. White, who introduced Dr. Smith as the new candidate; Gordon K. Fraser, M.P. for Peterborough; D. E. for Lanark; Roscoe Robson, M.L.A. for Hastings East and W. E. Sandercock, M.L.A. for Hastings West.

TRIBUTE TO WHITE

Paying tribute to Senator White for his 17 years' service as riding member, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said his presence would be missed in the House of Commons.

But he trusted that Senator White would continue to serve in the riding and the people of Canada for another 17 years in the Upper House.

Senator White, he said, was a man with capabilities and qualities of statesmanship.

Dr. Sidney Smith, who had accepted the call to External Affairs Minister, was described as a national figure and a man with the experience necessary for the position.

There will also be one street letter box collection in the evening, while receipt and despatch of mails will be as usual and general delivery service will be given.

Religious Film To Be Shown At Army Citadel

The new motion picture "John Wesley" is coming to Belleville. It will be shown at the Salvation Army Citadel on Pinnacle Street, Saturday, October 12th, at 8.00 p.m., according to Captain C. Ivany.

The feature-length film is in the new Eastman color and was produced by the Radio and Film Commission of The Methodist Church (United States) in co-operation with J. Arthur Rank.

It brings to the screen for the first time the dynamic and colorful 18th century evangelist and educator.

John Wesley's miraculous rescue from a burning house at the age of five, at the beginning of the film, forecasts the dramatic and eventful life which unfolds in this story of a man of slight stature but of indomitable courage upon his contemporaries and upon history.

The English clergyman thought his vocation in America as a missionary to the Indians in the Georgia colony was a failure, but it was the kind of failure which opened the door to the discovery of a religious certainty he had been seeking.

Perseverance, this discovery, in which John Wesley felt his "heart strangely warmed", led him to face mobs unafraid and to ride 250,000 miles on horseback, changing the manner of English people from a state of moral degradation to sturdy and happy uprightness.

His appeal to the common man, his establishment of schools, clinics, lay preaching and societies — finally his sending of supervisors to every corner of the new world after the American Revolution — all these make the film one which will be long remembered.

Hushed and Still Audience Watches Unfolding of Christ's Life in Fine Passion Play

". . . Surely he hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows; yet we did esteem him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted. But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed." (Isaiah 53:4-5)

The large audience which filled the Collegiate auditorium last evening was hushed and still as it watched the unfolding of the "The Greatest Life Ever Lived," and "The Greatest Story Ever Told," as portrayed by Val Balfour in the Obersammergau Passion Play presented by Passion Play Tours, Incorporated.

From the first blue glimmer of the coming dawn over the watching shepherds on the Judean hills; through each succeeding scene and vicissitudes of the brief life of the Man of Galilee, which included His sermon on the mount; the healing of blind Bartimeaus; the deliberation of the High Priests how they might trap the hated Nazarene; the last supper and the washing of the disciples feet; the betrayal of Judas, lover of money; the trial through the long mid-night trial when Jesus was hustled to Pontius Pilate; thence to Herod, the weakling of the Romans; beheader of John the Baptist, and back to Pilate; the mock cries of Crucify him! Crucify Him! by the hired rabble; the agony in the garden; the darkness and weary Christ on the "Via Delorosa"; Judas' soul agony of remorse; the crucifixion and the darkness, lightnings and thunders; the garden tomb, and the glorious culmination of the ascension with its radiant light, and gleaming countenance of Christ, viewed by restrained and holy reverence.

LONG TO BE REMEMBERED

Val Balfour's "Christ" was one long to be remembered. It stood out from all others with kingly dignity, regal bearing and matchless mercy; unbounded compassion, and infinite love.

Mary, the mother of our Lord, was depicted with gentle, quiet dignity.

Mary Magdalene displayed tender sympathy toward the less fortunate, and reverential love and devotion to her Lord.

The resurrection was that of Judas, the betrayer, depicting his agony of soul when the full realization of the awful deed was made clear to his greedy mind. Calaphas, the high priest, was outstanding in his deadly hatred of the lowly Nazarene, as was also Annias, the old high priest and the rest of the Sanhedrin members, including Joseph of Arimathea, who later provided the new tomb in which never man was laid; and Nicodemus, who came to Jesus by night, and was told "Ye must be born again."

PONTIUS PILATE

Pontius Pilate, governor of Palestine was a perfect delineation of the Roman governors of that era, who considered their position ahead of justice.

Herod, whose unlawful wife, Herodius, had been the instigation of his beheading of John the Baptist, because he had taken Herod to task about his conjugal position; was a true representation of that lustful wine-bibber.

The Obersammergau Pasion Play is a careful, true, and inspiring portrayal of the tragedy which scattered the Chosen people among the nations.

The final scene, the ascension into heaven from the Mount of Olivets, is a precursor of that day to come, "when this same Jesus which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven." (Acts 1:11). The costumes were beautiful and authoritative of that period.

There was a stillness, and a slowly dimming out with many white handkerchiefs, of the assembly following the close of the portrayal.

The performance will be repeated this evening and Saturday evening.

Police Charge Woman After Fatal Mishap

The Ontario Provincial Police today charged Miss Marilyn Elmy, 20 Dunbar St, with careless driving following a fatal accident on Colleges St. last Saturday afternoon.

Miss Elmy is alleged to have been driving a car which struck 8-year-old Cyril Shea, at the intersection of College and Lemoine Sts. Cyril died en route to hospital. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. MacKenzie, following a car.

Miss Elmy will appear in county court on October 31.

Radio Engineers Hear Address On New Device

The opening meeting of the 1957-8 season of the Bay of Quinte section of the Canadian Radio Engineers was held on Tuesday night, at the Kiwanis Centre. The chairman, Dr. D. Ryan of the Royal Military College in Kingston, drew the attention of members to the forthcoming national convention in Toronto in November.

Mr. H. L. Blacker, chairman of the program committee, outlined some of the highlights of the coming year. These are to include a joint meeting with the Engineering Institute of Canada and a field trip to the General Electric Laboratory in Peterboro.

The speaker, J. Rywak of the Northern Electric Co. was introduced by Norm Desmond. Mr. Rywak has been engaged in the development of a new frequency counter which is a sensitive device for measuring radio-activity.

Mr. Rywak pointed out that the problem of detecting the presence of uranium and other radio-active ores is actually one of detecting the extremely high velocity and highly penetrating sub-atomic particles with an instrument given off by these elements. He reviewed the development of the various instruments which have been used in laboratory work and some of the problems which have to be dealt with in making an instrument suitable for field use.

Some of the desirable characteristics are light weight, low power consumption, reliability, ease and reliability. Sensitivity is important since the uranium may be buried underneath top soil. A non-radio-active rock. His instrument consequently a twentified amplifier of a pocket flashlight, is small enough to be carried by hand and the power supplied which is ten to twenty times more sensitive than the old instrument now in use.

The speaker was thanked by Dave Vice and then surprised by the presentation of a large birthday cake. Since a careful check with the scintillation counter showed that the cake was not radio-active it was set aside to form a luncheon for the committee members served after the meeting.

TRENTON (Special) — The Attorney General's department has ordered an inquest into the deaths of six Canadian soldiers of Italian extraction killed in a car-truck collision at the west end of Trenton's main bridge on Highway No. 2, September 30. The date has been set for October 15 in the town hall at Brighton with coroner Dr. H. Presutti, Brighton, presiding. The truck driver, Glen Fox, 31, of Parham, charged with criminal negligence causing death, was released on $2,000 bail, appears for trial in County court, 23. The investigation of the accident was carried out by the Ontario Provincial Police, Brighton detachment.

BRIGHTON MAN CHARGED

Ray Evans, 25, of Brighton, has been charged with criminal negligence in connection with the fatal accident of Oscar Cummings, 57, who died in the Trenton Memorial Hospital following a two-car collision on Highway No. 30 north of Brighton last month. The preliminary hearing is scheduled for November 21 at Brighton.

GUILTY OF THEFT

Found guilty of the theft of five large bags of clover seed, Claire Palmer and Clifford Semmerville of Morganston, will be sentenced November 7.

SIGN AGREEMENT

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—A five-day strike of 100 civic employees ended tonight when the city and Local 87 of the Civic Employees Union signed a two-year agreement calling for a 15-cent an hour wage increase retroactive to Feb. 1, 1957 and a further 15 cents Feb. 1, 1958. The settlement, reached after seven hours of negotiations, raises the employees' basic wage to $1.58 from $1.46.

Nation's Press, Radio, TV To Fully Cover Queen's Visit

Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip arrive in Ottawa tomorrow at 4.00 p.m. and will stay in the capital. The CBC radio and television media, as well as the national press will be on the scene to give people at home first-hand accounts of the Royal visit.

The Queen will open Parliament on Monday at 3.00 p.m.

Millions of Canadians who are unable to get to the capital will be able to see and hear almost the whole program on television or listen to it on their radio sets.

Over the CBC radio and television network on Saturday from 4.15 to 6.15 p.m. a full description of the Royal party's arrival and reception at Uplands Air-port, and of the procession from the airport to Rideau Hall will be given.

Sunday, from 10.18 a.m. to 12.00 noon, radio will broadcast the service at Christ Church Cathedral, Ottawa, at which Prince Philip will read the lesson. On the way to the cathedral, the Queen and Prince will start their day by visiting and lay a wreath at the Cenotaph. Television cameras will be on hand also during 10.15 a.m. to 11.00 a.m.

QUEEN SPEAKS

Queen's Speech Sunday night

Her Majesty will address the nation over CBC radio and television Sunday night. It is expected that the Queen has ever made use of "live" television to speak directly to her people.

CJBQ in Belleville will also be taking broadcasts of the Royal visit, broadcasting the Royal visit. Times on Saturday are from 4.00 p.m. and continuing to 6.15 p.m. Sunday times are 10.00 a.m. and 9.00 p.m.

Monday (Thanksgiving Day) Her Majesty will officially open the Parliament and read the Throne from the Throne — the first time in Canadian history that a reigning monarch has done so. CBC radio times: 2:15 p.m. — 4:45 p.m. CBC television times: 2:00 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. CBC television times: 2:15 p.m. to 4:45 p.m. (Television cameras will be located in the Senate Chamber to cover the Speech from the Throne.)

Tuesday, 10:00 — 10:30 a.m., over CBC radio and television, people at home will get a description of the Royal couple's visit to Hull, just across the Ottawa River from the capital. Later, at 4.00 p.m., CBC radio and television will cover the ceremony at Hurdmans Bridge, where Queen Her Majesty will throw a switch to signal the start of work on the Queensway, a bypass highway. In the afternoon, at 1:10, CBC radio and television will broadcast an address by Prince Philip, "The Role of Youth in Areas of Industrial Expansion." CJBQ in Belleville will air the Prince's address at 2.30 p.m. and again at 10.30 p.m.

FAREWELL .

Wednesday, from 8.25 a.m. to noon, CBC radio and television crews will give the folks at home a description of the Royal couple's drive from Rideau Hall to Upland's Airport, where they will board the Queen's C-5 luxury airliner and take off for the United States. Enroute to the airport, Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will stop off at Lansdowne Park in Ottawa's South to say goodbye to thousands of school children assembled there. CJBQ in Belleville will air the program at 10:30 a.m.

On Thursday at 10:45 a.m. and again at 9:30 p.m. the Royal visit will be the U.S.A. will be broadcast over CJBQ. Saturday, October 19, at 3.30 p.m. Sunday, October 20, at 7.30 p.m., and Monday, October 21, at 10.30 a.m. Special broadcasts will again hear CJBQ's coverage of the Royal visit.

The visit to Ottawa of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip coincides with the 100th anniversary of Ottawa's selection by Queen Victoria as the nation's capital.

U.S. COVERAGE BY CBC

Several hours before the Queen and Prince leave Ottawa, a CBC news team will fly to Jamestown, Va., to cover the arrival at 2.00 p.m. Wednesday of the Royal couple.

Recorded summaries of each day's activities will be broadcast on the Trans-Canada network at the CBC's Toronto studios Saturday and at 10:30 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. There will be a similar broadcast at 10:30 each evening next week on Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday, during the Royal visit to the U.S.A.

TO BUILD CENTRE

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Hooker Electrochemical Company announced Wednesday that it will start construction of a $3,500,000 research centre on nearby Grand Island next month. The company said the building, which will provide space for about 200 workers, will be completed by 1959.

Picton to Greet Hasty Pees in Holiday Reunion

Picton streets will again resound to the once-familiar tread of marching infantry feet when the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment observes its eleventh annual reunion over the weekend.

The town which gave the "plowboy" regiment birth will echo to anecdote and reminiscence tomorrow, Sunday and Monday when it is expected some 400 of the youngish old-timers will swap stories, renew acquaintances and relive wartime experiences.

The "troops" from far and near will register at the armouries on Saturday starting at 1.30 p.m. From then until 9 p.m. the reunion will shape a get-together over a dance session at the armouries at night.

The regimental association will convene at 10 o'clock Sunday morning where special business will be dealt with and at 12.30 the veterans will fall in preparatory to the march to the town cenotaph where a memorial service will be held at one o'clock.

The memorial service will be conducted by Padre Lane who, it is expected, will be the guest speaker at the banquet scheduled for 2.30 p.m.

All former Hasty Pees are requested to attend the reunion. Members are requested to make their own reservations which are available at the Royal and Globe Hotels and Ricketon Castle.

TORONTO STOCKS

Although the decline here was not as severe as the one in New York, prices moved down on a broad front. The industrial index lost more than 3¼ points to touch their lowest level in two years. Western oils were at a 1957 index low with a loss of 1½ points. Golds and base metals eased narrowly.

Trading was the fastest in three sessions. Volume at 11 a.m. was 537,000 shares compared with Thursday's 456,000 at the same hour.

School Children Get Chance to See Diefenbaker

Prevalence of the 'flu in the Madoc district, and the holding of a Progressive Conservative nominating convention in the Madoc Armouries, resulted in a double opportunity for Madoc school children to see Prime Minister John Diefenbaker on Thursday afternoon.

In two classes at Madoc public school only 20 of 89 students showed up for school Thursday and acting on a "what's the use" attitude, teachers took the pupils to watch the arrival at the armouries of the Prime Minister and his party. One of the Madoc district rural schools also took the time off to see Mr. Diefenbaker.

But not to be outdone children who actually attended classes also saw their Prime Minister and many were successful in obtaining autographs.

As the convention concluded the Prime Minister and his party were piped out of the armouries by the Havelock Pipe Band where he was greeted by 200 school pupils lined up along the sidewalk.

$1,000 Package Finally Reaches Right Person

OTTAWA (CP) — An unusual chain of coincidences this week sent a package containing $1,000 bouncing around Ottawa before it finally reached the person it was intended for.

It began when 16 - year - old Louise Cote, her head filled with thoughts of birthday presents she had received, dreamed one night of receiving a large sum of money. Wednesday she mailed parcel containing $1,000 arrived with a note signed by "sister" Jacqueline.

The problem: It was addressed to 222 Daly, Louise lives elsewhere. And her sister Jacqueline already had sent a birthday present.

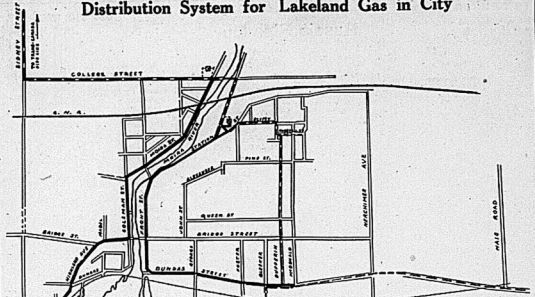
The money had been mailed by G. Cote of Riviere du Loup, Que., and intended for another Louise Cote, his 16-year-old daughter, who works in the external affairs department.

After exchange of telegrams and long-distance phone calls between Ottawa and Riviere du Loup, the muddle was untangled. The older Louise Cote used to live at 222 Daly, where the younger Louise's doctor now lives. When the packet arrived, the doctor received it and sent it to his patient — the wrong Louise.

The final coincidence: Both Louises have sisters named Jacqueline.

Want to Know Sputnik Orbit? Phone Moscow

MANCHESTER (AP) — The Manchester Guardian says today if Western scientists want exact figures on the orbit of the Soviet earth satellite all they have to do is call up Moscow by telephone and ask for it.



The Guardian says its own science writer had done so on behalf of the Royal Observatory at Greenwich.

It says the Russian scientist who is co-ordinating data on the orbit received from 66 Soviet observatories has promised to cable the information today.

"If the information comes it will be of considerable importance," The Guardian says.

The newspaper says the simple solution of phoning Moscow had been suggested to the International Geophysical Year organization or the British Society for the Advancement of Science.

Distribution System for Lakeland Gas in City

Lakeland Gas Co. Starts Installation of Mains in City; Expect Fuel by First of Year

Work started today at the city limits on installation of Belleville's natural gas system, and at the same time Lakeland Natural Gas Limited officials reported that the fuel should be in the city by the first of the year.

A crew of men and machines began laying the main which will bring the supply of gas into the system from the Trans Canada Pipe Line transmission line north of the city.

The contractor, Donovan Construction Company of Canada, has a large crew on the job and is to push it at full speed through the fall months.

F. J. Simington, Vice-president and General Manager of Lakeland said that while the actual start of gas distribution in the city was still somewhat indefinite it should be available to consumers by January 1 at the latest.

The uncertainty, he explained, rested with completion of two major pipe-lines.

One is the Toronto-Montreal section of the Trans - Canada line.

Trans-Canada has made arrangements to secure gas from Union until its own supplies are available from western Canada sometime next year.

Contracts have been signed between Union and Trans-Canada for this interim supply, and Lakeland, in turn, has completed arrangements with Trans-Canada for its interim gas.

The only detail still to be completed is construction of the two main transmission lines.

Pipe-liners are now vigorously pushing them in several "spreads" and it is expected they will be completed by December 15 at the latest.

In the meantime the $1.5 million system here in Belleville is now underway.

ACTIVITY STEPPED UP

Activity here was being stepped up as fast as possible as Lakeland is anxious to advance its building program to the limit before severe winter weather commences.

The Belleville distribution system will comprise a series of mains ranging in size from two to eight inches. The actual lead-ins for the individual services will be to a mere three-quarters of an inch and this is in sharp contrast to the magnitude of the Trans-Canada Pipeline.

Belleville's master main, an eight-inches, will connect with the feeder line just beyond the outskirts of the city. It will pipe gas down Sidney street to College where it will swing east to the Moira River. Here, the high-pressure system will be joined by another intermediate pressure main that will follow the course of the river to Moira street.

On the opposite side of the river a six-inch pipe will be carrying the gas from College street south, along station and then eastward on Dundas to about McDonald where it will diminish in a three-inch pipe, extending to the city's limits.

Feeder lines will branch out in all directions from the trunk system, assuring all residents of Belleville the utmost in natural gas service.

30 INCHES OF COVER

Altogether many miles of pipe will be laid in trenches dug to a depth of about 36 inches with a definite cover of 30 inches. This is considered sufficient for all weather conditions.

While the installation of a gas distribution system is not too complicated in itself, Lakeland, in the next five years, expects to spend more than $7,500,000 on the work. It is not only planning for present needs but the inevitable expansion of its systems that will come in the next few years.

After the first benefits of natural gas are realized by Eastern communities, Lakeland expects demands for service to rise quickly.

DITCHING MACHINE USED

When work started this morning on the first of Belleville's many mains, a huge ditching machine clawed into the earth, excavating the first trench. It was followed by a machine known as a sidestream which dropped long strips of pre-coated, welded pipe into the ditch.

After that it is simply a matter of back-filling and restoration of cut streets. Lakeland's officers are particularly emphatic that a first class job be done and their contractor has been advised accordingly. All work is subject to the city's inspection and approval.

The gas distribution system that Belleville will be using in the near future is essentially a "Pressure" system. This can be more fully appreciated when it is pointed out that gas pressure in the Trans-Canada Pipeline—the longest in the world, incidentally — might range from a maximum of 750 pounds to a minimum of 250 pounds.

But whatever the pressure in the master, line, Lakeland must make sure that service to its customers is constant and uninterrupted. To do this it must set up regulator stations. The first of which is on the main line and guarantees a flow of gas at 150 pounds. A second regulator station cuts this to 25 pounds and finally it is reduced to four ounces, the adequate amount for domestic and commercial uses. Gas pressure up to approximately 100 pounds is used to service heavy industry.

Regulator stations in Belleville are being located at strategic points along the network of mains and others may be added later, as required. When gas is fed to a residence still another regulator is used to assure that the pressure will be only four ounces.

17 Pulp Firms In Combine, Ottawa Charge

MONTREAL (CP) — Summonses were issued in criminal court Thursday against 17 pulp and paper companies for alleged violations of government anti-combine regulations.

The complaint alleges that cardboard of various forms, used in making certain types of boxes and containers, was involved in the infringement of regulations.

The complaint claims the offences occurred between 1924 and 1953. The summonses are returnable Nov. 5.

Named in the complaint are Bathurst Power and Paper Company, Montreal Anglo-Canadian; Pulp and Paper, Quebec; Northeastern Paper Products, Quebec; Beaver Wood Fiber Co., Thorold; Consolidated Paper Corporation, Montreal; Consolidated Paper Sales, Montreal; E. Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Slaughter steers and heifers generally lower at the close this week, reports the Ontario public stockyards. Stable fed yearlings and good cows and bulls sold on a steady basis. Cows, from medium down, were 50 cents a hundredweight higher. Replacement cattle receipts were very light and sales made at steady prices.

Choice and good veal calves, in good demand, gained from 50 cents to $1 a hundredweight. Grade A hogs gained 25 cents a hundredweight higher but dropped again at the close. Sheep and lamb prices were steady with feeder lambs in good demand. Bucks were discounted $1 a hundredweight.

There were about 1,350 head more cattle this week than last, up 1,200 head from the same week 1956. Eastern Canada receipts at 369, showed a decrease of 147 head from last week. Two carloads were shipped to Eastern Canadian slaughterers and three exported to the U.S.

Choice steers, weighing less than 1,100 pounds, found a ready demand at the open, but after Monday, trading on medium to good quality grades was down on a fractionally lower basis. Good were in demand and sold at fully steady prices.

Prices

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers $18-18.50, with a few lights at $18.75; good $16.75-17.75; medium good heifers $15-16, with sales to $16.50; medium $13.50-15; common $11-13; boner steers and heifers $10-11; choice stable-fed yearlings $20.50-21.50; good $19-20.50; good cows $12-12.50; with sales to $13; medium $10.50-11.50; common $9.50-10.50; canners and cutters $8-9.50; medium bologna bulls $13-13.50, with odd top to $14; common and medium $12.50-16.50.

Replacement cattle: Good $17-18; with a few to $19; common and medium $12.50-16.50. Light dredgeweight.

Calves: Good and choice vealers $24-27.50; medium $18-23; common $14-18; boners $10-13; heavy fat calves $16-21; a hundredweight.

Hogs: Grade A $28; sows $20, with a few lights at $22; stags $15 a hundredweight on a dressed weight basis.

Sheep and lambs: Good handyweight lambs: off car $21; medium $20.50; medium $18-20; common down to $12; feeders $16-18; good light sheep $7-8; common fat $3-6 a hundredweight.

PRODUCE MARKET

The egg market was firm on all weights of grade A with offerings light and other grades steady.

Country dealers are quoted on graded eggs, delivered here, in three-dozen cartons: Grade A fancy 37-38; A small 27; B 34; cooking pullets to retail: A large 42-43; A medium 42-43; A small 32; B 29; C 27.

Wholesale prices: Canada, first grade: Ontario 41½-42; western 42 (nominal).

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 3-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Thursday's rate was at 11-16 cents. Pound sterling at $2.71¾, up 5-16.

WEST LOOKS AT ITSELF

That Russian baby moon is doing more than to rip the veil off some of the secrets of space. Not only Moscow is learning interesting things because of it.

In the few hours that there have been two moons in the sky, there has been more serious thinking in the West about the basic differences between the communistic and capitalistic economic systems than in the previous twelve years, since the end of the second Great War.

Reading editorials in newspapers, great and small, gives one reason for elation, for in many of them there is evident a willingness, even an eagerness, to face unpleasant facts. There have been a few attempts to achieve the impossible and match in stupidity that remark by a U. S. admiral, (his name is not important enough to waste time looking it up in the files), who said that the Russian satellite was just a bunch of iron that almost anybody could put in the sky. In the main, though, attempts to minimize the accomplishment of the Russians have been few and efforts to analyze the position of the West, without resort to wishful thinking, have been many.

Firstly, there seems to be general agreement that the Russians have proven that their scientists are able men. There has been a general reference to the probability that German rocket experts, seized by the Russians when they occupied Eastern Germany, have played an important role in the Russian achievement. In most cases, though, this has been accompanied by a recognition of the fact that the West also has received aid from other German scientists, perhaps the cream of rocket-ology in any event, and by a feel would think that a handful of exiled Germans, working as slaves, could launch the satellite without assistance from Russians possessing a high degree of technical knowledge and skill.

At the same time there appears to be fairly general agreement that the West's scientists are the equal of those on the other side of the Iron Curtain. There may be misgivings about the quantity of scientific brains in the West, but not about their quality.

The failure of the West to set the pace in launching a satellite cannot be blamed on our scientists, it is agreed. Some other explanation must be sought for the fact that the Russians led the way. Numerous minor factors have been named, but there is a surprisingly general agreement that basically the reason will be found in the differences between the communistic and capitalistic economic systems.

"Their (the Russian) system of government makes it possible for them to work on a particular project with a degree of concentration that democratic countries find impossible to emulate," observes the Toronto Globe and Mail. This comment, far from being "off-beat", is echoed by other papers in slightly different words. The gist of the argument is that totalitarian regimes do not have to seek permission from anyone before devoting vast sums to research, while democratic governments must obtain the approval of taxpayers.

It would be safe then to conclude that the communistic system is better equipped than the capitalistic system to finance scientific research on the scale now necessary in many fields? There is a temptation to answer in the affirmative, but such an answer would overlook one fact. A communistic system might be better equipped to finance pure research than a capitalistic one, but there is as yet no proof that its leaders would want to do so, for there is grave doubt that the Russians' rocket and satellite programs can be considered to have been conducted for the love of scientific discovery as such. Rather they appear to have been tied in very closely with Russia's defence, or war, preparations. If research is linked with national security, capitalistic countries can obtain the consent of their peoples for the expenditure of vast sums. The U. S. hydrogen bomb program is proof of that fact. If, therefore, the failure of the U. S. to launch the first satellite into space is due solely to too meagre allocations for this project, the cause would appear to be a miscalculation of Russian capabilities, or an under-estimation of the value of being first with a satellite, rather than any difference in the economic systems.

To reach that conclusion does not alter the fact that basically the communistic system is better equipped to finance costly scientific research than is the capitalistic system. To recognize that fact does not imply admitting that the communistic system is better, but merely that it is better able to accomplish certain things. It accomplishes them at the expense of depriving people of their freedom of choice, in just the same way in which peasants who paid taxes to absolute monarchs a few hundred years ago sometimes financed, without their consent, expeditions of new continents.

The danger is that, recognizing that fact, the West may permit its original alarm over Russian achievements to subside. The danger is that, in a few weeks, nobody may ask, as the Hamilton Spectator now asks, whether too many of our engineers are being diverted to solving such desk duties. The danger is that nobody may ask why top-flight scientists should not be paid at least as much money as a man who sells soap or a woman who displays a 40-inch bust in technicolor. The danger is that nobody will suggest that it is ridiculous for Canada's National Research Council to be content to operate on a budget of $20,000,000 a year when a single television show, designed to sell hair spray or cigarets or beer, costs a million to produce.

Russia Rips Our Curtain

Ottawa Journal

Last June 19 a top Soviet rocket scientist told a press conference in Moscow that Russia planned to launch one or more satellites during the International Geophysical Year which began July 1.

The announcement was disbelieved by most of the world as propaganda.

On Friday the first satellite was duly launched, and as it whirred past the capitals of the world at more than ten times ordinary people gasped in unbelieving amazement.

The flight of the satellite has now set off an equally incredible flight of rumors. People who would not believe the Russians on one announcement that they could launch a satellite are now prepared to believe that this invention brings the world but one naive known to science armies and picnics to the moon. And in particular, of course, the scientific surveillance that the Kremlin is about to deal death from on high in huge bombs.

* * *

This newspaper is quite incredulous about the claims that the scientific significance of Friday's New York Times Sunday Magazine, with its "Khrushchev's comet".

But there is another significance that is somewhat within our ken and that is, we think, quite as important as the basic reality and immaturity of much of the thinking that goes on in the directed against Soviet communism.

Little talk much of the curtain the Soviet hangs about itself to keep its own people from knowing what goes on in the rest of the world. An equally dense curtain has been raised by the associate editor of this newspaper wrote and spoke about with genuine conviction after he returned from Russia several years ago — is the curtain we ourselves have raised ourselves when we look towards Russia.

Our curtain is composed of prejudice, ignorance and fear. It is perfectly natural to fear Russia—but it is wrong that we should allow our prejudices against her to blind us to her skill and strength and long-term domestic and international policies.

* * *

We are much too prone to follow the naive theory that any nation or people that we fear or hate we think they are cannot be as able as they say they are. And in the line of thinking we have been gulled and directed by many eminent people who have known better: leaders, statesmen, politicians, churchmen, educationists, some editors and, yes, even scientists.

Indeed, the journal knows full well from many years of news for many of them were quick to criticize the manner that often accompanies darkest possible interpretations on some portion of the general public) asserted confidently that we had been taken into camp, filled with vodka and lies. Even his motives were questioned — for he was quite capable of writing of Russia's strength and skill probably also capable of being a kind of fellow-traveller!

* * *

The non-Communist world has been learning the hard way of Russia's skill and might. It has gradually percolated through that a nation believed to be so backward in many ways could not possibly be so forward in as many ways. The strength of the Russian army, navy and air force, for example, don't support the hope that the country is crumbling apart. Their scientific progress has been proven in many areas of research and industry that concentration on greater education is bearing rich fruit already and holds bountiful promise for their political arts and propaganda wiles have attained almost staggering successes in some parts of the globe; their culture in music and art and theatre has been acclaimed wherever it has been seen; the Olympic Games witness their physical prowess and they have the gall to beat not only British soccer teams but Canadian hockey teams.

* * *

Yes, gradually things Russian are percolating through our own curtain; but much too late, because we have ourselves attempted to break down the curtain but because we have a curtain can no longer be concealed.

And are we the only really learned of our own folly? The scientist who warned in June that the satellite was on its way obviously can now be believed because a satellite is there and things can be being seen and heard as it wings across the world. But how many other things are there in which Russia which we refuse to believe because we lack material proof? It is just possible (though by no means) probable that this satellite may be the glorious enough thing to strike sense and understanding into the non-Russian part of the world that has been rightly fearful but wrongly ignorant of what Russia has been doing.

Mutations In a Ditch

The Montreal Star

One of the consequences of an increased amount of radiation, through general fission, will be an increase in the prevalence of such diseases as peptic ulcer, cataract, and sex-linked. Another will be an increase in the rate of mutations.

An illustration of what the latter means, an illustration which is startling in its simplicity, has been found in the Netherlands. There, from the Amsterdam Nuclear Research Institute has been dumped into a ditch. There it has produced monstrosities among the ditch's frog population. In the first few days, some too many. Some have hind legs reversed, some have front legs where hind legs and 20 long toes.

Radiation does produce some beneficial mutations among plants, but biologists inform us emphatically that such contributions are undesirable. Can anyone seriously suggest a desirable mutation in the case of animal life? Or accept with composure the prospect of such abnormalities on a broader scale as those shown among the frogs of the Amsterdam ditch? This is what the scientists are thinking of when they stress the potential danger in playing with nuclear fire.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Most of our leading popular singers both make records and have one or three notes in their upper middle register which are the best part of their voice. And in singing a song, whenever they come to one of those notes they give it all they've got — nothing to do with the words or the meaning — just the notes, no matter what song to do with the tune. When one of those notes comes along the singer promptly lets loose the full bellow. The accompanying orchestra drowns the singer's pride and love for these two or three notes, obliges by pouring on more steam at the same time. Thus, those of us who are old-fashioned enough to try to follow the words, are constantly being baffled by this wild whooping of words that have little importance to the meaning of the song.

To obtain full marks for these best notes given this special treatment, the singer usually gets behind the beat. This is known as off-tempo singing, and is highly respected in pop-loving circles.

The impression grows, after listening to a series of these singers, that as a matter of fact all they really have are these two or three notes. For the rest of the time they are hardly using their voice at all. You or I could sing just as well, until they come to one of those two notes, when, opening upon, they swell up and let loose the paralyzing roar, holding it interminably, bearing it, blasting it like a cornet player building up a crescendo and decrescendo effect on hearing this, pop lovers shiver with appreciation, and the young people go mad and scream and scream diligently.

In diminishing this phenomenon with a couple of quite young ladies, I mentioned that the meaning of the words was what they all thrown out of kilter by this howl being put on the wrong words.

"Who's interested in words?" scoffed one.

Pop fans are not interested in meaning, just in sound.

CONTENTED

Living is great,
And the world is immense
To the man who will view it
With wisdom and sense.
And so much is there
To be learned, ought to be [illegible] his mind,
And the burdens we know,
Aren't such terrible things.
For they come and they go;
But the fun that abounds
Is as real as a thing
A man can be merry
Wherever he's at.
It seems to me now
As I journey along,
That I just can't help singing
A bit of a song.
And I'm always laughing
At things that I see.
For I've got to the point
Where there's nothing irks me.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Messrs. Jamieson Bone, Lorne McDougall, J.W. Davison and John Marsh will represent the Belleville Association of the Ontario Fire and Casualty Agents' Association when that body meets in the Royal York Hotel on Thursday and Friday of its 17th. annual convention.

A number of young men appeared in police court today charged with non payment of poll tax. The magistrate gave them two weeks to pay and if not paid within that time the court will order recovery by distress and in default of distress a prison term of seven days will be imposed.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Wheatley have returned to the city after spending several months in England.

Mrs. R.A. Thompson of London, Ontario, spent the week-end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. John Sr.

Mrs. George Martin and Miss Martin of Toronto spent Thanksgiving here with Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Martin, Cedar Street.

An entirely new fad has entered the halls and corridors of the local high school in the form of a tiny blue tams which are worn by both boy and girl students. The girls were the first to introduce the new mode of head-gear; the boys noticed the fine effect and a raid was made by them on the hat shops. The Christie, which was popular with the students last year has entirely disappeared.

At a recent meeting of the South Hastings, Belleville and Trenton Teachers' Association the following officers were elected: president, Joseph Frappy; vice-president, Miss Nelson; secretary-treasurer, C. W. Frederick; executive committee, Mrs. Boulin, Miss Laird, law and Sister Hilda; auditors, Lieut. Col. David Barragar and W. M. Mott. Inspector H. J. Clarke explained the new compulsory reading course for teachers. It was decided that a library of professional books be placed in the Inspector's office for the use of the teachers. The convention was held at Queen Mary School here.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WHEN WE LOSE

None of us can win our objectives all the time. For long periods men have failed and failed again, then succeeded gloriously. Abraham Lincoln was actually a failure a short time before he was nominated for President of the United States, and he was deeply discouraged. But he was still full of courage, hope, faith and feeling he would yet triumph over which he did.

Read any notable biography and you will be told of many a failure which led to the ultimate success. As a matter of fact failure is the tiller of the soil we must all get hardened to the experience of failing. And when we do we must never put that fact down as final!

We must be grounded in the philosophy of success, which is to do something that will benefit others and add to the glory of mankind. A failure is the one who speculates only for his own market. The success is the one who speculates for the good deeds and useful enterprises. He is the one to imitate and tie to!

When we look around to study why we did, then — start all over again. Most successes start with a failure and learn from their failures. In my library are the speeches of orators and writers who are refused to fail.

The N. K. Fairbank Company failed at the inception of the century with their "Gold Dust Twins." I wonder many an advertisement for them at that time, but I can't forget the inspiring idea of those who defied and refused to be discouraged. Their failure to sell them was finally defeated his own. They started to win after that talk.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

OBEDIENCE AND FREEDOM

The Great British naval hero, Lord Nelson, told a new midshipman that there were three rules by which he must learn to govern himself, and that the first of these rules was, "Always obey your orders."

One of the oldest principles of naval and military training is that a man must learn to obey before he can learn to command. Doing what they are told to do, however, is more difficult for many people than telling others what to do. There are those who cannot seem to be happy in any job unless someone else is in charge.

Freedom and independence are cherished things, but they do not exist in pure and undiluted form in life as we know it. No one is free from the rule or discipline of obedience. Before anyone can enjoy the liberty of democratic living he must learn to obey laws, pay taxes, follow traffic signals, and conform to many other rules prescribed for the good of the society in which he lives.

In fact, the truest and most complete freedom which man can know comes only when he has given himself over to absolute obedience to the will of God because If you want to be really free, you must surrender to your own Master, and learn to obey Him. The pathway of obedience leads to blessing.

Personal Health Talks

The RH Factor

Medical technicians can determine by laboratory tests whether an individual's blood is Rh positive or Rh negative. By such a test, any one can learn before marriage, or rather, any couple can learn before marriage whether their blood is compatible.

Such individual tests of 1000 persons chosen at random showed that 88 in the 1000 persons are Rh positive and 14 in each 100, Rh negative.

Children of an Rh negative mother and Rh positive father are likely to be stillborn (born dead) or, if born alive, likely to have a severe type of anemia with jaundice. This is called erythroblastosis. In some instances the first child is normal, maybe even the second, but the third child is born dead or has erythroblastosis.

Of 111 women who bore babies with erythroblastosis, 100 were Rh negative and only 11 Rh positive.

Injection or transfusion of even a small quantity of Rh positive blood into the vein of a girl may produce sensitization to Rh blood such that, if or when she marries and bears a child, the child will be born dead or if born alive will have severe jaundice and anemia (erythroblastosis).

Of mothers who give birth to infants with erythroblastosis, 90 per cent were multiparous, whereas in random blood typing only, 15 per cent of women were found to be Rh negative.

If a man whose blood contains the Rh factor (Rh positive) marries with a woman whose blood does not contain the Rh factor (Rh negative) the child will inherit the Rh factor from the father, and the mother's Rh negative blood is destructive to the blood of the fetus.

If this is at all confusing I'm sorry. It is by no means as simple as it may seem. For instance, no less than six different Rh factors have been recognized. Moreover, incompatibility of a man's blood with the blood of his mate may be due to the fact that husband and wife are of different blood types or groups — AB, A, B or O.

Oh, well, I've been debating with myself for years about this question. That is, trying to make up my mind whether it is a health question or a medical question. Most times when I flipped the coin it came up medical and I turned to a more cheerful subject. But the other day it came up health and hence this piece. I do hope readers will not write me about the Rh factor, erythroblastosis, congenital icterus (jaundice), anemia of the newborn or hydrops fetalis. I have told here all I know about it. The only advice I have for those interested in the Rh factor is consult a physician.

The Rh factor is named because it was first found in the blood of the Rhesus monkey, but remember, it is normally present in most persons.

The reaction of this piece, if any, will determine the future policy of this column. Should we have more letters like the above here? I hope readers will express their views. Remember, this is a health column, not a medical column.

Will We Feud in Space?

By George Bryant in the Toronto Star

Perhaps I was in the minority but I felt a tremendous thrill Saturday morning when I first heard that weep, weep, beep from our new little moon.

There sailed a new and silvery Santa Maria through uncharted waters. And there called a cold, little mechanical voice, grateful to our future as that baby was to his.

Man has taken his first hesitant steps out into space. And though there were alive when he did it. Now, indeed, there are two moons in the heavens. And perhaps your sons will sail to their shores.

* * *

The one question yet remaining is whether we, like those millions of the 15th Century, will export our quarrels, our petty jealousies, our hostile feuds and our exploiting natures?

Will we plant the flags and fight off challengers, grasp all we can each for his own, wage bloody war for a piece of barren rock?

Will we act like adults, recognize that there are enough natural obstacles out there to feed all the efforts of a million science, work for our world, not our particular sector system?

Have we grown up in 500 years?

* * *

I'm afraid the evidence on the last question points largely to the negative. Small little voices are yapping from both sides of the Iron Curtain. Politics and propaganda are still very much in the picture.

We've improved our machines but not our minds. We have new techniques, but no greater intelligence.

All one has to do it take a look at the world today to find out whether we are a worth while expert.

* * *

However, it may be some time before, even this minuet goes sailing in space. There are big things to be done, and the interim perhaps the scientists will spread a little sanity.

They at least, or the majority of them, seem to get along very well together (such as co-operating in the International Geophysical Year). They realize that no nation has a monopoly on brains, or even keeps, keep from our new little moon.

Oil Is Killer Of Seabirds

Corner Brook Western Star

The appointment by Transport Minister George Hees of an inspector charged with prevention of oil pollution of Canada's coastal waters is a first small step to avert a serious threat to our seabird populations from the floating death of dumped oil.

But let us hope and be convinced that it will stop the wholesale and senseless slaughter that has every year in and just outside our coastal waters.

Next year, just as last year and the year before, tens of thousands of dead and dying birds will wash up on the beaches of Newfoundland, while tens of thousands of others will be killed at sea, and will disappear without ever being seen or counted.

Man-Made Moon Is Star of Hope For Soviet Union's Man-in-Street

By VINCENT BUIST

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The first man-made earth satellite today completes one week's travel in space.

For the world, the Russian achievement is an international political topic.

The Communist economy has produced the baby moon. But it has not yet created a baby car for the masses. Perhaps, the one may lead toward the other.

The Soviet system concentrates on industrial and technical priorities. It has produced commercial jet airliners, the first ballistic missile, the first satellite and the world's largest hydro-electric stations.

MAY GET A BREAK

It almost seems certain that this triumph of Soviet technology hastens the time when priorities will be rearranged to give the Russian housewife and her husband the good things of life.

A start has been made, and cheaper and other large towns have been seeing a larger variety of consumer goods.

A dramatic increase in Soviet consumer goods could wield as much influence in many world areas as the satellite has.

Meanwhile, the Russians have the world's praise ringing in their ears. This praise is reproduced to the extent of several columns daily in the Soviet press. The papers here maintain that the world's first satellite will stay up a "considerable time."

WRONG GUESS

Already Western forecasts that the satellite was about to plunge earthwards have proved wrong. This may be due to lack of information about outer space density, which Soviet scientists now possess.

Soviet leaders are not likely to let this present supremacy slip from their grasp. And there is no reason to doubt that the whole of Soviet technological ability now is bent on sending up larger satellites, some carrying animals.

LUSCOMBE — GAUDION

King Street United Church, Trenton, Ontario, was the setting for a lovely autumn wedding on Saturday, October 5, at 2.30 p.m. when Frances Beatrice Gaudion of Trenton, daughter of Mrs. W. M. Gaudion, and the late Mr. Wilson Mahy Gaudion, became the bride of John David Luscombe, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Robert Luscombe, The Reverend J. Mansfelly, pastor of the church, officiated before a background of pink and white chrysanthemums, interspersed with ferns. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

Miss Donna Ivey, niece of the bridegroom, as soloist, rendered the "Lord's Prayer," before the ceremony, and the "Wedding Prayer", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Horace N. Slovin, the radiant bride wore an original waltz-length bridal gown of silk taffeta fashioned with bouffant over skirt of tulle illusion, and fitted sleeveless bodice having a drop waistline, with oval neckline. Her hooded veil and train of tulle illusion was caught by small satin bows. She wore short, white gloves and carried a white Bible, (the engagement gift of her bridegroom), crested with white Cymbidium orchids, mingled with white stephanotis and trailing ivy leaves. A tiny pearl necklace, gift of the bridegroom, completed her ensemble.

Miss Grace Preston, of York Road, Trenton, as maid of honor, wore teal blue taffeta. Miss Jane Hepburn, of Fenelon Falls, as bridesmaid, was gowned in aqua taffeta. Both gowns were fashioned on princess lines with "V" shaped necklines, three-quarter - length sleeves and streamer-bows at back necklines. The gracefully full skirts were accented by bows of matching taffeta. They were matching bow-style headdresses, and shoes with white, short gloves, and carried bouquets of yellow Shasta mums.

Mr. William A. Campbell, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom as groomsman; while Messrs. John Campbell, of Belleville, Wilson Gaudion, of Trenton, brother of the bride, and Harry K. Davis, of Toronto, were ushers.

The reception was held in the church parlors, where the many guests were received by the bride's mother, who was gowned in rose-beige with sequined hat in matching tones, and corsage of red garnet roses, and stephanotis.

The bridegroom's mother chose pearl grey necktie silk with black hat and accessories, with corsage of red garnet roses and stephanotis.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with damask linen, centred by the traditional wedding cake, and flanked by pink and white 'mums and tall pink candles.

For travelling to New York City, the bride wore a slim beige wool jersey dress, fur-felt cloche and gloves in beige, brown shoes and bag, and hyacinth blue clutch coat, with corsage of red garnet roses and stephanotis.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Luscombe will reside at 702 Bleecker Avenue, Belleville.

When at her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at a miscellaneous shower given by Miss Grace Preston, York Road; by a miscellaneous shower given by the Young Peoples Society and ladies of Bethel Hall, Belleville, and one by Mrs. Frank Gaudion.

Christ Church Parish Guild Presents Gift

The regular meeting of Christ Church Parish Guild was held in the parish hall, with the Guild members of Christ Church, Hillier, as guests.

The president, Mrs. F. Beeby, extended a gracious welcome to guests and members.

Mrs. Beeby said how happy she was to welcome the members of the Guild of Christ Church Hillier, and to help them celebrate their 60th anniversary.

Mrs. A. Jones and Mrs. M. Bell, charter members of the Christ Church Guild, Hillier, were each presented with a corsage of yellow 'mums.

Mrs. W. Adams who was celebrating her birthday, was also presented with a corsage of yellow 'mums.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. E. Colebourne, secretary and a financial statement was given by Mrs. A. Watkin, treasurer. Several thank you letters were also read by the secretary.

Reports of various committees were given by Mrs. J. Dawson, Mrs. W. Kempston and Mrs. C. Bishop.

There will be a corporate communion for Guild members next Wednesday morning.

Mr. F. Beeby gave a detailed report on the mission to be held in Christ Church in November.

Rev. E. Smith spoke briefly and thanked the Guild and members who had sent him cards while he was in hospital. Rev. Smith also read a poem which everyone enjoyed.

Mrs. J. Herdman played three piano solos and as guests were celebrating their 60th anniversary, Mrs. Herdman played two selections which were popular 60 years ago and a modern selection.

Mrs. A. W. Jordan sang "My Cathedral".

Mr. Smith closed the meeting with prayer and Mrs. Beeby asked Mrs. E. Hickey to make a presentation. Mrs. Hickey said how happy she was to perform such a pleasant task and asked Mrs. H. Weese, president of Christ Church Guild, Hillier, to accept a gift from the members of Christ Church Parish Guild, on the happy occasion of their 60th anniversary. This gift was a coffee urn complete with some tins of coffee. Mrs. Weese in accepting this gift, said this was something they had needed for a long time and they certainly appreciated receiving it.

Mrs. Hickey asked Mrs. Weese to cut a beautiful birthday cake and all sang "Happy Birthday".

Everyone enjoyed the social hour which followed with sandwiches, birthday cake and tea being served.

Mrs. L. Jordan, secretary of Christ Church Guild, Hillier, thanked the members of the Parish Guild for their gift and hospitality which brought to a close a memorable afternoon.

ALREADY BOTTLED

SASKATOON (CP) — Gathering her crop of cucumbers, Mrs. Armand Perreault discovered one that was already "pickled" in an empty bottle. The cucumber had grown to 3½ inches in the old bottle.

Behind Locked Church Doors, Annette Dionne Quietly Weds

MONTREAL (CP)—Amid the splendour of a million-dollar German Catholic Church in downtown Montreal, Annette Dionne today was to become the first of the famed Dionne quintuplets to wed.

Her marriage to Germain Allard was to be a simple, intimate ceremony in Notre-Dame-de-la-Salette Church, a modern brick structure set alongside homes and business establishments on busy Bleury Street.

Rev. Germain-Marie Lalande, provincial of the Fathers of the Holy Cross, was to perform the wedding ceremony and celebrate the wedding mass. A small reception was to be held in the church basement.

ONLY 20 INVITED

Only the parents of the bride and bridegroom and a few invited guests—about 20 in all—were invited to the wedding and reception.

Annette, 23, and Allard, 24, tried to keep the wedding as quiet as their two-year courtship. The date of their wedding was disclosed only last Monday and then they declined to say where or as to take place.

Word of where it was to be held leaked out only a few hours before the ceremony. The couple had issued instructions that the church was to be locked 1½ hours before the wedding and that no one without an invitation was to be allowed to enter. This included reporters and photographers.

Special police were on hand to help the quints maintain their jealously-guarded privacy.

Annette was given in marriage by her father, who drove here here Thursday night with Mrs. Dionne from their home in North Bay. Pierre Allard, father of the groom, was best man.

Rev. Gilles Allard, Redemptorist-brother of the groom, was organist. The choir included another brother, Maurice Allard. Two other brothers Luc Allard, 16, and Claude Allard, 18, served as altar boys.

The church is the only one of its type in Montreal and is vastly different from the Gothic-styled structures normally associated with Quebec. In Notre-Dame-de-La-Salette, the altar is in the centre of the building. The pews circle the altar.

They All Love to Copy Royalty

By CAROLINE MacKENZIE

When the Queen and Prince Philip visit North America, it is certain that their styles — particularly those of the Queen — will be copied. Quite unconsciously, the Royal Family set fashions of all kinds. A "pudding basin" hat of Princess Margaret's (though unfortunately not many women) was copied in a few days, and dresses worn by the Queen have been on sale within hours of a photo. This artless little know-how the royal children's clothes have led to a boom in trews, sweaters and duffel coats and how carrings and ear-piercing, jeans, jazz, make-up in public and even dog breeds have become fashionable because "royalty did it."

London: During the visit of the Queen and Prince Philip to Canada and the United States, it is certain that tens of millions of eyes will be upon them through television and that tens of millions more people will study their photographs afresh in newspapers and magazines. Fashion-conscious women — and that is most women! — will observe every detail of the Queen's clothes in particular, and it is certain that her styles will be widely copied.

That is one of the fantastic things about the Royal Family in this age of instantaneous super-publicity. When, for instance, Edward VII and Queen Alexandra travelled, there was no rush to copy their elaborate styles — but that was before the day of mass publicity, mass production and smart selling techniques.

Today virtually everything members of the Royal Family wear and often do is copied, even when the results are a bit less flattering. For instance, Princess Margaret wore a controversial "pudding basin" hat at the Derby. It was an original creation, but "difficult" to wear. That did not stop copies being sold at about three guineas within a few days in the West End, "I agree, it isn't flattering for most women," a milliner admitted, "but they buy it because of the Princess."

GOLD CHARM BRACELET

Another idea which has caught on is the "Princess Margaret" bracelet, a chunky gold charm design which she has worn again and again recently. The fact that it is not a novelty hasn't prevented the fashion from spreading; this type of bracelet was once worn by the Princesses Royal, aunts of the father, Queen Victoria. A brooch of Princess Margaret's which was widely copied earlier was a diamond one designed in the form of a "puff-adder," a favorite piece of jewellery believed to have been a gift from the Queen Mother.

It is, of course, impossible to copy the Queen's fabulous, jewel-embroidered gowns worn on great State occasions, but her "everyday" clothes have always been rapidly copied. When, for instance, Elizabeth visited Canada in 1951 copies of one of her basic outfits, an olive-green hooded coat with matching frock, were selling in tens of thousands within a week.

Still more remarkable was the "black-and-white" check and-white "magpie" dress she wore for a premiere in London in 1952 in London. Copies were being snapped up in the shops within a few hours of the publication of the photos. A coat in similar style which she wore during the recent Paris visit was also widely adopted. Another fashion popularized by the Queen has been "peep-toe" shoes. Years ago she found them so much cooler for a tramp round a factory or a mill on a hot day!

The clothes of the royal children have been copied on an enormous scale. Dresses worn by Queen and Prince Philip to put Prince Charles and Princess Anne in tweed and sweaters at playtime led to a boom in these garments for children, for both sizes off the Atlantic Princess Anne pockets, Prince Charles caps (and blue ties) and turtle-necked sweaters have enormous sales. The royal children have also created an immense lot to popularize those little naval duffel coats fastened with wooden toggles.

News a few years ago that the Queen and Princess Margaret had their ears pierced by a West End specialist led to a "run" on ear-piercing, many of the clients in carrings, which had a further boost last year when Princess Anne wore her pendant acrew-on-pearl and diamond earrings for the first time in a party.

HAIR STYLES COPIED

Royal hairstyles, too, are widely copied. For some time now the Queen has worn her hair parted in the centre instead of on the right. Hundreds of thousands of women have found the style more flattering.

Increasing informality on many social occasions also owes much to royal example. When a photograph of Princess Alexandra playing tennis in jeans was released, jean, hitherto regarded as slightly "non-U" became more acceptable for herself and workers in the informal.

She was a delegate to the Sixth Commonwealth Mining and Metallurgical Congress which began in Vancouver last month. Since then delegates have inspected mines in all parts of Canada from the Yukon to Nouveau, Que.

While in Toronto Mrs. Booth said she was on hand when gold was discovered in the interior of New Guinea in 1934.

Awed by the tales of adventure, Mrs. Booth asked the Australian government which administers the area if she could take a trip into the interior.

"The government told me I couldn't," she said, "as women weren't allowed in the interior because of the cannibalistic customs among certain native tribes."

This didn't stop Mrs. Booth. She went to the goldmining region by river boat and there learned about mining and testing for gold.

It wasn't long before she found a spot beside a river that showed positive tests, staked a big claim and registered it with the government.

"That claim is still producing," she said.

There is no underground mining in New Guinea, she explained, but precious metal is not found in rock formation. Hydraulic sluicing is used to separate the gold from silt. A recovery clasamp is done at the mill about every three months.

A native of Queensland, Australia, Mrs. Booth became a nurse and worked at the Brisbane General Hospital until she went to New Guinea in 1921.

MAKE-UP HINTS FOR THE FALL BRIDE

1957's Fall bride is a vision in color.

Color will key the fall wedding, for the fashionable bride will drift down the aisle a vision of color in a gown of blue or pink or ivory, pearl white or Parisian flesh. Good beauty authority, is this bride's opportunity to go all out and be completely glamorous on her way to the altar.

However, the bride expert warns, when you forsake traditional white for a new and more fashionable hue you must define your features with more vibrant color. Otherwise your face proceed in looking wan and ill instead of ethereal against the background of your gown and dress.

Because the pastel shades tend to rob the complexion of its natural color, choose a foundation make-up in color harmony with your skin-tone with a rose undertone to it, advises the beauty expert. It will impart a soft blush to your skin no matter how white and shaky you may feel at this most exciting moment in your life.

Then add rouge, but gently. Choose a soft pastel shade to harmonize with your lipstick and powder. Here is a point of flexibility that it is like the brush of a flower petal across your skin. Then you see the color you need without its being obvious.

This is the opportunity to elicit the clear beauty of your eyes, so use eyeshadow in the lightest shade of blue or green. Choose your eyeshadow to complement your gown rather than your eyes so that you are a vision of color harmony no matter where your guests are seated. If your bridal gown is pink, then wear blue eyeshadow. If it is blue, choose the pink eyeshadow, and there is nothing lovelier than the beauty touch of green eyeshadow with the ivory gown. Bypass the smart brown and grey shadow on this occasion, for the pastels will give you a more "ethereal" appearance.

You'll want your eyelashes and brows to look as natural as possible so match your mascara to your brow pencil to your hair coloring. Of course, if your lashes and brows are extremely light, then you'll have to use a shade that will subtly darken them and make them appear.

Apply your mascara only to your upper lashes, and pencil the roots of your bottom lashes for depth. That is fond of tears do roll downward during the course of the ceremony, it will do so without disturbing even one lash of your beauty. Use a creme mascara, or apply the cake type with very hot water for greater adherence.

Feather in your brows with light strokes of your eyebrow pencil so that they are natural looking, clean, and well-groomed. Accentuate the arch so that it is high and graceful.

You will need a clear shade of red lipstick for color coordination

NOTE FROM MARY:

This is a short pep talk. I would be grateful if all readers who write to me would sign their names and addresses and enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope. Some only give initials! These readers columns have room for only a fraction of the letters I receive. That will explain why some do not give names and addresses do not get answers. Always give me a choice of answering by direct mail. Okay?

Dinner Menus

FRIDAY

Salmon Pie with Pastry Crust; Casserole of Tomatoes and Eggplant; Creamed Cauliflower; Cucumbers in Sour Cream; Lattice Grape Pie; Coffee.

QUESTION:

Could you please give us a recipe for bar-be-cue relish? . . . and what are peppercorns . . . it always called for in dill pickles in Daily Reader (no name or address).

ANSWER:

See another barbecue relish in answer below yours.

CUCUMBER RELISH:

(For hamburgs or hot dogs) Wash, quarter and remove seeds from 12 large cucumbers. Do not peel. Wash, remove stems and quarter 10 large green tomatoes. Peel and quarter 6 large onions. Wash, remove stems and seeds and halve 3 sweet red pepper and 3 sweet green peppers. Wash and cut tops from 1 bunch celery. Put all vegetables through food chopper using medium knife. Place in large kettle, add 3 tablespoons salt and let stand overnight. In morning drain thoroughly. Add 4 cups white sugar, 5 cups vinegar and 2 tablespoons celery seed. Tie 2 tablespoons whole cloves in cheesecloth bag and place in kettle. Bring to boil and boil 30 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove and discard spice bag. Pour into sterile jars and seal. Peppercorns or pepper berries are the seed which when ground is the pepper that you put in your pepper shaker.

QUESTION:

Again we have quite a lot of tomatoes in the garden, and I would like to do as much as I can with them . . . would you have a recipe for barbecue sauce? . . . one that has hot peppers in it . . . Julia E.

BARBECUE RELISH: . .

12 ripe tomatoes, 6 sweet green peppers, 6 sweet red peppers, 1 hot red pepper (optional), 6 onions, 8 tart apples, 2 cups vinegar, 2 cups sugar, 2 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 tablespoon salt. Grind fruit and vegetables through coarse blades of food chopper. Combine sugar, salt and spices with vinegar and pour this liquid over the ground mixture and cook slowly 3 hours, stirring frequently. Pack in sterile jars. Seal.

QUESTION:

May I drop in your dinner menu for last week . . . there was lemon snow . . . I would be grateful for the recipe . . . Mona McF.

ANSWER:

You mentioned you were enclosing a stamped envelope but forgot to do so . . . I could not mail this to you as I had no address.

LEMON SNOW PUDDING:

Make syrup boiling together for 5 minutes 3/4 cup sugar, grated rind 1 lemon, 1 1/2 cups boiling water. In top of double boiler mix 3 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 tablespoons plus 1 teaspoon each water and lemon juice. Stir in syrup, then cook over boiling water until thick stirring, then 30 minutes longer. Cool and fold in 2 stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into stemmed glasses and chill. Serve with soft custard: Heat 1 cup milk, 1/2 double boiler top mix 2 egg yolks, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt. Scald milk in top of double boiler. Cool over hot, not boiling, water until custard coats back of spoon, stirring constantly. Cool and add 1 teaspoon vanilla. and chill.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

GIRL SHOULD SUGGEST DEPARTURE TIME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a girl and her boy friend go together to spend the evening with mutual friends, which one should suggest it's time to go home? We're having a discussion about this . . . A and B.

It's the girl who should make the suggestion that it's time to go . . . this is a "woman's special perogative." However, if the girl is thoughtlessly disregarding the hour she and her boy friend promised her parents to return home, the boy may, and should take over, and remind her, "Dorothy, we really should leave now . . . remember we promised to be at your house by eleven."

SHOULD BRIDE'S PARENTS BE MASTER AND MISTRESS OF CEREMONIES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At my wedding we will have between 50 and 60 guests, and we are wondering if it would be proper for my mother and father to be Mistress and Master of Ceremonies. It seems to me that I have read somewhere that- t h e parents could do this, instead of an aunt and uncle or two close friends. Please advise us . . . D.C.

Customarily . . . and in my judgment, most wisely . . . the bride's mother is not asked to take over the responsibility of being Mistress of Ceremonies nor is the bride's father asked to be Master of Ceremonies. This makes good sense, since the bride's mother and father should be charmingly and busily occupied being gracious hostess and host. For only 50 or 60 guests, I shouldn't think it would be necessary to have any 'M.C.', but if the procedure seems so important to you, I suggest you have only a Master of Ceremonies, perhaps an intimate friend of your family. Actually, however, the best man can, and customarily does, direct the toasts-procedure.

TO WEAR . . . OR NOT TO WEAR . . . A CORSAGE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our niece is to be married soon, and we sisters, her aunts, are having a discussion as to whether or not we should wear corsages to the wedding. Some say we don't have to, others say this is not in style now, that it is "out." I don't believe this. What is your opinion? — M.V.

Each of your sisters, t h e bride's aunts, may properly do exactly as she wishes about wearing a corsage to the wedding. There is no 'must' about it . . . unless, of course, as sometimes happens, the groom thoughtfully sends each of you, as aunts of the bride, a corsage to wear at the wedding. The differing opinions given you were, I'm sure, due to the fact that some women regard a corsage as an accessory-must for this kind of occasion, and rejoice in wearing one. Other women never wear a corsage on any occasion, regard it as definitely unbecoming, not-for-their-person to sonality-and-style. . .

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. G.R. — I'm afraid of Danny's getting into trouble.

Daniel R. — I never did anything wrong.

* * *

Mrs. G.R. — I am a widow with only one son. We live with my mother and I have been going to work since my husband died six years ago.

My mother has done her best to care for Danny and to help me bring him up right, but I guess maybe she's too old to handle an active boy of 14. All I know is that Danny doesn't seem to have respect for her or for anybody else any more.

There is an older boy in the neighborhood who has been in trouble with the police and Danny has become his devoted slave. He does anything the older boy tells him and I am afraid of his getting into trouble.

I gave up my job for a while to try to keep an eye on Danny, but it just didn't do any good. Half the time I couldn't even find him. He has been cutting school, too. His teachers say he isn't really bad, just restless and needs more supervision.

* * *

Daniel R. — I don't see what everyone is complaining about. I never got into any trouble yet and I haven't done anything BY myself. Eddie got into trouble because of some other kids, but he never did anything to do with the things they said he did.

My mother talks crazy about me being Eddie's slave. We're buddies and he'd do anything I asked him to. He doesn't bose me.

The one who does boss me — tries to boss me, anyway — is my grandmother. She's always after me, always nagging me. If my clothes get mixed up from playing ball or something, she says I have been in a fight and tries to keep me home.

When my mother was home, it was worse. Then they were both after me. They are always expecting me to be in trouble. A few months ago I got an after-school job delivering orders and Grandma made me give it up because it kept me out too late.

* * *

The Council: It is fortunate that Mrs. G.R. and her mother recognize they are somewhat out of their depth in handling this active, teenage boy.

They are wrong, however, to give him the impression that they expect wrongdoing of him. They should show him they understand his restless need for more activity and expect him to put it into constructive channels.

It appears that Danny's big need at present is for a man or older boy to serve as a guide and a kind of ideal. It is natural for him to feel his mother and grandmother are "sissy" him when all they can offer at this stage of his life are "don'ts."

Mrs. G.R. should investigate the neighborhood boys' clubs. There are undoubtedly some with good supervision from athletic instructors and social directors. Danny needs this kind of supervision, not apron strings.

MANITOBA FISH

Lake Winnipeg, covering 9,330 square miles, is the principal source of Manitoba's big fresh-water fish production.

Working on Short Cut Road

Construction workers are driving a short-cut road through the Selkirk Mountains of eastern British Columbia to complete another link in the Trans - Canada Highway and shorten the distance cross the Selkirks by 90 miles.

At present a motorist driving west from Calgary has to take the Big Bend highway from Golden to Revelstoke, a distance of 180 miles, skirting the Selkirks and following the Columbia River. The Big Bend road is open only from mid-May to mid-October.

The new highway (broken line), an all-weather route, will follow the Canadian Pacific Railway route through the Rogers Pass area, cutting the Golden-Revelstoke distance to 90 miles.

Cost of building the new highway through Rogers Pass is estimated at $350,000 a mile, more than three times the average cost of prairie road building. This figure does not include avalanche protection which could double the cost.

The avalanche problem forced the CPR underground in 1916 when trains began to use the five-mile Connaught tunnel. The new highway will pass above the tunnel.

Areas enclosed by dotted lines on this map are national and provincial parks in the Alberta-B. C. border area.

HOW to get a beautiful Brantford Roof ...for LESS than you think

Take a tip from Roofus the Turtle. He's never had trouble with a leaky roof.

Getting a beautiful new Brantford Roof for your home isn't half the trouble you might think. And it costs a lot less than you think too. A beautiful new Brantford Roof, for an average suburban home, costs less than $200. That includes labour.

HERE'S HOW EASY IT IS...

See your nearest Brantford Dealer. Look for him in the Yellow Pages under Roofing Contractors, Lumber Dealers or Building Supplies.

Then drop in to see him. Select the style of shingle you like best. Choose your favourite colour.

That's all. And your dealer will probably arrange a time payment plan too.

Now here's something that only Brantford can offer to help you with your new roof. Brantford has a new exclusive "Check List". This Check List is your guide to a really snug roof. Ask your dealer for a FREE copy. Even if you don't know a thing about roofing, Brantford's exclusive Check List will show you all the points to watch. You can keep right on top of the job without even getting off the ground. And you'll be able to talk to your roofer in the same language. You'll know why he pays special attention to "laps" and "valleys" and "starter strips", etc.

CAMPBELLFORD

Classification Talk Given To Rotary Club

CAMPBELLFORD — Rotarians heard the classification talk given by Bill Johnston, manager of the Brewers' Warehousing Company retail store in Campbellford at the regular luncheon meeting of the club here this week.

Mr. Johnston said the Brewer's Warehousing Company was formed in 1927 as a co-operative enterprise of the brewing industry as a selling pool for their products. The brewers sell on consignment to the stores, and own all the shares of stock in their retail outlets.

Recently, the brewers have established a brewer's warehousing realty company on a similiar plan, whereby they acquire land and buildings.

The company has 225 stores in Ontario, and employs about 1,000 people. The employees have the benefit of all up to date welfare benefits, such as hospitalization, compensation and pension plans. The speaker stated that the brewing industry is one of the oldest in the world, dating back to the Egyptian and Babylonian civilization. Canada's first industry, he said, was a brewery established in 1668.

Rotarian Bill Dawson introduced the speaker, and he was thanked for his address by Rotarian Roy Ford.

Northport

28TH MILESTONE

Some time before it had been planned to make that notable event the highlight of the Sunday School picnic on October 6th.

The subject was loyalty, a most appropriate one for the occasion. Mr. Creeper had been invited to address the Sunday School, which he did, with the happy assurance of the veteran Christian, which the people of the surrounding country know him to be. "Happy Birthday" was sung heartily as he put his contribution in the mission jury birthday box.

He received a shower of birthday cards, and his grandchildren and great-grandchildren of Belleville entertained him on Sunday to a turkey dinner.

All wish Mr. Creeper many more happy birthdays.

Mr. and Mrs. William McCaw, of Picton, R.R. 8, were supper guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith, Lois and Corinne.

Mr. Tom Geddis having spent the weekend at his cottage here, returned to Toronto on Sunday. Mrs. Geddis and Byron are staying the week here.

Mr. Albert Baldwin is a patient in Prince Edward County Hospital. Mrs. Baldwin is staying with her daughter in Belleville. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery to health again.

Mr. Colin Kotchapaw, of Toronto, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Frs. Fred Kotchapew.

The teachers and pupils will enjoy a long weekend holiday as school will be closed Monday and Tuesday of next week.

Mr. Harold Munro, of Demorestville, was around last week with the assessment for 1958.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Palmer and family are moving from Mrs. Gilbert Hough's house in the village.

Mrs. Cryke of Toronto has been visiting Mrs. Edna McDermaid and Pauline.

Miss Elaine Mallett has been home from school several days with the 'flu.

Tweed

TWEED — Mr. and Mrs. Don Manion, of Mattawa, are spending a two-day holiday with both their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Champagne and Mr. and Mrs. F. Manion in Tweed. As a little "in between" they left on Monday to visit Mrs. Manion's brother and family in Barrie. Edwin Champagne, his wife and two sons, they will return Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Kenny, of Peterborough, spent Sunday with the former's mother, Mrs. Jamila Kenny, and Wallie.

Rev. Peter Murphy is now in Tweed as assistant to Dean J. J. Shannon, he took over his new duties just recently. Rev. M. J. Buckley, who was assistant priest here for a period of seven years, was honored by the congregation at the close of the benediction on last Sunday evening, and was the recipient of a cash presentation, by John J. Rashotte, Simon Mercy and Frank Thompson. Father Buckley has left for his new duties of similiar nature at St. John's Church, in Perth.

Mr. J. G. K. McFarlane of Lindsay, arrived in Tweed last week to supervise forestry research for the south-eastern section which includes Lindsay, Kemptville and Tweed districts. Thus a new member is added to the staff of the Tweed office of the Department of Lands and Forests. This department was formerly supervised by a staff member in the Peterborough district, but will now be residing here as soon as living accommodation is available.

The bed bug has finally caught up with the high school students, today's report card showing that 180 students absent and three teachers absent, are incapacitating while others are just being hit by the 'flu, there has been no mention of closing the schools.

Sorry to know that Mr. R. Clarence Graham, R. R. 2, Thomasburg, found it necessary to be hospitalized, in the Belleville General Hospital. Trust he will gain rapidly.

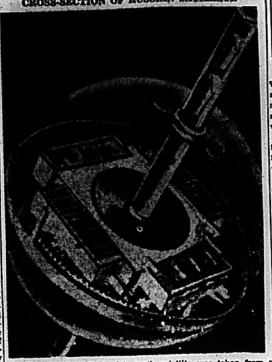
Born to Mr. and Mrs. Benedict (Dick) Courneyea, in Germany, on Tuesday, September 8th, 1957, a son, Walter Joseph.

To Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Treacy, of Larkins, a daughter, born on September 19th, Jane Elizabeth.

Also born to Mr. and Mrs. "Bob" (J.R.) Watson, of Halifax, N.S., a son, on Sunday, September 29th (see Cecilia Quinn).

Last Tuesday was the meeting of the Tweed High School Students' Council, and the balance of the form representative were elected. As follows: president — Bob Montgomery; vice-president — Mary Burns, Gary Blakely; secretary treasurer — Lynn Morden; school editors — Larry Bennett and Patsy LeSage. There is a form representative for each grade or form as well, who will have their vote in the school affairs.

A McColl-Frontenac Company film, featuring the Bahrian oil fields, provided the entertainment at the Tweed Kiwanis Club on Thursday evening of last week. Jim LeSage was responsible for obtaining the film and Jim was the guest of the club for the evening. The film was both educational and interesting.



At the Kiwanis on October 3rd, Mr. Oriel Griffiths, local representative of the Ross, Knowles Company, investment dealers, Toronto, was the speaker, at their regular gathering at the Hotel Tweedmuir, Tweed. A committee will shortly be appointed to present a new slate of officers for the club for 1958.

Reeve T. C. Graham is resting comfortably at the Belleville Hospital, after being there for over a week. His condition remains satisfactory and complete rest is the prescription for a few weeks for his complete recovery. His many friends, both social and in business life, are hopeful that his stay will not be too long and his return to good health be soon.

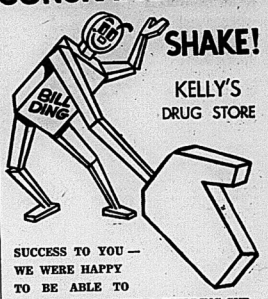
Port Dover Man Charged With Shooting Swan

BRANTFORD (CP) — Ray Harding of Port Dover has been charged with shooting on Sunday in connection with the killing of Stratford's black swan.

Norfolk County's conservation officer, Jack Allen, laid the charge Wednesday.

The swan, one of a pair presented to Stratford several months ago, wandered from its Avon River haunts. It was the subject of a wide search after Stratford officials offered a $125 reward for its return.



The bird was swimming in Lake Erie near Port Dover Sunday when it was shot.

Mr. Allen said the Sunday shooting charge was the only one that could be laid. The bird is not protected by the Migratory Birds Act.

SETS HIGH BAIL

TORONTO (CP) — High bail was set Wednesday in magistrate's court as six alleged members of a drug ring were remanded. Vern Epter, 50, charged with trafficking, was released on bail of $50,000 and John Lucik, 32 also charged with trafficking was released on bail of $25,000.

TWEED

Quaker Oats, Canada Packers Visited by Clubs

TWEED—On Tuesday, a chartered bus (joined by two other chartered buses enroute from Wallbridge and Stirling districts) left the Tweedsmuir Hotel, Tweed at 8.10 a.m. with 18 girls from the Girls' Club, of Chapman's, Tweed, and another group from Roslin also shared the group bus. The destination was Peterborough and the girls from the three buses toured the Quaker Oats Company and The Canada Packers Company.

The entire trip was outlined and planned by Mr. A. O. Dalrymple, the Agricultural representative from Stirling, while from the Chapman group, Mrs. Doris Lawrenson went as Club leader, with Mrs. Albert Mar'n, and Mrs. Bernice Booth as assistants.

Last year the group took for their years "social and study" "Garden Club", work and interests, while this year they are studying "Canada Shelf", thus explaining the enthusiasm shown in touring the Quaker Oats as one interesting project.

The group arrived home at approximately 7.30 p.m. the same day, feeling elated over their day of both pleasure and extra knowledge. The Girls' Club is to be congratulated on its splendid work and interests in the "worthwhile" things of the country and life as a whole.

The Girls' Club is affiliated with the Women's Institute.

Carmel

CARMEL — There was a good attendance at church on Sunday. It was Communion service. Junior choir did fine.

Glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clark as members of the Carmel Church. Jack, who is a splendid singer, will help out in the choir.

The Rev. R. J. McCrea showed films on Saturday night at the hall on his trip to their homeland. Pictures were much enjoyed. Mrs. A. Gowthorpe also showed pictures at she and their boys had trip to her homeland.

W.M.S. meeting was held at Mrs. Gowthorpe's home last Wednesday with a good attendance. It was a Thanksgiving program. The autumn rally of W.M.S. of United Church of Canada was held last Thursday at Foxboro. There was a large attendance with the different vessels in the tents and Mrs. Clark does the Lord Require of Me."

Miss Violet Saunders, Japan, gave an inspiring address which all enjoyed.

Carmel church will be redecorated starting on Tuesday of this week.

A few people have colds or "flu". Mr. Chatten went to Kingston on Sunday to see Mrs. Chatten. All are looking forward to Mrs. Chatten's recovery.

The ladies who have been busy at the canning factory are through for the season there.

Mr. John Homan has been busy getting his house painted. Miss Iva Horton is having her house painted.

Aluminum Foil Ball to Become Satellite

In Washington, William J. O'Sullivan, national advisory committee for aeronautics, sits beside the 30-inch "space ball" he designed and which will be launched by the U.S. 300 miles above the earth within the next nine months. O'Sullivan holds the inflation cartridge in his right hand. The aluminum foil "satellite" is folded to be carried in the rocket. When launched from its rocket, the ball will first be inflated by a cartridge of nitrogen. Once the balloon rounds itself out, the aluminum foil is strong enough to keep the ball rounded without any pressure inside. The "space ball" contains 65 cents worth of aluminum foil sandwiched to a sheet of plastic.

Stirling

STIRLING — Miss Delia Descent is a patient in Kingston General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hubbs were recent guests of their sister Mrs. E. Chisholm.

Donnie Budd, Stirling, R. R. 4, had the misfortune to fracture his leg and is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

On Saturday evening the River Valley folk tendered the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Brooks a rousing charavari at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Brooks. The group was treated to light refreshments.

Mrs. George C. Green is a patient in the General Hospital, Belleville, where she underwent surgery last week.

The wedding of Kenneth Myers, Mill Street, and Marilyn Quinlan, Trent River Road, was solemnized at Norwood Presbyterian Manse on Saturday.

Mrs. George Carlisle, Mrs. Earl Eggleton and Mrs. Wm. Wilkins, attended the W.M.S. Rally at Foxboro on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. George Heasman and Mrs. Phil Conley are holding their first "4-H Girls' Club meeting at River Valley School House this week. The series is entitled "The Cereal Shelf".

Mrs. George Carlisle, president of St. Paul's W.M.S. and also sectional vice-president attended the meeting of West Belleville W.M.S. at Stone United Church on the Sidney Circuit. Some 14 members of St. Paul's attended the sessions.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Tucker have returned from a motor trip to Calgary with Mr and Mrs. A. E. Caskey, Finchford.

ACQUIT OF CONSPIRACY

MONTREAL (CP) — Moses Mendel, 36, of Park York Wood yesday was acquitted of a five-year-old charge of conspiring to smuggle $40,000 worth of diamonds into Canada from the United States.

Foxboro

FOXBORO — Friends of Mr. Morris Jamieson will be sorry to learn that he underwent an operation in Belleville General Hospital. All wish him a speedy recovery.

Mrs. W. A. Dempsey, Langford, B.C.; Mr. Fred Yorke, 5th. Line; Mr. E. P. Yorke, of Havelock, were Saturday night callers of Mrs. Will Hodgen at the Prindle home.

Mr. Nelson Thompson of Toronto and Mrs. Clarence Elliott of Tweed were Sunday callers of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hollinger.

Mrs. Will Hodgen spent Sunday dinner with their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Don Johnson, Mount Pleasant-Rawdon.

Mrs. Will Hodgen is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Walt, 4th line, Sidney.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. McPhee on the arrival of a baby boy at Belleville General Hospital on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Judson Derry, Brian and Randy, accompanied their daughter to Barry's Bay on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kelly spent Sunday in Madoc with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Armstrong and Darlene were Sunday guests of the latter's grandfather, Mrs. B. Woods, Madoc, and supper guests of Mrs. Fox, Cooper.

Canada Must Eliminate Reserve Forces or Face Heavier Financial Burden

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Within the next year or two, the government, no matter what its political stripe, will have to face one of the most critical decisions in the history of Canadian defence policy.

The decision—whether or not to eliminate the 54,000-member reserve force—is unlikely to be taken until a government has a solid majority in Parliament.

Informants say it is extremely unlikely that any political party would risk votes at this time by doing away with the reserve forces which would considerably influence, notably the army militia.

But they add that the problem must soon be faced unless Canada is willing to take on a heavier defence financial burden.

VIEWS OUTLINED

Here is an outline of current thinking on the dilemma with which the defence department is beginning to come to grips:

Western defences must be kept strong. It would be insane to allow them to crumble after laboriously building them during the last seven years, especially at a time when Russia has given no indication it is prepared to accept a general disarmament plan.

At the same time, it has been amply well accepted here that defence expenditures should not be permitted to rise above their current level of about $1,725,000,000 a year. This amount represents some 35 per cent of total government spending.

But, year by year, equipment for the armed forces is becoming more expensive. It will become even more costly if Canada embarks on the field of guided missiles and atomic warheads. Officials say that unless Canada's armed forces acquire the most modern equipment, they might as well be abandoned altogether.

Thus the dilemma: What can be eliminated to make room for the increased cost of new weapons?

The only apparent answer: Manpower.

Both the Progressive Conservatives and the Liberals have said right along that Canada must maintain its commitments to the North Atlantic Alliance.

And all the generals today is on forces-in-being, that is, forces which would be able to act immediately, without further training, in event of emergency.

Thus it develops that there can be no substantial cut in manpower in the regular forces though some jobs could be eliminated (one example: Elimination of the headquarters of the 1st Canadian Infantry Division, with its three brigades being run directly by army headquarters).

The only fruitful field for manpower cuts is the reserve forces and their regular force instructors.

COSTLY OPERATION

There are more than 42,000 men in the militia, about 6,000 in the naval reserve and some 5,500 in the RCAF reserve. It requires about $34,000,000 a year to run the reserves but this figure does not include equipment costs.

Where are mutterings in the RCAF, the army and navy that many trained regular force airmen are assigned to reserve squadrons for maintenance and operations.

Any decision to dismantle the reserves would be a most difficult one for any government to take, mainly because in both world wars the militia was the backbone of Canada's fighting strength.

But authoritative sources say that a decision on the matter while time must be faced or defence costs will soar through their present ceiling.

The civilian staff of the defence department now totals some 56,000 persons. Most of these personnel are employed in dockyards, ordnance depots and the like. Manpower cuts could be made in this field as well.

POSSIBLE ECONOMY

Another possibility for economy is elimination of some construction projects. This would be hard on armed forces morale, however.

Officials say that stretching out construction and equipment procurement programs would not be an economy move in the long run. In the end, the cost would be higher because of increased overhead.

The Progressive Conservative government has had all defence spending estimates under review for some time but has not yet come to any major decisions.

One informant said the defence department is almost at a standstill because the review has meant that projects which had been ordered by the former Liberal administration could not proceed this year.

However, this will mean little or no long-term cuts in the current fiscal year which ends next March 31. Within these small cuts will be a major reduction in the 1958-59 fiscal year, cabinet sources say.

As presented by the former Liberal government, the defence budget for the current fiscal year amounted to $1,723,000,000. HAVE APPEARANCE

The Progressive Conservatives soon after taking office in June, 1957, announced a plan to boost pay in the armed forces. This increase amounted to $30,000,000 and was incorporated into the 1957-58 defence estimates.

Savings of $30,000,000 have been found to keep increases in defence within their original limit. Besides this, there have been cuts in defence expenditures all over all, the defence budget remains substantially the same as presented by the Liberals. There may be a small surplus.

The Conservatives have not yet had sufficient time for a full review of defence estimates and decisions on them. Much of the money allotted to defence had already been spent by the time the election was called.

Thus it develops that there can be no substantial cut in manpower in the regular forces though some jobs could be eliminated (one example: Elimination of the headquarters of the 1st Canadian Infantry Division, with its three brigades being run directly by army headquarters).

The only fruitful field for manpower cuts is the reserve forces and their regular force instructors.

Tories Reject Proposal Britain Be 'Third Force'

BRIGHTON, England (AP) — Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd today rejected Labor party demands that Britain act as a "third force" intermediary between the United States and Russia.

Lloyd told the annual conference of the Conservative party that "we cannot be neutral" in the struggle between the "human values as the Communists see them and our Western systems, whatever their imperfections."

"Neutrality is unthinkable," he declared. "It would be playing into the hands of the Communists to let it be thought that in this conflict we were casting ourselves for the role of a neutral."

SAME KREMLIN POLICY

Lloyd charged that world revolution is still the Kremlin's fundamental policy. He accused the Soviet regime of duplicity in submitting United Nations resolutions calling for non-interference in the affairs of other nations while at the same time trying to subvert other governments, particularly in the Middle East.

Too often "Soviet policy has appeared to be Communist imperialism—a horse of strange parentage, by Karl Marx out of Catherine the Great—the expansionist ideas of the old Russian imperialism combined with the missionary zeal of international communism."

Lloyd said the delivery of Russian arms to Arab nations has been the biggest cause for world-wide anxiety and tension during the last year or two.

ECONOMIES MORTGAGED

Without naming Egypt or Syria, Lloyd said: "Certain of the Arab states have had to mortgage their economies for years to pay for these arms and probably have done permanent damage to their economies."

"What is more, leading Soviet statesmen openly boast of it, saying that no government in the Middle East can survive it if it maintains friendly relations with the West."

Lloyd said the Tory government believes that Western powers' session of nuclear weapons "will also deter the Soviet Union from sprawling its way across Europe."

The Conservatives were urged Thursday to unite behind the government for an all-out drive to stabilize the country's economy and win the next general election.

Peter Thorneycroft, chancellor of the exchequer, said there is no "grotesque path" to financial security. He apparently aimed his remarks at some restive party members who have been calling for more spectacular results.

Britain Seems to Have Scored Advantage in Trade Talks

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain's proposal of an Anglo-Canadian free - trade union may well be countered by a Canadian suggestion of a free-trade union for all the Commonwealth.

At the moment Britain seems to have scored an advantage in what some officials describe as the game of "grand design" for realignment of Canadian trade.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has suggested that Canada might switch 15 per cent of her imports from the United States to the United Kingdom to reduce Canada's deficit in U.S. trade and to provide the U.K. with more dollars to buy Canadian goods.

So striking was Mr. Diefenbaker's suggestion that Britain lost no time in virtually challenging him to implement the switch by accepting the free - trade union idea.

The reaction of Canadian industry was such that the Progressive Conservative administration found it best to make no immediate reply. The proposal was neither accepted nor rejected, though undoubtedly it is being given careful scrutiny in federal trade quarters.

Mr. Diefenbaker will most likely have to face the issue in Parliament, which opens next week. The Liberals are understood ready to pounce on him, to demand that his party make clear its stand on that important development.

And undoubtedly Britain may raise the issue again, perhaps at a January meeting in London of Commonwealth officials preparing for the Commonwealth trade and economic conference to be held later next year.

Canada may suggest that, instead of just a two-way tariff strip, the whole Commonwealth agree to a free-trade union. The suggestion of increasing certain tariff preferences is to be taken up at the fall conference next year. Why not at the same time consider stripping all tariffs from within the Commonwealth, removing all blocks to the flow of trade within that area?

The likelihood of that being accepted is somewhat remote. Australia, for example, has obtained permission from Britain, under bilateral deal, to eliminate some imperial preferences to promote Australian agreements with the U.S. India and some other Asian powers may feel that elimination of import restrictions may increase possibility of foreign domination and control of their economies.

That, then, may lead to the shelving of the whole idea of free trade, without cussing any embarrassment to Canadian officials.

Meanwhile, all the international manoeuvring within the last two weeks—at Mont Tremblant, Que., Ottawa and Washington—has led to at least some concrete results:

1. As Canada desired, a full scale Commonwealth trade and economic conference will be held next year, likely in Canada.

2. Canada will send a trade mission to Britain and take other steps to encourage U.K. exports to Canada. But at best only a minor increase is likely to ensue.

3. The U.S. has shown no real concern over the possibility of a major realignment of Canada U.S. trade. However, she has agreed to go easy on her wheat giveaway program, a thorn in Canada's side, and to get rid of her own huge wheat surplus.

Relative of Two Killed in Crash Protests Verdict

TORONTO (CP)—A relative of two persons who perished in the crash of a Maritime Central Airways DC-4 near Issoudun, Que., Aug. 10 said Thursday he would appeal.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Transport Minister Hees, protesting the inquest's verdict of "accidental" death in the crash.

Eric Thomlinson of Burlington, whose father, Gordon Thomlinson, 51, and brother, 14-year-old Michael, died in the crash, said he was "extremely dissatisfied with the verdict of the inquest."

He said the inquest at Quebec City last month was an "attempt at whitewashing" conducted by officials of the Quebec attorney-general's department.

The Toronto Star says Ottawa lawyer O. J. Foy, counsel for the Canadian Legion, was rebuffed at the inquest whenever he attempted to bring out reports that the airliner, which had reported itself at an altitude of 14,000 feet over Quebec City, was actually down to 2,000 feet shortly before it fell into the swamp.

The Star says the inquest also but ruled out weather being responsible for the crash. But, the Star adds, death certificates sent to next-of-kin of the coroner who conducted the inquest now states the passenger list revealed "during a fierce hurricane."

Russia Offers Uranium Gift

VIENNA (AP)—Russia offered 50 kilograms of uranium 235 to the international atomic energy agency Thursday.

Prof. V. S. Emelyanov of the Soviet Academy of Sciences announced the Soviet Union is willing to make available its knowledge and experience in the field of atomic science to every member of the U.S. - launched agency.

The Russian offer was only one - fortieth of the United States agreement to give at least 5,000 kilograms of U-235.

May Change Name

CALEDON EAST (CP) — The chamber of commerce says the hyphenated name of this village is too confusing. It has suggested seeking a new one.

Caledon East, near Toronto, is five miles east of Caledon and has been mistaken also for Caledon East, 14 miles northwest of Kingston.

The chamber says if a majority favors a change, a $25 price tag will be placed on the post-present citizen coming up with the best name.

DISPLAY CATTLE

CHICAGO (AP) — Prize dairy cattle valued at more than $4,000,000 went on display Tuesday at the fifth annual International dairy show. At stake are $47,000 in cash prizes, silver trophies and ribbons. The exposition in the international amphitheatre is the industry's largest.

U.S. Declares She Will Stand Behind Turkey

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Russia confronted each other menacingly over the Middle East today, with each power warning the other against plunging the area into war.

Soviet Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev touched off the latest situation with comments regarded by the U.S. government as directly threatening Turkey. His statement was made in a New York Times interview published Thursday.

The state department said Thursday night that the U.S. intends to stand by its obligations to Turkey under the North Atlantic treaty and is "determined to carry out' its expressed policy of defending the Middle East against international communism.

WARN OF DANGERS

Clearly warning that a clash in the Middle East might spread to other parts of the world, the U.S. statement asserted:

"Mr. Khrushchev in himself reported to have observed that it is dangerous to think limited wars, that hostilities, once begun, will remain confined to a particular locality. That view should be prayerfully and constantly contemplated by every responsible official of every country."

The American statement is understood to have been cleared with President Eisenhower and to have been drafted, in some, at least, of the other members of the North Atlantic alliance. The eight-year-old treaty provides that an armed attack against any member "shall be considered an attack against all" member nations.

Truckers Urged To Fight Rails' 'Agreed Rates'

CHICAGO (AP) — A Canadian trucking official urged the American trucking industry Thursday to fight any proposal for "agreed rates" for the movement of freight.

W. H. Parke of Toronto called such rates "a vicious anti-truck weapon" and "the most serious threat facing the Canadian trucking industry."

Parke, a past president of the Canadian Trucking Association, made the remarks in an address to a convention of American Trucking Associations Incorporated.

He described such agreements as contract rates which the railroads negotiate with the shipper for the transportation of any commodity for at least a specified period.

"The higher the shipper goes in the percentage of traffic which he will withdraw from the highway transport fleet, the rates offered by the railroads."

Thousands Will Pour Into Capital To See Royalty

OTTAWA (CP) — The 250,000 population of the capital area is expected to be swelled by more than 100,000 during the four-day visit of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

Extra trains and buses will pour visitors into the city and Airlines report all flights heavily booked and extra planes are ready for use if needed.

The city tourist bureau reports there are still rooms available in private homes for visitors seeking overnight accommodation.

At least two special trains will bear the name of Trenton during the royal visit, bringing almost 2,000 children.

A Big Four football game between Ottawa Rough Riders and Montreal Alouettes will help swell crowds Saturday.

MANY PRIVATE CARS

In addition to visitors travelling by public transport, thousands will come in their own cars.

Restaurants are extending hours to make sure all visitors can eat without delay. The Chateau Laurier Hotel is keeping its big cafeteria open Sunday to help feed the crowd. Normally it is closed.

Most of the visitors are expected to spend only a day in the capital, thereby easing some of the strain on accommodation facilities.

Native of Belleville Snaps More Pictures of "Moon" As It Speeds Around Earth

NEWBROOK, Alta. (CP)—Busy astronomers Arthur Griffin and Jack Grant this morning snapped more pictures of the Soviet satellite as it sped around the earth.

Most of the pictures showed the satellite only as a sharp, white blur—hardly more than a scratch on the print. And there was some argument as to whether the blur was the sputnik or the rocket that launched it.

Mr. Griffin, 34-year-old native of Belleville, Ont., who is chief of the Dominion Meteor Observatory here, ignored doubters and continued snapping. He took his first pictures of the satellite early Wednesday morning. They may have been the first photographs of the satellite in flight.

He took more Thursday morning and was behind his big Super-Schmidt camera again early this morning, scanning the northern sky.

He said the second group of pictures came out clearer than the first.

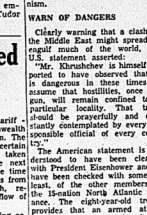
LESS SUCCESSFUL

Mr. Grant took his pictures at Meanook Observatory, 25 miles northwest of here. They weren't as clear, despite the 24-ton Super-Schmidt he used, a bigger camera than the one at Newbrook.

His film barely showed the stars and there war no trace of the satellite. The federal government scientist said he would try again this morning, however.

Canadian Press reporters, who stood vigil with Mr. Griffin while he waited for the satellite to appear Thursday, said it looked like "a swiftly-moving star. They said it stayed in view for three minutes.

Both scientists said they think they are photographing the satellite and not the rocket although the Dominion Observatory at Ottawa said it was likely the rocket had been sighted, being bigger and much brighter than the 184-pound sputnik.



The satellite, rocket and nose cone are each spinning about the earth in the same orbit at 18,000 miles an hour. The rocket, about 600 miles behind, would pass about two minutes after the sphere did.

HOPE TO IMPROVE

The scientists, with more experience now in locating and lining up their objective, hope to take clearer pictures if the weather stays good for the next few days. Newbrook, 70 miles northeast of Edmonton, is considered an ideal location for snapping the satellite.

The Super - Schmidt cameras here, used in photographing meteors, are among the only six in existence.

Whole Complexion of Great Social Struggle Changed By Eisenhower and Faubus

By RELMAN MORIN

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — What now for Little Rock?

What now for integration elsewhere in the southern United States?

It may well be that the whole complexion of that great social struggle has been changed by the confrontation of President Eisenhower and Governor Orval Faubus.

That question has been set. Violence may be answered, again and again, by the arrival of federal troops. Short of civil war, what resistance is left? What could it accomplish?

Thus Little Rock has clarified the issue, laid it out in detail for every parent with a child in a segregated school.

For this reason, integrationists contend that Faubus and the rioters inadvertently dealt segregation a mortal blow. They think he has lopped years off the evolutionary process.

They expect to see a stronger civil rights bill enacted in Congress next year. They believe the federal courts will be less likely to permit delays in integration, and that the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will become more militant, demanding more action sooner.

As for Faubus, the question seems to be: How does he get out of this impasse without surrender and loss of face?

Some have speculated he was planning to call the Arkansas legislature into special session. Through that body, he could close all the schools in Arkansas.

When nothing developed, Faubus' critics said he had sent up a "trial balloon" and found the members of the legislature lukewarm to the idea of a special session. There may be other tests today, so far as Faubus is concerned.

Meanwhile, Central High School is open. The nine Negro students are in class under police guard. A girl student said:

"Some of the kids simply ignore the Negroes. Some are polite to them. There are two Negro girls in my own class and they seem very nice."

Judging from attendance figures, it appears that between 15 and 20 per cent of the parents who have children enrolled at Central High are determined to keep them out.

For the others, integration has come and they seem to be accepting it.

These 60 ducks, shown here after being bagged by two Prince Albert, Sask., hunters will end up on the banquet table before the Queen and Prince Philip during their visit to Ottawa. Gordon Lund and Leo Bremmer shot the ducks at the request of Prime Minister Diefenbaker. (CP Photo)

Mrs. Fred Meens attended a trousseau tea for Miss Margaret Grills in Thomasburg, on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Nobes spent Friday at the home of Mr. Roy Harry, Johnstown.

Scoharie

SCOHARIE — Miss Louise Huff accompanied friends from Toronto and was a guest at the Reynolds - Whittle wedding at Brockville, on Saturday.

The Live Women's Circle were entertained at the home of Mrs. George Ward and Mrs. Jack Ward on Friday evening. Plans were made for the tea and bazaar to be held November 13th.

Mrs. Blaine Foster and Darlene spent Sunday with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McWilliam, of Picton.

Mrs. Don Jandrew and Brenda were Saturday guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stone.

Mrs. John McGee accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Pearce and baby to Madoc fair.

Mrs. Harry Foster and Rose were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kerr, Rhonda and Kathy.

As this Thanksgiving season approaches, may we all be very grateful for living in a land of plenty and give thanks unto the Lord for all His love. Be sure and attend the church of your choice on Sunday.

Sunday School Lesson

You Can't Escape People

By ROY L. SMITH

The Christian Church did not come to birth in a vacuum. The converts who came over from the popular religions and the pagan cults of the first century brought with them a variety of manners, customs, ideas, ideals, and traditions. Some of these were good and some were bad; some were of high moral and ethical value, and others were thoroughly degrading. Some deserved to be perpetuated, and some had to be eradicated, and he was going to have to be a wise man who tried to guide the people in making their selections.

RELIGION AND MORALITY

One of the first problems with which the Christian church of Corinth had to deal was that of sexual immorality.

The life of the city was saturated with sex. The worship of Aphrodite, the goddess of love, had the effect of sanctifying sexual excesses of the most loathsome sort. The sex act itself was blessed by the pagan cult whose worship was supported by the earnings of the prostitutes.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for October 13: "MORAL STANDARDS IN A CHURCH," 1 Corinthians 5—6; 13.

The Apostle Paul, a bachelor, seems to have had a more or less distorted view of marriage, and with it many moderns have some difficulty in agreeing. But on the basic matter of sex morality his position was unassailable. He demanded the highest standard of behavior and belief on the part of the new Christians.

According to a report that had reached the ear of the Apostle, one of the prominent members of the church had married, and was living with his stepmother. Quite evidently his father had died, for there is no suggestion that the matter of adultery was involved. It was one of those borderline cases, concerning which there was some difference of opinion. The Romans and the Jews had forbidding such a practice, but among neither group was the law enforced. Paul, however, took the position that such a situation was not to be tolerated. The offending member must be expelled from the church.

Jesus, on one occasion, had taken the position that every one of his followers was to go forth into the world as a bit of salt, prepared to save the world from spoiling. On another occasion he suggested that the Christians were to serve the same purpose in society that leaven serves in the dough.

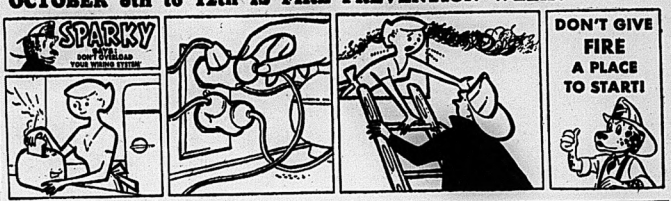
In the case of the Corinthian issue we have an instance of the way the Christian Church began leavening the lump. It was breaking out into a pagan and immoral society a new moral concept, an advanced standard of sex morals. It was raising issues that had never been raised before. It was setting the moral stakes for humanity forward just a little.

This is the function of the church in every community. Whenever we surrender to the forces that would pull us down, whenever we conform to the low morals with which we are surrounded, we are as surely heretics as if we were to announce our disbelief in a personal God.

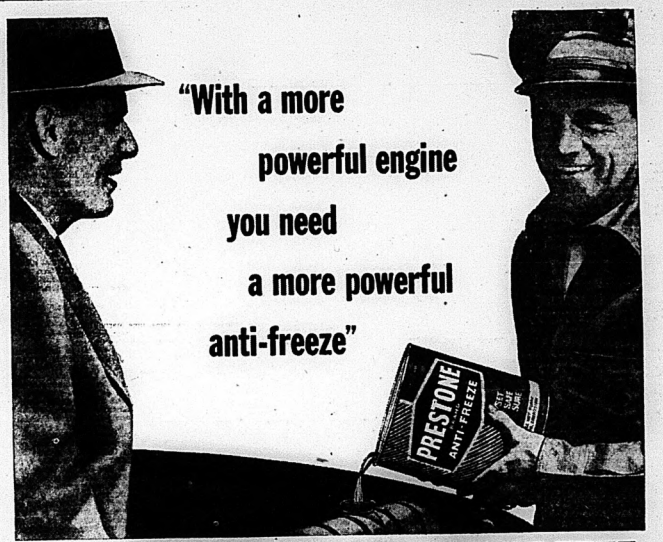
The Christian Church that is not leavening the life of the world about it is not living the life of a Christian which is supposed to be within it.

There is something profoundly significant in Paul's declaration that we are all temples of the Holy Spirit. It means that our bodies (as well as our minds) are a divine gift, and are to be treated as such.

A piano salesman reported that his firm had sold a magnificent instrument to a family that was enjoying some unexpected prosperity. All members of the household were handling more money than they had ever held in their hands before. And the piano had been bought, in part at least, to impress their neighborhood.



Some few weeks after the instrument had been delivered to the home, a representative of the firm went out to inspect it and to make sure that it was in perfect order. Upon arrival he discovered that it was being used as a dining table, and that the beautiful finish had been almost completely ruined by hot dishes and spilled soup.



Last any of us be over severe in our condemnation of the ignorant family, let us consider the way we abuse our bodies with alcohol and nicotine. They are instruments far more valuable and beautiful than grand pianos.

only "PRESTONE" BRAND ANTI-FREEZE has all the protective power your engine needs

You're wise to listen to your garage or service station man when he recommends "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze. He gets the full picture of today's cars—realizes fully how more powerful engines make more demands on cooling systems—sees what it means in costly repairs if the least thing goes wrong. He knows that in addition to the freeze-up protection anti-freeze gives you, your car needs the complete Winter protection that only "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze provides.

Trouble-free Winter driving depends on nothing stopping the flow of anti-freeze through the cooling system. With "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze nothing will. No particles of rust will clog it . . . no corrosion to cause leaks . . . no deterioration to impair the efficiency of the water pump. Special inhibitors end all these risks—plus a unique Polar Film which coats every part of the cooling system, seals it against rust and corrosion. And a special anti-foaming ingredient makes sure that the anti-freeze will not foam out of the top of the radiator.

So insist on "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze—the sure way to trouble-free Winter driving.

Eleven Records Broken in World Series

NEW YORK (AP) — Eleven records were broken in the 1957 world series, including marks for series attendance and net receipts.

Yogi Berra of the Yanks set four. The champion Bombers collected the lowest team batting average for a world series winner in a seven-game series — .202. This broke the mark established by the Yanks in 1952.

Individual records broken:

Most games played, total series —54, Yogi Berra, New York, American League (previous record 53 by Phil Rizzuto, New York American League).

Most hits, total series, one club—55, Yogi Berra (previous record 54 by Joe Dimaggio, New York, American League).

Most consecutive games, one or more hits, total series—14, Hank Bauer, New York (previous record 13 by Fran Skoubik, Chicago, National League, 1906-08 and Harry Hooper, Boston, American League, 1915-18).

Most series batted, one club—nine, Yogi Berra, (broke record shared with Bill Dickey New York American League).

Most consecutive innings pitched without run by relief pitcher reaching first base, total series—11 1-3, Don Larsen, New York, (extended own record).

Most series eligible as player and coach—two, Red Crossetti, New York, nine as player, eight as coach (broke record shared with Bill Dickey).

Team records broken:

Most hits, all games, game both clubs—19, New York 11, and Milwaukee, National League 8 (tie), third game, (previous record 16, New York, American League, 1936 and National League, seven, Oct. 2, 1936).

Lowest batting average, seven-game series, world series winner — .209, Milwaukee, National League (previous record .218 by New York, American League, 1953).

In the Dressing Rooms

By HUGH FULLERTON Jr.

NEW YORK (AP) — Casey Stengel, the loser, heaped praise on his victorious rival manager, Fred Haney, after Milwaukee Braves beat New York Yankees and won the world series.

Even longer and louder was his praise of the three-game winning pitcher, Lew Burdette.

Visiting the Milwaukee dressing room after the final game Thursday, Stengel offered more than the congratulations and good wishes demanded by custom.

"You did a great job all the way. If I had to lose to anyone, I'm glad it was you," Stengel told the man who became Milwaukee manager in 1956, 1957 and whose team won the world championship in his first full season as pilot.

"Your team was great and Haney managed better than Stengel."

BURDETTE IS BEST

As for Burdette: "He's the best pitcher we've faced," Casey said. "Nbody I've seen since I took over this club has stopped this way. He's a game fellow and not afraid to throw one over the plate and make you hit it."

"Game fellow" is about the highest accolade Stengel can bestow on a ball player.

Haney returned the praise for himself and his players calmly. The Braves' clubhouse was, in fact, a rather quiet place, considering that its occupants had just won baseball's highest honor and a jackpot amount to about $9,000 apiece—some $3,000 more than each would have received if they had lost.

The players were saving the big jinks for their return to Milwaukee.

CONSIDERED PULLING LEW

Haney, naturally, singled out Burdette for his highest praise although he admitted he considered removing the pitcher in the ninth inning.

"If he could cook, I'd marry him," the Milwaukee manager chuckled.

That was natural. Burdette, once a Yankee, beat the 1956 champions three times, held them scoreless for 24 consecutive innings and was the first man to pitch in world series history since Christy Mathewson won three scoreless games in 1905.

Haney had Warren Spahn warming up at intervals throughout the game and when the Yankees filled the bases in the ninth, he gave more thought to a change.

ARRANGE TITLE BOUT

DETROIT (AP)—Joe Spieser, brother in law and manager of light-heavyweight contender Chuck Spieler, says champion Archie Moore has agreed to defend his title against Spieser here in December.

Spieser said Wednesday he has an appointment to meet Jack Kearns, one of Moore's managers here "in two or three days" to make formal arrangements.

A group of Detroit businessmen has offered Moore a $100,000 guarantee to defend his championship against Spieser, a Detroit fighter.

How to KEEP FIT after 50

In the old days fifty seemed the signal to slow down—take things easy—and that did—put more rust. It's still good advice. But these days you can lose fifty with many interesting and active years ahead,—active, that is, if you can cure backache and the dreaded "tired feeling," due to kidney and bladder disorders, that often develop around that age. For more than 60 years Doan's Kidney Pills have been helping men and women of all ages to keep kidneys and bladder in good order,—helping them to feel better, do work better, and get more fun out of life. If you are approaching fifty, or past it, Doan's Kidney Pills may help you, too. You can depend on Doan's. 54

Calgary Stamps Need Two Wins; Play Esks Twice

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's going to be a tough weekend for Calgary Stampeders.

Calgary needs two victories to clinch a playoff berth in the Western Interprovincial Football Union and both the third-place club's weekend games are against the first-place Edmonton Eskimos—at Edmonton Saturday night and at Calgary Monday afternoon.

And the last-place British Columbia Lions, who walloped Stampeders 27-1 at Vancouver last Monday, need to win all their five remaining games in the big game regular schedule to keep alive their slim chances of making the three-team playoffs.

Lions meet the second-place Bombers, already sure of the playoffs, in Winnipeg Saturday afternoon and then travel to Regina to battle Saskatchewan Roughriders Monday afternoon.

IN FINE SHAPE

Calgary has released import Bob Jennings. New John Borger, a Canadian, is the No. 1 man in the centre spot. Floyd Harrewood, import tackle, also may be used at centre.

Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy reported that a mild flu epidemic and injuries caused Ottawa's first-straight Saturday night.

Hit by the flu were tackle Roger Nelson, halfback Steve Bendlak and Don Simon. End Bill Walker will return for second straight game because of a severe charley horse and guard tackle Art Walker is a doubtful starter because of a knee injury.

STRONGEST OF SEASON

Coach Bud Grant says his Bombers will field Saturday probably their strongest backfield since the start of the season. The members will be Ken Ploen at quarter, Bob McNamara at right half, Charlie Shepard and Gerry James at fullback, Leo Lewis at left half and Buddy Leake at left half and guard.

It's Bombers' final game before the Oct. 16 deadline for Imperial Grant wants to see how the injured McNamara and Leake will go under pressure.

Saskatchewan Roughriders are idle until they meet Lions in Regina Monday afternoon, giving the injury-hit Riders some time to recuperate.

Grid Fans Get Eight Games Over Thanksgiving Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Thanksgiving weekend, traditionally a big one for football fans offers eight games in Eastern Canada's senior leagues.

Montreal Alouettes, Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Ottawa Rough Riders, deadlocked atop the Big Four league standings, must be rated lead-pipe cinches for the three playoff spots.

And yet the dogfight between the trio will continue hot and heavy. The reason: The team finishing in first place gets a bye into the league's playoff final.

Saturday, Ottawa plays hosts to Montreal. Monday, the Als are at home to the Riders. Hamilton Cats play a similar home-and-home series with Toronto Argonauts, Saturday in Hamilton, and Monday in Toronto.

OPENED LAST WEEK

After the first games in the senior Intercollegiate League last week, University of Western Ontario and Toronto Varsity Blues are tied for first place with a two win, one loss record. Universities and McGill University hold down a cellar-spot draw with one loss each.

This Saturday, McGill invades Toronto, while Western plays at Queen's in London, Ont., to the defending-champion Golden Gaels from Kingston.

In the Ontario Rugby Football Union, Toronto Balmy Beach, winless in nine starts, try again in Kitchener Saturday against Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

Dutchies are alone in second place in the standings, three points back of London Lords and Sarnia Golden Bears, who share first place.

TO DECIDE LEADER

London visits Sarnia Saturday in a game which will decide who remains atop the league.

Temple Argos' fine showing against Montreal last week coach Hamp Pool is worried. His practices this past week have been unhappy ones because the players have been neglecting assignments.

Argos will be without Menan Schreiner on defence Saturday. He has a charley horse. Fullback Charlie Sicka should be back in action with end Henry Hair still on the doubtful list.

Ligaments and may be out for the rest of the season, joining tackle Martin Huard and Dick Herbert and Milt Rohtchaux and half Ken Carpenter.

KITCHENER TONIGHT

Tonight the colorful Kitchener Dutchmen will provide the opposition in a game which should give the Macs' management and fans some idea of the potential of the 1957-58 squad.

So far, and all fingers are crossed, the Macs have escaped serious injury. True there have been several black marks and bruises but with the defencemen under orders to belt all and sundry who forayed into their territory, this was to be expected.

Moe Benoit, Floyd Crawford, Keith Montgomery, Jerry Frizzell, Lionel Botley and company have been tossing their tireless willy-nilly in a style that is not only effective, but pleasing to rabbird eyes.

But they will meet foemen worthy of their steel tonight. The Dutchmen are big, strong, powerful and speedy. They have a club which Manager Ernie Goman hopes will again capture the Western Ontario senior championship. And not being too much of an optimist nor attempting any limb-crawling, tonight's hassle could very well be a pre-season rehearsal of the playoffs between the Eastern and Western Ontario champions.

There's no harm in saying that, since already Wally Lenser has claimed his Lumber Kings from Pembroke will take home the Allan Cup.

Although no definite line-ups (they appear elsewhere in the sports pages) had been released at this time of writing, Coach Ike Hildebrand will likely rely on the lines and defencemen he has been using more or less extensively in late training workouts.

Back of the blueline he will have Moe Benoit, Floyd Crawford, Lionel Botley and Jerry Frizzelle with Eddie Marineau, who has been signed, alternating between a defence spot and a forward position.

Up front in the first line shock troops Ike will send out Minnie Menard, Paul Payette and Russ Kowalchuk, backed up by the "Speed Kings" of Gerry Geyer, "Wheezer" Brown and the coach himself. On the third line Ike will try out Rene St. Hilaire, Keith MacDonald with centre Johnny Muretich. Tony Festa, Davy Jones and others of the club will likely be used in experimental plays.

The squad mentioned is not by any means that which will eventually wear the McFarland colors in schedule play. Hildebrand is working hard to get the most effective combination so don't be surprised at any changes that may be made.

Sunday the Macs trek to Cornwall where they take on the new edition of the Cherries in an exhibition game. The Cherries have been drilling hard for the past week. And Coach Keplee has quite a galaxy of players lined up for trial. Not a few of last year's veterans are back. These being bolstered with some topflight additions. The game will be played Sunday afternoon.

If headlines were hockey players Pembroke's man of the hour, Wally Lenser, would have a club that would sweep the country.

Lenser's latest "crash-the-sports-pages" efforts stems from a demand to have the Russian hockey team play one of its games in the Pembroke arena. "If it is within the realm of human possibility the Moscow Dynamos will play the Lumber Kings some time during the month of November," the man with the golden arm is quoted as saying.

The Pembroke scribe wrote: "To someone who does not know the man, this may sound fantastic . . . However, to someone who has met Wally, nothing the man does or tries to do comes as a surprise." Why confine that to puzzled hub?

Lenser contacted George Dudley, secretary of the CAHA on the Russian-Pembroke matter and was informed he would be guaranteed the Russians $4,000. Down here in the banana belt, that ain't hay brother, but to the Midas of the North it apparently comes in the category of peanuts.

We do not know Dudley's reaction but he was told pretty plainly Lenser, "When do you want my cheque for that amount, now, or later?"

Quebec League

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Quebec Aces won 5-4 over Montreal Royals in the old capital while Shawinigan Cataracts treated their home crowd to a 7-3 victory over Trois Rivieres Lions as the Quebec Hockey League opened Thursday night.

Stars for Aces were two new comers, right winger Jacques Gagnon who scored three times and left winger Bob Sabourin who accounted for the other two Quebec goals.

Murray Balfour, John Kowalchuk, Wall Bradley and Glen Crossman scored for Royals, who momentarily tied the score in the second period after Gagnon had given Quebec a 2-0 lead in the first stanza.

SHORT-LIVED LEAD

Al Shawinigan, Lions got off to a good start on Roland Leclerc's goal in the first period.

But Jean-Paul Denis tied it during a Lion penalty and Cats went ahead when George Faulkner put it in from 20 feet out. Grant Hastings came back to tie it and Camille Bedard's long shot from the blue line sent Lions ahead again in the second.

Cats came from behind a second time on a slap shot by Dick Wray. Dick Bouchard and Allan Johnson quickly followed with one each, Claude Lafleur and Gene Meiklok added insurance goals.

Wrote Blazing Baseball Page With 5-0 Shutout of Yankees; Mathews Wears Halo No. 2

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Milwaukee's miracle is complete. The miracle man is Fred (Merlin) Haney with Lew Burdette his magic wand.

Just five years after the baseball franchise shift from Boston to what Thursday must have been the most hysterical baseball city in the world, the Braves rose from a frustrated, badly disorganized seventh-place team to a powerful world championship outfit with a future as bright as the new Russian satellite.

Make no mistake about it. This was a standout team that came from behind repeatedly and overcame crippling handicaps to dethrone a good New York Yankee team in seven sizzling world series games. This was a young team, too. The starting Braves' nine that shut out the Yankees 5-0 Thursday boasted the incredible seven-hit pitching of Burdette averaged 28.4 years to 31.4 for the American League champions.

GAIN CONFIDENCE

The confidence gained in defeating the fabled and highly respected Yankees, especially in their own back yard, is immeasurable. Braves always had the horses. What they lacked was experience and confidence. They've got both now, including a chip on the shoulder that comes from the knowledge that they are champions of the world.

In addition, Braves are a highly efficient organization, boasting one of the finest minor league farm systems and owning some of the outstanding young players in the country.

It is not difficult to view the Braves as a championship team for years to come. Henry Aaron, whom Haney has described as another Rogers Hornsby, is only 23. Wes Covington is 25. Eddie Mathews is 26. Joe Adcock is 29. Frank Torre, Del Crandall, Bill Bruton, Bob Hazle, and Del Crandall are 27. Felix Mantilla is 22. Johnny Logan and Joe Adcock, who have been around for a long time, are only 30. Among the pitchers, only Warren Spahn, at 36, can be called old and he appears indestructible.

TWO DAYS' REST

Oddly enough, it was Spahn's illness that gave his room mate, Burdette, an opportunity to pitch his third game of the series in the tie finale, and his second in four days.

How Burdette fared in the final game, and in the entire series, should silence critics of the two more glorious pages in world series history.

The 30-pound righthander not only became the first starter since Johnny Sain and Vic Lowellie to win three games in one series, but he also became the first hurler in 52 years to turn in two shutouts. The last one was the immortal Christy Mathewson who blanked the Philadelphia Athletics three times in 1905.

GOOD EXTRA-BASE HIT

Cold figures don't tell half the story of Burdette's truly remarkable finishing performance. The tall righthander walked only one batter—and that was intentional. He was nearly behind the hitters as only four Yankees reached the three ball count. Not until two out in the ninth inning did a Yankee runner reach third. With the exception of Hank Bauer's leadoff double, no extra base hit was made off him.

Burdette wound up with 24 consecutive scoreless innings against the American League champs. All this with only two days' rest. No wonder he was described today that the rubber-armed redhead, whose 1957 salary was only $15,000, stands to earn around $20,000 in personal appearances and endorsements during the coming winter.

Burdette was not the whole show, however. He received magnificent fielding support from his teammates, especially Mathews at third base. He received timely hitting support from Aaron, Hazle, Crandall and Mathews.

Mathews, a batting bust in the first three games, delivered the key hit. It was a third-inning double to right-field off starter and loser Don Larsen, which drove in the first two Milwaukee runs. Aaron hit safely in every game, drove in a run Thursday and wound up leading hitters in both teams with .393.

It was Hazle, who started the crushing four-run rally in the third with a hit, his first of the series. And it was Crandall, who unlimbered the coup de grace with a home run into the left field stands.

SURPRISINGLY STRONG

It was the staunch Braves' defence, however, that surprised Yankees the most. The scouting reports had led them to believe that Braves were a slow, clumsy, luck-lustre outfit in the field, devoid of fire and imagination. The Braves proved they were anything but that. Mathews played a spectacular third base from start to finish. Logan's shortfielding was not as sensational but equally effective. Johnny accepted 36 chances flawlessly, several of them of the spectacular variety. He participated in half of the 10 Milwaukee double plays.

Covington proved the defensive surprise of the series. Playing with a good-hit, no-field reputation, the young left fielder left the Yankees gasping with his glittering catches and a tremendous throw that cut off at least four runs.

NO STEALS ON DEL

Crandall was the rock of Gibraltar behind the plate and his strong throwing arm mowed down all three would-be Yankee base stealers. Torre, a fancy dan around first base, saved his infield mates embarrassment with his dirt-scooping pickups of their sometimes errant throws.

Practically everybody expected the Braves' defence to crack. Instead, it was the Yanks fielding which collapsed. The team as a whole made six errors, twice as many as Milwaukee. Three of the miscues came Thursday and one of them opened the gates to the four Milwaukee runs in the third.

As luck would have it, the culprit was Kubek the 20 year-old Milwaukee boy who had put himself forever in bad with his fellow Yankees when he hit two home runs and drove in four runs in Yankees' 13-3 victory over Braves in Milwaukee last Saturday.

THROWS HIGH

This time, Andy Luck frowned upon Kubek. After Hazle had cracked a one-out single off Larsen in the third, Logan rapped a hard grounder to the versatile youngster at third base. Kubek's hurried inning-ending double play in sight, threw too high to second, pulling Coleman clean off the bag. Coleman's throw from an awkward position was thus too late to get Logan at first.

Mathews followed with his two-run double. Aaron and Covington singled and Torre drove in another run with a grounder to Kubek's backhand at the keystone sack. Milwaukee's other score came in the eighth when Crandall homered to drive off lefthander Tommy Byrne over Enos Slaughter's head into the left field stands. Byrne was New York's fifth pitcher.

Burdette had two shaky innings the first and ninth. After retiring the opening batter as an intentional two-out pass to Yogi Berra got him in scoring position in the first, he let Gil McDougald to raise a puny popup to Mathews to end the threat.

In the ninth Burdette retired Berra and McDougald singled. Bauer filed out but Coleman and Byrne singled to fill the bases. Slaughter, however, returned to first base in the fifth inning, rapped a vicious grounder to Mathews, who previously had made two fine fielding plays, that forced out one of the runners at the plate and ended the game.

Slaughter pulled out all the stops. Besides restoring the injured Skowron to first, he played Mantilla for the whole game in centre field. Nothing helped, however. Mantilla's best was a scoreless single in the sixth. Bobby Shantz, Art Ditmar and Ryne Duren also saw action on the mound.

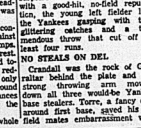
Petes Juniors Whip Ottawa



PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Peterborough Petes downed Ottawa Canadiens 9-5 Thursday night in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A exhibition game.

Petes grabbed a 3-0 lead in the first period and stretched it to 5-3 at the end of the second. They drew nine of the 12 penalties.

Dick Dawson of Ottawa had his nose fractured in a player collision late in the second period and Canadiens' goalie Gary Reid was taken to hospital at the end of the second with the flu.

Tom Thurlby and Bill Mahoney led Petes with two goals each, the others being counted by Wayne Boddy, Jim Mikol, Wayne Connelly, Ralf Parker and Jim Dunne. Best for Canadiens was Yvon Lamarche with two, with Rick Bourcier, Jean Tremblay and Jacques Begin each scoring one.

"Valhalla Never Like This" City Clogged With Humanity

By DION HENDERSON

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Braves brought the world champion-ship of baseball home Thursday night and not since the days of the Vikings has such a sound been heard in the land.

"I thought," said one hero whom even five years in the home of the Braves had left unspoiled, "I could hear the prayers of the voices. "that you had to die in battle to get this kind of a welcome."

But Valhalla was never like this.

Milwaukee, which holds within its metropolitan area about 1,000,000 souls, turned out most of them early and kept them out late. The downtown area wrenched-uled to see a parade of the world champions after their arrival—began to clog with humanity in midafternoon. By the time the Braves' airplane touched down at 7:30 p.m. (CST) there were 250,000 people in an area roughly two blocks wide and two miles long along Wisconsin Avenue.

JAMMED AIRPORT

At the airport, 10,000 jammed terminal piers, decks and roof and another 10,000 swarmed out over the field. When the door of the chartered aircraft opened and Governor Fred Haney appeared, what little in the way of formal ceremonies had been prepared were swamped under by the television crews and cameramen.

Unfurled at the airport were the first of the banners which repeated the same message all night.

"Welcome Back to Bushville." This term of endearment—used by a Yankee spokesman when the big shots from the Bronx brushed off the polite civic reception on their ill-starred visit to Milwaukee last week—has been taken to the bosom of the burghers here and is flaunted on every side.

PARADE AN ORDEAL

The parade itself was an ordeal for the Braves but they were game. Faced with 30 convertibles and 47 - degree temperatures spiced by an 8-mile-per-hour wind off Lake Michigan, the Braves looked at the massed thousands stretching out for miles along the route.

"Leave the tops down," they said. "These people have waited five years for this."

Not a square foot of curbstone was unmanned along the scheduled parade route, and as the caravan reached deeper into the city intersections swelled shut with the crowds.

BRAVES HEMMED IN

At the stadium, thousands more had welded themselves into a committee of the whole in the Braves' parking lot. There had been some innocent thought that the athletes, once here, would be able to get into their cars and drive anonymously away. They did, but it was some hours later, and only after scores of officers built a safety lane with beef and motorcycles from the parade cars to the stadium.

Downtown, the championship of the world was hailed by many articulated elbows. Wisconsin Avenue was a ankle deep in beer bottles. Merry youths pushed abandoned cars out of the way of the frolicking. Hotels were jammed, and at the downtown bars the cries of those awaiting admission reached out and mingled with those of other bars.

TRYS OUT WITH PETES

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Ted Kennedy, coach of Peterborough Petes of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, said Thursday that Jacques Caron, substitute goalie last season for Toronto Marlboros of the same league, will be given a tryout.

Kennedy already has last year's regular, Clare Adamson, and Dwaine Bennet of Fort William, Caron, who last season played 10 games for Marlboros, allowing 29 goals with two shutouts, will seek to dislodge Bennet as sub-goalie.

Canadiens Defeat Black Hawks; Rangers Upset Red Wings In Openers

Beliveau With 2, Richards Pace Habs' Inaugural Victory Detroit Blows Lead Twice

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens have quickly asserted their right to top billing in the National Hockey League while New York Rangers have provided the first surprise of the young season.

The Habitants, in their regular schedule, opener, easily disposed of Chicago Black Hawks Thursday night at Montreal, winning 5-1. Hawks had scored a 1-0 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs Tuesday.

Rangers, often casually dismissed in pre-season calculations scrapped their way to an upset 3-3 victory over Red Wings in Detroit in the season opener for both.

It was the second time in the last 19 years Detroit has lost a home opener. They had defeated New York five straight times in home openers.

The games left Boston Bruins the only team still to see regular schedule action. Bruins open Saturday at home against Chicago. In other games Rangers move to Montreal while Detroit plays at Toronto.

Habs had figured to be weakened missing regular goalie Jacques Plante with acute sinusitis and rightwinger Bernie Geoffrion with flu.

But Jean Beliveau rolled for two first-period goals and Charlie Hodge, called up from Montreal Royals of the Quebec Hockey League, played a steady game in goal to pace the win.

Maurice and Henri Richard and Andre Pronovost scored the other Montreal goals. The Rocket's was No. 494 in his regular season NHL career and was loudly cheered by the crowd of 13,604.

Hawks opened the scoring in the second period when Glen Skov banged in Bob Bailey's rebound.

At Detroit Wings, most radically changed squad with seven new faces, twice took leads on goals by Lorne Ferguson and rookie Tom McCarthy.

Rangers, with two changes in their roster, tied the count on goals by Camille Henry and Larry Popein and won it on Andy Hebenton's marker.

The Montreal Chicago game was marred by a close-checking first period which was scoreless and listless. But after Skov's goal in the second Canadiens bounced into life.

Hebenton fought his way around the Detroit defence early in the final period, faked goalie Terry Sawchuk to his knees and flipped a high shot into the net for the deciding marker.

Detroit outshot New York, Lorne Worsley stopping 34 shots and Sawchuk 23.

Meanwhile, Toronto Maple Leafs were belatedly attempting to get flu vaccine.

Leafs had three regulars out of their opener with flu and while Brian Cullen and Billy Harris, appear to be ready to return, two other players have been joined the sick list. Dick Duff has a heavy cold and Al Macneil flu while Frank Mahovlich is still laid up and will miss his second game.

And Billy Reay gave his players some shooting practice Thursday, reported a power play, then suggested everybody go home to bed.

Man Who Stole Casey's Poke Is The Laddie Known As Lou

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Back in 1909, Lew Burdette thought he had made the New York Yankees.

"I gave up only one run in 19 innings of exhibition ball," the big-game world series winner laughed before taking off for Milwaukee Thursday night.

"But do you know what Casey Stengel called me

"Hey, you," he'd yell if he wanted me. That spring he had eyes only for Tom Morgan. Tom was his boy and he didn't even see me."

Burdette had worked his way up through the chain starting in 1947. But he didn't make the big club. In fact, he pitched just one inning, gave up three hits and one run.

"Hitter? Ha. What's there to be hitter about I'm on top of the world now. Anyway, it's all part of the game."

Yanks recalled Burdette in 1951 and promptly dealt him to the Boston Braves, along with $50,000 for Johnny Sain. He's been a Brave ever since.

The six-foot-two Burdette is probably the most controversial pitcher in the National League.

Time and again he has been accused of throwing spit balls, but no one ever has proved a thing and he shrugs it off.

"Let them think I'm throwing spitters," he said. "Then I know I've got batters thinking and when they're worrying, I've got them beaten."

Thursday's game gave Burdette a string of 24 scoreless innings and put his name on the record book with six great pitchers who have won three games of a seven-game world series. He also is the first to toss two shut outs in the series since Christy Mathewson threw three against the Philadelphia As for New York Giants back in 1905.

Even the haughty Yanks were surprised at Burdette's delivery and the umpires examined the ball several times but, as usual, found nothing.

"The ball was awful dirty," he said with an impish grin. "But you can be sure I wasn't throwing spitters. Come to think of it, I had a lot of fun with all that commotion on the spitter this year."

STRIKE ENDS

TORONTO (CP)—A three-day strike by some 600 plasterers, which tied up house and apartment building throughout the Metropolitan Toronto area, was settled Wednesday. Charles Levine vice-president of the International Plasterers' Union (CLC) said. He said the contractors agreed to a wage rate of $2.60 an hour, of which eight cents goes into a welfare fund.

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel sat in his office after paying rich compliments to Lew Burdette and the Milwaukee Braves who had beaten the New York Yankees in the world series.

"Well, are we going to get better now?" he asked of nobody in particular. "Are we going to get worse? Give the victors their due and then figure how to get back in it again—or you'll hear of these players o[illegible]

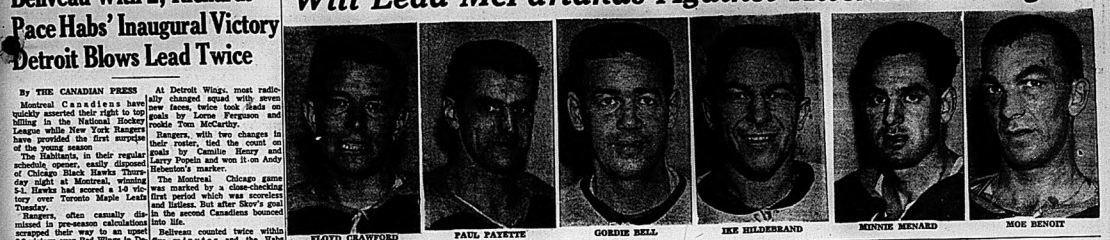
(the log Yankee farms).



"One thing, don't worry about that boy (Tony Kubek). He's going to stay on this ball club. What if he did throw one a little high?"

(Kubek's bad throw to second base in the third inning Thursday ruined a possible double play which would have retired the Braves. They counted four runs after the miscue).

"We've had trouble in left field all year long. Played too many men out there."

NHL Players' Body Files Suit Against Six Clubs, Owners; League President is Named

NEW YORK (CP) — The National Hockey League Players' Association has filed suit against the six clubs of the NHL asking $3,000,000 damages and voiding of the standard players' contract.

Milton N. Mound, counsel for the players, filed the action on Thursday. The clubs have 20 days in which to file an answer. Besides the clubs, the NHL itself, the club owners as individuals and Clarence Campbell, NHL president, are named defendants.

Campbell said in Detroit where he was attending Thursday night's game between Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers that news of the suit took him by surprise.

"EXHAUSTING AFFAIR"

He said it looks as though "it is going to be an exhausting affair—both in time, resources and patience."

Asked by a reporter if he thought the suit "ridiculous," he replied, "anytime you are sued for $3,000,000—it isn't ridiculous."

The association was organized last February. Ted Lindsay of Chicago Black Hawks is president.

The suit alleges the defendants since 1926 have monopolized, dominated, controlled and exercised dictatorship over the professional hockey industry in violation of the U.S. Sherman [illegible]-Trust Act.

It further says the clubs have [illegible] the hiring, firing, trading, buying and selling of all players and coaches in major, minor, semi-professional and amateur schoolboy leagues, dictating the terms and conditions of their employment in the United States and Canada.

THREATENED EARLIER

The players' association had threatened legal action several weeks ago when the league declined to negotiate pension and television benefits. Campbell said Sept. 23 that the league could not act because two of the clubs, Toronto and Montreal, were unable to participate under Canadian laws.

Mound said after filing suit that the players contend the Canadian clubs are subject to U.S. law if they play in the U.S.

The suit alleges the players have been "deprived of their natural and lawful right to sell their services to the highest and most acceptable bidder."

In asking that the standard players' contract be declared illegal, the suit particularly cites paragraphs 1 (salary), 8 (TV), 17 (reserve clause) and 20 (pension benefits).

Individuals named defendants were Walter A. Brown, Boston Bruins; James D. Norris, Chicago Black Hawks; Bruce Norris, Detroit Red Wings; John R. Kilpatrick, New York Rangers; Frank J. Selke, Montreal Canadiens; and Conn Smythe, Toronto Maple Leafs.

Predicts ORFU Will Be on Par With Big Four

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Jim Simpson, former Big Four official now officiating in the Ontario Rugby Football Union, Thursday predicted the ORFU will some day be on a par with the Big Four.

Simpson was answering a question at the semi-weekly meeting of the St. Catharines Quarterback Club which backs Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four.

Simpson said:

"In the not too distant future the ORFU will come up with a team which will pin the ears back of the Big Four. Right now the big difference is that ORFU teams lack confidence. Naturally the Big Four has an edge in calibre but it is not as great as many people would lead you to believe."

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Barely finding room in a tight finish, Mrs. M. J. Boylen's Lad Ator, ridden by Bob Gonzalez, won the featured Omaha Purse by a length and a half before a deadheat finish between Squire John and Flying Atom at New Woodbine park Thursday.

Gonzalez dropped Lad Ator down in behind the front-running Squire John turning for the wire and Flying Atom was right abreast of Lad Ator until the final sixteenth when he weakened slightly. Lad Ator raced through on the outside of Squire John to clock a 1:23 3-5 effort for the seven-eighths of a mile, two-fifths off the course record.

60 Regular Variety Shows Each Week on 3 Networks

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — We're approaching the week when the television networks make their biggest pitch of the new season, with far the new programs have in general been greeted by critical yawns. Variety, the trade publication of show business, has called the season a dud.

The programming pattern is quickly apparent. It is, above all, the era of the variety show with more than 60 regular variety shows each week on the three networks.

It is, next, the era of the western. At check—and it's really difficult to keep these matters straight—reveals 26 westerns.

SUPER-SPECIAL AHEAD

Ignoring these general trends for the time being, here are some of the special things television will bring its fans of November.

Queen Elizabeth definitely will be TV's queen of the week. Here's major listings should be consulted for exact times and channels. But TV coverage begins with the arrival of the Royal couple in Ottawa Saturday. Coverage of the queen in Canada will continue Sunday and Monday. Thursday you may view her arrival in Washington, D. C.

Sunday is quite busy, too. (All times Eastern Daylight.) Wide Wide World (NBC-TV 4 p. m.) will travel "by" jet" must be published—to glimpse the Russian satellite in a remote pickup from the University of Colorado Color. (Altitude: 11,320 feet).

Three special shows stand back to back Sunday. On NBC-TV at 6:30 p. m. Mickey Rooney, Walter Slezak and Fran Allison appear in a musical and verse adaptation of the fairy tale Pinocchio.

Hall of Fame launches its new season on NBC-TV at 9:30 p.m. with a huge, ambitious 90-minute production of The Green Pastures.

At the same time Playhouse 90 is suspending its weekly production so that CBS-TV may televise a party which Mike Todd and his wife, Elizabeth Taylor, are throwing for 18,000 persons in Madison Square Garden to celebrate the anniversary of his movie, Around the World in 80 Days.

Don Quixote Script Licked, Shooting to Start in April

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — News

Mike Todd says he has the Don Quixote script licked and he's shooting it in Spain next April.

I found the answer to the script right in Cervantes himself," said the showman. "It's in the book, but Cervantes himself didn't know what he was doing. That's why he wrote Part-and-a-Willie."

What's a once-around-Willie? Todd explained that it's a writer who produces only one great work —like Margaret Mitchell and Gone With the Wind.

After Don Quixote, which he says will have a fabulous cast, Todd will make the story of Arturo Toscanini, incorporating the many operas which the maestro conducted. Then he'll make one more picture and quit. Or so he says.

"I know nobody believes it, but just wait and see," Todd said.

FRIENDS TOGETHER

Longtime friends Montgomery Clift and Marlon Brando are doing their first picture together, but they never act in the same scene. Clift plays an American soldier and Brando a Nazi soldier in parallel stories in The Young Lions.

"But we never appear on the screen together except in the last scene," Clift remarked. "And even then, Marlon is dead. The scene takes place in a forest when Marlon exposes himself and Dean Martin and I shoot him."

Clift, who is slim as a rail, said he and Marlon have known each other for 15 years, ever since they were juveniles on Broadway. This is the first time anyone has suggested they appear in the same production.

If there is a large-scale tourist invasion of Japan next year, the reason will be understandable. Hollywood is bringing out two pictures that present the beauties of Japan as they have never been seen on the screen before.

RKO's Escapade in Japan is a stunning view of the seaports, interiors and cities of the country. The plot is okay, being surprisingly similar to Gene Kelly's recent Happy Road, which took place in France. Both pictures show parents chasing two runaway children. The star of Escapade is Japan itself.

On the other hand, Sayonara is a story played against the backdrop of striking scenery. It is a modern re-working of the Madame Butterfly theme, beautifully acted by Marlon Brando and Miiko Taka. Brando plays it in a down-south accent and demonstrates again that he is probably the screen's best actor.

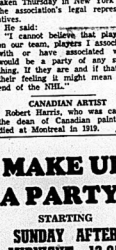
Don't Worry, Son Dad Will Look After It

TORONTO (CP) — Stafford Smythe, chairman of Toronto Maple Leafs' newsman hockey committee, said Thursday a $3,000,000 suit against the National Hockey League by the National Hockey League Players' Association "might mean the end of the NHL."

He said he doubts the majority of players agreed with the action taken Thursday in New York by the association's legal represent atives.



He said:

"I cannot believe that players on our team, players I associate with or have associated with would be a party of any such thing. If they are and if that is their feeling it might mean the end of the NHL."

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER
(Author of the new "Astrology and You")

The Stars Impel . . . They do not compel What you make of your life is largely up to you.

This is one of those days when you can benefit from new courses and you are able to make needed repairs to property, get wrinkles in skin, etc. Be practical as Ben Franklin.

Aquarius (April 20 to May 20)—The morning hours are best spent in personal matters, such as getting charm built up, your appearance enhanced by proper toilette, clothing in good taste, and then set 'em with power and dash!

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—All your secret activities in various spheres will today set the pattern for a happier future for you as contact everyone that you can and get the ball rolling. Yours is a greater destiny than you think.

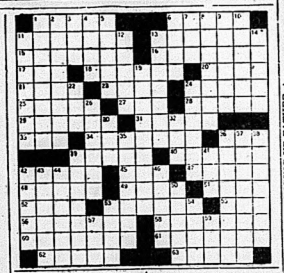
Cancer (June 22 to July 21)—No need to procrastinate any longer. This is the day to do or die, as 'tis said. What have you to fear or what can you lose by being ingenious, enthusiastic, authoritative and bringing your talents to the fore?

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21)—Now you have the opportunity to display your cleverness and practicality with persons of power. In all matters civic and professional which will gain you recognition. Be appreciative of ideas of those in power.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 20)—A great day to display your true nature which will have you living the Golden Rule to the letter, making your life a great success. All you need do is step out of dull routine and see the right people.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—There are many pulleys open to you for increasing your abundance and dandies to spare, now. Luckily are so close to successful personages in your field of endeavor. P.M. just fine for ideal evening with beloved.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Relax a while today and look objectively at the whole panorama of your existence and activities. Decide how to better your position throughout by more intelligent thought and actions. Be a true friend and yours will be legion.

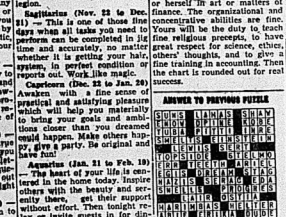


Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—This is one of those fine days when all tasks you need to perform can be completed in jig time and accurately, no matter whether it is getting your hair, system, in perfect condition or reports out. Work like magic.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Awaken with a fine sense of practical and satisfying pleasure which will help you materially to bring your goals and ambitions closer than you dreamed could happen. Make others happy, give a party. Be original and have fun!

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—The heart of your life is centered in the home today. Inspire others with the beauty and serenity there. Let them get their support without effort. Then tonight relax or invite guests in for dinner and dandies.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Now you have the time to bring in the staples you've wanted to get. With this out of the way, you can then wind up week's business by fine last-minute selling, buying, writing, cinching deals, etc. Be alive!



If your child is born today . . . The refined child born today will be the type who will easily make a great name for himself or herself in art or matters of finance. The organizational and concentrative abilities are fine. Yours will be the duty to teach fine religious precepts, to have great respect for science, other's thoughts, and to give a fine training in accounting. Then the chart is rounded out for real success.

CASH ADVANCES

It is understood the advance will be less than $1 a bushel, perhaps about 50 cents. But even at 50 cents a bushel, the advances could total about $80,000,000.

It appears likely the cash advance form part of the initial price.

The prime issue still to be faced is the need to reduce a record surplus. Opposition parties will likely demand to know what the Conservatives plan to do about increasing exports.

RESERVE FORCES

No changes in the naval or RCAF reserves were announced but some officials said they expect some units will be eliminated.

NO DIVISION TRAINING

The army also announced that the 1st Canadian Infantry Division will not train at Camp Gagetown, N.B., next summer as it has done for the last three years.

The three brigades will train independently at Camp Ipperwash, Camp Petawawa, Ont. and Camp Wainwright, Alta.

Cancellation of the divisional exercises in 1958 probably will lead to disbandment of 1st Division headquarters at Camp Petawawa.

Some militia commanders said large numbers of part-time soldiers probably will quit the militia, leaving only officers in many units.

FAST WORK

GUELPH (CP)—John Fisher, 15-year-old son of a British immigrant father, walked into the John F. Ross Collegiate and Vocational Institute Friday and registered for classes—24 hours after leaving England by plane. He attends his first Canadian study session today.

ARMS SEIZED

AMMAN (AP)—A government spokesman said today "a big quantity of Czech arms" was seized by Jordan security forces Monday near Hawarah village in the Nablus district. A number of arrests were made in connection with the arms seizure, the spokesman added.

MADOC

"It is a matter of gratification to me that the appointment of Dr. Smith has been so universally approved," he said.

TO CARRY OUT PROMISES

Referring to the days ahead and the forthcoming opening of parliament, Mr. Diefenbaker said he would without seeking favors of the opposition parties, seek legislation to carry out election promises.

Action would be taken to recapture lost U.K. markets and already the foundation for this had been laid in talks at Mt. Tremblant where the promise of co-operation from Commonwealth nations was received, he said.

In 1946 and 1947 the farmers had tremendous markets in the U.K. These were now gone; partly due to the fact that the farmers did not work for their development.

"The Progressive Conservatives have promised the farmers a fair share of the national income. Ladies and gentlemen, next week we are going to do it," the Prime Minister said amid applause.

Next week measures would be taken to lay a foundation to bring about the achievements promised on behalf of agriculture as well as for the maintenance and preservation of Canada's economic destiny.

WILL WIDEN OPPORTUNITIES

Mr. Diefenbaker also said his government would raise the vista of opportunity for young people.

"We can't do this in weeks, but in the months to come the foundations will be laid for these things."

He said as providing opportunities for the young, greater security would be given to the aged.

Legislation asked to be passed would be for the betterment of Canada and policies would be objective and not merely for partisan purposes.

"I haven't even thought of the next election,' the Prime Minister said.

He thanked his constituents and asked that his nomination "give the new candidate the same loyal support you have given to me."

"I am at a loss to express my appreciation for the trust, faith and confidence which you have placed in me," Senator White said. "A simple thank you seems so totally inadequate."

Senator White also had tribute for his wife who, he said, had "always stood by me."

"If I have achieved any success, my wife has had a big part in that achievement," he said.

Dr. Smith, in accepting the nomination, said he did so with deep humility and then went on to give his views in a forthright speech, spiced with the humor by which he is so well known, but at the same time touching on serious world issues.

WILL SERVE RIDING

First, however, the external affairs minister promised to keep in close touch with the people of Hastings-Frontenac as a mere stepping stone to the House of Commons in order that I can carry out my obligations as Secretary of State for External Affairs.

"I will sit down with you and with the people of this riding and endeavor to find out and to learn your thinking-and to serve your feelings to the best.

He said he intended to learn about the agricultural problems relating to the dairy products, beef, fruits and vegetables and noted it had been a good introduction to attend Madoc Fair where he had seen fine exhibits.

Speaking from his experience during the past few weeks at NATO meetings in Paris, with the Russian developments of an intercontinental ballistic missile and an earth satellite and said these could not help but be frightening.

"I do not want to talk like a boyscman who tells to scare children when I say that mankind may be on the brink of disaster if we do not solve, and solve soon, problems relating to disarmament, problems relating to the abolition of fear and anxiety and aggression among the nations of the world."

He hoped that some measures may be taken at the present meeting of the General Assembly as a start toward disarmament.

The West could not depend, however on mere promises of the Soviet bloc.

"We must always be in a position to know whether the Russians will actually take the steps that are necessary for even partial disarmament . . . We must in any disarmament proposal be able to keep our powder dry for defence. Adequate inspection must be insisted upon."

Canada can play an important role in the solution of world problems and in playing that role must work closely with friendly nations.

"For, alas, Canadians must think for themselves," Dr. Smith said.

Canada's foreign policy must be based on close co-operation with its friends, but must be thought out independently. It cannot be, and would not be, a pale reflection of policies formed elsewhere.

Dr. Smith stressed Canada's renewed ties with the Commonwealth but at the same time pointed out that by reason of geography and because of the facts that we share what are essentially the British concepts of government we must keep in close touch with our neighbor to the south.

There are problems between the United States and Canada, problems more numerous than 20 years ago. Yet they can be solved and they will be solved, Dr. Smith assured.

Canada, he said, was well fitted for a mediating role in the United Nations, because Canada is a federation made up of many races.

It is a historical fact, according to Dr. Smith, that there has been a lower level of tension in Canada which used the false creed that English Canada wants to wipe out the language, religion and culture of French Canada in their attempts to divide the country.

This false propaganda had divided the country, he said, adding that Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his government would never engage in that political game whereby the promotion of one national unity is retarded and damaged.

Canada, he said, with its gift for compromise, its gift for reconciling differences, is equipped for a leading role in the solution of international problems in the Commonwealth, the United Nations or in NATO.

At the conclusion of the convention meeting, party members of the riding showed their appreciation to Senator White in tangible form. Charles Buskard and William J. Davis, on behalf of the association, made a presentation to the recently appointed Senator in appreciation of his long years of service to the riding.

Wild Waterfowl Hunt in North Best in History

MOOSONEE — The hunting season for wild waterfowl in this area is now in full swing. As usual, hunters are having little difficulty taking their limit of ducks and geese for, within a few miles of this settlement, Ontario's oldest seaport, one of the world's greatest concentrations of waterfowl is now moving towards the south at the approach of winter.

North of Moosonee lies the nesting place of the blue goose, the big Canada and literally millions of ducks. Early in September they begin to move south, some to be shot in Greenland, in Norway or the English marshes, others to swing over Niagara Falls and land in Louisiana and other southern States. Others make Canadian prairies famous for duck shooting.

Before the flocks break up for their varied routes, however, they steam down the shores of James Bay in clouds.

Because of the distance, the cost of reaching the locality, the difficulties of transport over the miles of clay tidal flats, the hunting in this area brings relatively few hunters. Of the six or seven camps distributed from a new, luxurious establishment a few miles from Moosonee to the Albany River, across in Hannah Bay or the Harricanaw River, not more than about 1,000 hunters can be accommodated.

Veteran wildfowl hunters say they have never seen anything like it, hunting in the north. One prominent outdoor writer estimated that if everyone got the limit, it would represent a total of 10,000 birds. As to the number available, an accurate count is impossible since the birds are scattered over thousands of square miles and are seen only on the move.

A trip up here, the end of steel on the Ontario Northland Railway, more than 600 miles north of Toronto, plus other expenses in camp etc. would put the cost, on the basis of meat, at about $30 per goose. But, to the avid bird hunter, the cost is not as important as the chance to see one of Ontario's unique territories, to associate with Cree Indian guides who can talk a goose out of his senses, and to participate in one of the world's great shooting events.

What is the goose like? The Canada is a grey-brown bird, usually lighter below, somewhat wave-marked with light feather edges; head and neck are black with white cheek patches. The Canada may be as small as a large mallard weighing less than four pounds. The record is 18.

BLACK MARKET VACCINE

NEW YORK (AP) — A New York County (Manhattan) medical society officer says a black market is operating in Asian flu vaccine. Dr. William L. Wheeler Jr., secretary of the society, said Wednesday night at a forum on Asian flu: "Black marketeers are asking three times as much for the vaccine as it brings in the legitimate market."

OTTAWA

The Queen will preside Monday morning over a meeting of her Canadian Privy Council at Government House. Later that morning she meets heads of Commonwealth and foreign diplomatic missions and their wives.

Prince Philip receives his diploma as an honorary fellow of the Royal Society of Canada shortly after noon. He was made an honorary fellow last June in recognition of his encouragement of the humanities and sciences.

STATE DINNER

Following the afternoon pageantry at the opening of Parliament, the Queen and Philip will attend a state dinner at Government House Monday evening. About 120 persons are expected to attend.

A state reception will be held at the Governor-General's residence, a 60-room mansion on 80 beautifully-kept acres near the Ottawa River, following the dinner. About 500 guests are expected.

While the royal couple are busy at these smaller, exclusive functions, the great crowds expected here will be entertained in a dozen ways. Three bandstands have been erected—one on Parliament Hill, one at Confederation Square and one in the Central Experimental Farm in the western section of the city.

Bands will give frequent concerts and troops will march. The RCMP will present its musical ride on Parliament Hill. The Royal Canadian Navy will perform its stirring sunset ceremony of lowering the flag.

The carillon in the Peace Tower of the Parliament Building will ring across the city.

VISIT TO HULL

On Tuesday Elizabeth and Philip visit Hull. Back in Ottawa the Queen will touch a button to set off a miniature blast officially inaugurating construction on the Queen Elizabeth Way, a new superhighway being built through the capital.

Philip at noon will meet with the 39 Canadians who attended his study conference on human problems of industrial communities at Oxford in July, 1956. At 1:10 p.m. EDT he will make a radio broadcast.

Some 1,300 guests, including the 10 Indians, are expected to attend the government reception for the royal couple Tuesday afternoon. That evening the Queen and Philip dine privately with the Diefenbakers in the prime minister's residence.

Ottawa school children—15,000-strong—get a special close-up of Her Majesty and the prince at Lansdowne Park Wednesday morning before the couple leave in the RCAF's luxury aircraft, the C-5, for Williamsburg, Va., for the start of their U.S. visit.

national Geophysical Year.

Poloskov contended there had been "no special competition" with the United States to send out the first moonlet. He said that when American scientists study the orbit of the Russian sphere, "they may have enough data to make changes in the plans for theirs."

A. A. Blagonravov said "it's nonsense" when he was asked about suggestions by some American scientists and others that the Russian satellite may be sending back signals in code and may be photographing the United States.

"Such a claim is foolish and irresponsible," Blagonravov said. "It can only come from someone who knows nothing about the subject."

He also said some of the data being transmitted automatically by sputnik's radio equipment includes temperature inside the sphere.

Meanwhile, a Soviet astronomer writing in today's Pravda said man-made satellites may be spinning around the earth thousands of miles out in space "within the next few years."

Viktor Amarasopovich Ambartsumian said the next step then must be a rocket that can fly around the moon. Such a rocket would be equipped with instruments to send back information about the side of the moon which can never be seen from the earth, he said.

"This will be followed by vehicles for interplanetary travel."

Another Soviet space scientist, Prof. A. Sternfeld, said the step between sending animals and humans into space is likely to take some time, because the problem of how to re-enter the atmosphere without endangering the occupants owing to the heat generated by friction with the air is far more difficult to solve than the launching of an object into space.

RESTRICT TRAVEL

MANILA (AP)—The Philippine government today restricted travel of Filipinos to Japan. Informed sources said many reports had been received of discrimination against Philippine nationals in Tokyo. A government announcement said Filipinos would be allowed to visit Japan "only for official business and for exceptionally meritorious cases."

MOSCOW SAYS

In New York, Dr. Sergei M. Poloskov said the Russians intend to share with the United States and other nations scientific information obtained from the satellite. Poloskov and two other Soviet scientists were interviewed before they boarded a plane on their way home from a conference in connection with the International Geophysical Year.

QUEEN, PRINCE TAKE OFF FOR CANADA

21 Guns Primed To Roar Welcome After Long Trip

Nature and Man Combine To Clothe Ottawa in Color

OTTAWA (CP) — Queen Elizabeth starts her second visit to Canada today.

To the booming of a 21-gun salute, she and Prince Philip were due at suburban Uplands airport at 4.25 p.m. EDT after a 13½-hour, 3,400-mile flight from London.

As the royal couple crossed the Atlantic today planes of the RAF and RCAF escorted them at safe distances on various parts of the journey. Below were spaced ships of the Royal Navy and the Royal Canadian Navy.

Meanwhile, the Canadian capital and neighboring Hull, Que., awaited the royal visitors in a blaze of autumn and man-made color.

FIRST SINCE 1951

It was the first visit to Canada of Elizabeth and Philip since 1951. That year they travelled from coast to coast as princess and Duke of Edinburgh. Their five-day Canadian visit this time is limited to the capital.

Elizabeth is the second reigning monarch ever to visit Canada. Her father, the late King George VI, was the first. He and Elizabeth's mother made a national tour in 1939.

The 31-year-old Queen will open the first session of Canada's 22nd Parliament Monday afternoon. It will be the first time a ruling monarch has ever read the speech from the throne to open a Canadian Parliament.

The Queen and Philip are visiting Ottawa and afterwards the United States for five days unaccompanied by their children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne. They remained behind in England.

A clarion fanfare by seven RCAF trumpeters backed by a crescendo on the timpani drum was to greet the Queen and Prince Philip as they emerged from the four-engined British Overseas Airways Corporation plane this afternoon. In the background was the measured thunder of a 21-gun salute, the Royal Ensign flew.

As the plane stopped at the entrance of the huge RCAF hangar, Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker and Governor-General Massey were to meet Her Majesty at the foot of the unloading ramp.

After inspecting a 100-man RCAF guard of honor, the Queen and Prince Philip were to drive through the crowded capital streets to Government House, official residence of the Governor-General where they are staying while here.

It would be a total of 58 miles they are to travel through capital streets on this visit. And at every royal eyes the routes have been decorated with Union Jacks and Canadian Red Ensigns with copies of the Canadian and royal coats of arms, with bunting, ribbons, streamers.

The capital's some 250,000 population was expected to be swelled by more than 100,000 visitors during the royal stay.

Highlight of the visit comes Monday when the Queen will unveil the new Progressive Conservative government's legislative program. It will be outlined in the throne speech, written by the government, which the Queen will read to some 1,000 persons in the Senate for the opening ceremony.

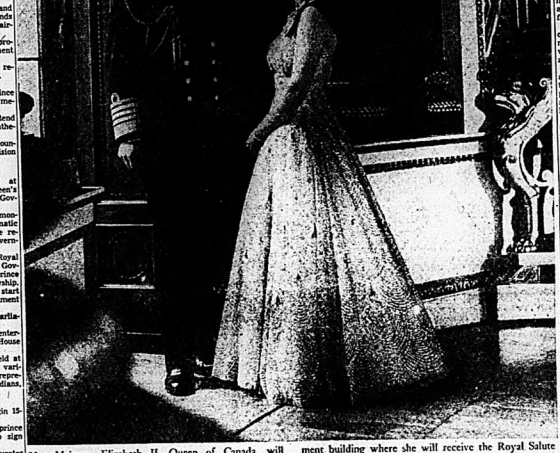
Monday being Thanksgiving Day and a public holiday, there will be no edition of the Ontario Intelligencer.

Britain's Newspapers See Queen's Visit Healing Suez Crisis Wounds

LONDON (AP) — British newspapers today look to Queen Elizabeth's Canadian visit to complete the healing of U.S.-British relations and strengthen Western unity at the time of Russia's scientific challenge.



The Times comments:

". . . The background of the whole of this tour is the drawing together of the three great English-speaking nations of the Atlantic Community.

"Through the Queen herself must not be involved in any issue of recent controversy, this first royal visit since the great

Long May She Reign!

Elizabeth II Queen of Canada

Her Majesty, Elizabeth II, Queen of Canada, will formally open Canada's 23rd Parliament on October 14, 1957. It will mark the first occasion in Canada's history that a reigning monarch has performed this function. Accompanied by His Royal Highness The Prince Philip, the Queen will travel in a state procession to the Parliament building where she will receive the Royal Salute on the steps of the Peace Tower. She will then proceed to the Senate Chamber, where, before the assembled Senators and Members of the House of Commons, she will read the Speech from the Throne.

Two Cars Stolen As Killer Hunted

BLIND RIVER (CP)Provincial police broadcast an alarm throughout the Ontario north today after two cars were stolen in succession from the area being searched for the two gunmen who killed a bank manager last Wednesday.

The first was taken during the night from Depot Lake about 20 miles northeast of here and found abandoned at Cutler, 25 miles east of this uranium mining town.

A second car was reported stolen later from Cutler, leading police to believe the gunmen may have fled their bush hideout in a getaway break.

Upset Timing Could Throw Opening of Parliament in Tizzy

OTTAWA (CP)—The glittering ceremony arranged for the opening of Parliament Monday by Queen Elizabeth could be thrown into a tizzy by an upset in timing.

Officials recognize this possibility and have issued elaborate instructions to avoid any hitch. Each step of the opening has been carefully set out in a 24-page booklet distributed to all individuals involved in the ceremony.

Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will leave Government House—the Governor - General's residence—at 2:35 p.m. EDT for the 2.2-mile drive to the Parliament Buildings. They will travel in a horse-drawn landau, used as a state carriage, or in an automobile if the weather is bad.

SPARE CAR

"There will be a spare car in the procession to prevent any delays from a breakdown.

The royal couple will arrive at the Parliament Buildings at 2:55 p.m. They will be greeted under the arch of the Peace Tower by Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Senator John T. Haig, government leader in the Senate.

After taking the salute of a guard of honor the Queen and Prince Philip will be escorted by Mr. Diefenbaker and Senator Haig to the quarters of newly-appointed Senate Speaker Mark Drouin. Measures are to be taken to ensure against delay.

The royal couple will remove their cloaks in the Senate Speaker's quarters and continue in procession to the Senate chamber, arriving at 3 p.m.

The Queen will accent the steps of the throne, face the assemblage and ask them to be seated. Prince Philip will take a seat on her left. Mr. Diefenbaker will be seated to the right of the throne and Senator Haig to the left.

Speaker Drouin will command Maj. C. R. Lamoureux, gentleman usher of the black rod, to summon members of the Commons. Maj. Lamoureux will walk down a long corridor to the Commons, hammer on the main door, receive permission to enter and then will request Commoners to attend Her Majesty immediately in the Senate.

Commoners will proceed to the Senate and stand at the bar of the upper house. The bar is just inside the Senate's main entrance and no commoner may proceed past it except the prime minister.

The Speaker of the Commons, chosen at a morning sitting of the House, will raise three times Commons claim to free speech. The Queen, through Speaker Drouin, will reply that she recognizes the Commons' constitutional privileges.

The Queen's private secretary then hands Her Majesty the English text of the speech from the throne, the document outlining the government's legislative program for the session. After the Queen has read the English version, she will read a French text.

Nine Bailed Out, Plane Lands Self

BUTLER, Mo. (AP) — Nine fliers from the U.S. Air Force base at Topeka, Kans., a) bailed out of their C-47 transport into the darkness Friday night and the plane made a good landing by itself. No one was hurt.

Capt. E. P. Zeidler, co-pilot, said he didn't know what caused the planes two engines to quit. The air base said the C-47 was almost home from a routine training flight.

Rocket Now Three Minutes Ahead Of Satellite in Round-World Race

LONDON (Reuters) — The speeding Soviet Sputnik today began its second week of ceaseless spinning around the earth. In the more than 110 rings it has run around the globe the 23-inch sphere has covered more than 2,000,000 miles.

Scientists at England's Cambridge University said today the last stage of the Russian rocket which blasted the satellite into space is the most outstanding around the world about three minutes in front of the baby moon and nearer the earth.

Contact was made with either the satellite or its rocket during the night by the world's largest radio telescope at Jodrell Bank, England.

BBC engineers at Tatisfield, England picked up signals from the satellite shortly after 7 a.m. GMT 3 a.m. EDT and reported them "getting fainter."

Radio operators on all continents are monitoring the satellite and three German engineers say they have tracked it on a one-minute pass from over Tripoli, North Africa, to Leningrad, Russia, taking more than still photographs of it.

Professor Antonaly Blagonravov, one of the satellite's creators, has denied previous reports the satellite contained a telephonic apparatus. Stopping in Copenhagen, Blagonravov said he got his first view of the satellite from the cockpit of an airliner.

Blagonravov and two of his colleagues said a rocket trip from Moscow to New York in 10 minutes would be possible in a few years.

Their DC-7 Roars Into Dawn Mists Fighting Winds

Sleepy-Eyed Queen Boards Big Plane on Chill Morning

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip flew off into strong headwinds today for a 10-day visit to Canada and the United States.

Their DC-7 roared into a chill, misty morning at 7:10 a.m. (3:10 a.m., EDT) for the 13½-hour flight to Ottawa.

Waiting for her in the Canadian capital were the Commonwealth nation's leaders and thousands of visitors who jammed the city and chilly but clear fall weather.

The Queen looked sleepy-eyed as she boarded the plane after bowing briefly to face photographers from the flower-festooned ramp. Prince Philip walked behind her bareheaded and smiling.

Once inside the cabin, the Queen sat down by a window, took off her blue velvet hat to show her freshly waved brown hair, and looked out the window.

EARLINESS CUTS CROWD

As the big plane rumbled off on the runway, the Queen wiggled her fingers to the small crowd. Police said the early hour cut the number of people there to wave their sovereign off.

The chief pilot, 51 - year - old Capt. Gordon Store of South Africa, said strong headwinds were expected on the flight. Visibility would be good and the Queen should be able to see the New World for the first time on this trip at Bell Island, Labrador, he said.

An airlines official said the strong winds might give the royal pair a few bumps before they reach Ottawa.

One of the highlights of the Canadian visit will be the Queen's first solo television performance, set for Sunday night. With Prince Philip as her coach, she has rehearsed carefully for it.

Ottawa was crowded with visitors anxious to see the monarch and the duke in person.

"ALL DOLLED UP"

The city was lighthearted and festive. "All dolled up for the Queen," the Ottawa Citizen said in an eight-column headline.

The plane carrying the Queen passed over Shannon airport, Ireland, one hour and 24 minutes after taking off and headed across the Atlantic at 14,500 feet. Patrol ships along the route had been specially warned to stand by during the crossing.

Fighter planes were served as escort.

The royal couple had breakfast shortly after taking off and then the plane passed over the Welsh coast and crossed the Irish Channel.

The menu for lunch included smoked Scottish salmon or Northern lobster, grilled fillet of beef and vanilla cream parfait. Before the plane landed, Buckingham Palace she kissed Princess Anne goodbye. Prince Charles received a fond kiss at Cheam School, received a regulation hug. Both children were then told that "certainly cheered mother" a school staff member said.

GOVT. ABANDONS PRODUCTION OF JET INTERCEPTOR

Plan More of Mark V Version Now in Service

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is abandoning production of the Mark VI version of the CF-105 all-weather jet interceptor. However, it plans to order more of the Mark V version, now in RCAF service in Canada.

Abandonment of the Mark VI was announced Friday by the defence department "to keep the budget within bounds." The economy measure may save an estimated $100,000,000, about $25,000,000 during the current fiscal year and the rest in future years.

Senior officials had said last month the move was being considered because the air-to-air missile the new jet was to carry would not be ready for RCAF service for three or four years.

By that time, the 1,200-mile-an-hour CF-105, like the CF-100 being built at Toronto by Avro Aircraft Company Limited, would be available.

TWO CAR ACCIDENTS RESULT IN DAMAGE

Two motor accidents, both resulting in extensive property damage, were reported in the city today.

Shortly after midnight at the intersection of Bridge Street East and Clarke Boulevard, a taxi driven by Wilfred Polmateer, R. R. 8, Belleville, and an auto operated by Thomas Hookings, 76 Golfdale Road, were in collision with a Dodge standard sulting, $400 to the first vehicle.

Police said that Mr. Hookings was northbound on Clarke Blvd. when, as he crossed Bridge St., which is a through artery, his vehicle was struck by the eastbound taxi.

At the corner of Dundas and Front Streets, '50s Hoodlills, Montreal, swung wide on the curve and struck a light standard, cracking it at the base.

Tweed, Bancroft Schools Hard Hit by Flu

High schools at Tweed and also at Bancroft have been laid low as result of the current epidemic of the flu.

Only 146 students reported for classes at Tweed High School on Thursday and the high school has been closed until next Wednesday.

In the above two centres high school students have been most seriously affected, while the opposite has been the case at Madoc where children of public school age have been most susceptible to the 'flu bug.

EARTH'S AGE

The most ancient rock formations on earth have been estimated as possibly 2,000,000,000 years old.

Police to Rigidly Enforce Laws Over Holiday

Commissioner E. V. McNeil of the Ontario Provincial Police through his various district headquarters Inspectors today appealed to the motoring public for the exercise of every caution on the highways over the long holiday weekend.

At the same time traffic police were requested to maintain a vigilant patrol on the highways to suppress traffic violations and thereby reduce the accident toll.

All available personnel were instructed to be on duty with instructions for the strict enforcement of the Highway Traffic Act.

Commissioner McNeil appealed to motorists to be safety conscious and urged that only "reasonable and prudent" driving accepting their responsibility as motorists could the accident toll be kept down.

Squash Come Swan-Shaped

Buttermilk squash with graceful swan-like necks, and with bill-like stems adding to the realistic appearance, brought a chuckle this morning. market customers this morning.

The unsuspecting squash were seen on the stand of Mr. and Mrs. Orvell Lounsberry of Foxboro, who said many of their buttermilk squash this year had graceful swan-like curved necks.

Just for a laugh, Mr. Lounsberry trimmed one of the squash stems to a point and added a couple of pink paper eyes, and presto, he had himself a realistic curved neck swan.

St. Laurent Says Decision to Quit Is 'Irrevocable'

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader St. Laurent says his decision to quit the Liberal leadership is "irrevocable."

He made the statement to reporters following a party caucus — a meeting of senators and Commons members — at which he was asked to stay on as leader. But the caucus also set a meeting preliminary to Monday's opening of Parliament that he be prepared to tell how the party can choose a new chief.

However, he made it clear to the newspaper men that he intends to remain in the parliament as Commons member for Quebec East, at least until the next federal general election.

One of the main objectives of the caucus — the first since the party went out of power after 22 years in office was to arrange for a leadership convention to pick Mr. St. Laurent's successor.

NAMES COMMITTEE

It named a six-man committee to work with a sub-committee on choosing the date for the meeting, expected to be held in Ottawa. Mr. St. Laurent said no specific date was named in the closed-doors caucus.

However, caucus informants said it definitely will be in January. It originally was expected around Jan. 25, but current speculation placed it closer to the middle of the month.

ENTERED COTTAGES

WALKERTON, Ont. (CP)— Four Hamilton youths pleaded guilty Tuesday to a series of charges of breaking, entering and theft. They were remanded one week for sentence. Walter Chappell, 19, James Ritchie, 18, William Skinner, 18, and Morris Sleeves, 18, were charged with breaking, entering and theft with unlawful entry of 15 summer cottages at Bruce County summer resorts.

Queen's Meals To Be Canadian As Possible

OTTAWA (CP)—It appears the Queen's meals here will be as Canadian as possible.

And there's every evidence that Canadian hosts are putting their best foot forward to serve culinary masterpieces.

There is, however, a certain secrecy surrounding dishes for Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

Government House Friday announced the menu for the Monday night state dinner. But royal aides for the prime minister's dinner Tuesday night and luncheon aboard the RCAF's C-5 airliner are not known. The airliner flies the royal party to Jamestown, Va., Wednesday.

TYPICALLY CANADIAN

But if other menu-makers take any cues from Government House, the royal visitors will dine on typical Canadian foods.

It is likely the Queen, although she prefers simple fare at home, has a discriminative palate. It comes to fancy cuisine.

At Government House the royal couple and about 100 guests are to dine on Saint John, N.B., lobster Newburg, roast rice sauce and duckling from Brome Lake, Que.

Although the wine list for the Government House dinner was not announced, it is known that Canadian wines are on the list.

ALSO WILD DUCK

The royal visitors also may get duck on the menu at the prime minister's dinner. Mr. Diefenbaker planned to fly with Prince Albert, Sask., himself and bring home a course for the royal dinner.

Although the prime minister couldn't fit hunting into his busy schedule, two Prince Albert hunters did the job for him.

It is understood the mallard ducks—plus three prairie chicken and two partridges—and moose roasts—have arrived in Ottawa for the Tuesday dinner.

Woman Motorist Critically Hurt, Car Turns Over

A woman motorist was critically injured, suffered possible internal injuries, two broken arms and lacerations shortly after eight o'clock this morning when her car missed the turn at Avis Corner on Highway 2 Deseronto and turned over pinning her beneath the vehicle.

Her identity was not immediately available.

She was admitted to Belleville General Hospital where at press time she was still in emergency.

Provincial Police said the woman was driving south when she apparently missed the curve, the car continuing out of control for 300 feet before coming over underneath.

Her husband was asleep in the back seat at the time of the accident. He was said to have suffered only a shaking up.

Provincial Constable Gordon Oliver investigated.

EUROPE HARD HIT

LONDON (Reuters) — Europe's flu epidemic mounted Thursday as schools shut down, telephone service was cut and bus and streetcar service suspended. So many doctors, nurses and domestic staff in some London hospitals were ill that only urgent surgical cases were admitted. In Berlin, a city health department spokesman said five persons had died of Asian flu since Sunday.

Mr. Ted Snider, manager of Trenton Canadian Tire, arrived back in the town this week from his trip to Europe, when he was accompanied by S/L R. Wood, Public Relations Officer, RCAF Trenton.

Creamery Butter Production Down

OTTAWA (CP) — Creamery butter production in Canada dropped four per cent below last year's level during the first eight months of this year, the bureau of statistics reported today. Maritime output jumped 5.6 per cent in the same period.

Nine provinces, however, with output a year earlier in brackets: Butter 241,279,000 pounds (251,699,000); margarine 95,187,000 pounds (90,102,000); cheddar cheese 76,252,000 pounds (66,878,000); ice cream 28,945,000 gallons (27,326,000); concentrated milk products 62,701,000 pounds (256,421,000); process cheese 32,044,000 pounds (33,582,000).

Mrs. Diefenbaker Has Wardrobe Ready for Visit

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. John Diefenbaker, who has somehow squeezed shopping and fittings into a busy schedule, has her wardrobe all ready for the royal visit.

The brown-haired, handsome wife of Prime Minister Diefenbaker has travelled thousands of miles with her husband since he took office late in June.

She spent weeks living out of a suitcase on cross-Canada trips after a December party convention named her husband Progressive Conservative leader and candidate for government leadership.

Today she greets Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip wearing a sapphire blue wool dress, draped sapphire velvet hat and black accessories.

ONE OF SIX

It's one of six ensembles Olive Diefenbaker has chosen for official functions during the four-day royal visit.

Her dress for a wreath-placing ceremony at the National War Memorial Sunday might be the blue dress she chose for the Queen's arrival. Or, alternately, it might be a wool suit in hunter's green with a belted jacket and pleated skirt, topped with a mink stole and a green fur felt hat.

For Monday's opening of Parliament, Mrs. Diefenbaker plans to wear a model gown of dawn pink "peau d'ange fashioned on Empire lines.

And for Monday night's state dinner and reception at Government House, she has chosen a simply-cut sheath of Christian Dior model in white alencon lace. She'll wear a diamond necklace.

She'll also have two costume changes on Tuesday. For an afternoon government reception she has chosen a cocktail dress designed by Cres in mink brown silk satin, with a matching hat of draped tulle.

Tuesday night the mistress of 24 Sussex Street will be hostess to the Queen and 14 or 16 other guests in her own home.

For the dinner party she will wear a model gown of Grecian design in a pure silk chiffon of hyacinth blue.

Days and Customs of All Faiths

End of the Succoth Festival

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Sunday, Oct. 13 —Even the most detached observer of the religious scene in these times must be aware that laymen are more interested and more active in their churches than men have been for many years, perhaps even since the early days of the Reformation. This unexplained but happy circumstance seems to be true in all churches and in all parts of the world.

Men and Missions Day, sponsored by United Church Men, is an evidence and a result of this growing interest. It will be observed today by the men of most of the larger Protestant denominations.

The purpose of the day is to direct the men's interest into definite and practical projects designed to benefit the missionary programs of the denominations.

United Church Men, a department of the U. S. National Council of Churches, not long ago learned that fine inspirational speeches are pleasant but unproductive.

Men and Missions Day is not celebrated by bringing the men in to listen to the eloquence of experts. The local program for the day is in the hands of the men themselves.

In the weeks leading up to Men and Missions Day, each local group has conducted a survey of its own situation, to discover what its own church is doing about spreading the influence of Christianity both at home and abroad.

Then, as businessmen analyzing the problems of "the Lord's business," the laymen decide what they are going to do about their share of the responsibility.

The climax of the study comes today at a men's breakfast, when all men of the congregation hear the survey report and discuss the adoption of definite projects through which laymen may promote missions.

The threefold hope of United Church Men is that Men and Missions Day will increase the knowledge, broaden the vision, and stimulate the support of Christian missions among the men of all churches.

THREE JEWISH DAYS

Wednesday, Oct. 16 — Today is Hoshana Rabba, which means literally "Great Salvation." The happy festival of Succoth is now coming to a close.

Today a procession makes seven circuits of the synagogue, reciting special prayers beginning with Hoshana, "Help, we pray then." A cluster of five willow twigs is beaten until all the leaves fall off.

The symbolism in this ceremony is that as the trees lose their leaves and are renewed, so will God always give to man new life and hope.

Thursday, Oct. 17 — On this day, called Shemini Atzereth there are two special features: memorial services for the dead, and prayers for rain to prepare the soil for the next growing season. The book of Ecclesiastes is read to remind the people of the transient character of human life.

Friday, Oct. 18 — Today, Simhath Torah, is the most joyous day of the joyous Succoth festival. Its name means "Rejoicing of the Law." This is the day on which the annual cycle of the reading of the Torah in the synagogue comes to its completion and its re-commencement.

The symbolism is of the never-ending quality of the Jews' greatest possession: the Law. Processions today carry the Torah scrolls, flags and candles and march happily around the synagogue.

After the service the rejoicing continues in a social hour with refreshments for everyone including the children.

And so with these three special days, the pleasant Feast of Tabernacles (Succoth) is ended.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

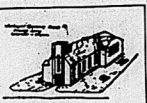
OUR AMUSING JUNCOS

According to the scientists birds all act according to instinct; they have no thinking apparatus. Perhaps that is so; but they certainly possess individuality and character. One needs only to watch a bird family to find that out.

For five or six summers Mr. Junco has rented territory in the centre of which our house stands. He may have a different wife each year for all we know; but Mr. Junco is unmistakable. As he looks exactly like any other male junco (grey above and white below with a distinct line of division, and white tail shafts) you may well ask why we are so sure of his identity; but we will answer with another question. Are you acquainted with a junco that hops upstairs, one step at a time? This happens day after day, each summer. None of his wives or children were ever caught at this trick, and that gives a lot of chances, because he generally has eight children a year — four born in the beginning of June and four in early July. We are always sorry for the older ones who are chased off the feeding tray by both parents a very few days after they have learned to feed themselves.

LOOKING FOR MOTHS

Why does Mr. Junco hop upstairs? He is looking for moths, the kind that fly around lighted lamps in the evening. By day they hide in the cracks between the boards of the verandah floor. He goes to endless trouble to find one, hopping under chairs and hammocks without paying the least attention to their occupants. And when he finds one he carefully pulls off its wings and carries the body to a son or daughter.



The children, too, have individuality. At the age of one month Smartie, now 2½ months old, thought out plans which had never entered his mother's head. By then he had discovered all by himself that the only sensible way to keep his bark partridge plate from moving around on the tray when he ate was to hold it down firmly with one foot. If someone else upset a plate he promptly turned it right side up. At that age he found out it was possible to pick a bread crumb out of the bird bath. And he suddenly decided that it was great fun to take a bath, splash violently, and even wash his head.

We wish Smartie would rent the territory beside his father's next spring. He could easily be recognized if he came to the feeding tray. But Mr. Junco will never allow him.

THE QUEEN AT OTTAWA

Monday's opening of Parliament by Queen Elizabeth II will mark another milestone in Canadian history. This will be the first time that a reigning monarch has opened the sessions of the Canadian House of Commons.

Queen Elizabeth is titular head of so many other self-governing lands that it is obviously impossible for her to open every session of parliament, in all of them. We may be pardoned for hoping, though, that another ninety years do not elapse before a session of the Canadian parliament is again opened by the Queen of Canada.

One great disadvantage of visits of our Queen being so infrequent is that the novelty of having her in our midst leads us to act as if she were "visiting royalty" instead of one of us. One might almost think there was no real difference between her visit to Canada and her visit to the United States which will follow her all-too-brief stay with us. There is, though, all the difference in the world. Her visit to the United States is designed to promote good feeling between that country and Britain; no visit by the Queen is required to tighten the bonds between Britain and Canada and, indeed, she does not visit us as a royal emissary from the United Kingdom but as our own Queen.

Another of the hazards which may result from royal visits to Canada being so widely spaced is that Canadians may fall into the error of copying that cult of adulation for an individual which, some have complained, has been growing in Britain. The whole is never greater than the part and the Queen, much though we may love her as a person, owes her foremost claim to our esteem for what she represents, for all that heritage, hard-won over many centuries, of rule by law, of constitutional monarchy, of respect for civil rights, of tolerance for diverse views and opinions, which has come to us from Britain and of which she is the living symbol.

We hope the Queen and Prince Philip enjoy their visit to Canada as much as we know Canadians will enjoy having them visit this country.

PLEASE BE CAREFUL

Thanksgiving weekend is here and many people have already left for a last three-day vacation at the cottage before the snow flies.

We wonder how many of them will come back—alive.

The Canadian Highway Safety Council has already issued a statement that "unless we drive and walk more sensibly the Thanksgiving toll in Canada will surpass 40".

All of us are conscious of the number of irresponsible drivers on the province's highways. Let us be like the man who considers every driver, but himself, the most dangerous motorist on the highway.

Forty funerals would be a mighty poor way to offer thanks.

STORIES WITH COLOR

K. E. Gbedemah, the finance minister of Ghana, was not considered good enough to drink orange juice in a roadside restaurant in Delaware last Monday—but three days later he breakfasted with President Dwight Eisenhower.

We do not know for certain that President Eisenhower extended the invitation to breakfast after the Delaware incident, but if he did it gives us double cause to applaud him, for his gesture as well as for his statement to Gbedemah that he was "a little worried" about the Delaware incident.

William Degiado, a disabled war veteran of Spanish descent, was told Thursday that it would probably be safe for him to return to the Long Island town of Coplague with his family. The residents of that town had taken the Degiados for Negroes, but it had been established that they were "white". Said Degiado: "I don't want to live near people like that. I want my kids to grow up in a decent place."

We applaud Degiado and wish that more white people were determined to live in "a decent place".

If they were, we might not be so nervous at the growing signs that the Southern contempt of the Negro is being transplanted to the North and converted into outright hatred. There is no sound reason to hope that Canada will escape being influenced by this tendency if it becomes widespread in cities just across the border.

We don't think, though, that the spreading hatred of the Negro in the north has yet led the inhabitants of any community to be quite as absurd as the residents of a small fishing village on Chesapeake Bay, in Maryland. They had no medical doctor for many years. Then one located there. He was a Negro. But that did not prevent them from bringing the sick and injured to him to be healed. All went well, until school opened. Then threats and a fiery cross greeted his son's presence in a classroom in which all other pupils were white. He left and returned to Washington. He was good enough to heal but not good enough to have his son educated.

LOVE

Love comes with a smile
At the birth of the day
And bids you to laugh
All your trouble away.

Comes love at high noon
With the draught from the pool
And quenches your thirst
With the water so cool.

Comes love at twilight.
The hours you love best,
And there by your couch
Lulls you sweetly to rest.

From morning to night,
From our birth to the end,
Love is our comforter,
Love is our friend.

What Do Russians Think?

New York Times

The Soviet space satellite continues to be at the centre of world attention. Its initial success has deserved applause for the high order of scientific and technical craftsmanship which made this feat possible. At the highest levels of Western policy-making, we are of the same and hope, the political and military implications of the satellite are being soberly assessed, and such revision of past policies as the satellite may indicate is being prepared. The Soviet Government has begun the propaganda and political exploitation of the satellite that was to be expected. Yesterday's Pravda asserted that the satellite would force a revision of Western policy to meet Soviet demands, and today comes announcement of the explosion of a hydrogen bomb of new design at great height suggest what the nature of this exploitation is to be.

* * *

But what about the impact of the satellite upon the people of the Soviet Union and the people of its earthbound satellites in Europe and Asia. Dispatches from Moscow tell us that ordinary Soviet citizens feel that the this accomplishment of their fellow citizens, and this is of course to be expected. But what is surprising is that Khrushchev has evolved a modernized version of the old thread of Caesars, a bread and science version of Panem et circenses. Attention from more mundane concerns. Certainly Khrushchev has used the launching of intercontinental missiles, jet planes and atom submarines to divert public attention added Before the Soviet people in recent years, do not feed, clothe or house them. The basic problem of Russia remains today, as it was before the space satellite, that the bulk of its people are ill-fed, ill-clad and ill-housed.

* * *

This consideration suggests that some Soviet citizens may have still another reaction beside the pride they have voiced publicly. Some of them may be wondering how much new housing could have been built if the resources used for the space satellite had been devoted to alleviation of their country's housing crisis. A two-room apartment may seem to lack artistic excitement when compared with a space satellite, but for millions of Soviet citizens it is the former rather than the latter that is the object of personal desire and concern. After all, most urban Soviet families are still jam-packed one family to a room in communal apartments.

* * *

As to the reaction in Communist countries outside the Soviet Union, the recent news from Warsaw may give some clues. The demonstrations in that city, and the police brutality which greeted the demonstrators, began before the space satellite was launched and continued after that event was announced. We may not be far wrong in suspecting that the artificial moon in the heavens has not altered one bit the desire of the people of Poland and other Communist countries for greater nationalist independence, greater freedom and better living standards. And we may be sure that whether or many of the people in these dependent countries do not share our concern, here in the West, over this vivid public demonstration of increased Soviet military might.

* * *

Nobody asked the workers of the Soviet Union if they wished to have a lower living standard than the United States in order to get ahead of their country might win primacy in the race to the stars. They have been told, and it seems probable that they would have voted to use the available resources for their own needs. But they were not asked and the standard of living they have reflects the great unproductive expenditures the Soviet Government makes for arms and the like. If Mr. Khrushchev wants credit for the space satellite and the intercontinental missile, he must also accept responsibility for the kind of living conditions that have been generated by the sacrifice these feats required.

Detroit Now Sets Styles

Washington

It is getting so that the new models of automobiles each year stir up as much excitement as Dior's edicts on the bustline. "Have you heard that the new Flashmobile will be five feet wide?" "Did you know the new Zoom will be absolutely without fins?" Almost as much as the highway is apparently as eager to look up to the minute as are the women who sail into the first fall cocktail party. The big motor companies are vying with one another lustily on style in their 1958 models and pointing for next year's. Indications are that will definitely make 1957 cars look as dated as the Model T. A healthy upswing in the flow of economy foreign cars continues, and the British Motor Industry Research Association announces it will continue to concentrate on getting more for a gallon of gasoline. In a few year six hopes to achieve 50 miles per gallon, no doubt based on some feel of the public pulse, indicate that pride is as yet king of the road.

Proverbs From Farms

Milwaukee Journal

Many of our most expressive proverbs come from farms, some originating in Europe, some starting here. For example: "The best fat lays in the lean belt," says an all the rest are roosters."

* * *

Even before the days of Ben Franklin, proverbs recommended thrift and hard work. "The early bird's your cow, but you have to do the milking." "The best helping hand you'll ever find is at the end of your arm."

* * *

There are hundreds of proverbial comparisons, like: "Broad as a Dutch barn," "Ca'm as a pan of skim milk," "Mean as a dog in a yard of pump water."

* * *

Exaggeration has a place, too. "She had a face long enough to eat oats out of a churn." "Their farm is so big that a rooster would has to pack a lunch before he starts across a field." "He's so thin he has to lean against a sapling to cuss."

* * *

Some tart remarks: "You can't expect anything from a pig but a grunt." "He thinks he's the whole team and the only one under the wagon."

* * *

There are many sayings for special occasions and situations. In rural New York we have several variations on the theme of weather. "Hold her, Newt — she's headed for the storm cellar," when someone is obviously out of line. (Substitute buckwheat, alfalfa, clover — whatever crop is handy.)

* * *

There are notes of courage in proverbs, too. After a fire: "Every way, we've got a good chimney hole to build to." "Blessed be nothing — you don't have to pay taxes." (This last one seems a little out of date.)

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

There is an insatiable human instinct to disturb the peace. Last weekend up at the cottage, the lake was still as millpond and a lovely autumn mist hung over it. A flock of some thirty wild geese came in and landed well out in the middle. Not three minutes elapsed before a grown man jumped in his outboard and raced full pelt out, for what purpose it would be hard to say, since shooting is not yet open on that water. The geese took off before he was half way to them, and vanished.

There he careened and scooted around in silly circles, kicking up swells in the quiet water; and then came lumely back to his wharf. When some of us wandered over and enquired in a nice way what the hell he meant by this exhibition, he appeared genuinely puzzled.

"It just seemed like a good idea," he said.

It seems like a good idea to a young man, for instance, to rig a cutout on the muffler of his hot-rod and go snorting and thundering through quiet residential streets at one a.m.

The peace and quiet of the schoolroom is unbearable loth to small boys and girls alike, so when they get out at recess it is necessary to scream and yell and race wildly about. Peace is quiet, you might say anywhere, is unsufferable to the natural young. They must whoop and holler, kick over ash cans, hammer on fences, run, jump, wrestle, stamp

No man is happier than one with a steam shovel. And all other men pause and envy him.

An old friend of mine with thirty years' service in the department has been promoted to the subway trains.

"All I can do," he says wistfully," is blow this silly little tin whistle."

With his mouth. For years, he had a great bell to clang with his foot.

Peace is not natural to man. To feel alive, he must disturb it.

Mr. W. B. Deacon of this city has been requested by the Minister of Finance, Sir Thomas White, to organize for the County of Hastings for the Victory Loan which is to be issued shortly by the Dominion Government.

The Griffin Theatre was crowded to the doors last night, the occasion being the annual visit of Bud Fisher's cartoon creations "Mutt and Jeff" in the flesh. The large audience enjoyed many laughs.

October 12th., 1907

The finest elevator in this section of the County of Hastings, owned by John Hobbs, was destroyed by fire in Foxboro. The fire is said to have started in the furnace room in the evening. The building contained a large quantity of dried fruit. The loss is said to be about $4,000.00.

No Engineer Should Sell

Hamilton Spectator

There may be some truth in the statement, frequently made that one of the chief reasons for the continuing scarcity of engineers is that far too many graduates are employed in other work for which they were trained. The long training required for these men is succeeded not by field or drawing board work but by a selling job. Few desk jockeys are as well done by someone without specialized qualifications.

* * *

The West now knows the Soviet Union's ability to turn out scientific information and engineers will soon be in excess of all the Western nations combined and since, under the rigidly planned Communist economy, these graduates are somewhat less able enterprises — and selling has no place in them — the Soviet's advantage is enhanced.

* * *

It must be obvious that over a period of years this concentration of talent will pay dividends in Soviet engineering accomplishment. The West must not allow this to create a sense of inferiority. For it is not by any feeling that they lag so far behind Western nations in the invention of new devices that this has been one of the principal spurs to Soviet endeavor. There must be no switch in inferiority complexes.

* * *

It would not be possible for the West to match the Soviet's army of engineers without changing the basic pattern of living, and especially, and what would mean a similar change in the manner of thinking. Yet in the end, would be the spiritual foundations of our society.

* * *

This point was well made by Dr. J. W. Hodgins, director of engineering studies at McMaster University when addressing a meeting of the Hamilton Institute of Electrical Engineers the other day.

* * *

The West could not hope to compete with the output of Russian engineers, he is reported to have said, without adopting the very system which now represent the difference between their way of life and ours.

* * *

This being so, the West's advantage conceivably would be in quality and in a proper conservation of engineering talent.

Personal Health Talks

By Dr. WM. BRADY

Better Late Than Never!

"I have been married a year and seven months and am three months in the family way. I will be 43 years of age when the baby is born. The doctor asked me whether I had any questions. Where childbirth is concerned, I am so ignorant that I didn't even know what to ask about, so I said indeed I haven't any. Maybe he didn't like my bravado, for he answered me with 'All right — call me at once when pains start, and I'll tell you what to do.' Now I feel I am no better off than I was before I consulted the doctor. And I'm afraid he doesn't think much of me.

— (Mrs. M.G.W.)

I shouldn't worry about that. In fact I'd say the heck with such a doctor. He is obviously of that

"tell 'em nothing" school. Keep 'em ignorant. Much easier to handle 'em that way.

Actual records of a large series of cases show that the healthy woman who bears her first child at 40 or thereabouts, may expect a normal delivery.

Maybe I made a tactical error when, in a moment of enthusiasm I handed off and said "Any one who can roll a homerun and come up smiling can have a baby," or something to that effect. Obvious quips aside I'm sure you know perfectly well what I meant — physical fitness, resiliency, vim.

For the pregnant woman, as for anybody else, the best daily exercise to cultivate and maintain vim is a daily walk of from five to six miles. A brisk walk, that is.

Strength for The Day

LITTLE BUT GENUINE

Better a poor creed lived up to than a good creed neglected.

This is a fine rule to follow, as we confront our own imperfections and as we judge the beliefs and practices of others. Here is a man, for example, with whose religious outlook you cannot find yourself at all in sympathy. He believes and half-lives a few precious many things which you disbelieve or regard as superficial. But he goes up to what he believes. On the other hand, you may have the best creed in the world and you may be neglecting it at every step in your life. Your creed calls for sacrifice, yet you may be selfish and indulgent. Your creed demands absolute purity, and your life and thoughts may be anything but pure. Your creed may be filled with protestations of love, but you may be bitter, vengeful, and full of angry hostility.

And then some poor, ignorant chap, whose creed in your estimation, is in fact worth a fig, lives up to his poor creed and is a better man, a better citizen, a better friend than you have been. Ever.

It is not our creeds that count, but the seriousness with which we take our creeds. Better a poor creed lived up to than a good creed neglected. Better a few achievements honestly and diligently won than high citation and wealth and moral languor.

De-Icing DEW Line Domes

Research For Industry

Radar stations guarding the Western Hemisphere against missile attack from "the top of the world", are spotted throughout the arctic and subarctic regions of North America.

Some of the climate conditions encountered could result in formations of "glaze" ice on the 30-to-50-foot radomes housing antennas and other sensitive radar equipment. Glaze ice is the product of "freezing" rain on normally forms at temperatures ranging from 15 to 32 degrees F. under low wind velocity conditions.

The weight of such formations places undesirable strains on the radomes which are inflated plastic three-quarter spheres or rigid structures of glass-reinforced plastic. Structural failure of these electronic "sentries" at a crucial moment could have a catastrophic effect in the event of enemy attack.

* * *

To determine the most suitable methods of preventing and removing such formations, DEW-line is studying for the Rome Air Development Centre of the USAF by Research and Development Command techniques that will lead to practical, economical and dependable systems for doing these jobs.

Radome material coatings antagonistic to ice formation and "anti-icing" liquids applied to radomes by spraying have been investigated as prevention measures. Various types of electrical, low-frequency pulse, explosive, and high-electric field methods have been examined and evaluated for ice breakup and removal suitability.

* * *

Tests of various radome materials coatings at 14 degrees F. indicated that protective "radiation" paints, presently used on radomes made of neoprene-coated nylon fabric, provided only slight protection from ice formation as any special coating tested.

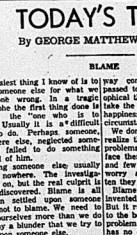
Should Unite To Save Elms

Toronto Globe and Mail



The vote of $40,000 by the Civic Parks Committee for the purpose of fighting the Dutch Elm disease is welcome as accompanied by a decision to ask for active co-operation from Provincial Government Departments which might be concerned.

The Dutch Elm Disease is an infection spread by a bark beetle which both feeds and breeds in the bark of elm trees. It is the host of a fungus, which kills the trees by blocking the passence by the drying of the leaves in the upper limbs of the tree. The disease is that whole tree soon dies. The spread of the disease is hastened when dead limbs or other elm wood are allowed to exist in the open air. Such wood should be burned.

A treatment of some value has been developed by spraying with strong DDT, and it is in the furtherance of this program that the Parks Department grant has been passed. It is clear, however, that if adjacent Metropolitan municipalities and rural municipalities throughout southern Ontario are not given information and assistance, this serious disease will wipe out the elm in Ontario.

BLAME

The easiest thing I know of is to blame someone else for what is wrong in the world. The tragic catastrophe the first thing done is to find out "who is to blame." Usually it is a "difficult thing to do. Perhaps someone's negligence, neglected something or failed to do something expected of him.

Blaming someone else usually gets us nowhere. The investigation may go on, but the real culprit is rarely discovered. Blame is all too often settled upon someone who is not to blame. We need to blame someone more than we do to prevent another fault we try to settle upon someone else.

None of us like to share the blame for something that in way concerns us, but is often caused by some fault in the philosophical thing to do, perhaps, is to take the blame and save as much happiness as possible under the circumstances.

We don't have to live too long to realize that life is made up of problems and solutions, and if we face these problems with resolve and few complaints, we need not worry as to the solutions. Often times they take care of themselves.

Blame is something that is often invented to clear our own skirts. But it rarely helps. It doesn't get to the bottom of the trouble, or problem. It's like many a lie that has no existence. We should try not to blame anyone — not even ourselves!

Cars Need Water But Not in Oil

By EUGENE MILMOE

Is oil dilution (by water or fuel) causing poor lubrication and premature wear in your engine?

Water vapor is one of the by-products of combustion and normally most of it escapes out the exhaust. With a well-heated engine, the small amount which goes down past the pistons escapes as steam through the crankcase ventilating system. But if cylinder walls are too cool, it condenses to water which gets into the oil.

Thus, a car used mostly for short runs will invite serious dilution because the engine never warms up enough to avoid excessive condensation.

In winter, of course, condensation is more difficult to minimize. That's why more frequent oil changes are needed.

Oil is also diluted — and the protective lubricant film may be washed out of metal walls — when raw fuel leaks past piston rings. Here again the car owner can help by better care.

Leading causes are overchoking, pedal pumping, rich carburetor adjustments, inefficient spark plugs and frequent stops during cold weather.

D.W. asks: "The left rear stop light quit working on my car. I replaced the lamp bulb this morning, but it still doesn't light up although the new bulb works O.K. when I try it on the right side. I assume that means there is something wrong with the wiring. Is that right?"

(A) Either the bulb or the lamp socket is the troublemaker.

Chris: "I have just bought a used 1954 car, my first one with automatic transmission. Is it necessary to change the transmission fluid as often as the engine oil is changed?"

(A) No. Your automatic transmission only requires draining and refilling at 36,000-mile intervals. However, it should be checked every 1,000 miles or so to make certain the fluid level is kept to the full mark.

From H.N.: "My 1956 sedan has recently developed a whistle (or squeal) when the engine idles. The mechanic tried a new pump lubricant and also serviced the generator brushes and commutator. The whistle is still heard but only on idling. The car has gone only 13,125 miles and I don't know what else to do next."

(A) These symptoms often arise when the lubricant is dry; e.g., in need of lubricant. Have you asked the mechanic to check this?

J. McL. writes: "My 1953 suburban model is hard to start and the generator warning light won't go out until car speed is about 30 to 35 m.p.h. as a matter of fact, the red light did not seem to go off at all when I used the car one night last week. Do you think it's battery trouble?"

(A) Both troubles may be due to the one cause: The battery isn't getting a proper charge. The generator and the regulator should be checked as soon as possible.

SAFETY IS NO ACCIDENT

Be careful about your driving—Be sure about your car.

Beck May Quit Next Tuesday

NEW YORK (AP)—Dave Beck said Friday he will resign as president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters as of next Tuesday so president-elect James Hoffa can take over, providing Hoffa isn't tied up in a court trial.

Beck originally had planned to retire Dec. 4. The U.S. government's case against Hoffa, in which he is accused of conspiracy and perjury, is scheduled to come up for trial Tuesday.

Beck said if the case is postponed, leaving Hoffa free to carry on his union duties, he will resign as of that date.

"I'll undoubtedly make it Oct. 15," he said, "if those circumstances prevail."

Shooting Home Movies . . . with Bob Knight

Article 6

If there's one temptation inherent to a movie camera, which doesn't even occur to the user of a still camera, it is to move the camera while shooting. And this, almost always with unfortunate results, is the first practice to which every new movie maker succumbs. Let a subject move, or stand still — and especially stand still — the movie camera pans left . . . pans right . . . pans up and pans down.

The outcome, on a living-room screen is usually warranted to give the collywobbles to every movie viewer. For no camera — still or movie — can be moved while taking pictures and yet get sharp pictures! Move a snapshot camera when you click its shutter, and you'll blur the single picture it's making, perhaps, a 50th of a second. Move a movie camera, and you'll blur the sixteen individual pictures it takes every second, each of which gets about a 20th of a second's exposure. Your film will show what's next on, to a degree. But it can't possibly show it sharply, any more than you could see it sharply if you turned your head while looking at it while somehow managing to bat your eyes sixteen times each second.

RECORDS ACTION

So let's agree that, as a rule, a movie camera should record action, if action there be — but not provide it! The true flow of action in movies comes from the inevitable fact that one scene follows another on your screen . . . each showing part of an incident or event . . . all showing the full story.

Does this mean that you should never panoram? After all, there are panoramas in the professionals . . . made very smoothly . . . and made very seldom . . . and then, for a purpose.

The purpose of a proper panoram, usually, is to introduce a new scene . . . a new site. Almost always, a distant subject. Done right, the camera moves slowly and evenly from the least important to the most important area — and then holds that steadily, for several seconds. Shoot and use an occasional panoram in this manner, and it's swell. But never for close-ups. And never on objects such as a building with a pronounced pattern. Bad subjects. O-p-e-n it is called. Subjects widely spaced throughout your reels. In fact, the more widely spaced the better.

This doesn't for a moment suggest that a tripod is essential to satisfying home movies. But all possible steadiness is — and most everybody can hold a camera with reasonable rigidity. Nor do we mean that you really should never move your camera while your finger is on the exposure button. Frequently sharpness in the action you're recording is far more important than sharpness in the background. Such as of a youngster peddling past you on his bicycle. Follow him steadily as he approaches and goes by, and he'll be nice and sharp on the screen even if the background's a bit blurred, who cares? And this is not panoraming.

Then, too, there's even the ruse of deliberately "swishing" your camera for a special movie effect. Of glimpses of highway signs on an auto trip, for example. You don't want your movie record of the trip to suggest that you simply climbed into your car before your home, and — whammo — immediately pulled up at your destination. So, to show the path of your journey, you halt and climb out of your car every once in a while to squeeze off a shot of a route sign, holding your camera dead centre on each long enough to get it to be read, and then, with your finger still on the button — swish — in the direction you're travelling. Then the next sign. And the next one. And you rapidly close the gap between home and objective, thus giving your audiences more than a hint of your pace and progress.

Fun? You bet. For movies should be fun — both to make and to see!

Execute Woman Who Poisoned Six Relatives

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A plump, 36-year-old waitress who killed three small daughters, her mother and two husbands with cyanide, died in the electric chair Friday.

She left behind a note asking that her body be turned over to a medical institution. She said she wanted someone to "find out why I committed the crimes I have committed."

Mrs. Rhonda Belle Martin, clutching a New Testament, was given a shot to cause poisoning of her fourth husband, Claude C. Martin, in 1951. After her arrest in 1956 she admitted the other killings.

Her fifth husband, Ronald Martin, survived the poisoning. Ronald is the son of Claude C. Martin.

The condemned woman received the full force of electricity after one false start. When the switch was thrown the first time, it was discovered the electrodes hadn't been plugged into the chair and the gruesome task had to be repeated.

Besides Claude Martin, the woman admitted poisoning her second husband, George Garrett, in 1939. She also told of feeding rat poison to three daughters, three-year-old Emogene Garrett in 1937, Anna Carolyn Garrett, 6, in 1940; and Ellyn Elizabeth Garrett, 11, in 1943. She killed her mother, Mrs. Mary Frances Gibbon, in 1944.

GATHERS 75 FOR TRIP TO OTTAWA

Mrs. Beryl Smith of Udora, Ont., is responsible for a trip that 75 persons, 10 of them over 70, are making during the royal visit. She says that she got the idea while baking and, after consulting with friends, found enough enthusiasm for the idea to keep going. Donations to finance the trip poured in and Mrs. Smith arranged for the buses and hotel accommodation. The 75 persons will leave for Ottawa from Blackwater, Port Perry, Cooksville, Petferlaw, Stouffville, Uxbridge, Seagrave, Vroomanton, Richmond Hill and Toronto. The bus will park on a spot along the route where the Queen and Duke will pass.

October Time to Plant Evergreens

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Every gardening job has a best time. Nurserymen tells us October is the very best time to plant evergreens. Fir and spruce trees, arborvitae, junipers, yews and pines all do best when planted in this month. There are several advantages in planting now. The evergreen has completed this year's growth and are going into a dormant stage. Their demands for moisture is much less than in the growing season. At this time of year in contrast to spring, the soil is not too wet to dig, which simplifies the task of digging and of working the soil around the roots after planting. Planted at this time of year the roots can become established before their period of heavy summer work begins.

Whether you are transplanting shrubs, digging your own in a self-serve nursery or purchasing them already balled and burlapped. Make sure that the roots are protected by a good size ball of earth. Maintaining this ball of earth requires extra work but you can often save one third of the cost of trees and shrubs that are already burlapped by digging your own in a nursery. Even small junipers or yew foot high should not be moved without a ball 18 inches in diameter. When digging your own stock, go prepared with a supply of burlap sacks which have been opened down the seams. Take along a good supply of heavy twine to secure the burlap around the earth ball before moving the plants.

DIG TRENCH

Dig a trench completely around the evergreen and do not skimp on the depth. Remember the more roots you take with you the better the chance of survival. Make the trench wide enough that you can undercut easily. Then put the burlap beneath the ball in the hole and tie it securely around the base of the tree.

Before planting, see that the hole is half again as deep as the plant was originally set at the nursery. Fill in a layer of good top soil with a cupful or two, according to size of shrub, of vigro, or other balanced fertilizer. Dig this in and see that the shrub will be no lower than one inch below its former position The earth line is easily seen on the trunk. You need not remove the burlap. It will rot away, but cut the cords and loosen the burlap.

After filling in half of the soil tramp it down firmly and let the hose run slowly into the hole until the soil is thoroughly soaked. Fill into top leaving a slight basin to catch rain. Soak with hose again. Water thoroughly each week if weather is dry. Continue watering until ground freezes.

Evergreens planted on a southern exposure, or windswept area need screens erected around the newly planted stock to minimize winter drying.

In the spring work in another cupful of balanced fertilizer and mulch with peat moss to a depth of four to six inches.

When ever possible buy locally grown evergreens. This advice goes for all nursery stock. Your local dealer will be able to advise you as to the best types for your needs. The plants are grown under local soil and weather conditions and there is little time lost in transportation. All these things contribute to the success of healthy evergreens for your garden.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Here Are Pearls of Wisdom From Those With Experience

By THOMAS COLLINS

What's going on out in the Golden Years?

"My husband had been a railroad conductor for 40 years when he retired. I had been interested in antiques for a long time, so with his retirement we sold our home and opened an antiques shop. He took over a service station where he could stay near and refinish my furniture.

"Our business has grown so in two years that we now make more money than he made while he was working. We thought an antiques business would be good because if you want to close up for six months your stock is worth more when you come back than it was when you went."

— From Texas.

"Please tell those poor women who think they want to marry again to sit down and think how they'd like to have to wait on some man. Men get old and tired, but they never think of it.

"When women get to feeling like that they want to, they should get a rooster — it will go to bed at sundown and be up at dare day!) — it will disturb no place, destroy, and mess up everything as a man does — it will be hardhearted and mean.

"Then the women can get the same effect they will get if they marry a man who's retired."

— From Louisiana.

A corporation president retired the other day. He got pretty emotional about it, said it was the biggest decision he ever made and told his employees, who are forced to retire at 65, that it was awfully sad to say goodby. His age: 78.

Executives had better stop this favoritism to executives.

"I was 65 I retired from Western Union with 47 years' service. I was in a group hospitalization plan there. I immediately went to work for a bank as a messenger. I transferred my hospitalization there.

"After three years I quit the bank because dollar-wise I was no better off there if I took my hospitalization privately. I took a single certificate, at a little higher rate than the group rate, and continued my hospitalization insurance.

"A year ago I was rushed to the hospital and three-fourths of my stomach was removed. Bills came to $2,000. My hospitalization took care of $1,200 of it.

"I am 70 years old now. I am convinced retired people should hold on to their hospitalization insurance." — From Indiana.

Three years before my husband's retirement he converted our ten-room house into two apartments—four rooms upstairs and six down — and modernized the front of the house. We now get enough rent from the upstairs apartment to pay all fuel, taxes, upkeep, insurance, electricity, etc.

"And we are very happy to be still living near our old neighbors and friends and within 50 miles of our daughters. We drive a 5-year-old car and no one seems to notice.

"There must be a plan made if you are to be happy in retirement. All children expect to attend college nowadays and it is causing parents to find themselves without enough money to piece out even a modest standard of living after the children are launched.

"If you have children in college after you are age 52, it would be wise to insure the children to earn money during summer vacation and earn at least the last year of college.

"No child is going to care to listen to his parents' complaints, after they retire, that they can't make ends meet." — From Ohio.

'Sputnik' Old Russian Word

NEW YORK (AP) — The suddenly - popular word sputnik means travelling companion. In Russian-to-English phonetics it is pronounced spoot'-neek (accenting first syllable).

In the Soviet Union it is applied to a satellite in the field of astronomy (rather than in the West's term loose describing a satellite) as an aspect of Iron Curtain politics.

In the Soviet definition thus the moon (the one that goes with June) is a sputnik of the earth.

The word is standard, and not newly coined.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

ACCENT YOUR FALL PERSONALITY WITH PERFUMES

A fine mist of perfume sprayed about her surrounds a woman with an aura of fragrant femininity.

What a lovely time of year is Autumn! It makes a woman want to dress as gaily as she feels, and wear all her prettiest things, including her most enchanting perfume. For she knows that an attractive appearance suggests to the world that she is a bright, vibrant person.

If you have been making the mistake of believing that perfume is for wearing only on special occasions, it's time you realized that that theory is just plain "old hat". Perfume is no more meant to be "saved" than lipstick, which, in itself, is a good clue of when and how to wear fragrance. Wear it whenever you wear lipstick, and re-apply it just as often, for scent rarely stays on the skin longer than three to four hours.

Now, once you've decided to wear perfume daily, (and this is a must for every lovely woman) the next question is what type to wear. Some women like variety in their fragrances . . . enjoy wearing a different perfume for each mood and occasion. If you're a woman of varied temperament, you should own a "wardrobe of fragrances" which could include as many as five or six different perfume types. These might be floral bouquet to match the young feeling that goes with a football game or a ride in the country . . . an oriental or semi-oriental perfume to accent the glamorous feeling of gaiety on the town or to a Country Club Fall Dance . . . a tangy-zesty perfume for cool, quiet evenings with family and friends . . . a modern perfume to complement the chic of a new Fall suit . . . a single floral for those times spent with "the girls". It is easy to see how the multiplicity of modern women's existence will call for owning a variety of fragrances to complement those varied pursuits.

And for the woman who prefers wearing one perfume as a kind of signature, she might like the classic beauty of a modern blend . . . a perfume that is right when worn with a sweater and skirt as a silk cocktail suit.

There is no formula for telling the type of perfume that any woman should wear. The only and best way in which to determine that is to wear perfume that appeals to you. Then be sure that it will please those around you, too.

Be sure, above all, to wear enough perfume. A dab behind each ear is not a complete waist, no one can notice that small amount. Instead, apply perfume to all the pulse spots — wrists, crook of the arms, temples, throat, and behind the ears. Then spray the perfume all about you with an atomizer that is fine mist called by your clothes. In this way, you will surround yourself in a delightful fragrance aura that will be noticed and appreciated not only by those with whom you come in contact, but also by you, personally.

St. Andrew's Sr.-Jr. Auxs. Hold Meeting

On Tuesday evening the Sr. and Jr. Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church met together for the Thank Offering meeting.

Mrs. R. Brain, president of the Jr. Auxiliary, took charge and gave the call to worship.

Mrs. M. Barlow read the opening Scripture lesson and Mrs. P. Boadry read the closing one.

A fine report was given by Mrs. John Craig, who had been a delegate to the annual two-day executive meeting of the W.M.S. within the Synodical of Toronto and Kingston that was held October 3rd, and 4th, at Calvin Presbyterian Church, Toronto.

Mrs. Craig reports that the Presbyterial presidents gave encouraging reports on the work of their districts.

Mrs. Boyes made mention of the annual meeting at Sault Ste. Marie and the training centre at Belleville. She spoke of looking through three windows (past) seeing Godly Mothers, (present), working now, planting for the future even if one is not able to see the fruit, (future) when one sees all the children and young people grow up in the faith.

An interesting thing is the large increased givings over 1956.

The editor, Mrs. Cherry, will represent the W.M.S. as the Queen's and Prince Phillips visit to Ottawa.

Work is specialized among the alcoholics who represent every province of Canada and every denomination. What is the beginning of all this — the social work, Alcoholics Anonymous brings them to reformation but the church must walk side by side with AA. Skid row is not a place, it is a condition of life. Missionaries come every night for refreshments. This food is served by the church groups who also contact services in the what of the future?

"I was hungry"—we fed them; I was naked — we clothed them; "I was in prison", we visited them; "I was a stranger" we took them not in, for there is much need for a home where these people can be cared for and kept off the streets at night where temptations are so great they would easily slip back in their old ways.

Mrs. H. Pickard gave a commentary on some interesting slides shown by Albert Lennox on Indian Japan.

The Rev. R. D. MacLean closed the meeting with prayer.

Refreshments were served.

Arrangements for the annual bazaar in November.

The president asked the W. A. to bear in mind the fall rally of South East Hastings Presbytery which is going to convene in Eastern Star Church in November.

A committee was named to plan for a home party in the near future.

The devotional was in charge of Mrs. Dovey, who used a consecration hymn, followed by a Scripture reading by Circle 4 choir, given by Mrs. Neal. Mrs. Dovey also spoke of the kinds of sacrifice, destructive and constructive. Which example are we giving our children? Are we setting wise leaders in the future would. He who seeks Jesus must make the first step for my sake, you shall find it".

Mrs. Neal closed with prayer.

The ladies served refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

THE BEST MAN HAS SOME QUESTIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been asked to be best man in the wedding of a close friend of mine. I believe I am sure about most of the responsibilities expected of me, but I do have two questions (1) Do I just take it for granted that I am to be one of the two witnesses (the groom's witness) to sign the marriage certificate? (2) Am I responsible (as I have been told) for gathering together any congratulatory telegrams that are received? And do I read these aloud (as I saw done on one occasion, but by the bride's father)?

— Best man

(1) I'm quite sure that the groom is expecting you to be his witness and sign the marriage certificate (the bride's witness is generally her chief attendant, Bella, maid or matron of honor). (2) Customarily it is the best man who gathers together the congratulatory telegrams, and reads them aloud if he is asked to. Occasionally, as you say, it is the bride's father, as host, who does this, but this is generally not considered a practical plan, as it takes him away from other more important duties. It would be wise for you to consult with the groom about the duties he wishes you to perform. This is a most important for smooth wedding procedure.

BOY MEETS GIRL . . . BOY MEETS HER MOTHER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a girl who wishes to go out with boys, and I'd like to ask you a special question. When a boy comes to the door of my house to take me on the date, is it necessary that I introduce him to my mother? And also to any other members of my family who happen to be in the room. — Kay

Yes, Ma'am . . . definitely necessary, Kay. You should be glad to introduce the boy to your mother. She is hostess of your home, and gracious hostess introduced to her. Be sure you do this . . . only girls of poor breeding do not omit this courtesy. If the boy has the right kind of manners, he will naturally expect and be pleased at the introduction. Also introduce the boy to any members of your family who happen to be around.

ANNOUNCING AN ENGAGEMENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me if it would be proper for a young man's mother to announce her son's engagement to the girl to whom he is engaged has no mother, and she lives many miles away?

M. H.

It is not proper for the fiance's mother to announce the engagement. This important announcement should be made by some member of the bride-to-be's family, if her father is living, he or some relative is the one to make the announcement. If he is not living, her grandparents (or a grandparent), aunt, uncle or uncle might make this announcement.

BRIDE SHOULD WEAR HER WEDDING DRESS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married in our church, and there will be a small dinner afterward in a private home for the bridal party. I feel this will be members of the two families, a few relatives on both sides, and a few intimate friends. Is it correct for me to change my bridal gown to this small, informal dinner, or should I (as I have been told I should) change before the dinner to my going-away costume?

— Bride-to-be

Please, please, don't even consider changing to your going-away costume before this dinner. To this gala post-ceremony occasion you should have the glory and the glorious memory of wearing the bridal dress (and veil too, of course, if you plan to wear a veil) which you wear to the ceremony.

PLEASANT PLAN FOR WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Do you approve of having the guests at a Wedding Reception sign a Guest Book? (I've been told that this is an unattractive idea, a nuisance, and shouldn't be done.) If you approve, please tell me who should take charge of this? — Bride-to-be Most heartily do I approve of this pleasant plan! Far from being an unattractive plan or in any way a nuisance, it can be, will be, an shildingly-cherished book of remembrance of The Day.

As a matter of fact, I have known more than a few brides who have always regretted that they did not plan to have a Guest Book at their reception. Today's bride can easily have a very attractive Guest Book, of simple, handsome design. I don't approve of having the best man given the responsibility of having the guests sign the Guest Book — he usually has enough to do taking care of his own special responsibilities. I advise the bride to ask a relative or intimate friend (not an attendant) to take devoted charge of this book.

Rhonda's buying the furniture on her own is a strange gesture and implies a refusal to take her husband into account as an equal. basic matters. Mark's withdrawal from the living field, without any clear agreement on the subject, suggests a lack of desire to take things head on and hold. He is really holding back more than money in this situation.

Rhonda appears to be an independent woman who may have established her husband out of the picture more than she realized. Her personality, however, shows she recognizes the weak spot in her marriage.

She and Mark should try to remedy things, not only through a frank financial agreement, but through learning to share interests and goals.

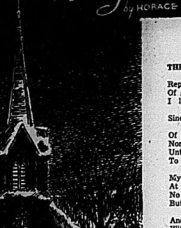
Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B. FOWELL

THE HALF WAS NEVER TOLD



Repeat the story o'er and o'er,
Of grace so full and free;
I love to hear it more and more,
Since grace has rescued me.

Of peace I only know the name,
Nor found my soul its rest,
Until the sweet-voiced angel came
To soothe my weary breast.

My highest place is lying low
At my Redeemer's feet;
No real joy in life I know,
But in His service sweet.

And oh, what rapture will it be,
With all the host above,
To sing through all eternity
The wonders of His love.

The half was never told,
The half was never told;
Of grace divine, so wonderful,
The half was never told.

The years that followed the war between the states were years of great religious interest for all America.

For the rest of the century, and well beyond it, men and women became intensely interested in revivalism and revivals. Great evangelists — singers as well as preachers — arose to lead the spiritual crusades.

One of the greatest of the singing evangelists was Philip Bliss. He wrote one gospel hymn favorite after another, gems like "Hallelujah! What a Saviour!" and "Hold The Fort".

It was Bliss who turned out the verses and the music for "The Half Was Never Told", a song of which his friend, Ira D. Sankey, never tired and the one which according to his own word he sang more often than any other when called on for a revival solo.

Audiences sat entranced by the glorious message and music as Sankey sang:

"Repeat the story o'er and o'er."

Of grace so full and free;
I love to hear it more and more,
Since grace has rescued me.

And oh, what rapture will it be,
With all the host above,
To sing through all eternity,
The wonders of His love."

A Lift for Living

'Think About God Instead'

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

What is the most interesting word in our language? What word would you like to look up and take notice? A popular writer on the psychology of success gave an answer. To each person the most interesting word is the language is his own name.

This is only a vivid way of saying we are all very much interested in ourselves. We need not deny this fact, nor apologize for it. Modern founded His social philosophy on the basic assumption of man's self-concern. When He said, "Love your neighbor as yourself," He did not change it to read "Thou shalt love thy neighbor instead of thyself."

To love our neighbors does not mean we have to like what they do. We may be opposed to many things they do, but we should always love them in the sense of desiring their highest good.

Similarly to love ourselves does not mean we like ourselves. The reason we like to stuck on himself is usually stuck with himself. Nobody else wants him. But while you should criticize yourself and dislike many things you do, never believe you should love yourself — that is, you should desire your own highest good. The way to love self is to have a high self-respect.

Moreover, we are rightfully interested in ourselves partly because we are ever surprising ourselves Yourself, you are capable of wonder when every bush is aflame with some new touch of heaven, when you have clouds of glory" have not yet been dispelled by the light of common day.

Yet when sweet sixteen ripens into the sixties, the wonder grows that one small head could carry all it knows, yet could carry so much more than it knows. As the shadows of evening fall on our lives, the light of God's love may grow a bit dimmer to us, but new lights are turned on in the souls of the nurseries within. The world within the self flashes more and more into its far beyonds.

SELF-DISCOVERIES

These surprising self-discoveries come in various ways. When, for instance, a mind has reached wit's end and knows not which way to turn, a saving flash of higher wisdom comes like the leading of a kindly light amid the encircling gloom.

Or when human strength has come to "the end of its string," a new supply of power wells up from somewhere, and a person walks out of a situation after a demonstration of endurance amazing to himself, saying, "I did not know it was in me."

Or it may be the surprising thing about ourselves is discovered by getting glimpses into the inner abysses of darkness. After some deep dark temptation, we shiver at the thought of how close we came to the brink of disaster.

After a crime of passion, the world looks on the wreckage left by his deed and cries: "How could I have done that?" Having done what he would not, a person feels with Saint Paul: "For that which I do, I allow not: for what I would that do I not; but what I hate that do I."

Strange demonic powers sometimes seem to take possession of us. Mysterious possibilities of sinfulness are revealed within us. As William James once wrote: "Most of us do not live within sight of our limitations."

No, there is so much more of possible good and evil in us than we realize; but now and then we are pushed out to the frontiers of self-discovery where we touch the joints of the heights and depths and reaches of our lives.

The study of ourselves has become the most absorbing interest of our time. Books on psychology, peace of mind and self-help flow from the press. But one danger is that they set us looking at ourselves too much. A Persian fable tells of a father who, departing on a long journey, left with his son a mirror. When the father returned, he found the son starved to death. Too much introspection may close the intakes of the mind.

The fellow who is always looking out for Number One or looking at Number One fails to see the real and whole Number One. Psychologists do not get the best effects by taking pictures of persons while they are looking in the mirrors. The photographer tries to catch a person off guard. Then his real self comes out.

When we forget ourselves in something larger than ourselves, we discover unexpected possibilities within us.

The late Emmet Fox gave what he called the "Golden Key" of prayer. It was this: "Stop thinking about the difficulties whatever it is and think about God instead." Try it.

Providence Wins Second in Row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The American Hockey League season is barely under way but newcomer Stan Bellisle has served notice that he intends to stay with Providence Reds.

The 20-year-old rookie wingman scored twice Friday night as the patchwork Reds defeated Buffalo Bisons, 5-3, for their second victory in as many starts. It was the league's only game.

Bellisle tallied both of his goals in the second period as Reds, regulars sidelined with the flu, added two more in the finale. The other providence goals were by Jim Bedard, Zellio Toppazzini and Marv Sweeny.

Bisons did all their scoring in the last 75 seconds of the game on two goals by Ken Wharram and one by Dick Gamble.

McFarlands Display All-Round Form In 4-1 Victory Over Kitchener

'Wiener' Brown Scores Twice To Pace Fine Two-Way Effort In Fast Hard-Checking Game

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Flashing a hard-driving, hard-checking brand of hockey, Ike Hildebrand's Belleville McFarlands won their exhibitional spurs before a large cheering crowd here last night, defeating the Kitchener Dutchmen 4-1 while scouts from Kingston and Whitby looked on.

The victory was all the more impressive since the Dutchmen already had three exhibition games under their belts. The McFarlands clearly showed the results of Hildebrand's conditioning grinds. They revelled at top speed throughout the entire sixty minutes, driving as hard at the bell as at the start.

While the Macs as a whole played impressive hockey both ways the line of Brown, Hildebrand and Goyer was a standout. "Wiener" scored two goals with Goyer getting three assists and Hildebrand one. Eddie Marineau and Keith MacDonald got the remaining pair.

The game was an hour late in starting with the Dutchmen being held up by traffic and a number of highway accidents. Not a soul left the arena until the final siren sounded at 12.10.

While the checking was hard on both sides there were few stiff body bumps handed out. Referees Vern Goyer and Bill Hurst doled out ten sentences six of them to the Macs. The only untoward incident was a pushing match in the third period when Brown and Horne were given majors for fighting.

Defensively the Macs showed a marked improvement over last year with Gordie Bell starting the season with an outstanding effort despite the fact he was suffering with a sore back. Eddie Marineau caught the eyes of the fans with his fine efforts, clicking for a goal on a fine passing play in the second period and assisting with the first marker.

Up front Jean Payette, Minnie Menard and Lorne Chamberlain carried the attack with the "speed line" of Goyer, Hildebrand and Brown carrying on a driving offensive that, with the third platoon of Johnny Murdoch, Keith MacDonald, Tony Poeta and Marineau showed a well-balanced corps of shock troops. Jerry Prizzelle, with Keith Montgomery carried their share of the duties, with Montgomery starting a play that struck pay-dirt in the first period.

In fairness to the Dutchmen they were minus the services of two of their stars Don Rope and Art Hurst, although they had acquired the much-sought Guy Sloddard. They also lost Dennis Flanagan, one of the famous Stratford line of Roth, Flick and Flanagan who scored their only goal. They are coached by Bill Gavin, well-known former Cobourg goalie.

The western Ontario champions perhaps showed a bit more polish on their plays due to the longer training and more games played, but this was offset by the fight and driving spirit of the Macs. They battled hard going both ways and with a little more net-front finish which will come later, they looked like a fine well-balanced club. All of them turned in fine efforts with Floyd Crawford, Lionel Botley and Mickey Walker adding their share.

To Wiener Brown went the honor of scoring the first McFarland goal of the new season. "Wiener" was flying all night and his hard shot after the three-way foray with Gerry Goyer and Montgomery opened the scoring after twelve minutes of hard - checking hockey.

The Dutchmen roared back after the setback and a minute later Flanagan broke into the play after taking Hoskings' pass but beat Bell cleanly for the Dutchies' only counter of the game. There were no penalties in the first period.

Russ Kowalchuk drew the first penalty of the season being charged after a minute of play in the second period for interference. He drew his second sentence later in the period with Benoit, Taylor and Soddard also getting the heave-ho with neither team suffering any damage while a man short.

Russ had scarcely returned when the Macs broke goalwards in a power play. Gerry Goyer tobled a pass to Ike Hildebrand and the coach blasted a sizzler that was headed for the side of the net. "Wiener" Brown, in perfect position, lifted his stick and deflected the rubber past Hurley to put the Macs one up. That was all for the period.

The third period had been under way three minutes when Marineau climaxed one of the prettiest passing plays of the night to give the Macs a 3-1 lead. Moe Benoit swept out from the Macs defence, shot a perfect pass to Tony Poeta and the diminutive forward in turn flipped it to Marineau on the right wing. Eddie let go a waist-high sizzler that Hurley hasn't seen yet.

"WIENER" BROWN
Rang Gong Twice

Brown and Horne went off for fighting after five minutes and the teams battled hard with a man short. The Macs had the play and Bruce Kowalchuk was in on Hurley and twice he missed. Hosking broke into the clear but Gordie Bell beat him to the punch. It was fast hard checking hockey with the Dutchies battling desperately to whittle the margin. Theberge, Montgomery and Montgomery were off in turn but both defences held. The Macs turned on the pressure with time running out and with three seconds to go, Keith MacDonald scored his first goal of the season with Gerry Goyer and Marineau in on the kill to give the Belleville McFarlands a 4-1 victory.

The Dutchmen stayed in the city overnight. They play the Kingston CKLC's tonight in their last exhibition game of the season.

Unbeaten Browns Colts Crash On Sunday

NEW YORK (AP) — Cleveland's rejuvenated Browns, former undisputed champions of the National Football League, and Baltimore's upstart Colts defend unblemished records Sunday.

Browns, sporting a 2-0 record and leading the eastern conference, take on the Philadelphia Eagles at Cleveland. Paul Brown's crew finished fourth last season after ruling the NFL's eastern division for six consecutive years. Browns are favored to continue their successful comeback.

Baltimore, also 2-0, is the only other undefeated team in the upset-prone league. After finishing fourth in the western conference in 1956, Colts have set their sights higher, but meet a tough Green Bay team.

There are four other games on a full Sunday program. The defending champion New York Giants visit Washington, Chicago Cardinals play at Pittsburgh, Los Angeles goes to Detroit and San Francisco visits Chicago Bears.

Baseball Men Think Braves Replace Bums As Class of National League

By CHUCK CAPALDO

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The handwriting is on the wall for all baseball to see.

In unmistakable language it says a new baseball dynasty is abroad in the land, bearing the name of the Milwaukee Braves, newly-crowned champions of the world.

"When they win the championship," said owner Lou Perini of the Braves some months back, "they will go on for a few years to come."

"There is no reason why we should not keep winning for the next five years," said John Quinn the club's general manager and as such, the architect of their future.

"UNSTOPPABLE" NEXT YEAR

Frank Lane, general manager of St. Louis Cardinals, put it this way:

"This was the year to beat the Braves. Next year I'm afraid they'll be unstoppable."

The reason baseball men believe the Braves have supplanted the Dodgers as the class of the National League are twofold:

They are a young club — the team on the field in the world series finale against the Yankees averaged only 26.4 years — and their farm system is one of the most valuable and productive in the game today. The system, in fact, rivals any in recent years. Then there's always Perini's bankroll, unfolded and ready to go that his farms don't produce.

Braves relied with success on their farm system during the pennant drive when one regular after another was injured. And relied it during the world series when Felix Mantilla spelled the injured Red Schoendienst at second, Frank Torre handled first base for a none-too-strong Eddie Adcock and Bob Hazle played right field. Mantilla, Torre and Hazle are all graduates of

Dove Shooting Fun but Expensive

That little speedster, the mourning dove, certainly is coming into his own in national importance as a game bird. Time was, and not so long ago, when he occupied fourth place as a national game bird, making his bow to migratory fowl, pheasants and quail. Now he figures show that he has moved up to second place, migratory water fowl being in the lead.

In some of our northern states, the dove is still on the protected list. That used to be the case in Pennsylvania. Meanwhile, those same states raise each year a goodly proportion of the birds which migrate southward in the fall to supply top-notch shooting for southern guns.

The gunners of the northern and intermediate states do not have the same degree of knowhow as the southern gunners when it comes to dove shooting. As is true with all sports, there are many things to learn, valuable items of field lore, which, once understood, are mighty handy.

In order to shoot doves with even moderate success, first you must locate some birds. While some few are to be found in the mountainous sections, mostly they prefer farm land, notably cornfields.

Finding a few scattered birds here and there won't give you much shooting. To have that you should locate flocks of from 25 to 50. Locating these flocks is not always easy. However, there are some signs which will make the job simpler.

We do our preliminary survey while in an automobile, cruising the roads slowly through the dove country. This is best done through the mid-day hours, as then these birds like to roost, digest the morning meal, preen their feathers, and generally take things easy. By and large, a dove likes to roost where he can see what is going on; thus, a dead tree, plus fences and telephone wires or power lines seem to be the favorite places.

Carry a pair of binoculars with you so that you can identify the birds readily. Starlings, also, like to roost on wires, and a close-up view avoids confusion. And remember, the birds you see roosting are not all the birds in the neighborhood. Should you locate four or five perched on a power line, chances are that there are three or four times that number in the fields nearby.

TWO METHODS

There are two ways to hunt dove — walk-up shooting and fly-way shooting. The walk-up method is best done in cornfields. Doves are shy, scary little birds and in open fields, pastures and the like, they will flush well out of range. In a cornfield, however, the added cover and a sense of security with the birds that they flush in range and offer fair targets.

By walking up your doves, you learn two things: the number of birds in the flock and, more important, the flyways they are using. Doves are creatures of habit and they use daily the same aerial routes when going from place to place. When you see a flock of doves leave a cornfield, mark that spot well as the probabilities are that the same route on the flyway will be used again both by incoming and outgoing birds.

If you have enough guns in the party, it is wise to have one gun on the flyway, the man taking his place in a fence corner, a hedgerow or behind a corn shock where he has some cover. Then the birds going in or out of the field may be picked up by the flyway gunner.

Doves once knocked down are the hardest things in the world to find. In our group, we make it a point to go to a down bird immediately, regardless of how many are flying. Mark the spot where he falls and then hurry; otherwise you will lose that bird as often as not. Any old bird in hand is worth three in the air.

Lastly, don't forget to take plenty of ammunition with you. If you can average 25 per cent — one dove out of four shells — you are shooting very well. Sure, it's expensive, but it's a lot of fun.

Astrological Forecast

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) —A day for sensible caution in all things. Need to defer to superiors or others qualified to know what is best for you. Be patient with difficult problems, unreasonable people. You can gain.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—Confine your energy and activities to the really important and urgent matters. There's no need to strain but be careful not to mask needless errors or overcrowd yourself. Plan quietly, wisely.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) —A tricky day on the whole. Be sensible and think before acting. Avoid extremes in everything. You can achieve much now with forethought and good management.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—The more unselfish and purposeful you are, the greater your gain, advancement. Be your capable, thoughtful self; you can overcome obstacles, manoeuvre through the most difficult tasks.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) —Less troublesome a day, perhaps, than for many but be careful what you press and say generally. If you do, you will come out better than you may anticipate. Have cheer.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Heed Gemini today's suspicious indications, some very restrictive ones. Be most sensible self, plan your schedule without overcrowding. Handle urgent tasks first.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — You may have to be content with fewer returns than usual for your work and efforts. However, do not lose heart or let down in yor efforts. Every day some good can be achieved.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) —An over-abundance of vigor and stimulus in the air. A cool, calm head will serve you best, give you better vision, judgment and bring returns from efforts.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—Influences, sometimes restrictive, warn against spending lavishly, being reckless with matters, tools, vehicles, anything. Be considerate of health but give your best to your work.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — More favorable vibrations for you than for many now. But be cautious anyway. Stay alert, attentive. You may be able to help others. Familiar routine, usual tasks favored.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Be careful about new propositions, in giving "settlements, signing contracts, etc. Seek sound advice, be attentive. Some important details unclear. Familiar work under good influences.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — A well-planned schedule will be rewarding. Don't worry, keep usefully busy and plan smartly for the future. No time should be wasted; neither should you try to do too much at one time.

You born today are generous, benevolent and innately democratic in manner and associations. You have a great deal of talent and ability; can make worthwhile friends readily and keep them. That is, if you don't permit the wrong sort of associates to prey on your sympathies. Keep educating yourself through good reading, study investigation. Be progressive always — use new machinery, tools, materials, methods. But you don't have to forsake the old if it is still good. Emphasize your magnetic, likeable personality always. Birthdate: Virgil, Roman poet.

SMOKE IN CHURCH

HORNDEAN, England (CP) — Rev. John Tullett, a Free Church minister in this Hampshire community, told members of his congregation they may smoke during the sermon if they wish. The minister, a non-smoker, says "a man who is longing for a smoke may not be able to give his full attention to the sermon."

Astrological Forecast

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Your Mars and Jupiter in auspicious positions. Day can be constructive, but there are some unfriendly influences, so use forethought, be patient. Be alert.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Somewhat mixed influences, so you will have to be smart and careful in choosing the best procedures. It can be a good day for sound finances, investments, sales, etc. Just be cautious.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Do what you must confidently, graciously. Others may not be in the best of moods, but you will get more cooperation if you show only your truly fine nature. Familiar matters, your work can gain.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — You can accomplish in things for which you are fitted through honest, sincere efforts. Some personal desires may have to wait but don't grouse, you will be the gainer in the end. Faith!

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Sun and Moon positions both suggest forethought and care in all that you promise, agree to, and in what actually do. Needless errors can be avoided. Carry on cheerfully.

August 24 to September 23—(Virgo) — Read Gemini now. You can gain somewhat tricky day into a pleasant, gainful one. But you must be acquisitive, patient and put extra energy into your effort.

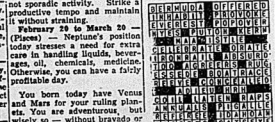
September 24 to October 23—(Libra) — Manoeuvre carefully, yet advantageously. Make offerings pay, but your fine sense of balance to work, and direct your energies in the proper channels.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — You are fortunate who flatter or impose upon your today. Mars and Jupiter are favorably situated. Financial matters, other sound investments and business affairs can yield gain if you manage sensibly.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Heed notes to Scorpio. They are pertinent to your sector also, with Jupiter auspicious. A well arranged schedule should eliminate obstacles, smooth the way for quicker achievement.

December 22 to January 20—(Capricorn) — While your Sun turn is not unfriendly, the day cautious against needless, but likely, mistakes so be alert.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — A difficult day in spots but you can counteract restrictive influences by valiant effort and steady application — not sporadic activity. Strike a productive tempo and maintain it without straining.



February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Neptune's position today stresses a need for extra care in handling liquids, beverages, oil, chemicals, medicine. Otherwise, you can have a fairly profitable day.

You born today have Venus and Mars for your ruling planets. You are adventurous, but wisely so — without bravado or egotism. Guard against those generous nature. You have unusual talent for a scientific or artistic profession; can do equally well in business or at a mechanical trade. Many skillful craftsmen and women were born in this sector. You have an aptitude for organizing and managing groups. Birthdate: Noah Webster, lexicographer, journalist; Eugene O'Neill, dramatist.

GOVT. ABANDONS

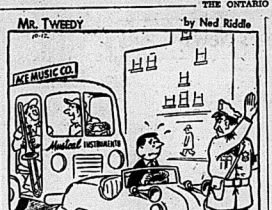
The missile — the Sparrow, developed by the United States Navy—originally was to be ready for use next year.

The C-105 has not yet been flown. It was reported at its unveiling last weekend it would be three or four years before it could be in service with the RCAF—if the government should order it.

Main difference between the Mark VI and the Mark V is that the new plane would have had an after-burner to increase its speed and altitude and would be equipped with missiles to carry the missile.

The RCAF's nine squadrons in Canada now are completing conversion to the Mark V. The four CF-100 squadrons in Germany are equipped with the Mark IV which has less altitude than the Mark V.

HAS BEEN NOTIFIED



In Toronto, Fred P. Smye, Avro president, said Friday night the company had been notified of cancellation of Mark VI production. He added the engineering and development contract for the Mark VI had not been cancelled, "but will be adjusted after discussion between the government and the company."

An Avro spokesman said cancellation of production plans will mean a reduction in staff "sometime between now and next spring" but exact figures would not be available until Tuesday.

The spokesman said two or three Mark VIs now flying will still be tested according to the engineering and development contract with the government.

Hope That Russia Will Accept Bid For Space Parley

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Western diplomats at the United Nations today had hopes the Russians soon will accept an American offer to discuss international control of outer space missiles within the framework of the world organization.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko ignored U.S. ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge's bid Thursday to begin such talks, made at the beginning of the disarmament debate in the UN assembly's political committee.

Observers say, however, that the Russians are traditionally slow to respond to overtures on major issues, even when their own foreign minister is on the scene. It is standard procedure to contact the Kremlin on any big questions and await specific orders.

The Western disarmament resolution still was held up while the 29 or more sponsors tried to agree on wording of the passage proposing control of space missiles.

OPPOSE TYING HANDS

One informed source said there has been a move to make reference or not to reference to the subject of a separate resolution. Military leaders in various Western capitals balked because outer space has never been clearly defined and any separate ban might put a halter on all ground-to-air rock-

Gromyko speaking after [illegible] reference to [illegible] to begin talks. [illegible] the whole U.S. [illegible] builder. [illegible] minister stood firm [illegible] demand that [illegible] in a dictional [illegible] ion of tests of nuclear weapons [illegible] toward dis- [illegible] ament.

Penalties Total $100,000,000 In Income Tax

OTTAWA (CP)—J. M. Fell, director of the income tax special investigation branch, said Thursday $100,000,000 has been collected in fines and back taxes arising out of more than 3,000 tax evasion cases since 1944.

He added that in 275 prosecu- [illegible] sentences were imposed and only two cases dismissed. A total of $2,642,000 was collected in fines by magistrates.

Commenting at a service club luncheon on a general tightening of tax law enforcement he said only 19 cases of income tax evasion were prosecuted in a 20-year period following 1917.

Prosecutions usually originated from internal audit of tax returns or tips from informers, such as separated wives, disgruntled employees or jealous neighbors. The government took steps to prosecute only "when there is a tremendous weight of evidence of intent to defraud."

HURL EGGS AT BENSON

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP)—Eggs were thrown at Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson on Thursday as he was introduced at the South Dakota mechanical corn picking contest. Benson wasn't hit. No applause was heard during Benson's speech, in which he said broader markets and reduced surpluses are the answers to increased farm income. He said fixed price supports work against both objectives.

The Week's News

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

A Paris newspaper summed up the news with pungent brevity: Grippe, grippe, grippe crisis, crisis; beep, beep, beep.

The grippe and the crisis were really now, but the whole world listened for the beeps from Russia's earth satellite, which the Soviets call Sputnik.

Few actually saw the tiny artificial moon as it whirled around the earth. But Canadian scientists managed to plot its orbit. In Albesta, astronomers also photographed either Sputnik or its companion rocket and shell.

Scientists described Sputnik as a victory for Russia, a victory with great propaganda implications. The United States began investigating why it had been left behind.

Communist chief Nikita Khrushchev said the launching would convince "any idiot" that Russia now possesses the intercontinental ballistic missile, the "ultimate" weapon.

The Russians at first were secretive and somewhat modest but later they said the satellite is transmitting valuable messages about temperatures and other information about outer space.

SPUTNIK DIPLOMACY

Russia lost no time in cashing in on its propaganda advantage through Sputnik.

The U.S., Khrushchev charged, is trying to push Turkey into an attack against Syria. The U.S. denied this and said it will stand by its obligations to Turkey un- der NATO.

"When the guns begin to fire, the rockets can begin flying and then it will be too late to think about it," Khrushchev said.

BRITISH PROPOSAL

Defence Minister Duncan Sandys of Britain urged the U.S. "in the light of recent developments" to allow American and British scientists to pool their brains.

He spoke at the Conservative party's annual conference, where speakers blamed lack of Anglo-American co-operation for Russia beating the West in the launching of an earth satellite.

One speaker said the British government should "take a firm stand with the U.S. and stop pandering to their sense of security. They have had a shock in the last week."

HOFFA HIT

Senator John McClellan said some aspects of Jimmy Hoffa's election as chief of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters were "scandalous."

McClellan, chairman of the Senate committee investigating racketeering in the labor-management field, said Dave Beck enabled Hoffa to win the election at the union convention in Miami.

Records of the convention cited by the committee "reveal some situations which are just plain scandalous," McClellan said. His committee was studying charges that delegates had been handpicked to rig the election for Hoffa as alleged in a court action which sought unsuccessfully to block the election.

Hoffa said the interpretation of the union constitution by Beck, outgoing teamsters president, had been approved by the convention.

FAUBUS CHARGE

Arkansas Governor Orval Faubus raised a ruckus when he charged hat federal soldiers in Little Rock had watched school girls as they changed to gym uniforms attire in their dressing room.

The charge, part of the continuing controversy over integration of Little Rock Central High School, was angrily denied by a spokesman for President Eisenhower. He described the charge as "vulgar."

Girl students at the school also denied that the soldiers, whose duty is to make sure that schools cannot to Negro students, invaded their privacy.

DIONNE WEDDING

Annette Dionne was married, the first of the famed Dionne quintuplets to wed.

Annette and her bridegroom, Germain Allard, did everything quietly to keep the ceremony a quiet affair, in the Roman Catholic Notre - Dame - de - la-Salette Church on Montreal's Bleury Street.

Allard, 24, and Annette, 23, met at Christmas two years ago. He was then a student and now is an employee of a Montreal finance company.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne made one of their rare trips to Montreal for the occasion. The three other quints are single. The other, Emilie, died in 1954.

ROYAL VISIT

RCAF search-and-rescue planes plotted their course to meet RAF aircraft west of Iceland and take over escort duties.

Ships of the Royal Navy and the Royal Canadian Navy also were posted for "watch" duty.

Similar arrangements already have been made for the return journey—when the Queen and Philip return to London from New York Oct. 22. A highlight of their visit will come when the Queen opens the Canadian Parliament.

PROMISE TO CANADA

The U.S. promised Canada it will try "insofar as possible" to dispose of surplus farm products in a way that will not harm Canadian markets.

The assurance came in a joint communique following a conference in Washington of Canadian and U.S. cabinet ministers. Surplus wheat was a major item at issue.

"Fire-sale" marketing of Amer- ican surplus wheat has robbed Canada of some traditional markets, the Canadian delegation said.

The U.S. said a revision of policy provides that barter deals must stipulate that sales of American surplus must be in addition to normal imports by a foreign country.

Try to Capture Killer Whale Alive Is Plan

VICTORIA (CP)—Capture alive of a killer whale is the plan of aquatic Californians.

The full scale hunt for the mammal will be undertaken during British Columbia's centennial year, and, if the project is successful, the whale will be sent to Marineland Aquarium in Los Angeles.

Aquarium officials, here looking over lower coastal waters of B.C., told of the plans. Ken Norris and two assistants also said they intend to build water tanks in which B.C. fish can be kept alive in Los Angeles.

A much bigger whale from southern waters was shipped to the aquarium some time ago.

Pakistan Govt. Is Overthrown

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Prime Minister H. S. Suhrawardy resigned Friday and President Jskander Mirza asked Ismail Chundrigar, leader of the opposition Moslem League, to form a new government.

Suhrawardy, who had headed a coalition cabinet for 13 months, quit after the five Republican party members withdrew support. The Republicans had demanded West Pakistan be reorganized into four or more small provinces. Subrawardy, head of the Awami League, opposed the reorganization.

Choudhri is a former foreign minister and has the support of about 12 members in the assembly.

There may be a coalition between the Moslem League, United Front and Republican parties, with Suhrawardy becoming leader of the Opposition again.

NATION SEES QUEEN OPEN PARLIAMENT

Higher Pensions, Possible Tax Cuts In New Session

Throne Speech Indicates House Will Sit Short Time

OTTAWA (CP) — Government plans for higher pensions, cash aid to prairie farmers, hydro development and possibly tax cuts will be focal points of the new session of Parliament.

The plans were outlined Monday as Queen Elizabeth—first monarch ever to do so—read the speech from the throne in the Canadian Senate opening the 22nd Parliament since Confederation.

The brilliance and pageantry of the historic occasion overshadowed the actual content of the throne speech in which the new Progressive Conservative government outlined what it plans to do in implementing some of the election promises on which it won power last June 10.

The major items of legislation forecast in the speech had been unofficially reported earlier.

HINTS AT REFORM

The document also hinted broadly at the possibility of parliamentary reform and said the government plans to make it mandatory on employers under federal jurisdiction to provide workers with annual paid holidays.

But the list of prospective legislation was considerably shorter than those of past throne speeches, pointing to the likelihood that this session will be a brief one.

The wording of the speech on the tax policy appeared to indicate that the Conservatives would not bring down a new budget but would introduce amendments either to the budget the Liberals brought in last spring—and which did not go through Parliament in entirety—or to existing legislation.

The speech said this session will be tabled to provide funds for government operation only up to the end of the fiscal year March 31. The session likely will wind up before Christmas with another session in the new year prior to an expected late-spring election.

Should the Commons holds an afternoon sitting in which two newly-elected Conservative members, Arthur Smith of Calgary South and Nerree Arsenault of Beauséjour, Que., will present the traditional motion for an address in reply to the throne speech.

The political fighting begins in earnest when opposition party leaders and Prime Minister Diefenbaker debate the programs and policies of the first Conservative government in 22 years.

DETAILS

S. H. KNOWLES REFUSES OFFER OF SPEAKERSHIP

Roland Michener Third Choice of Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (CP)—Roland Michener of Toronto St. Paul's is the Commons Speaker for the 22nd Parliament by unanimous decision of the House, but it appeared he was Prime Minister Diefenbaker's second or third choice.

The 57-year-old Toronto lawyer was chosen Monday on Mr. Diefenbaker's nomination. Later, it became known the new prime minister had offered the speakership to Stanley Knowles, 49-year-old deputy CCF leader from Winnipeg North Centre.

The offer to Mr. Knowles, made in August, was on the supposition that the prime minister could have the Commons accept him as its permanent presiding officer. It was turned down by Mr. Knowles, an acknowledged master of the House rules and the CCF's top floor tactician.

Previously, it had been reported that between June 10 and June 21 Mr. Diefenbaker offered the Speakership to Davie Fulton, Conservative member for Kamloops, B.C., and another expert on the Commons' complex rule book.

SENT INTO CABINET

Mr. Fulton, 41, became justice minister and acting citizenship and immigration minister after his reported turndown of the Speakership offer.

Information Monday night was that Prime Minister Diefenbaker's shattered all tradition later by approaching Mr. Knowles personally to accept the Speakership in the first known time that a Canadian government head had proffered the post of "first commoner" to a member outside the government party.

Mr. Diefenbaker's reported move was in line with suggestions he made publicly during the last election campaign that the Speakership be placed on a non-political basis in the same way it operates in the British House of Commons.

There, the Speaker remains in office indefinitely, ceremonially, he does not have to get entangled in party politics, being given election acclamations.

In Canada, the Commons Speaker has always been a member of the party in power, and by custom alternates between French and English members for each Parliament. Canadian Speakers have to fight elections like ordinary members.

WHALE OIL SURPLUS

LONDON (CP) — British and Norwegian whaling interests report that about 60,000 tons of last season's production of whale oil remains unsold.

Today's Chuckle

Panhandler: "You want that I should open an office?"

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: The pleasant weather experienced over the holiday weekend new is being threatened by a developing weather disturbance in Nebraska. Cloud is forecast to move into southwestern and central Ontario today. Rain will be followed by showers beginning over the upper Great Lakes tonight and southwestern regions on Wednesday.

'MIKE' PEARSON WINNER OF NOBEL PEACE PRIZE

Says Award Was Great Tribute to Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Spurred by the Nobel Peace Prize, Lester B. (Mike) Pearson says he will continue to strive to smooth international waters and prevent the possible alternative "Global destruction."

Canada's world-famous foreign affairs expert, who once aspired to be a professional baseball player, Monday scored a home run on the world front by winning the $40,000 Nobel Peace Prize for 1957.

The First World War flier, who started out his civilian career in a Chicago meatpacking firm, was at first stunned by the news. He was "thunderstruck and overwhelmed."

But when he recovered sufficiently, he remarked soberly that the award was a great tribute to Canada. There could be "no greater incentive" for a person to continue to do what he can to bring peace between peoples.

"NO GREATER HONOR"

The 60-year-old former external affairs minister, whose snappy bow ties and wit are familiar to many world capitals, added: "No greater honor could be conferred on anyone than to be singled out for this honor from the multitudes of men of goodwill in all countries including so many in Canada who are working to bring about better conditions in this world."

The $40,275 award likely will be tax-free. Mr. Pearson, member of Parliament for Ontario's Algoma East, said he didn't know what he would do with it. He remarked it was a "bit of money" for a man who had been a former professor, a civil servant and a member of a government now out of office.

He hoped to go to Oslo Dec. 10 to receive the award in person and to deliver a lecture there on his peace-making efforts. The long diplomat scored a huge victory at the United Nations last fall by getting the UN to send an emergency force to keep the peace in the Middle East.

His great hope is that one day there will be set up a permanent police force ready to be moved into any part of the world where trouble may be brewing.

UPSETS OFFICE

The news, first conveyed to him by a Canadian Press reporter, threw his office into bedlam. "Great," said Mr. Pearson when the first paragraph of the Oslo report was read to him. Reporters clustered in the parliamentary office for interviews. Telegrams of congratulations started rolling in. The telephone kept ringing.

Despite Protocol and 35 Footmen, State Dinner Atmosphere Relaxed

OTTAWA (CP)—Despite protocol, 35 footmen serving in white tie and tails and the tremor usually felt by guests tapping at a banquet table laid with the finest of crystal, china and silver, the state dinner at Government House Monday night was notable for its relaxed atmosphere.

Queen Elizabeth and Governor-General Massey, who was seated to her right, obviously set a tone of relaxation throughout the meal.

The Queen immediately struck the table with her left hand as she emphasized a point. She discussed the seating arrangement with His Excellency and jotted notes on the margin with a gold pencil.

The other guests—the ladies in their gold and silver toned evening gowns and the men in white tie and tails—kept up a constant hum of conversation.

Her Majesty wore a magnificent gown of pale green satin, trimmed with dark green velvet in a wide leaf motif, sprinkled with crystals and emeralds. The white rose of Canada in rubies and diamonds mingles with the maple leaf design.

She wore the simple diamond tiara given her by the late Queen Mary at a wedding present. Her necklace was a triple row of graduated diamonds, and she wore diamond-dropped ear-rings.

A blue sash of the Order of the Garter was worn over her left shoulder. It bears the family orders, miniatures of King George VI and King George VI.

As the guests dined beneath a glittering crystal chandelier, the 30-piece, scarlet-coated band of the Canadian Guards from Camp Petawawa, Ont., played soft background music from behind a low banking of scarlet flowers.

The dinner table was laid with Copeland Spode white china with gold band and gold edging and a single small gold crown just in front of the Queen's plate. Each crown was also the only decoration on the crystal and sterling silver flatware.

Queen Elizabeth, accompanied by Governor-General Vincent Massey, who greeted her on her arrival, moves forward to inspect the RCAF guard of honor. Prince Philip is standing back of the Queen.

Other pictures of the Royal Couple appear on front page of second section.

Regal Humility Marks Glittering Moment In History

Queen Hopes to So Reign That Canadians Love Her

OTTAWA (CP) — Out of the splendor shone a regal humility. It was a glittering moment in Canada's history as Queen Elizabeth opened the first session of the 23rd Parliament Monday. No monarch had ever before read to a Canadian Parliament the speech from the throne that outlines the government's legislative program.

By radio and television the whole nation was able to witness the spectacle. And, following tradition, it was a brilliant and stirring one.

But in the midst of it all, the Queen chose to express the humble hope that she may so reign as Canada's sovereign that Canadians will love her; that when one day her rule comes to an end, they will remember her with love.

It was the high point of her and Philip's visit to Canada, which this time is confined to the capital. They arrived Saturday afternoon aboard a great silver airliner from London. They leave by air Wednesday about noon for the United States.

LONGEST PROCESSION

The royal couple were to make their longest processional drive through Ottawa and neighboring Hull, Que., today. On a 15-mile trip they planned to stop to sign the guest book at Hull city hall. The Queen also was to set off a miniature explosion inaugurating construction on Ottawa's $21,000,000 Queensway, a six-lane expressway for through traffic.

Philip planned a radio broadcast at 1:10 p.m. EDT. In the evening they were guests at dinner in the Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker at 24 Sussex Street, the government leader's official residence.

The crowds that crammed the capital Monday were massive and moving in their ardor for the royal couple. A wave of emotion swept some as Elizabeth, resplendent in her white satin evening gown and her diamond tiara glittering in the bright sunlight, drove through the streets in the state landau.

Philip, in the blue, gold and red uniform of colonel-in-chief of the Royal Canadian Regiment, rode with her in the richly upholstered carriage. A mounted guard of 48 Mounties accompanied it from the historic gleaming, golden flutter-ing, scarlet coats spotless.

WEATHER COOPERATES

Even the weather came around. A sky filled with clouds in the morning broke out bright sunshine before the bobbing cavalcade left Government House for the drive to Parliament Hill in the afternoon.

The Senate, its new red carpet, its gold-leaf ceiling, its white stone walls set off by gleaming lights and filled by dozens of television and movie lights, the Queen entered a gathering of more than 1,000 persons.

Throne Speech Highlights

OTTAWA (CP) — Throne speech highlights:

The government will take steps to make both Houses of Parliament more effective.

Increases will be proposed in the universal old age pensions for persons 70 and over, for old age assistance between 65 and 70 and for blind and disabled persons.

A higher scale of allowances for "burned out" war veterans will be sought, along with enlargement of the groups receiving them.

A measure to provide greater stability in farm prices will be proposed.

Cash advances for farm-stored grain will be asked.

Programs and projects for a national development policy will be proposed from time to time.

The government will try to get additional markets for fish and to develop international rules for protecting the fishery.

A measure will be placed before Parliament to provide annual vacations with pay for workers under federal jurisdiction.

Some tax changes, unspecified, will be submitted.

The government will initiate new talks with Saskatchewan with a view to early commencement on the South Saskatchewan Dam project.

Parliament will be asked to authorize, with the Maritime governments, creation of facilities for cheaper electric power in those provinces. This will include financial help for New Brunswick's Beechwood hydro project.

Steps are being taken to clear the way for joint development with British Columbia of Columbia River hydro power.

Parliament will be asked to maintain modern defence forces to work with NATO.

The government remains convinced that it also must work within the United Nations for preservation of security and a wide measure of disarmament.

Must Make Certain Industry Stays Man's Servant-Prince

OTTAWA (CP)—Prince Philip, today told Canadians that even in a world of high-pressure industrialization the family still is the central and important unit of society.

"Industry is only a means to an end and not an end in itself," he said in a radio address to the Canadian people.

"It's the people that come first. Their life in and out of working hours is the only really important thing—particularly in any country that professes to be democratic."

In a personal report on the conference he sponsored last year at Oxford on human problems of industrial communities, the prince said at another point:

"I am no expert on industrial matters. I don't pretend to understand at first hand the stresses and strains, the pushes and pulls which people living in industrial communities have to put up with.

"But I do know one thing: Man has simply got to remain in charge of the industrial monster which he is building. We have got to make sure that science and industry remain the servants and not the masters of us mere mortals."

"I believe we can only do this by understanding the mistakes of the past, by taking careful thought for the future and, above all, by remembering that man and his wife and family are the central and important characters."

The prince sponsored study group was attended by representatives from several Commonwealth countries.

Only a Few Moderate Bumps Mar 13-Hour Trans-Atlantic Crossing

OTTAWA (CP) — The Queen had a generally smooth and relaxing flight Saturday from London to Ottawa.

A guest at a press reception Saturday night asked the Queen how the trans-Atlantic crossing had been.

She said it was fine "but if we had left any later we might never have got here" because of mist at London airport.

The flight took 13 hours and 11 minutes. Capt. Gordon Store, 35-year-old South African and pilot-in-command, said there were only a few moderate bumps along the way.

The Queen appeared in good spirits when she stepped from her silver aircraft about the long flight which began at 12:01 a.m. EDT and ended here at 4:21 p.m. EDT.

Both the Queen and Prince Philip went forward to the flight deck and the crew was presented.

Prince Philip, a licensed pilot, did not take the controls but showed a keen interest in the navigation and the weather. Capt. Store told reporters after the flight.

Capt. Store said his blue-and-white plane ran into "a bit of weather" west of Iceland and there were warnings to expect light icing and turbulence.

However the pilot encountered no icing and the turbulence was very slight indeed, saying that would cause any discomfort to the passengers at all.

The four-engine aircraft flew about half way at 14,000 feet and then ascended to 21,000 feet.

"It came down to 2,000 feet just before landing here and Capt. Store said the worst turbulence was encountered at this point.

The Queen's flight was the first but completed his 333rd aerial Atlantic crossing. He said the plane ran into a few light cloud layers at various stages. Royal Canadian Navy frigates and RCAF Lancasters helped the Royal Navy and RAF in forming the aerial escort for the Queen's Atlantic crossing.

Stewardess Faith Sisman said the Queen and Prince Philip breakfasted on bacon and eggs. Lunch and light refreshments also were served.

Second, stewardess Velma Brown, 25, of Nipawin, Sask., the only Canadian member of the crew, said the Queen rested during the flight.

Mother, Four Small Sons, Die In Lombardy Fire

SMITHS FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A mother and her four small sons died today when flames swept a small log cabin in tiny Lombardy, miles south of this Ottawa area town. Flames spouting from the cabin windows cut off rescue attempts.

The victims: Mrs. Mary Eileen Jordan, 29, and sons Ronald, 6, Peter, 5, John, 3, and Patrick, 18 months.

James Jordan, 39, and his wife's brother, Joseph Healey, 32, of Matapedia, Que., were burned in the attempt to save the family. Healey is in hospital suffering shock, third-degree burns to both hands and lesser burns about the face and shoulders.

Jordan escaped with minor burns, but hours after the blaze still was wandering around the scene dazed.

"I jumped from the upstairs window and Joe was going to throw the children down to me," said Jordan.

"Joe had Patrick at the upstairs window but he couldn't hold him because his hands were so badly burned and flames forced him to jump."

His plan was to have Healey rouse Jordan's sons and the three older children and to drop them to him as he stood on the ground. Flames, however, got Healey off and he was forced to jump.

Firemen are investigating the cause of the tragedy.

City and District News

FISH, GAME CLUB MEETS TONIGHT

Hunting will be the theme of the first meeting of the Belleville Fish and Game Association which gets under way at the YMCA this evening starting at eight o'clock.

As promised, speaker from an ammunition firm will address the association while films will be shown and prizes distributed.

Secretary Ken Yorke urges every member of the association to be on hand at the inaugural meeting of the season.

FIREMEN ANSWER FIVE ALARMS OVER HOLIDAY WEEKEND

City firemen answered five alarms over the holiday weekend, one of them being a false alarm and the others all for minor causes.

The reels were called for a marsh fire at Bayside. Over-heated stove resulted in two to a Charlotte street address and also to a house on Station street. Another call was for a bonfire at the corner of Moira and College street.

The false alarm was to Charlotte street where smoke from the exhaust of a nearby auto led a local resident to think a parked truck was afire.

HON. W. GOODFELLOW PRINCIPAL SPEAKER

Robert G. Hamilton, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, attended a meeting of Zone 2 of the Lake Ontario Development Association at Cobourg on Friday night.

Guest speaker was Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, provincial minister of agriculture, who urged industrialists to work hand in hand, and to strive to solve their own problems before seeking help at a higher level.

Mr. Hamilton said Zone 3 of the L.O.D.A. is expected to meet in Belleville towards the end of the month.

Over 100 members attended Friday night's meeting.

JACK LUNDBERG MEETS QUEEN, PRINCE

Jack C. Lundberg, second vice-president of the ANAF Dominion Command and who represented the Command at Ottawa on Sunday when Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip laid a wreath on the National Cenotaph, had the extreme pleasure of being introduced to the royal couple and also to the Prime Minister and Mrs. John Diefenbaker.

Others to be introduced at the same time were Col. Barker, representing the blind veterans and Pedro Lambert.

FIRE DOUSED BY WATER HOSE

A local resident picked up by city police on a drunk charge over the holiday weekend, had rather a hot time at the police station.

Lodged in the cellblock the man was enjoying a smoke when he apparently fell asleep. The cigarette dropped from his mouth and set fire to his clothes.

A couple of spurts from the waterhose in the hands of a police officer doused the fire and the inmate escaped with a ducking and a hole burned in his clothes.

TEACHER NAMED AREA REPRESENTATIVE

Mrs. Greta Bunting, head of the French Department at BCIVS has been appointed district representative of "Visites Interprovinciales". Amputate Arm Of Woman Hurt At Deseronto

A 35-year-old, Toronto woman, Mrs. Rasma Bickaus, of 171 Browning Ave., had to have an arm amputated at the Belleville General Hospital Saturday after the car which she was driving went out of control near Deseronto.

She was thrown from the vehicle which overturned on top of her.

The accident occurred early Saturday morning as Mrs. Bickaus was driving east. Her car missed the Avis Curve and went out of control.

Her husband, Karl Bickaus, asleep in the rear seat, escaped with a shaking up.

Brighton Driver Unhurt When Car Hit at Crossing

Douglas Miller, Brighton, escaped without injury Sunday evening when the car which he was driving on the No. 6 R.D. Road was in collision with a diesel-hauled C.N.R. freight on the crossing north of the RCAF Repair Depot.

Details of the accident were not learned from Provincial Police at Belleville.

As a result of a Saturday afternoon mishap at the intersection of No. 2 highway and No. 6 R.D. Road a Toronto airman has been charged with careless driving.

Provincial Police said that a car driven by Rob. Laycock of the RCAF had emerged onto the highway from the No. 6 R.D. Road directly in front of a car on the highway.

Gerald P. Walker of Cardinal slamed on his brakes to avoid striking the Laycock vehicle only to have a following auto driven by Harvey Bradley of Toronto strike him from behind.

Toronto Woman Drowned in Sharbot Lake

While visiting Sharbot Lake to attend the funeral of a relative, Mrs. Ethel Erwin, 72, of 355 Brian Ave., Toronto, was drowned in Sharbot Lake late Saturday night.

With a party of three others, including her daughter and son-in-law, Mrs. Erwin was crossing the lake in a boat when it overturned. She attempted to swim ashore and was drowned. The three others clung to the overturned boat and were rescued.

Rescued were Mr. and Mrs. Carman Tripp, 355 Brian Ave., Toronto, and Mrs. George Barnyr, 588 Rhodes Ave., Toronto.

Provincial police said that the party was crossing Sharbot Lake to a cottage shortly before midnight when the boat in some manner overturned, throwing its occupants into the water.

Mrs. Erwin's body was recovered a short time later.

Couple Finds Shattered Safe

TRENTON (Special) — A Trenton couple out for a walk Sunday evening entered a shattered safe missing a week from the Rita Hartman home. The safe was stolen by one or more thieves who entered the Hartman house through a door on the second floor while the owner was out at the time. It contained about $1,000 cash used in her groceteria business and valuable jewelry.

When Mr. and Mrs. Hanrahan of Front Street found the safe in ditch along a lonely piece of 401 highway west of No. 33 highway it had been smashed and the door pried open. The money was missing but the thieves had left behind an expensive necklace and brooches was still inside the container. Local police investigating the robbery believe the robbers forced the safe into the car with a long sledge hammer which were stolen from a C.N.R. tool shed at the junction.

APPLES PRESENTED

People en route to the opening of Parliament by Queen Elizabeth in Ottawa yesterday received fancy McIntosh apples grown by members of the Northumberland - Durham Applegrowers' Association when the special train passed through here in the morning. The fruit packed in cartons by Applefield Farms of Trenton was handed over to tour sponsors by Morley Wehatey, secretary-treasurer of the association. Included among the Trenton and district residents who journeyed by rail-road to see the Queen open parliament were Mrs. Hugh Sinson and Mrs. Charlie Flood of Trenton; Mrs. M. R. Lightburne and Miss D. E. Hollands of Cobourg, Miss Shirley Counsell, Presqu'ile Point, and Mrs. Robert Stringer of Bancroft.

PAIR ARRESTED

Two hitchhikers picked up by O.P.P. Constable T. Guy of Brighton Sunday, turned out to be wanted by city police in connection with the theft of a car from Trenton abandoned along the highway between

IN MEMORIAM

WOOD.—To my father, Carl (Buck) Wood, who suddenly left four years ago today, October 15th, 1953.
They say it's only four years ago,
But to me it's a million years,
Each month of lying awake,
Of sheding many tears.
So please, God, take a message
To my father in heaven above,
Tell him how much I miss him,
And give him all of my love.
By daughter, Elizabeth.

WOOD.—In loving memory of Carl (Buck) Wood, who passed away October 15th, 1953.
The dearest one has gone home
And alone
The loved so well;
Left behind are the hearts have to borne.
No one could ever tell
When the shadows of night are falling,
And I am sitting all alone;
While memories come thronging
I'll see you could come home.
—Sadly missed by mother, brothers, Gerald and Mac.

BRAY.—In loving memory of dear husband and father, William Bray, who passed away October 15th, 1949.
Every day in some small way,
Memories of you come our way;
Though absent, you are ever near,
Dear husband, still sweet and true,
Ever remembered by his wife and family.

DAFOE.—In loving memory of our mother, Mary Dafoe, who passed away October 15th, 1956.
A wonderful mother, woman and friend
One who was better, God never made;
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true.
One in a million — mother was you.
Just in your journey — mother we know
You're remembered, ever upright;
Ever remembered by Mary, Lou.
A wonderful mother — mother was she —Ever remembered by May.

DAFOE.—In loving memory of Elizabeth Dafoe, who passed away October 15th, 1946.
Ten years have passed since you left us,
Ten years have passed since you went;
Ten years shall meet in a better land.
And your memories linger fondly.
—Ever remembered by Albert. Pat and children.

DAFOE.—In loving memory of Elizabeth Dafoe, who passed away October 15th, 1946; also our mother, Mary Dafoe, who followed October 23rd, 1947.
In our hearts your memories linger
Sweetly tender, fond and true;
Sadly missed by Mary, Lou, Jacqueline.
There is no day we think of you.

DAFOE.—In loving memory of Elizabeth Dafoe, who passed away October 15th, 1946; also our mother, Mary Dafoe, who followed October 23rd, 1947.
In our hearts your memories linger
Sweetly tender, fond and true;
Sadly missed by Mary, Lou, Jacqueline, Bobby and Sharon.
There is no day we think of you.

BIRTHS

REID.—(nee Riley) R. R. 5, Belleville, are happy to announce the birth of their daughter, Sharon Ann, October 15th, 1957, at the Belleville General Hospital. A sister for Janice.

COLLINS.—At Aileen and Rob, Collins, 346 Church Street, are pleased to announce the arrival of their son, on Saturday, October 12th, 1957, at the Belleville General Hospital. A brother for Rob, Jr.

NICKLE.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry (Nickle) (nee Dorothy Lang), R. R. 5 Belleville, are pleased to announce the birth of their daughter, Brenda Faye, on Monday, October 14th, 1957, at the Belleville General Hospital. A sister for Linda and Harry.

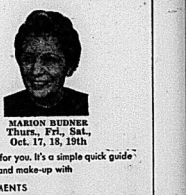
Special Thanksgiving Service Held by CSS

Testimonies of gratitude for blessings brought by a spiritual understanding of God and man were a feature of the Thanksgiving service held at Christian Science Society of the city, on Thanksgiving morning.

Testimonies included mention of healing of physical diseases through prayer, including the Lord's Prayer and its effective application to meeting all human needs, also the understanding of God as taught in Christian Science. A period devoted to voluntary statements of gratitude by members of the congregation is always included in the Thanksgiving Day services in Christian Science churches.

"Thanksgiving" was the subject of the lesson-sermon read in all churches. Keynoting the lesson-sermon was the golden text from Psalms 50: 14: "Offer to God thanksgiving; and pay thy vows unto the Most High."

Brighton and Colborne only a short time either.



Larry Lansberry, 16, and Barry Palneau of Toronto were given a free ride back home in custody.

Prince Philip Bags Duck Limit

OTTAWA (CP) — Prince Philip went duck hunting Sunday.

The prince bagged his limit of eight black ducks, mallards and teals in Ottawa River marshes near Thurso, Que., about 30 miles east of the capital.

He left Sunday night for a private hunting lodge with W. L. S. O'Brien, Montreal stockbroker, RCAF Air Commodore Joe Stephenson, chief of personnel services, and Wing Commander his private secretary.

They got up at 4:30 a.m., and Prince Philip, wearing a green hunting jacket, shot the ducks with a double-barrel 12-gauge shotgun.

The party was back at Government House by 9:30.

'MIKE' PEARSON

Mr. Pearson, external affairs minister for nine years, told reporters he had not even a "suspicion" that he had been nominated for the award. When he heard the news, he was "almost shocked, though I mean delighted shocked."

The first to congratulate him was Opposition Leader St. Laurent, Liberal leader and former prime minister who, along with Mr. Pearson had been nominated for the prize five years ago. Later Premier Leslie Frost Diefenbaker crossed the floor of the Commons to offer his good wishes.

S. H. KNOWLES

A BIT LUKEWAM!!

Member for Hastings-Frontenac Diefenbaker still wants a permanent Speaker, but he's not the bake-a warm side in talking of the point as he nominated Mr. Michener at the opening of the new Parliament, with Opposition Leader St. Laurent seconding the nomination and the House accepting it unanimously.

Mr. Diefenbaker pointed to the British system and to the Canadian tradition and added:

"Whatever our personal views may be as to having a permanent Speaker, only Parliament can make that decision, and then only when there is general unanimity in that regard."

MUST

He said there wereThree main ideas at Regional conference: To avoid past mistakes; to compare successful ideas; to discuss the relationship between human communities and industry.

"I very soon came to the conclusion that there was plenty of evidence in the United Kingdom that small towns if industry just grows without careful foresight and planning.

"They made plenty of mistakes 200 years ago and they are all examples for anyone to see. . . .

SUGGESTS NEW STUDY

"I am all in favor of the principles of conference being applied over and over gain," he said, suggesting that industrial committees or entire countries might repeat the experiment on a smaller scale.

He gave a bit of advice to prospective organizers of similar study conferences: "The important thing to remember is that the organizers must keep their feet planted firmly on the ground of practical problems and cases and the enterprise is doomed to failure if it is allowed to enter the rarefied atmosphere of theory."

The remarks were contained in the text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

FAMOUS FALLS

The Victoria Falls on the Zambezi River in southern Rhodesia were discovered by David Livingstone in 1855.

REGAL HUMILITY

Philip held her left hand as she entered and departed. She wore a solemn expression as if aware of the occasion. But as she glanced here and there at the gilded, tapestried group, her eyes sparkled.

Philip sat beside her throne in the Senate as she read the throne speech; his eyes scarcely left her face.

And although on matters of policy the words of the speech were the government's the personal notes at the beginning and end seemed especially her own, they seemed directed to all Canadians, not only those few in high places privileged to hear her in the Senate.

A MOMENT FOR ALL

"I greet you as your Queen . . . she began. "As is for all of us a moment to remember."

At the end, as many perspired, and one or two women grew faint from the 80-degree heat, the Queen, still cool and comfortable-looking, concluded with these words:

"I wish to express to you and to the people of Canada my gratitude and my pride in all that for the warmth of the loyalty and affection with which we have been welcomed by all I have met. "As I now address you here in Canada, I will call to your minds the words of the earlier Elizabeth when, more than three centuries ago, she spoke from her heart to the Speaker and members at her last Parliament and said:

"Though God hath raised me high, yet this I count the glory of my crown that I have reigned with your loves."

"Now here in the new world, I say to you that it is my wish that in the years to come I may so reign in Canada and be so remembered."

PROUD HERITAGE

Her words gave Canadians reason to feel proud of their heritage:

"You have come here to form this new Parliament from across this land. A land far wider and richer than either of those older countries that first gave it birth.

"I am proud to contemplate the great heritage of this nation —the minerals, the forests, the lands, the waters, the sources of power and energy which fire your ever-growing industries.

"But I am more proud to contemplate the spirit and ideals which brought this country to nationhood, and now, drawing on reinforcement and resources from many lands and peoples, have given this nation a national character peculiarly her own."

HISTORY IN ACTION

History was re-enacted in brilliant ceremonial dating back to the days of England's first Queen Elizabeth and earlier.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, heading the first Conservative federal government in 22 years, named it "the Queen's Day."

Opposition Leader St. Laurent, who as prime minister last spring laid plans for this occasion, picked up the cue and said the day will be remembered in Canadian history.

Around the Queen and in the galleries sat dignitaries of the land and hundreds of gowned women. Blazing lights, for her television and newsreel picture cameras, made the chamber uncomfortably warm.

The Commons, back in its own chamber following the throne speech, adopted a motion formally expressing loyalty, love, joy and gratitude to the Queen, and another motion ordering the singing of God Save the Queen.

BEGINS IN SENATE

Yet ritual, steeped in English parliamentary tradition, began when the Senate met at 3:30 p.m. EDT for the swearing in of nine new senators, including its newly-appointed speaker, Mark Drouin of Quebec.

Then the Commons, which met an hour later without a Speaker, was summoned to the upper chamber, where Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin presided, and was told to appoint a Speaker.

Back in the lower house, the Mace, locked in the post was Roland Michener, 57-year-old Conservative member for Toronto St. Paul's.

In the red - carpeted Senate chamber, dozens of hot lights shone down from high on the white throne, polished to a dull gleam for the historic occasion.

But the heat and the tension that went with the pomp and ceremony interfered with not a jot or tittle of tradition.

COLORFUL PROCESSION

At the beginning, leading the Queen's procession were eight gold aides in various bright uniforms. Behind them, in a flowing white gown, was Lady Rose Baring, lady-in-waiting. The other lady-in-waiting to the Queen, Lady Diana of Leicester, missed the opening. She was in bed with a bad cold.

Next came the gentleman usher of the black rod, Maj. E. A. Dunnett, in dignity unimpaired by the limp left from a wartime wound in his right leg. Behind him and immediately in front of the Queen walked Prince Philip was Lt.-Col. Sir Michael Adeane, Her Majesty's private secretary.

The crowd, the men attired in morning suits, the women in formal gowns, turned and watched the procession moved up the centre aisle, sitting eight senators and Supreme Court of Canada justices at their chairs before the throne.

Prince Philip held the Queen's left hand as they moved and left it only as he released it at the foot of the throne. Elizabeth climbed the three steps unaided and after arranging her gown, paused while the prime minister knelt briefly in front of her and stood at his chair to her right.

Senator Haig moved to a place on her left and Her Majesty said: "pray be seated."

Then the commoners had taken their places, standing at the rear of the chamber. Col. Adeane stepped in front of the throne and handed the Queen a redribboned copy of the throne speech.

She fingered the white sheets for a moment, then began to read in a clear, steady voice. She remained seated during the 20 minutes it took to read it first in English and then in French.

Appoint Prince Canadian Privy Council Member

OTTAWA (CP) — Queen Elizabeth on Monday became the first monarch to preside at a meeting of the committee of the Canadian Privy Council—the cabinet.

The full Canadian cabinet, except Senator John T. Haig, government leader in the Senate, attended the 30-minute meeting. Senator Haig is a minister without portfolio in Mr. Diefenbaker's cabinet.

After the council meeting Prince Philip was sworn in as a member of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada. The oath was administered before Governor-General Massey by Robert H. Hayes, clerk of the Privy Council.

Prince Philip's appointment to the privy council was announced Sunday after an unscheduled half hour audience Prime Minister Diefenbaker had with the Queen.

It's the highest honor Canada can bestow on the husband of the reigning monarch, and it makes one of her advisers on Canada. However, in practice she is advised by the council's committee —the cabinet—which holds responsibility for governing the country.

Only three other living non-Canadians are members of the Privy Council: Sir Winston Churchill, Britain's wartime leader and Earl Alexander, former governor-general of Canada.

HIGHER PENSION,

In the social security field, expectations are for a $5 boost to $55 a month in the universal federal old age pension to 'all over 70 and in the maximum federal-provincial payment to the needy between 65 and 69, to the blind and disabled. For increases in these last three fields to take effect in any province, provincial governments likely will be required to match federal payments.

The increases, if approved promptly, might take effect as early as Nov. 1 and would be the second boost this year. Last spring the Liberal administration raised the pensions to $46 from $40, effective July 1.

Big news to prairie farmers was the forecast of cash advances on farm-stored grain to ease the pinch on farmers unable to get their harvests delivered to market.

It is understood the payments will cover wheat, oats and barley—70 cents a bushel for wheat, 30 cents for oats and 35 cents for barley. Restricted to the 1957-58 term, payments would be made on farm stocks of grain equal in size to those on which a non-taxable ceiling of 6,000 bushels for any one farm.

INTERTED LATER

The payments would be deducted later from the money farmers receive from the Canadian wheat board when they deliver grain to elevators. The board would have to borrow for the advances from the banks, and possibly the federal government will shoulder the interest charges.

Also on the farm front legislation was promised to provide "greater stability" of farm prices generally. Mr. Diefenbaker, in his election campaign, promised a form of support price which would relate farm returns to production costs.

On the possibility of tax cuts the throne speech said only that there will be a total review of the "changes in certain of the taxing statutes." Tax cuts are promised in the Diefenbaker's election campaign and Finance Minister Fleming earlier talking of office that he planned to fulfil that promise.

The extent of tax reductions, however, will depend in large measure on how the tax review the throne speech, will add well over $100,000,000 a year to federal spending.

Another major forecast of the speech was implementation of a national development policy. These points were specified:

1. Resumed negotiations with Saskatchewan's CCF government aimed at "early agreement" on the long-stalled power and irrigation development of the Lower Saskatchewan River.

2. Aid in the Maritimes for development of hydro and coal-fuelled electric plants.

3. Urgent action to settle problems on the United States on Columbia River power production and "to make the most of a major joint development of the river by the federal and British Columbia governments."

Queen Receives Diplomatic Corps

OTTAWA (CP)—The Queen received Commonwealth high commissioners and heads of foreign missions Monday.

Russian ambassador Dmitri S. Chuvakin was unable to attend because of the flu. However, diplomats from Communist Poland, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia attended the 45-minute audience which followed a meeting of the cabinet presided over by the Queen.

G. C. McInnes, chief of protocol of the external affairs department, said the Russian embassy sent word Sunday that Mr. Chuvakin would be unable to attend because of illness.

Issue, the second paragraph of the throne speech said the government's "high purpose" will be to make both Houses of Parliament "more effective in the discharge of their responsibilities to the people of Canada."

Mr. Diefenbaker has said he firmly intends to carry out his promise to abolish the Commons power rule which his party in opposition last year, charged was used by the Liberals to throttle debate on the pipeline issue.

Moreover, the Conservative platform at the Progressive Convention which chose Mr. Diefenbaker as leader called for a federal-provincial conference on reform of the Senate.

It is understood that the proposed for compulsory holidays with pay will involve paid vacations of two weeks annually for workers with two year's service and of three weeks for those with five. Federal labor jurisdiction extends over some 420,000 workers in transportation, railways, shipping and communications. But most of these already benefit from provincial and collective bargaining agreements.

VETERANS LEGISLATION

New legislation for veterans also was forecast in the throne speech. In the scale of war veterans allowances, and recipients of "burned-out" veterans in need, extension of the allowances to veterans not covered, and changes to the means test.

It is expected the extension will bring in veterans who served in the Korean War, but not in the Continent, in the First World War when the U.K. was officially considered a war theatre.

The allowance also may be raised for single recipients to $50 a month from $60—it was increased last spring for married couples—together with an increase in the ceiling on total income to a married veteran may receive without a reduction in allowance. The Canadian Legion has been seeking such improvements.

Church Official Is Shaken up In Triple Crash

Miss Vera Miller, secretary at Bridge Street United Church in Belleville, suffered a shaking up and shock this morning as result of a three-vehicle accident on a fog-shrouded section of No. 2 Highway south of Mountain View.

Miss Miller was taken to Prince Edward Hospital but later was transferred to Belleville General Hospital.

Although appointed as church secretary at Belleville in September, Miss Miller was still residing at Picton and was on her way to Belleville after spending the weekend at home where the accident occurred.

Miss Miller was riding as passanger in a panel truck with William Strachan of Picton when their northbound vehicle was in collision with a southbound auto, driven by Elmer Wood, R. R. 4, Belleville.

The third vehicle involved was a southbound furniture truck driven by Thomas Jordan of Belleville. When the driver spotted the accident in the fog, he applied his brakes but the semi-trailer jackknifed and struck the vehicle in which Miss Miller was riding.

Don MacKinnon Hooks Muskie On Light Tackle

For some years now a friendly fishing rivalry has been going on between Don MacKinnon, president of the Belleville Flah and Game Association, and Mrs. MacKinnon. Both are Isaak Walton's of note and the fortunes of the "fishing war" have swayed from one to the other.

Up to Saturday Mrs. MacKinnon held the honors this year with her catch of a 16½-inch speckled trout.

Mrs. MacKinnon, who at the moment is on the east coast, doesn't know it — but friend hubby now holds the whip hand.

For Saturday afternoon while fishing from a 12-foot canoe in the Moira River near Thomasburg, Mr. MacKinnon hooked a 15½ pound musky, his first" catch of the breed in 25 years of angling. The fish was 42½-inches in length.

With Mr. MacKinnon was a friend Peter Connell. After an 18-minute battle with the musky, Mr. Connell paddled the canoe to shore where the fish was gaffed at the water. It broke free and was gaffed again before being finally landed.

Mr. MacKinnon has decided that heavy tackle is not necessary for the type of fish sized muskie. He used a seven-foot 4½ ounce rod and reel with a river chub as bait.

Unless Mrs. MacKinnon hooks a few bumper muskies during the maritimes it looks as though friend hubby will hold the record over the long cold winter months.

COLLEGE STREET HAZARD

For some time past, residents of the College Street West area, both in Belleville and outside the city in Thurlow township, have been concerned about a traffic hazard posed by that portion of College Street extending from North Front Street to Sidney Street.

Their demands that something be done to make this section of road safer for pedestrians have been redoubled since the accident on October 5, in which a little girl was killed.

Even a brief period of observation of conditions on this road will convince any unbiased person that these residents have a sound case.

There may be good reasons for differing opinions as to what should be done and who should do it, but there ought to be no quarrel with the conclusion that something should be done and that this should be done now, not at some future date.

The road in question is paved and, if it were in the country, would be considered reasonably wide. Unfortunately it is not in the country, but carries a heavy load of both vehicular and pedestrian traffic. Equally unfortunately, it possesses one feature which is typical of countless roads in many areas, deep ditches close to the road with not even a hint of a footpath for pedestrians.

When Quinte Secondary School was erected the need for a sidewalk which would take Belleville students off the road itself was stressed and a sidewalk was built from North Front Street to the school. This, we imagine, serves the majority of city students, while country students arrive by bus and are not required to walk on the road. Primary school students from Thurlow can also travel to school by bus, although not all of them always do so. A number of primary school students from Belleville, mainly from the Frank Street area, where several new houses are going up, use College Street to reach King George School.

College Street West is also a short, and comparatively lightly travelled, route for employees of Northern Electric who live in the north-west part of the city.

While the times at which students leave school and the times at which factories close do not precisely coincide, they are close enough together to result in an increase in vehicular and pedestrian traffic at approximately the same time.

During a half-hour watch Friday afternoon, more than one situation arose which made the eye-witnesses wonder whether they were about to see another accident -- this in spite of the fact that almost all the motorists were driving slowly and with caution and almost all the children were walking or riding bicycles with due regard for traffic. One hazard which was noted time and again was that resulting from children riding bicycles both sides of the road, those on the right riding bicycles with traffic, in accordance with the rules of the road, and those on the left walking facing traffic, as they should. Motorists had to weave between them.

Worst hazard of all is the hill just west of Quinte Secondary School. Here the road is not only narrow, with motorists view being limited, but if any crisis arises a child afoot, or cycling, would not even be able to seek refuge in a deep ditch, as he could do where the road is flat.

Roads with deep ditches and with no paths for pedestrians may be unavoidable in the rural areas -- but this is not a rural area. Carrying a volume of traffic which is undeniably urban in character, it should conform with urban standards. Either the ditches should be eliminated, providing wide shoulders, or a footpath of some kind should be provided, and in the quickest possible time.

In the vote which saw the licensing of dining rooms and cocktail lounges approved, two groups campaigned. They were, though, not the "wet" and the "drys." Instead, the contending parties were the Preferred Hosts Association and the Association for the Preservation of Community Standards. How any "wet" who would choose to designate himself as a "preferred host" could, in fact, be a preferred host passes our understanding, just as we fail to comprehend why anybody would want to preserve the standards of a community which would select names like these.

Liquor Control Act Obsolete

Toronto Globe and Mail

For having on sale at their restaurant certain tonics containing alcohol, a Toronto couple were fined $1,000 and costs ($500 each). There was no suggestion that "the Italian-made tonics were harmful; but their alcoholic content was such as to make them liquor in the eyes of the law.

The law, in this case, is the Ontario Liquor Control Act, which bristles with savage penalties—huge fines, long jail terms—for offences most people consider piquayune; if, indeed, they consider them offences at all. Typical is the "crime" of taking a drink somewhere other than in a private residence or licensed premises; for this, the fine can run as high as $1,000, the jail term as high as three months. And until recently, a minimum of two months' imprisonment was mandatory for people convicted of this illegal-people convicted of this above couple) having it for sale.

Even these ominous provisions with another act which has daily and universal impact on citizens, the Highway Traffic Act. A "careless driver" who kills another, but carries a heavy load of both vehicular and pedestrian traffic. Equally unfortunately, it possesses one feature which is typical of countless roads in many areas, deep ditches close to the road with not even a hint of a footpath for pedestrians.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

October 15th., 1937.

Point Anne "Cementmen" are the 1937 champions intermediate "B" of the O.A.B.A. On Saturday last Frank Sedore's Point Anne soft ball nine defeated the Burlington Beach team 5 to 1 in a third and deciding game for the Intermediate "B", championship at Oshawa. Each team had won its home game previously forcing the issue to a third game. The following composed the "Cementmen: Genereaux, Luffman, Sero, Green, Gaudette, Hickey, Whitehead, Murray and Merow. The umpires were: Fair at the plate and Brown on bases, both from Oshawa.

From our files of twenty years at this time in 1937: There are now 215 men employed in installing the waterworks system here and the weekly pay roll amounts to $3,500. The workers are growing by numbers. The pipes along the streets are being laid at the rate of half a mile a day.

Mr. Bill Bishop and Mr. Rob Bunnett have left to attend the Agricultural College at Kemptville.

Mrs. S. Greenlees of Montreal is visiting her father, the Rev. C. T. Lewis, retired Anglican clergyman, Bundas Street east.

30 YEARS AGO

October 15th., 1927.

Mrs. Murphy, Cedar Street, brought to the Intelligencer office today a basket filled with fine ripe raspberries. Mrs. H. J. Redfern, St. Charles Street, also is picking fine raspberries in her garden and gets a bowl full every morning. The branches are still well laden with the fruit.

Mr. Wallace Havelock Robb addressed the members of Minerva Chapter No. 49 O.E.S. on Nature Study and dealt mainly with birds, bird life and bird sanctuaries.

Mr. E. J. Follwell and sons, Jimmie and Ted, are visiting Mr. H. A. Follwell in Detroit, Mich.

40 YEARS AGO

October 15th., 1917.

Archdeacon the Venerable G. R. Beamish, rector of St. Thomas' Church, the Rev. Dr. Biggar, rector of Christ Church and the Rev. A. E. Cees are attending a meeting of the Bay of Quinte Clerical Union in Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Lang will celebrate the 50th anniversary of their wedding on October 17th. Many friends will be pleased to extend to them congratulations and good wishes.

Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, barrister, of this city, represented the Belleville Curling Club at the meeting of the Ontario Curling Association in Toronto.

50 YEARS AGO

October 15th., 1907.

Mr. J. L. Tickell went to Ottawa today.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell and his daughter, Mrs. C. P. Hodgins, have arrived home from St. Paul, Minn., where they visited his daughter, Mrs. J. H. Jamieson.

Two new constables have been added to the Belleville Police Force. They are Cephas Dafoe and John Kennedy of Tyendinaga township.

The harbor used to be a busy place. From one file copy at this time in 1907: The steamers Alexandra, Varuna and Corsican were in the harbor at the same time today. People who have time to spare like to visit the harbor and watch the boats coming and going.

Fun to Climb Tall Trees

The Windsor Star

Many types of accidents are modern, or almost so. These include getting run over by an automobile, being caught in a revolving machine, being struck by a high power mower or dying in an aircraft crash. Other accidents, however, have been occurring since the infancy of mankind.

A Windsor boy was injured the other day when he fell from a tree. How many other boys have been injured or killed, similarly since the dawn of time? A handful of mute skeletons in caves bear mute testimony that they paradise that of falling from trees.

The wonder of it is there hasn't been far more. Young boys (and even tomboys) have a fascination for trees. In rural parts, especially tree-climbing is among the most natural of sports. With practice (and a few bruises) boys can get quite adept at it.

The real fun is where trees are close together. This allows a boy to swing from one tree to another, making like Tarzan. Another trick, involving color or design on one tree's limbs close to the ground, was to climb to the top. Then, using the arms, to let one's self drop, bouncing from branch to branch thus breaking the fall. Or to be landed with a thump on the ground. This was best done in a haystack, but a pile of snow would help soften the impact. One seldom landed without a few scratches, but it was a part of the game.

Tree climbing, however, obviously can be dangerous. And especially to those who know little about trees, or climbing. There's an art to it, beginning with a sense of the risk involved.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

OR BLESSINGS?

A sailing ship captain once described how he had taken a night ship. Asleep in his bunk at night, he was thrown out by a terrible lurch, and came on deck to find that the cargo had shifted and the ship was lying almost on her side. The crew, badly frightened, were getting the lifeboats ready. With the rising storm, and in every roll, the ship seemed doomed etc.

But the captain knew how much the owners had always trusted him. He felt that he could get them down without a struggle. Despite the rising wind, he drove himself and his men almost to exhaustion and succeeded in jettisoning the cargo, thereby improving the ship's stability. Having a challenge to look up to gave him a great deal of strength. Many a man would quit

Invisible Ads Newest Peril

Christian Science Monitor

Nothing would delight the average televiewer or movie goer more than to be told he would no longer have to see or hear commercials. But that is exactly what a New York advertising firm proposes to make possible with "invisible ads". And the idea—pleasing as it may seem to the millions of bothered or bored viewers—is a sobering one.

For instance. You're at the movies. Gary Cooper is walking resolutely up a dusty street. Then, flickering on the screen for an imperceptible fraction of a second is a layout reading "Drink Coola Cola". Then Gary is back again. To the eye there has been no interruption.

Now you see it (the movie), now you don't (the ad). But the ad, flashing on every five seconds, has apparently been a cumulative effect. For, says the advertising firm, during a test which it last run in a New Jersey theater sales of a soft drink rose 18 percent and candy sales rose 58 percent.

Advertising, we believe, is vital and useful to the modern world to the extent that it is informative, helping people to where to buy needed items, of the qualities they may legitimately claim. It is the thin oil that keeps the law of supply and demand from running creaking.

But advertising runs amuck when it treats man as a gullible fool to be duped, played upon, swayed or hypnotized.

"Subliminal" or "invertising" technique is merely the mechanical improvement of the "hidden picture" technique of repetition before a captive audience—but with this difference: in the latter it is a hidden persuasion that it is a hidden persuasion. Its audience is not aware that it is being subjected to advertising for entertainment, it is being subjected to third-grade hypnosis.

There are limits to the power of even the most subtle propagandа techniques, as the essential failure of Nazism and Stalinism to blind a generation of almost totally controlled young people has illustrated.

But it is much harder to be alert when the effects of the sales resistance slips in unheralded. The danger of invisible advertising is that its unscrupulous hucksters or politicians is obvious.

The developers of the new technique have performed a public service by at least giving themselves some visible advertising) by outlining the method of their attack to the press. From this point on it will behoove the entertainment industry's own watchdogs as well as public lawmakers to keep a close eye on the activities of the invisible up Madison Avenue and possibly into less savory back alleys.

Thowing Ton Upstairs

Peterbough Examiner

Many a man measures his fitness by the rate at which he can climb the stairs. A daily run up the staircase being the only exercise many men get, they judge the rate of output which the normal stair climber uses.

Tests in which persons used a 22-tread staircase of eight inches a tread, or 176 inches in all, and pounds climbing this flight in ten seconds put out 2,250 foot pounds of energy, or at the rate of 225 foot pounds per second. Taken in this manner the capabilities of the human body are astonishing.

If we move into the field of dynamics the force which would be provided in the first 150 foot pounds completely overcame gravity for the first step of the climb, would give the body the speed of sound and a great deal more. If an acceleration of 32.17 feet per second per second (32.17 feet per second) is used.

There is nothing really spectacular in all this. It is simply known to physicists for a long time. However it does point to the fact that we have a tremendous equivalent of ton weights upstairs we ought to consider. The strain is distributed evenly distributed throughout the body by the various ways in which we can waste energy and the muscles; one of the most exhausting of them is to misuse the staircase.

Pure Cool Soothing Night Air

The Father of Pediatrics, referring to the use of copper sulfate, (blue nitriol) as a rapidly acting emetic, said, in the paragraph on croup in Therapeutics of Infancy and Childhood:

"The effect of emetics and their indispensability have often been exaggerated. Usually they are less required for the relief of the babies than for tranquilizing the fears of the mother and allowing the family physician to sleep in bed."

If that sounds like a crack made by the character who conducts this column, let me assure you I'm quoting it verbatim from the book mentioned, in which Dr. Abraham Jacobi told about the use of copper sulfate as an emetic.

Emmett Holt, the Doctor Spock of old, opined that emetics "have a double value if the attack" (of croup) "is due to indigestion." In a late, if not the last, edition of his Diseases of Infancy and Childhood, Holt subscribed to the hokum which all medical authorities of the time accepted and some accept today. "Generally it is not necessary to exclude fresh air from the sleeping room. Although a window on a cold, damp night may sometimes excite an attack" (of croup), he opined-and, "plenty of fresh air regularly given tends rather to diminish the susceptibility."

You pays your money and

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

If men shoved and elbowed and nudged the way the ladies do in downtown crowds, there would be fist fights all over the place. Getting on a bus, was it ever, is not a civil game and gives you a bunt with her purse or the parcel she is carrying if you do not step up you humbly form in line to go through doors or ascend or descend aisles, who is it, often with a little sotto voce exclamation of impatience, gives you a push or in passing, the elbow?

Ah, I know. We men shouldn't be in front of ladies, getting on buses. Nor should we precede them into restaurants or, even in the aisles of busy stores. But so much of the old gallantry has vanished in these modern days of feminine emancipation. I wouldn't be surprised if around 40 per cent of the present adult male population had never been heard of gallantry, except in old poems they had to study in high school. Idyls of the King is that sort of thing.

Remnants, inherited memories of the old gallantry may still linger in the minds of some women. And it may be these who do the bunting and shoving and pushing in downtown crowds. For most of those who do the bunting are, come to think of it, middle-aged ladies likely to recollect the old days. There are two types of middle-aged ladies in existence. They are either short, stout, bunty ladies who don't realize how far they project fore and aft; or else rather lean, obviously bony types sometimes with a cut aristocratic-minded ladies, the bony type, possibly with a decided overbite. Both are of purpose, who like to stride when they walk. Being forty and up, they have long since been disillusioned about men. So they give us nobbin at night but the old entry-type push.

Do the ladies bunt one another? I have been unable to determine that. All I know is that if men indulged in the practice, you would be entertained every day all over the crowded stores with great fist fights and scuffles; on the street corners, where the crowds gather, and at traffic lights, there would be fisticuffs and wrestling matches. For there is one thing that irritates a man, it is being bustled from behind.

TODAY'S TALK

LEISURE

This body of ours was not meant to be used as a working machine. It was meant for leisure as well, so that it might get rewarded for its use by a healthful life. By using our leisure intelligently we are given the opportunity to add many years of usefulness to our bodies.

Leisure is for rest and relaxation, for the doling of things that the mind likes to do, and the body is given rest and change from the regular work of the day. Because their leisure hours for things divorced from all other work. A hobby, perhaps, or devoting themselves to recreation of some sort.

We need more leisure as we grow older, balancing fun and change and living a more even existence. These leisure hours are very important. They give us the opportunity to appreciate more the value of fun and friendships, and new learning. And it gives us an open space for worries and cares to read or to look out upon the great book of nature.

Leisure teaches us to pay attention to the many values in life. It gives us perspective, which arrests study so much. Every organ in this body of ours is grateful for this period of leisure that we give to it. It's a time in which all worries and cares of the day can well be dismissed.

Richard Jefferies, the English writer, used to go into the fields and relax his mind and body on the good earth, he being a naturalist and worshipped beauty. Country life was his joy and he found some sure hours, thus enriching untold numbers of those who also love all things in nature.

Govt. House Glitters As Royal Reception Is Held

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—As the Queen of Canada bade goodnight to her hosts tonight greeting the stately Government House ballroom fell silent save for the music of two anthems.

The music, softly-played was O' Canada, followed by God Save the Queen.

It was the culmination Monday of the "Queen's Day" in Canada, as well as Canada's Day of Thanksgiving.

And when the anthems ended, the sovereign and her husband moved from their place beneath the portraits of King George VI and the Queen Mother through a glittering, formally dressed company which became a bowing, curtseying ribbon stretching to the ballroom door.

In the course of an hour, the royal couple had received guests and then followed them into the ballroom to chat informally with about 16 couples.

Earlier, the Queen was hostess at a state dinner.

PALE GREEN SATIN

For both state dinner and reception the Queen wore her "Maple Leaf of Canada dress," a magnificent Norman Hartnell creation in pale green satin accented with dark green velvet.

The low-cut bodice is bordered in deep green velvet. A broad garland of green velvet maple leaves appliqued with crystals and emeralds crosses the hip-line in front and ends at the hem at the back of the skirt.

The Queen wore a lacy diamond tiara, given her by the late Queen Mary as a wedding present. Her necklace was a triple row of graduated diamonds. Her earrings and bracelet were diamonds.

She also wore the kingfisher blue sash of the Order of the Garter with miniatures of her father and grandfather in dainty diamond frames surmounted by crowns.

Prince Philip, along with most guests, wore a formal evening dress with a white tie. He also wore the blue sash of the Order of the Garter.

RECEIVES GUESTS

The royal couple moved directly into the ballroom from the anteroom—where they stood opposite their portraits painted by Montreal artist Lilias Newton to receive guests. With them was Governor-General Massey.

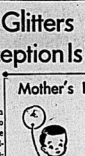
Among he first persons the Queen greeted via the ballroom was former external affairs minister Lester Pearson, who Monday was named the 1937 Nobel Peace Prize winner.

She congratulated Mr. Pearson and asked him how he felt about the new honor.

Mr. Pearson said the feeling was "exciting."

Smiling and relaxed as she moved into the ballroom the queen seemed caught by gay renditions of French-Canadian folk songs by the 26 - member band of the Canadian Guards. The musicians were directed by Captain J. M. Gayfer.

WHATS ABOUT CHILDREN



Speaking to Mrs Davie Fulton, wife of the justice minister, the queen chatted about children.

Prince Philip, meanwhile, talked about education and educators-turned-politicians with External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith, former University of Toronto president. He also had a lengthy, laughter-filled chat with Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland.

Afterwards, Mr. Smallwood said he told the prince that Canada's newest province was "more pro-British than the British and more royal than the Queen."

Finance Minister Fleming, who talked with his monarch about Canada's social needs, later said the four-day royal visit is "a tonic for the nation."

Mother's Helper

THE PROBLEM of left-over children at a party can be inconvenient for you—and upsetting to a tired-out child. If it's at all possible, arrange to take all guests home yourself, when the party is over. Notify parents in advance—they'll appreciate your thoughtfulness.

WALLBRIDGE CEREALETTES

4TH SIDNEY — The second meeting of the Wallbridge Cerealettes was held at the home of the assistant leader, Mrs. E. B. Phillips.

The meeting opened with the Roll Call, "One day from my Record of Cereals Eaten" which was answered by each girl.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Anna Gray. It was decided to hold the next meeting at the home of Mrs. H. Gray on October 19, 1937 at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Tucker led in a discussion on the following: "Pattern for Everyday Eating"; "A trip to town with Betty Brown"; and "Around the clock with cereals".

Mrs. Phillips demonstrated the making of "Muffins".

After the home assignment was given, the club members enjoyed eating the muffins made during the meeting.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

SPRINGBROOK W. A.

The members of Springbrook United Church Women's Association held their regular monthly meeting in the basement of the church on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. R. Wellman and Mrs. Clinton Robbins acting hostesses.

A welcome to all was extended by the president, Mrs. Clayton Burkitt, and the devotional period was conducted by Mrs. C. Robbins, the theme being "Commitment for Service". Psalm 23 was read responsively by Mrs. G. Broadworth. The Scripture taken from John, 17 was read by Mrs. R. Wellman and the theme thoughts were read by Mrs. F. Cosbey. A prayer for the Missionary, Miss Gould was offered by Mrs. Robbins.

The roll-call, "A prayer of Thanks" was well responded to by members.

The correspondence was read and dealt with. Cards and calls were reported with Mrs. Fred McKeown reporting for the September visiting committee. Mrs. C. Gordanier and Mrs. R. Wellman to act on this committee for October.

A lengthy business period followed consisting of a reminder to each member to send their donations to the "Save the Children's Fund Bale" as soon as possible that it might be packed and sent.

Mrs. C. Sine reported on the estimate given by Mr. M. Bell re-cleaning and finishing the church floor which is to be done at a later date.

The financial report by the treasurer, Mrs. F. Cosbey, was given showing a profit of $163.59 realized from the bazaar and $49.07 from catering to a wedding reception recently.

A committee was named to arrange for the catering to the Williams Livestock Sale on October 21 as follows: Mesdames E. Bateman; B. Bateman; G. Thompson; G. Williams, and R. Haslett. This being the 75th anniversary of the church much discussion followed regarding the turkey supper to be held on Friday October 25.

The various committees were appointed: supper committee — Mesdames D. Fleming; F. Cosbey;; P. Bateman; G. Williams; Fred McKeown; G. Thompson, and R. Smith; program committee: Mrs. Florence McKeown, and the Rev. A. Beare; flower committee: Mrs. S. Meiklejohn; Mrs. D. Fleming and Mrs. R. McKeown. This concluded the business, and the program followed consisting of topic on "Stewardship" by Mrs. R. Thompson.

Reading by Mrs. P. Smith; Mrs. T. H. Webb, and Mrs. C. Burkitt; music by Mrs. Beare with Mrs. C. Sine at the organ. Refreshments were served by the hostesses and their assistants.

Collection $3.80. The hostesses for November will be: Mrs. C. Gordanier and Mrs. H. Haslett.

UNITED CHURCH W. A.

RYLSTONE — On Wednesday afternoon, the Women's Association of Rylstone United Church was entertained at the home of Mrs. Clarence Thomson. There was a good attendance of 11 ladies and four children. The theme song, "Let The Beauty of Jesus Be Seen In Me" opened the meeting and the devotional period Mrs. Stewart read the Scripture Romans 12: 1-8.

Mrs. Lily Anderson gave a reading, "It's Nice To Be Remembered" and little Suzanne Spencer sang, "Let Me Be Your Teddy Bear," with accordian accompaniment by her mother, Mrs. Bob Spencer.

Mrs. Thos. H. McKeown gave a reading, "How the Artist Forgot Four Colors" and Mrs. Jack Spencer read "Stewardship Begins at Home". A reading "Fountain of Youth", was given by Mrs. Sanford Meiklejohn.

A contest "Adventure of the Church," was conducted by Mrs. Wilfred Spencer.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Sanford Meiklejohn, in Springbrook.

Convenors for the meeting will be Mrs. H. E. Beare, and Mrs. Fred McKeown. The lunch committee will be: Mrs. Ray Stewart, Mrs. H. E. Beare, and Mrs. Chester Meiklejohn.

Preparations will be made to cater to a sale in December.

Alpha Lambda Sees Method of Stage Makeup

The regular meeting of Alpha Lambda Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Bob Smith, Eastwood Park Drive.

Prior to the business portion of the program, Mrs. John Lewis introduced Miss Mary Doyle, of the Belleville Theatre Guild, who gave a most interesting talk on stage makeup. Character makeup plays an important role in any theatrical production and almost any effect can be achieved through the choice of the proper colors and proper use of highlights.

Highlights are used to accentuate various contours of the facial features. Miss Doyle, using Mrs. Lewis as a model, illustrated her talk by transforming Mrs. Lewis into an aging woman. The pallid color, the lines added to forehead and mouth, the pale lips and the shading on the face was demonstrated. Mrs. Lewis was asked to remove this makeup and a more youthful makeup was applied with greater emphasis being put on the rosier shades in the base color. The eye makeup was important here because eyes have a tendency to "hollow" under bright stage lights.

Mrs. Lewis thanked the speaker for a most enlightening demonstration.

President Mavis McLean conducted a short business meeting. She informed the chapter that Belleville and District Hospital covered spring filled crib mattresses had been purchased for use at the receiving home of the Children's Aid Society. Four high chairs, too, had been purchased with the cost of these being borne by the Exemplar Chapter. Sewing for the Samaritan Nursery cupboard was distributed. This cupboard is stocked with layettes for infants who may have need of a layette

Wedding

BUSH — DAVIS

Bronze and yellow chrysanthemums adorned the chancel rail of Emmanuel United Church, at Stirling Leaf, for a recent, lovely autumn wedding when the Reverend S. E. Snowden, of Bancroft, Ontario, united in marriage Norma Elaine Davis, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Davis, of Maple Leaf, to William Harold Bush, of Stirling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross M. Bush. Little clusters of yellow 'mums designated the guest pews.

Mrs. Jack Donaldson, presided at the organ, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Jack Bush, cousin of the bridegroom, who sang before the ceremony, "Because", and during the signing of the register, "O Perfect Love."

The radiant bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a charming bridal gown in full length of white Chantilly lace and nylon net over satin, featuring a fitted bodice with scalloped neckline "V"-pointed in the back, and long tapering lily-like sleeves. The circular skirt of nylon net over satin was enhanced with wide, lace side panels in front and back. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a lace headdress encrusted with seed pearls and iridescent sequins, and she carried a cascade of yellow roses.

Mrs. Wallace Rutledge, of Bancroft, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Shirley Fleetham, of Belleville, bridesmaid. Both were gowned alike in street-length bronze charm silk, and carried bouquets of bronze 'mums set in yellow taeton fluffs. They wore matching headdresses.

Mr. Gerald Bush, of Stirling, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, while Mr. Roger Davis, of Belleville, brother of the bride, and Mr. Carman Richards, of Wooler, brother of the bridegroom, were ushers.

At the reception which was held at Lake View Inn, Papineau Lake, the guests were received by the bride's mother, who chose a dusky rose brocade on charcoal taffeta, with matching accessories, and corsage of white carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing a navy blue crepe with Valenciennes lace, with dusky rose accessories, and corsage of pink garnets.

Following the reception, the happy couple left for the east coast, the bride wearing light blue wool with black accessories, and corsage of pink garnets. Upon their return they will reside on the bridegroom's farm, in Stirling.

Guests attended from Stirling; Belleville; Trenton; Pembroke; Midland; Creighton Mines; Peterborough, and Braeside.

The bride was entertained previous to her marriage, at a miscellaneous shower by members of the operating room of Belleville General Hospital at the home of Mrs. Merle Massey. Kitchen and saucer shower by the members of the nursing school office, and the teaching department of the Hospital at the home of the Misses Shirley Fleming, Mary Barrett and Jean Croft.

upon being taken home. The cost of materials used in stocking the cupboard is paid by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary with the actual work in sewing and knitting for the layettes being done by Alpha Lambda girls.

After the meeting was adjourned the hostesses, Mrs. Smith, and co-hostess, Mrs. Wm. Davidson, served refreshments.

Queen Brightest Jewel in Canada's Crown Monday

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Queen Elizabeth herself was the brightest jewel in Canada's crown Monday. She wore her coronation gown of heavy white satin, glittering with diamonds and other jewels, as she opened Canada's parliament.

The formal opening was a page of pageantry in Canadian history—brought together a galaxy of dignitaries. Men wore formal morning dress — black coats and striped trousers—or full dress uniforms. The ladies wore formal evening dress in a myriad of bright blues, reds and greens.

ALL EYES ON QUEEN

But from the moment a slight murmur rippled through the crowded Senate heralding the approach of the ceremonial procession, few eyes in the red and gold chamber left the slender, regal figure of the Queen.

The Queen wore the Norman Hartnel-designed gown bearing all the Commonwealth emblems, which she also wore to open the Australian, New Zealand and Ceylon parliaments.

Her tiara was the handsome all-diamond fringe tiara, which originally belonged to Queen Alexandra. It is a famous piece of the family jewelry, designed in simple, classical lines.

She wore a graduated diamond necklace with a large diamond drop, large pearl drop earrings and two family orders on the kingfisher blue ribbon of the order of the garter.

The star of the order of the Garter, an elaborate badge with hundreds of small diamonds, was pinned to the gown just below the heart.

The coronation gown, a breath taking creation, has short sleeves with a full, flaring skirt and a slight train, a fitted bodice cut square over the shoulders and curving into a heartshaped centre.

Diamonds, seed pearls, golden crystals, gold and silver thread bullion are among the precious jewels which glitter on the gown.

Still and stately, the brown haired queen sat beside her tall, handsome husband, dressed in the full-dress uniform of the colonel-in-chief of the Royal Canadian Regiment.

The Prime Minister, seated below the Queen on her immediate right, wore morning clothes. Mrs. Diefenbaker, in a front row seat wore a model gown of dawn pink peau d'ange, fashioned on empire lines, with matching satin shoes.

King George H-S Assoc. Elects New Executive

The first regular meeting of the King George Home and School Association was held recently in the school auditorium.

Mrs. Ruth Garfepy thanked last year's executive for the splendid co-operation she had received and asked the members of the new executive to come forward. Mrs. E. Kilfedder installed the executive for 1957-58. The members are:

President, Mrs. Lois Gill; first vice-president, Mrs. Phyllis Lane; second vice-president, Mrs. Butcher; secretary, Mrs. L. Quired; treasurer, Mrs. L. Langabeer.

Mrs. Gill, taking the president's chair, asked for the minutes of the last regular meeting. These were read by Mrs. L. Outred and approved. Mrs. Langabeer gave the treasurer's report. This was followed by the auditor's report, signed by Mr. J. Gill and Mrs. J. Mulver.

The regional conference being held in Peterborough was discussed and any members wishing to go were asked to contact Mrs. Outred. Mrs. Gill read the changes in the insurance contracts and hoped those who wished to avail themselves of this security had done so. The collection of Hallowe'en and Christmas cards this year and help was elicited from the members.

The room attendance was then taken by Mr. Langabeer. The senior banner was won by Mrs. Wilcox' Grade 5 class; the junior banner by Miss Hanes' grade 4 class.

Mrs. Downs asked for donations for her kindergarten class, such as dolls, doll clothes, doll furniture, puzzles, toys, a recent arrival from England, Mrs. Downs expressed her liking for her profession and said that although the methods of teaching were different from England, ten seemed pretty much the same.

A show of hands indicated that the members were in favor of a bake sale, the particulars and date of which would be given at a later meeting. Mr. Mulvey agreed to take charge of a committee to repair the kitchen cupboards. Mrs. Outred read a thank-you note from Mr. William Collins, for flowers received from the association during his recent bereavement.

Mrs. Gill handed the meeting over to Mr. Burgoyne, the school principal, who congratulated the executive on the established them success in their activities for the coming year. He also introduced the members of teaching staff.

A general discussion followed on the proper attire for school activities.

Mrs. Gill adjourned the meeting; refreshments were served by the social committee of Mrs. A. Storms' committee.

Club Elects Officers

FOXBORO — The 4-H Homemaking Club girls of Foxboro held their first meeting of the Cereal Shelf at the home of the leader, Mrs. Cecil Hubble.

The election of officers resulted as follows: president, Marilyn Hollinger; vice-president, Helen Hendricks; secretary, Donna Cooper; press reporter, Shirley Fisher.

During the business discussion it was decided that the Christmas party would be held every other Tuesday night. The next meeting will be held at the home of the assistant, Mrs. Walter Johnson.

This year the girls decided to name the club "Foxboro Kool Kookers."

The girls plan to hold a dance this Friday evening in the school auditorium to raise money for a club trip which will be planned in the near future.

Queen Elizabeth H-S Holds New Mothers' Tea

On October 9, the Queen Elizabeth Home and School Association held a tea for new mothers.

The president, Mrs. A. Pardella, greeted the mothers at the door and they were ushered into the auditorium.

Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. F. Benson presided at the tea table which was decorated in autumn colors.

Sandwiches and cookies were served by Mrs. Cork, Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Burns, Mrs. Ritchie and Mrs. Fullerton.

Mrs. Paradis spoke to the mothers inviting them to the Home and School meetings. The first meeting will be an "Open House" and is an opportune time to meet the teachers and see the class rooms.

Mr. Anderson also spoke, welcoming the new mothers to the school.

The tea was convened by Mrs. Allan assisted by Mrs. MacDonald and Mrs. Scott.

Replenishing in the kitchen were Mrs. Lang and Mrs. Platt.

MAKE BATHTIME PLAYTIME FOR KIDS

Bathtub toys inspire a young chap to keep clean.

One old-fashioned theory we're getting away from is that a child must naturally hates to be clean. Many a mother has consoled herself at bathtime, with the thought that the howls are the direct result of his inborn loathing for soap and water. As a matter of fact, babies and young children really love soap and water . . . they're favorite playthings from the time they're first discovered. Psychologists and parents are both learning that it's not soap and water junior objects to . . . it's the person who wields them so carelessly! It's the way careless hands get soap in his eyes, the way an energetic washcloth stings his face, and the way a hasty dab bruises his tender little nose. It's very, very important, child development experts advise, to freedom children to cleanliness in a soothing, comfortable way. The gentle handling a mother gives her new-born at bathtime should be continued right on through the child's early years.

Bath should be a refreshing, pleasant experience and not a trauma . . . not a battle that junior survives with bruises and dangaged dignity. That's why bathtub toys are excellent props. They give a child the impression that climbing into the tub is going to be fun. This is especially true with boys, who look forward to playing with their sailboats, plastic turtles and fish while in the process of getting clean. To get them in the habit of doing the clean-up job themselves an effective "toy" consists of a baseball mitt in gaily-colored terry cloth with soap in the form of a baseball.

Little girls aren't so much of a problem. Fill up their tubs with fragrant bath salts, "just like Mother's," give them cakes of pretty heart-shaped soap and hold out the lure of delightfully perfumed dusting powder and a few drops of children's floral-scented cologne — and success is yours! Children take to such luxuries as does the proverbial duck to water.

It's up to mother, busy as she is, to allow enough time for all these baths to be leisurely. If you find yourself rushing through them then change schedules so that it fits into a less hectic hour of the day. If such planning does not seem particularly practical, remember this: the attitude a very young child takes toward soap and water is laying the groundwork for cleanliness habits in later years. When you see an untidy adult, you may well be looking at an individual who spent the first years of his life with soap in his eyes . . . and never forget it!

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Jane M. — I'm fed up with the men in our circles.

Kenneth M. — She's a regular prude.

Jane M. — Maybe I'm just a kill-joy as my husband always says, but I must say I'm a little fed up on some of the things that go on in our circle of friends.

When we get together in an evening, the men band into one section of the room and start telling stories, pursuit raised regularly by hearty guffaws. If a woman wanders over to their territory, silence immediately descends, or her husband is delegated to deport her back to women's territory.

If we all go to a movie, or watch something on TV, the men go in for all kinds of cracks about the buxom star and make slightly remarks about their wives — sometimes in the hearing of children.

What I can't understand is this: If these men are so crazy about women that they have to talk about them all the time, how come they don't pay any attention to us?

Kenneth M. — Jane's complaints are just typically Jane. She has never been able to see the boys cutting up, having a little innocent fun without pursing up her mouth and walking off like a regular prude. She's been that way ever since I've known her — which goes back to teen-age.

What I'd like to know is what does she expect us to do, anyway, while she and the girls swap recipes, talk about baby foods, hairdos and the lengths of skirts. It seems to me they sound a heck of a lot worse with their tittering over something one of the kids said. Half the time when I ask Jane to explain what she finds so funny or so interesting is something, she'll answer, "Oh a man can't understand anyway."

The way I see it, almost every subject is taboo. If we talk politics, we get into a fight and the girls don't like that either. Freedom of speech — haw, haw!

* * *

The Council: Has anyone here read any good books lately?

It sounds as though this little circle of friends is bored stiff. Both men and women need the stimulation of a few intellectual interests. This won't come to them. They'll have to go out and find them.

A civic organization or a church or social group in the neighborhood may be offering courses or a series of lectures. Someone ought to investigate to see what is available.

If there is nothing at hand, this group ought to take the initiative in starting something up. They may find they can even invite lecturers for small gatherings. Perhaps they can learn to discuss politics without "getting into a fight."

Usually the men leave it to the women to set the tone of social gatherings. If the women offer nothing the men can enjoy, they will naturally seek their own amusements. If they descend to an adolescent level, it simply reflects the poverty of their adult mental lives.

Jane should realize that "pursing up her mouth and walking off like a regular prude" may give her a feeling of self-righteousness, but does nothing to help the situation. She must contribute more than criticism to make things better.

When birth-announcements are sent out, should they be sent to all friends, or only those not likely to hear of the event?

—Lady-in-Waiting"

When birth-announcements are sent, they usually are sent to all relatives and friends. They inform of the baby's name and date-of-birth, and these can be important facts for relatives and friends to register and to cherish.

CHARMING IDEA FOR FIANCEE TO GIVE FIANCE

ENGAGEMENT GIFT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Have you ever heard of an engaged girl's giving her fiance an engagement gift when he gives her the engagement ring? A close friend of mine says she would very much like to give her fiance an "engagement gift", but doesn't know whether this would be the right thing to do. — S. H.

Indeed I have heard many times of an engaged girl's giving her fiance an engagement gift when he gives her the engagement ring. Although this isn't really customary, it's entirely proper, and I think it's a charming idea. As the ring he gives her symbolizes the engagement, she can choose an important, lasting kind of gift that will also symbolize the engagement. Perhaps she will choose something she can have marked with their initials and the date of the engagement.

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP . . . SHOW INTEREST IN PEOPLE

If you show a genuine interest in other people, find out what their interests are, and what they like to talk about, you'll find that people will like you. And that's a good reward!

If you are the think you are self-conscious, you'll discover that if you get very, very busy showing real interest in other people, you won't, fortunately, have much time to turn your interest into yourself. Then, before you know it, your self-consciousness will be converted into consciousness-of-other-people. Good going! Socially constructive.

M. G. Joins The Economy Drive

As told to Mary Moore

The P.S. at the end of M.G.'s letter says: "Please excuse shaky writing. Arthritis". She has listed her actual food purchases with exact current city prices for one week at $4.08 and gives a dozen or more little clever hints on cutting corners on the budget and the work. Thanks M.G.

Basic Grocery list at present prices and careful study (Courtesy M. G.):

3 loaves whole wheat bread (day old) at 19c 57c
½ lb. margarine at 40c 20c
½ dozen eggs at 70c 35c
2 pints fresh milk at 16c 32c
1 tin powdered milk 30c
1 lb. rolled oats 15c
(Note Mary Emerson rolled oats may be bought at 3 lbs. for 39c)
1 lb. brown or white sugar alternately 10c
1 package tea 30c
dry groceries (seasonings etc. add pep to meals such as salt, pepper, onion salt, celery salt, cinnamon, vinegar, mustard, ... 1 lb. flour, 1 lb. rice, small tin, cocoa, package cornstarch, or jello or pudding — make a game of getting one of these things every week to add to shelf 15c
Meat, brisket 35c, chopped, 30c bologna, 10c, franks, 15c. . . . 90c tin of spaghetti or beans (may be used instead of meat) 08c
Potatoes 10c
Fruit 10c
(Buy 3 or 4 oranges or grapefruit; 15c worth fresh plums or apples in season for bowl of stewed fruit for supper. One cup raisins soaked and stewed also good; may be used over boiled rice.)
Vegetables — small cabbage, bunch carrots, beets, small tin peas or fresh tomatoes in season 30c
Soap 08c
. . . . . $4.08

"Be sure not to sit alone in strange city. Books may be had at libraries. Visit free movies and lectures. Don't be afraid to invite a pal to cup of tea."

TUESDAY

(Simple After Yesterday's Feast)

Cheese Souffle; Baked Potatoes; Spinach; Fall Fruit Dessert Salads; Crackers and Cheese; Coffee.

"Dear Mary Moore: I am very interested in Mrs. C. B and the four Willow budget — I love your column and family and am not trying to steal your thunder but have hunch this lady is perhaps living in one room . . . cooking on one burner . . . feel I might help from past wartime experience.

"First; don't live on tea and toast or out of tins. From following grocery list may be cooked one-burner meals such as: Hot rolled oats with brown sugar and cream; pea soup (made with flour, margarine and ½ cup peas); sliced beet and hash brown potatoes and cole slaw; chopped beef (simmered with 1 cup water, seasoned with celery and onion salt, thickened for gravy), ½ jello made up; pancakes with syrup made from brown sugar, water, piece of margarine; and rice cooked with powdered milk and served with custard sauce made with 1 egg, 1 cup powdered milk made up and sweetened to taste and flavoured with scrape of orange rind; thirty-five cent piece of brisket simmered till tender and seasoned. Add a potato and 2 carrots while cooking. For second meal cool the liquid, save fat to warm potatoes, put roast of meat in bowl with weight and it will be nice sliced cold. Meat liquid broth and use with toasted crust sticks for supper.

Women's Activities

BETHEL-ZION WMS

BETHEL-ZION — The October meeting of Bethel-Zion W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Percy Ray with a fair attendance.

The president, Mrs. Clarence Ketcheson, presided and opened the meeting.

Mrs. B. Foster was pianist for the afternoon.

Several items of business were discussed. Mrs. Percy Ray, Mrs. Roy Sills, Mrs. Clarence Ketcheson and Mrs. B. Foster were appointed to collect for the Flower Fund. Plans were also made for the turkey supper on October 23. It was decided to have a cleaning bee at the hall on October 18, the president urged all the ladies to attend this.

Mrs. Ralph Sills was in charge of the devotional. The Scripture was read, Mrs. Gerald Tummon, Mrs. Cecil Ketcheson and Mrs. Floyd Ray also assisted with the program.

Mrs. Sills closed the meeting with a discussion.

A social half hour followed and a bake sale was conducted, the proceeds of which were most gratifying.

TRENTON (Special) — Trenton viewers watched proudly on Saturday afternoon as Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip alighted from the plane which has brought them to Canada, to be greeted by the Governor General, Mr. Vincent Massey; by the Prime Minister, Mr. John Diefenbaker, and Mrs. Diefenbaker, and by the Trenton-trained RCAF guard of honor. The men comprising the honor guard were trained at RCAF Training Command Headquarters, Trenton, by F/L J. Radcliffe, and commanded by F/L V. Burdette. Other Trenton officers and men will be performing various duties in the capital city in connection with Her Majesty's stay in Canada, including F/L T. Davies, commanding the household guard, and F/L D. T. Riveire will head the RCAF section of the tri-services guard in Ottawa.

Fire Destroys Barn, Building Near Wellington

WELLINGTON (Special) — Fire completely destroyed the large barn and two poultry houses on the farm of Willet Hubbs, on "The Gore," three miles north of this village on Monday afternoon.

Three calves and an undetermined number of poultry and large quantities of hay and grain were also destroyed. The cause of the fire was not immediately ascertained.

Volunteer fire departments from Wellington and Bloomfield raced to the scene of the blaze but the fire had enveloped the building on time of arrival. A nearby shed and the house were saved.

The barn is a comparatively new building having been constructed four years ago.

Firemen were hampered by lack of water. One well was dry and another pumped dry before the building was reduced to smouldering ashes. Water was brought to the scene in trucks as fire-fighters battled to save the adjoining buildings.

Polish Added Six Knots to Plane's Speed

NEW YORK (AP) — The captain of the DC-7C that brought Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip from Britain to Canada says a special polish on the plane's metal skin added to its speed.

Capt. Gordon Store said Saturday night the polishing job "gave us four to six extra knots" on the journey. Store and his crew flew the plane here from Ottawa, where the Queen and Philip began their North American visit.

The plane will be used here to train British Overseas Airline Corporation personnel until Oct. 17, when it will be prepared to take the royal couple home again.

Ottawa Spends Memorable Weekend Playing Host To Royal Couple

On arrival at Upland airport, Ottawa, Queen Elizabeth accompanied by Flight Lieutenant V. Burdette inspects RCAF guard of honor. FIL-LI. Burdette is acknowledged as being one of the Air Force's most expert pilots. He has also been guard commander for visits to Canada by President Eisenhower and General Montgomery. All pictures of the Queen taken in Ottawa are copyrighted by Star Newspaper Service.

The Royal Couple is shown after arriving at Confederation Square where the Queen laid a wreath of maple and oak leaves on the National War Memorial on Sunday morning.

Proud and Happy to Be Queen of Canada Elizabeth II Hopes to Make More Visits

OTTAWA (CP)—Queen Elizabeth says she feels proud and happy to be Queen of Canada and hopes to make more visits to this country and bring her children here to see it.

"In 1959 I am hoping to be present when the St. Lawrence seaway is opened and then I hope to take that chance to travel more widely across the country," she said in a national radio and television broadcast Sunday night.

At another point, speaking to Canadian children, she added: "This is a wonderful and exhilarating country worthy of your very best service when you grow up. We hope that one day we shall be able to bring our children here to see it."

Producer Michael Hind-Smith of the CBC, said the Queen was happy and pleased with the results of her first live TV broadcast. "Tension is the thing to beat and I think she rose above it and relaxed," he said.

The broadcast recalled the international controversy touched off by Lord Altrincham's criticism earlier this year. A cross-section of the several hundred Canadian, American and United Kingdom reporters disagreed with him after viewing the Queen's performance.

Altrincham described the Queen's style of speaking as a "pain in the neck," but a group of Canadian reporters watching the screen said her TV debut appeared a complete success. She spoke slowly, relaxed and composed, in English and in French. A French-speaking Canadian reporter said her French was flawless.

About 100 reporters monitoring the TV broadcast burst out with spontaneous applause when the young Queen finished her speech.

The 31-year-old sovereign, recalling the "vivid memories" of her last Canadian tour as a princess in 1951, spoke from the study of Government House, residence of Governor-General Massey. The live telecast was also carried in the U.S. by the ABC network.

Former External Affairs Minister, L.B. Pearson, First Canadian to Win Peace Prize

OSLO, Norway (CP)—Lester B. Pearson of Canada has joined the world giants who have been honored with the Nobel Peace Prize.

Award of the 1957 prize to the former Canadian external affairs minister was announced Monday by the Nobel Committee of the Norwegian Parliament after a two-year drought in which the committee found no worthy candidates.

Pearson is the first Canadian to win the peace prize.

The committee does not give any details as to why a certain person or organization has received the prize but the congratulations which began pouring in pointed to Pearson as the diplomatic dynamo behind the UN committee which tried vainly to win a cease-fire in Korea in 1950. Later he was president of the UN General Assembly when an agreement was reached for the Korean armistice.

He was a leader in the formation of the Atlantic alliance.

All these activities served to make him the Canadian best known to the rest of the world.

The Oslo announcement was brief. It said:

"The Norwegian Storting parliamentary Nobel Committee has awarded the 1957 Nobel Peace Prize to Lester Pearson, former foreign minister of Canada. . . .

"Further, the committee has decided not to award the 1956 prize. The prize amount will be disposed of this way: One-third back to the main fund and two-thirds goes to the special fund of the Nobel committee."

In these few words Pearson joined the ranks of Nobel Peace Prize winners who in the last 10 years, have included Lord Boyd-Orr of Britain, Dr. Albert Schweitzer, Dr. Ralph Bunche of the United Nations, and Gen. George C. Marshall of the United States.

The last Peace Prize was awarded in 1954, when it went to the office of the UN commissioner for refugees. Two Canadians previously have received Nobel Prizes, but in the field of medicine. Mr. Frederick Banting of insulin fame and Dr. J. J. R. Macleod, won it jointly in 1923.

Trygve Lie of Norway, who became the UN's first secretary-general after the Soviet Union blocked the West's move to name Pearson to the UN post, commented:

"Before and after the Second World War Mr. Pearson has devoted all his working capacity to international tasks. For his work in the United Nations, Mr. Pearson deserves preference to any other candidates."

Queen and Prince Surprised by Size Of Crowds Gathered to Welcome Them

OTTAWA (CP)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip commented frequently about the size of Ottawa's welcoming crowds, their driver says.

Sergeant Robert P. Monteith, 26, of Nashwaak, N.B., drove the royal couple Saturday from the airport to Government House.

"If I have any outstanding recollection of Saturday's drive it's of the great enthusiasm displayed by the Queen and Prince Philip at the size of the welcoming crowds and at the warmth of their welcome," he said. "Both continually commented on the large number of people who lined the route. . ."

Prince Philip has a sharp eye for a necktie in regimental colors. He spotted one on an unidentified veteran at the war memorial in Confederation Square Sunday and said: "I see you belonged to the 48th?"

"I'm afraid not, sir," replied the veteran.

"Then why are you wearing the 48th tie?" asked the prince.

"I got it as a gift," he was told.

At a press reception Saturday night, the prince noticed another tie—this time with the colors of the Royal Canadian Navy.

"True or false?" he asked the wearer.

"True, I was in the navy," was the reply.

"Good," said the prince, himself a naval veteran.

A half - dozen press photographers stationed on a stairway Queen Elizabeth ascended to enter Christ Church Cathedral were removed at the request of a Scotland Yard detective.

The incident took place shortly before the Queen arrived Sunday at the church with Prince Philip for morning services. The British detective objected to the photographers on the stairway and they were ordered to move by an RCMP constable.

With Col. A. J. Brooks, Minister of Veterans' Affairs, the Queen meets Gen. H. Crerar and Rear Admiral Frank Loughton before she laid the wreath on the National War Memorial. Prince Philip is at the right. Air Marshal Leckie was also presented but is not shown in the picture.

The Queen in happy mood is shown after her first live television broadcast to the nation on Sunday night. She spoke from Government House.

Food Is Typically Canadian As Queen Entertains Monday

OTTAWA (CP)—The food was typically Canadian at Monday night's state dinner, when Queen Elizabeth entertained at Government House for 114 guests, representing government, church and bench.

The food included duckling from Quebec and lobster from New Brunswick.

The huge horseshoe - shaped table was decorated with bowls of yellow and white chrysanthemums, one of Canada's most beautiful autumn flowers.

But the wines were not Canadian. Imported white and red wines, champagne and port were served in that order followed by liquers.

Government House declined to give the names of the wines or their vintage. However, Canadian wines have been served and still are to be served during the Queen's residence at Government House.

The Ontario grape growers' marketing board complained earlier this month that it had heard that only imported wines were to be served to the Queen. However, the Governor-General informed the board that the Queen and Prince Philip would be served Canadian wines during their Ottawa visit.

The meal was prepared by Jean Michel Zonda, 43, head chef at Government House.

The dinner opened with "le consomme Flavigny"—a chicken consomme flavored with curry and enhanced with mushrooms.

The next course was lobster with creamed rice sauce — "le homard a la creme le riz pilaw."

The duckling from Brome Lake, Que., was prepared with oranges and served with small fried potato waffles—"le canneton du Lac de Brome a l'orange les pommes Gaufrette."

The main vegetable was artichokes with asparagus tips and hollandaise sauce — "les fonds d'artichauts princesse." Dessert — "la timbale pompadour les petits fours secs"—was ice cream served in drumlike shapes with fancy cookies served in gaily decorated dishes.

6th SIDNEY

Facts Regarding Japan Heard at WMS, W.A. Meet

6th SIDNEY — Scott's W.A. held its October meeting and pot-luck dinner in the church hall on Wednesday the 11th. A good crowd was in attendance.

In the afternoon, the joint meeting was held. The W. A. Rally at Centenary was discussed and it is expected a carload of ladies will attend. The Sidney Mrs. Dafoes will be co-hostesses for the November dinner.

Mrs. M. Sine opened the W.M.S. meeting with a call to worship and two verses of "O Jesus, I have promised" and prayer by Mrs. McMullin.

The roll call showed ten members and one visitor present. The thank-offering was most encouraging.

Several articles have been brought for the supply bale which will be packed and sent in the end of October.

Mrs. C. Frost read a temperance selection showing that milk and coffee are being served in many places in place of liquors.

Mrs. McMullin gave a working knowledge of Japan to help in the study of that country for the use of a map and some of her personal knowledge while a missionary in Korea.

Mrs. G. Pollard and Mrs. M. Sine by discussion and comparison of the two countries, Canada and Japan, gave the group some facts which made much food for thought.

Some of these facts are:

The large population (90 million) in an area about the size of Newfoundland with the ensuing crowded areas, scarcity of food, poor housing and low standard of living.

The Japs are clever people and the majority are educated—can read and write and are well informed on current affairs.

The Japs are keen observers of human nature and perhaps feel that Westerners lack culture and can offer them little.

Under all the gaiety and ceremony there are deep undercurrents of unrest and insecurity.

Though the Japanese have increased industry and production they are still far short of what is required. In order to expand their economy they must find markets for their exports.

The National Christian Council of Japan has asked the World Council of churches to find possible areas for Japanese immigration.

The Japanese people are basically a peace loving people but by the terms of the Security Treaty in 1951 much against her will she allowed military bases to be built on her shores and agreed to rearm.

The United Church of Christ in Japan has asked co-operation of all Christians to join in the protest against nuclear tests in the waters surrounding Japan.

A great challenge comes to all Christians as they study and learn more of their neighbors in the east.

Mrs. R. Dafoe led the devotional part of the meeting. She read Philippians 1:27 to 30 and 2:1-4 on Paul's appeal to the Christians in Philippi to be united, have sympathy for one another and even though they differ in the non-essentials people can still be united in the larger things.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Sine Cameron and Betty were recent Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Avery Martyn.

Mrs. Alton Sine spent Friday with Mrs. Cecil Sine, Wallbridge.

Mrs. H. Dafoe and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Dafoe called on Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gray, on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Dafoe and Stephen spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. F. Dudley.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Copeland spent the weekend in Toronto with Mr. and Mrs. Ted Copeland.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Dafoe and Stephen were Wednesday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. Dafoe, Front Rd.

Shy Five Men

McFarlands Whip Cornwall In Second Exhibition Game; Goyer, Menard Pace Attack

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

CORNWALL — The Belleville McFarland's flashed another warning of potential power here Saturday night, defeating the "New Look" Cornwall Cheviks 5-4 for their second victory in as many exhibitional starts.

Playing minus five of their regulars, the Macs proved their 4-1 inaugural victory over the Kitchener Dutchmen was no flash in the pan. Absent were playing coach Ike Hildebrand, Moe Benoit, Gordie Bell, Rene St. Hilaire and Johnny Muretich.

What the Macs lacked in regular manpower they made up in drive and spirit especially the "homebrew" type. Keith MacDonald took over Hildebrand's spot on right wing with Wiener Brown and Gerry Goyer and the trio came through handsomely. Goyer scored three goals and an assist Brown one goal and three assists and MacDonald four assists.

The Payette-Menard-Kowalchuk line accounted for three goals with Minnie chalking up a pair and Kowalchuk the other. Jean-Paul was credited with three assists and Kowalchuk two. Tony Poeta scored the eighth goal.

In fairness to the Cheviks they have only been on skates for a little more than a week but they held the Macs to a four-all tie at the end of the second period. The Macs led 3-2 at the end of the first. Then condition told and the Macs swept in four unanswered tallies in the final chapter to clinch the win.

Coach Joe Lepine trotted out fifteen players including a new goalkeeper Ray Frederick. Other newcomers were Frank Dorrington of the Marlitmes who scored two of the Cheviks goals, Reg Grigg who accounted for another Cornwall tally, Doug McPhee, Bob Leger and Guildor Levesque. Gerry Devaney was around in a sub-goals capacity. Guy Henry with an assist from veteran Bob Bingley scored the fourth Cornwall goal.

KEITH MacDONALD

The game was not exactly a pink-tea party despite its exhibition initial status. The referees handed out some fifteen penalties, ten of them going to the Macs. Minnie Menard argued too long over an official decision and drew a ten-minute misconduct.

Gordie Bell made the trip but owing to a sore back did not play. He ran the team from the bench while the reliable "Turk" Barclay was doing a Jacques Plante in the McFarland nets. "Turk" stopped 26 shots as well as pin-pointed peanuts from the more rabid fans.

Lionel Boltey and Floyd Crawford teamed up on the Macs defence while Bill Montgomery and Jerry Prizzelle as a relief corps. Up front Bell was forced to shuffle his lines due to manpower shortage but the whole proved effective a sleight goals against a highly-touted goalkeeper indicates.

Keith MacDonald came up with a fine exhibition on the right wing. He laid down perfect passes that resulted in paydirt three times while; Gerry Goyer was plain Mr. Heinz in front of the Cheviks nets. "Weiner" was laying them down nicely and gave Frederick something to think about with his bullet shots. The whole team, and it was, showed power and drive and should be ready for its next exhibition game on Friday with the St. Catharines junior "A" Teepees.

The Teams:

Cornwall — goal, Frederick; defence, Bingley, Limoges, Lepine, Levesque; forwards, Henri, Dorrington, Muir, M. Savard, McPhee, R. Savard, St. Jean, Leger, Burke, Grigg, C. Marshall, Devanney.

Belleville — goal, Barclay; defence, Crawford, Botley, Montgomery, Prizzelle; forwards, Payette, Menard, Kowalchuk, Goyer, Brown, MacDonald, Poeta, Marineau.

Yankees Will Be

Strong As Ever, Says Casey, Will Insure His Big Three

NEW YORK (AP)—Vowing his team will come back "stronger than ever" next season, Manager Casey Stengel has taken out an insurance policy on his New York Yankees — particularly on his one-time "Big three" — Yogi Berra, Mickey Mantle and Bill Skowron.

Apparently relaxed over the disappointment of his world series setback by Milwaukee Braves, Stengel told a Sunday press conference: "The injuries to Mantle and Skowron were bad blows and I wouldn't exactly say that Berra had a good year. Our job now is to get protection at their positions. We think we have the youngsters to do it."

In this regard, Stengel said that catcher John Blanchard, first basemen Marv Throneberry and John Jaciuk and outfielders Norm Siebern, Nick Sadeck and Deron Johnson would be given every opportunity to make the club next year.

FAT BAT RECORDS

Blanchard hit .310 for Denver, Throneberry led the American Association in home runs with 40, Siebern topped the AA batting while Jaciuk was second in batting in the International League with .320 and Johnson batted .305 with Binghamton of the Eastern League.

"I'm very much interested in Blanchard," said Stengel. "Of course, we've got Elston Howard who can do a good job but may be times we'll need another lefty hitter behind the plate.

"I think that Skowron will be over his back trouble before next season. But I want to make sure. Then I saw Throneberry last in spring training he had a sore arm. But he hits the long ball and you can always use men like that."

What about Mantle?

"We'll definitely need someone behind him in centre field," Stengel answered. "Maybe it'll be Tony Kubek again."

Close Race Seen in ORFU

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The senior Ontario Rugby Football Union race is still a tossup. Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, who captured the title the last three seasons, trail first-place London Lords by three points and Sarnia Golden Bears by one.

One thing in favor of the Dutchies is that they have played two less games than the Lords and one less than the Bears.

London took over first place Saturday night by coming from behind to beat Sarnia 21-14 for their sixth win against two losses and a tie. Kitchener - Waterloo creeps within a point of Sarnia by whipping Toronto Balmy Beach 41-8 and handing the winless, all-but-dead Toronto club its 10th straight defeat.

It was a grand holiday all round. A lovely queen in all her regal beauty opened Parliament in a setting of autumnal beauty. The weather was seasonable with a brilliant sunshine in cloudless skies predominating. There were no serious accidents in the city, and sports fans of the city and district had the best Thanksgiving in many a moon. The McFarlands, minus five of their regulars, defeated the Cornwall Chevies to win their second straight exhibition tilt and perhaps best of all Lee Culhane's Booths-TV softball peewees won their first all-Ontario championship after seven years of gallant trying. And as an afterthought the Kitchener Dutchmen, after leaving three of their regulars in Belleville sick, defeated the Kingston CKLC's 9-6 in an exhibition tussle Saturday night.

While the Macs' Booster Club members and other hockey fans thrilled to the news the Macs had won over Cornwall, the proudest hearts in the city beat under peewee shirts and those which covered the throat-out chests of those adults who coached, managed, sponsored and helped them in various other ways.

For seven years Lee Culhane has watched his Booths TV charges battle gamely through league and playdown schedules. Six times they won the city titles, the other going to the Glen Roys in 1952. Five times they have won the Eastern Ontario zone title, and four times they have reached the Ontario finals, the last in 1955 when they were beaten by Toronto North Yorks for the crown. Last year they bowed to Simcoe in the championship series.

This year it was different. On Saturday, the Booths tossed away their softball "bridesmaid" role and stood at the altar of championship. They emerged victorious by a 16-3 score over their 1956 conquerors from Simcoe and proudly brought home their first all-Ontario title.

While special accolades must go to Jimmy Ross for his fine pitching and hitting; Ricky Denard for his spectacular titular series batting and Bobby Ehler for his all-around play, the entire Booth squad played championship softball throughout. Beaten at times in playdown rounds they always rallied to come back and win the third and deciding game. They are an outstanding credit to their coach, Lee Culhane, their sponsor, Mr. Howard Booth; the Belleville Fire Department which gave them "softball birth" and to the city as a whole. They are the first squad to bring a minor all-Ontario softball championship to the city.

At Cobourg where they won their hard-earned laurels, the young champions were congratulated by OASA president John Brady of Oshawa; first vice-prexy W. Perkins of Simcoe, and second vice-president Don Lee of Belleville. They will receive their championship crests at a function to be held in their honor in the near future.

The Booths have proved themselves to be a splendid group of young sportsmen. They behaved themselves both on and off the field and were worthy ambassadors of this city while questing for honors in other communities. It is to be hoped the city fathers see their way clear to give these fine youngsters some recognition of their outstanding feat.

It is unfortunate perhaps that the majority of this team of young champions will be forced to pass out of the softball picture next year. Coach Culhane told this department that all but two will be over the peewee age limit next season. And there are no bantam outlets for their diamond endeavors in the city unless such a league is formed next season.

BACK TO THE MACS

Keith MacDonald, the "hard rock from down under," Prince Edward County, and Gerry Goyer gave the Macs 8-4 victory over Cornwall Sunday afternoon a strictly homebrew touch. MacDonald fitted into the shoe manufacturer's role of Cinderella when the tired feet fitted into old slippers and came up with an outstanding fourassist performance. He laid some perfect passes on Goyer's stick and Gerry made no mistake three times.

The rest of the boys, including Wiener Brown, Paul Payette, Minnie Menard, who rapped home goals, adapted themselves to the circumstances. The "Turk," in goal, held the bridge solely while sick Gordie Bell directed the troops from the bench command post. The whole team played hard-driving, both-way hockey and their superior condition told in the third period when they heaved home four goals without an answer.

However, it is not fair to judge the Chevies on Saturday's performance. They had been on skates only a short time and Coach Joe Leplante has yet to whip them into the proper condition and pick out the wheat from the tare, let alone his offensive and defensive combination. The Chevies will be heard from, don't worry.

Rocket, Moore Score 3 Each In Sunday 6-0 Wings-Clip; Detroit Scuttles Leafs 5-3

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens put on the sharpest display of the weekend's National Hockey League action but Boston Bruins got the most out of it.

Three - goal performances by Maurice Richard and Dickie Moore sparked the Habitants to a 6-0 win against Detroit Red Wings Sunday after a 2-2 tie against New York Rangers Saturday.

Meanwhile the Bruins, in their first two regular season outings, clipped Chicago Black Hawks and New York by identical 3-1 counts. Boston was the only team to gain four points in the weekend action. Montreal garnered three while Detroit counted two from a 3-2 win against Toronto Maple Leafs Saturday.

Richard's hat-trick, the 32nd of his 15-year career, brought his all-time regular season total to 497. The usually hostile Detroit crowd gave him a standing ovation when he got his third goal.

The win left Canadiens atop the NHL standings with five points, Boston is second with two wins and New York third with one of everything. Detroit and Chicago have one win in three starts and Toronto is winless in two games.

Montreal was held by a spirited New York team which twice came from behind. Two defensemen, Bill Gadsby and Harry Howell, counted for Rangers after Don Marshall and Claude Provost scored for Habs.

Bruins, Stanley Cup finalists last season with Canadiens, were surprisingly effective in their two starts.

Fleming Mackell and Don McKenney each scored a goal in game. Vic Stasiuk added the third against Chicago Saturday and Doug Mohns was the third Bruin marksman against New York Sunday.

Ted Lindsay scored Hawks' goal and Danny Lewicki connected for Rangers.

Earl Reibel led Detroit Saturday with two goals. Gordie Howe, Bill Dineen and rookie Tom McCarthy scored the others. Sid Smith collected two for Leafs and Bill Harris one.

Whip Argos Twice

Hamilton Has Big Four Edge After Holiday Grid Antics

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The tightest and most hectic Big Four football race in years is coming down to the finishing wire. Still far from settled is that key factor which will end up with that important bye into the league final.

Each club has four games left to play in the regular schedule. They will decide the order in which Hamilton Tiger-Cats, Ottawa Rough Riders and Montreal Alouettes finish. The team on top automatically moves into the two-game, total-point semi-final series and that third-place clubs battle in a sudden-death playoff.

HAMILTON HAS EDGE

Hamilton has the edge now after the fireworks of the four game Thanksgiving weekend.

The Tiger-Cats moved into undisputed possession of first place by crushing Ottawa in a game at Toronto Argonauts—38-14 at home Saturday and 29-16 in Toronto Monday—to club Ottawa and Montreal split. The Rough Riders won 27-17 at Ottawa Saturday and the Alouettes got even with a 32-24 decision in Montreal on the holiday.

Hamilton's double win broke the tie-record deadlock for first place and left them on top with seven wins and three loser for 14 points, two more than Montreal and Ottawa who have 6-4 won-lost records. The Tiger-Cats settled one thing at least in sending Argos down to their ninth setback in 11 games before a crowd of 18,604. They wiped out Toronto's last mathematical chance of making the playoffs.

THIRD STRAIGHT

Hamilton's victory Monday was their third straight and the sixth in their last eight games.

The Cats had the edge all the way of a fumble and an interception to score two of their three touchdowns in Monday's game and on Saturday, before a crowd of 16,000 they turned three interceptions and one fumble into four of their five touchdowns.

Cookie Gilchrist crashed over from the three-yard line for their first touchdown Monday after Bill Rhodes of Argos fumbled at his own 24. Bibbles Bawel got the second when he raced 13 yards after intercepting a pass by quarterback Gerry Doucette. Gerry McDougall scored the third touchdown on a 11-yard plunge. Steve Patsonis connected all three and Cam Fraser booted a single point.

Doucette, Argos' homebrew quarterback, directed a powerful Toronto ground attack in going all the way except for a few plays in the second quarter. Gilchrist scored twice for Argos touchdowns on ground plays of 11 and four yards and the other points came on a 22-yard field goal and a single by Vic Kristopaitis.

Gilchrist, McDougall and Gilchrist scored two touchdowns each and Gilchrist booted a point also counted a single for a 15-point total. Jim Hughes got the Ticats' other touchdown. Steve Onschuk converted three, kicked an 18-yard field goal and a single.

Corky Tharp plunged for one Argo touchdown and Gary Wilkins took a short pass from Doucette for another. Kristopaitis converted one and Reg Mcserve kicked a single.

The great Hal Patterson again was a ball of fire as he and Bill Bewley brought Montreal from behind in the fourth quarter to defeat Ottawa Monday. Rough Riders were leading 24-10 when Patterson ran for two touchdowns to finish with a total field goal as the sellout Montreal crowd of 22,864 went wild.

Quarter Art Pavel went 60 yards after picking up an Ottawa fumble for the first touchdown and Joel Wells crashed through from the one-yard line for another. Lee Bewley converted three of the four touchdowns and kicked a single in addition to his field goal. Avatus Stone booted a single for Montreal's other point.

The Rough Riders made their biggest scoring spree in the third quarter when Bobby Judd and Bill Sowalski intercepted passes for touchdowns inside of 60 and 20 yards and Gary Schrieber booted a 15-yard field goal. Ted Smale also got a touchdown for the Riders after booting the ball over the goalline when Larry Hayes blocked a Montreal kick. Schreiber converted all three touchdowns in addition to his field goal.

Ottawa scored four touchdowns but of them came after Montreal fumbles when they beat the Alouettes' backup kicker in hometown crowd of 18,356. Tom Dimitroff, Schreider and Tommy Lewis got them on the ground plays and Dimitroff tossed a pass to Bobby Simpson for another. Schreider converted all the touchdowns.

Wells and Etcheverry crashed over for Montreal's two touchdowns and Etcheverry converted and kicked a 24-yard field goal. Stone scored a single for the Alouettes' other point.

Providence Runs String to Four; Bisons Win Two

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Providence Reds ran their unbeaten string to four over the weekend to remain atop the American Hockey League.

The first-place Reds, who started the weekend with six players sidelined, edged Hershey Bears 3-1 Saturday and took the winless Springfield Indians 4-1 Sunday.

In other weekend AHL action Buffalo Bisons won their first two games of the season, edging Springfield 7-3 and Cleveland Barons 5-4. Rochester Americans lost both their games—to Cleveland 7-1 and to Hershey 4-2.

SWEENEY SCORES

Tiger Rochester goalie Bob Perreault, playing in the Hershey net this season, stopped 39 shots for Americans in Rochester Sunday. Dunc Fisher scored twice for Hershey while Ray Cline, Ken Kullman and Len Haley, Rochester scorers were Ron Atwell and Don Hurst.

Rochester had a poor time Saturday, as Cleveland downed Jimmy Moore and Steve Kraftcheck each scored twice for Cleveland. Other Barons scorers were Bevis Wallace, Don Hogan and Bill Shurtz. Rochester's goal was by John Price.

TWO FOR HERGESHEIMER

Wally Hergesheimer's pair of goals led Buffalo to a win over Springfield Saturday. Single Bison goals were scored by Lou Fontinato, Larry Wilson, Ernie Bettio, Les Lilley and Dick Gamble. Springfield's cr e r s were Norm Johnson, Ken Schinkel and Floyd Smith.

The perfect goal by Ken Wharram gave Buffalo a 2-1 win over Cleveland Sunday. Jackson and Hergesheimer added goals while Johnny McLellan scored Cleveland's single.

Phiery Phil Elated Over Blues' Chances

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Rangers move into Madison Square Garden Wednesday night for their first National Hockey League home ice opener with coach Phil Watson slated overflowing optimism that the champion ship race.

The Rangers, who reached the playoffs in both of Watson's first two seasons at the helm, have been hooting to get on the road and come home with a .500 record.

"That's all I hoped for," Watson said as he looked ahead to Wednesday's game against the Boston Bruins. "If we can play .500 hockey on the road and at home, we'll be a cinch for the playoffs."

In the three road games Rangers beat Detroit 3-2, tied Montreal 2-2 and lost to Boston 3-1. Watson thought his team played very well against the Red Wings and Canadiens. Fatigue set in at the Forum Saturday night where Montreal is extremely hard to beat.

The setback at the hands of the Bruins Sunday night was a letdown, but Watson still wasn't too disappointed over the spotty showing. "I'm sure we play the Canadiens we work a little harder and I'm not easy to keep from letting down the next night."

STOCKPORT SHUT OUT

LONDON (Reuters) — Gateshead beat Stockport 3-0 in the only English League soccer game played Monday night. This Third Division Northern contest was postponed from Sept. 30.

Greenburg Has No Intention Of Resigning as Tribe G. M.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Hank Greenberg has no intention of stepping down as Cleveland Indians' general manager when he leaves after club directors discuss renewal of his contract Wednesday.

He made that plain Monday night commenting on a story in the Cleveland Press that several directors oppose retaining him in the top front office job he has held since 1950.

None of the directors has asked him to step down to supervise of farm club operations, Hank said, denying a report that such an approach was made in the interest of avoiding an open split on the board.

The one-time home-run king indicated he will welcome the showdown on his resignation.

"Why should the general manager with the third-best record in baseball the last eight years resign?" Greenberg asked.

The season just ended was the first since Greenberg became general manager that the ball club did not make money and the first since 1946 that it finished below second. The Indians won a pennant in 1954, but flopped badly in the world series against New York Giants.

Each year since then there has been a drop in the home attendance, and some directors apparently feel this calls for a front office shake-up which would not be confined to a scrutiny of Greenberg's job.

This year's sixth-placers drew 722,256 fans against 865,467 at home in 1956 and 1,221,780 in 1955. Only Washington and the Chicago A's in the major leagues had lower 1957 home gates.

One important factor was that Herb Score, the club's greatest

Haidy Suspended By Bulldogs

WINDSOR (CP)—George Gee, general manager of Windsor Bulldogs, said Saturday Gord Haidy has been suspended by the OHA club until he reports to Sudbury Wolves.

Gee said: "Haidy is not going to play for the Bulldogs this season and that means that if he won't go to Sudbury, he won't play hockey this winter.

"His suspension has been certified through the Ontario Hockey Association."

Haidy was one of two Bulldog players re e h a n g e d for two wives. He refused to go to Sudbury.

Booths Peewees Defeat Simcoe To Win 1st All-Ontario Championship

Ten-Run Eruption in Fourth Decides Issue in 3rd Game; Denard Drives in Seven Runs

Booth's TV peewees won the Ontario Amateur Softball Association all-Ontario championship in Oshawa Saturday, defeating the Simcoe champions 14-3 in the third game of the best-of-three series.

It was the fourth time in seven years of existence that Lee Culhane's gallant little crew had reached the all-Ontario finals. Three times they had gone down to defeat, disappointed but not disgraced.

A ten-run explosion in the fourth inning of Saturday's game decided the issue and the championship. The eruption was featured by Ricky Denard's grand-slam homer and base-clearing double, five other Belleville hits and seven walks by the Simcoe hurler. Up to this point the score was tied 1-1.

Following the game manager and coach Culhane was presented with the championship crests by OASA president John Brady of Oshawa. Also present were Bill Perkins, Simcoe, OASA first vice president, and Don Lee, Belleville, second vice president.

The crests and trophy will be presented to individual champions at a function to be held in their honor later.

Johnny Ross, Booth's ace hurler again helped spark his club to victory. He was touched for nine hitties four of them coming in the fifth when Simcoe scored twice. Jimmy led his hard-hitting mates at the plate with a two-run homer, a triple and a single.

Ricky Denard added a three-run double in his base-clearing four-bagger. Pat Glancey was good for three singles, Allan Mott and Carl Boomhower had two each, with Bobby Eichler, G. Wardle and P. Mitchell rounding out the Booth's quota of 15 hits with singles.

Larry Stanley, Simcoe hurler, who walked ten and whiffed two and two singles and old Neidrauer and Cassell, McGrady; Graham and O'Heron got the other Simcoe hits. Both sides erred but once.

Both teams scored single runs in the first innings and went scoreless until the fourth when Boulled the roof down on their young foemen with ten runs. They scored another in the fifth and in the seventh, Simcoe scored a pair in the fifth and Ross bested them over the rest of the seven-innings route.

Rose set the fuse for the ten-run outburst with a towering triple. Mott and Mitchell walked and the bases were FOUR (full of Bellevilie). Ricky Denard smote his base-clearing homer and the Booths were four runs up. Boyle grounded out and Glancy singled followed by Wardle's double. Boomhour singled scoring Glancy and Wardle but went out at second. Then Stanley walked Eichler, Ross, Mitchell and Mott forcing in the seventh run. Ricky Denard cleaned the sacks with a double and that was it. Boyle walked and Glancy hit his second single of the innings but Wardle struck out to end the agony.

Ricky Denard with his homer and double drove in seven of the Booth's runs, all in the one innings.

Booths choked off a last-inning rally with a smart double play. With one out Stanley rapped out a single and McGrady walked. O'Heron let go a drive that Wardle raced and threw quickly to first to double McInally. It was all over.

The young winners were congratulated by their opponents and the OASA officials. They were met near Belleville by a truck of the Fire Department under Deputy Chief Murray O'Brien and had a victory parade down Front Street.

The Teams:

Booths — Boothe, Denard, Boyle, Glancy, Wardle, Boomhour, Eichler, Ross, Mitchell, Mott.

Simcoe — Neidrauer, Graham, Cassell, Stanley, McInally, O'Heron, Walsh, Kowalsky, McDonald.

SAYS TITLE BOUT SET

DETROIT (AP)—The manager of light heavyweight boxer Chuck Spieser says major details for a championship fight against titlist Archie Moore have been worked out and the fight will be held in Detroit early in December. Joe Spieser, who also is the brother of the No. 4 contender, said Sunday he made the arrangements in a meeting with Jack Kearns, Moore's co-manager.

Quinte Football Teams Defeat BCIVS Squads

By ALLAN GILLS

The Quinte Saints and Little Saints chalked up their third consecutive wins by sweeping a twin-bill with BCIVS in the Bay of Quinte district fixtures played Friday.

In the junior game, the Little Saints eked out a 7-0 victory over BCI. The lone Quinte touchdown came in the second quarter with Bob Follwell skirting the end for 15 yards. Denyes booted the convert.

The second half was a nip and tuck battle. BCI's defensive platoon shone as they held Quinte's Fitzpatrick and Locke to few sizeable gains. Green, Townsend, Fuller and Morris sparked Quinte's defense while BCI's quarter, Bob Alexander, stood out.

In the senior game the Saints whitewashed BCI 19-0. Following a first-quarter 6-0 lead, Quinte never looked behind as they scored two more majors.

Clark scored Quinte's first T.D. on a 40 yard pass and run play from McBride. Acquino, on a first yard plunge and Green, on a 10 yard pass play scored Quinte's resounding T.D.'s. Acquino booted the lone convert.

Quinte's defensive squad, supported by a few juniors, held BCI at bay for their second straight shutout. Only a total of seven points has been scored against them this season. McCurn, Chard, Green, Lee, Ladouceur and Cooper boosted the star-studded defense.

SEEK DEFENCE BERTHS

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Warriors of the Western Hockey League said Sunday three new defencemen will turn out with the team this week: Mickey Keating, 25, from Montreal Royals of the Quebec Hockey League; Frank Arnett, 25, of North Bay; and Ken Wiley, 20, of Fiin Flon Bombers.

Lions Whip Saskys, Bombers, Esks Trounce Stamps Twice

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

British Columbia Lions' dream of a Western Interprovincial Football Union Grand spot moved closer to reality following two weekend victories.

But Lions will have to win their three remaining scheduled games and third-place Calgary Stampeders must drop two of their three remaining contests if the dream is to come true.

Glen Crowe's rejuvenated Lions moved to within three points of Stampeders Monday by defeating last - place Saskatchewan Roughriders 30-10 after upsetting second - place Winnipeg Blue Bombers 22-18 Saturday.

The Grey Cup champion Edmonton Eskimos unintentionally kept Lions' playoff hopes alive by trouncing Stampeders 46-7 in Edmonton Saturday and 32-6 in Calgary Monday.

ONE GAME FROM BYE

The victories moved Eskimos six points ahead of Bombers and within one game of a first-place berth and Grey Cup finals.

Edmonton has 22 points after 11 wins and two losses, Winnipeg has 16 points, Calgary 12, British Columbia 9 and Saskatchewan, whose defeat Monday ended any playoff hopes, 6. Remaining has four more games left in the regular schedule, one more than the other clubs.

Monday Johnny Bright and Jackie Parker powered Eskimos to victory. Bright scored one touchdown and carried the ball 13 times for 69 yards to move within 57 yards of the individual WIFU rushing record of 1,440 yards set last year by teammate Normie Kwong.

SHARE SCORING

Kwong, Parker and Ken Hall counted the other Eskimo touchdowns while Joe Mobra added a field goal and four converts. Hall also kicked a single in the final seconds of play.

Calgary's only touchdown came early in the second quarter when Ron Clinkscale faked a pass and ran over the line.

Parker did all the signal calling for Edmonton. Canadian quarterback Don Getty was dressed, but he still is recovering from an attack of flu.

Parker, who had a temperature of 104 before he dressed Saturday, worked at quarterback most of the night and rambled for two touchdowns. Bright also scored a pair of majors.

Kwong and Hall each scored one and Mobra kicked five converts, a field goal and two singles.

SENSATIONAL CATCH

Stampeders' touchdown came on a sensational finger tip catch by halfback Dean Renfro who went 60 yards after taking Bobby Wirkowski's 22-yard throw at the Calgary 50. Bud Korchak converted.

In Winnipeg Saturday Canadian fullback Joe Yamauchi scored what proved to be the game-winning touchdown midway through the fourth quarter after Bombers had gone in front 16-15 on a touchdown by Gerry James.

Other B.C. touchdowns went to Paul Cameron and By Bailey, Ted Hunt booted three converts and Vic Chapman hoofed a single.

James was responsible for 12 of Bombers 18 points on two touchdowns, a single and a field goal from a sharp angle. Buddy Leake added a convert.

EARLY LEAD

Lions went to the front in the first quarter as Bombers never looked back.

Quarterback Maury Duncan threw two touchdown passes to Cameron, and another to end Dick Kasser. Bailey smashed over tackle for another touchdown. Hunt converted all touchdowns and Chapman kicked a pair of singles.

Wayne Dundas scored the Saskatchewan touchdown on a pass from quarterback Frank Tripuka. Whitebread kicked the convert and a 28-yard field goal.

Olympic Stadium.

The listed world record of 13:36.8 was held by Britain's Gordon Pirie at Bergen, Norway, last year.

The blond Russian paced the Soviet team in a two-day track and field meet billed as a "little Olympics" in preparation for the games to be staged here in 1960. Britain won six of the 30 gold medals Italy, Poland, Britain, Germany and Yugoslavia won three each and Finland, Sweden, Switzerland and Romania one each.

WIN SOFTBALL CROWN

WALKERTON, Ont. (CP)—After losing the opener of a twin bill to Kapuskasing here Monday afternoon, Walkerton came back to score a 13-5 victory in the nightcap to capture the Ontario Amateur Softball Association intermediate 18 best-of-three final series. Walkerton won the first game of the series Saturday 18-0.

Mustangs, McGill Triumph Over Varsity, Gaels

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The University of Western Ontario Mustangs, setting up most of their majors with passes, took over top spot Saturday in the Ontario Rugby Union with a 34-6 decision over Queen's.

At Toronto, McGill Redmen registered their first victory in two tries by thumping University of Toronto Blues 25-7 despite the absence of 19 players with flu.

With two games played all round, Western has four points, McGill and Toronto two apiece and Queen's zero.

THREE TOUCHDOWNS

Dale Creighton, 200-pound Mustang fullback, was the Western Big gun, scoring three touchdowns. Two came from short line plunges and the third on a pass fired by quarterback Frank Cosentino.

The Mustangs clicked on eight of 12 passes and counts while Queen's completed eight of 26. Neil Desborough and George Shepherd scored on passes for the other Western majors.

Queen's scored its first touchdown but failed to get another point. The under-manned Gaels seemed with a rush and Karl Quinn crossed the goal-line on a two-yard slant off left tackle. Attendance was 7,000.

FORRIER, CARR STAR

McGill Redmen were led by rookie Joe Forrier and veteran Dick Carr in their triumph over Toronto before 10,000 fans.

Forrier, a freshman, scored two touchdowns on pass - run plays. He received the ball from Carr both times, on a 25-yard pass in the first quarter and a 17-yard pass in the second.

Backfielder Jan Sandretius was outstanding with a run-and-pass down, three converts and a second quarter single.

A fourth quarter Varsity drive from their own 38 to the Redmen's 10-yard line, quarterback Larry Joynt threw a 10-yard pass to Hilbert Watt. Adams, who made a neat catch for the touchdown. Peter Mair converted.

Rocket Leads League Scorers; Three Shy of 500

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens' Maurice (Rocket) Richard scored four goals in the first week of National Hockey League play to move within three notches of a 500-goal career, the league's first statistical release of the season showed today.

Richard, at 36 playing his 16th year in the league, leads in goals and has one assist for five points, giving him second spot in the scoring race behind goaltender teammates Dickie Moore and Jean Beliveau.

Moore has three goals and three assists while Beliveau has picked up two goals and is tied with Detroit Red Wings' Johnny Wilson for the lead in assists with four.

Wilson and Henri Richard carved out the top five scorers with four points each. The young Richard still is made up of one goal and three assists.

Seven players have three points apiece. Gerry Bathgate and defenceman Bill Gadsby of New York Rangers, Fleming Mackell and Jerry Toppazzini of Boston Bruins and Detroit's Gordie Howe, Earl Reibel and Alex Delvecchio.

Don Simmons of Boston and Montreal's Charlie Hodge are the top goalies, allowing an average of a goal apiece. Hodge played three games as a replacement for regular Montreal netminder Jacques Plante, ill with the flu. Simmons saw action in two games.

Montreal, last year's Stanley Cup winners, has won two games and lost one to take a one-point lead over Boston in the team standings. Boston is undefeated, but has played one less game.

New York is in third with three points in a win, loss and tie, followed by Detroit and Chicago Black Hawks, both with a win and two losses. Toronto Maple Leafs, pointless in two games, are last.

Dutchies Whomp Kingston 9-6

KINGSTON (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen beat Kingston CKLC's 9-6 in an exhibition hockey game here Saturday.

Gene Miller and Jack Taylor each had a pair of goals for the winners. Gerry Theberge, Bob Paul, Ken Wilson, Dennis Finnigan and Butch Martin each scored singles.

Frank Mitarelli had two for Kingston and brother Dick Chiarelli, Gerry Moore, Mike Bukovchecki and Roy Partridge had singles.

Oshawa Tony's Win B Title

SUDBURY (CP)—Capreol Legion and Oshawa Tony's won titles in Ontario Amateur Softball Association series playoffs during the week-end.

At Capreol, 13 miles north of here, Legion won the best-of-three intermediate C series from Brooklin 7-1 and 10-1. In Sudbury, Oshawa beat Sudbury Mine-Mill 5-4 and 3-1 in a best-of-three series to win the senior B championship.

Shantz, Podres Win ERA Titles

NEW YORK (AP)—Lefthanders Bobby Shantz of New York Yankees, who made one of baseball's finest comebacks, and John Podres of Brooklyn Dodgers captured the major league earned run championships in 1957.

Figures compiled by The Associated Press disclose Shantz (11-5) took the American League crown with a 2.45 earned run average, allowing only 47 earned runs in 173 innings.

Podres, (13-9) who was in the U.S. Navy last year, topped the National League in earned run percentage with 2.66, and paced the majors in shutouts with six.

The Dodgers' mainstay permitted 58 earned runs in 196 innings.

The National League competition was one of the closest in many seasons. Warren Spahn of Milwaukee and Don Drysdale of Brooklyn were right behind Podres with ERAs of 2.69 each.

Russian Breaks Record for 5,000 Metres

ROME (AP) — Vladimir Kuts, a stocky Soviet navy officer, ran 5,000 metres in 13 minutes, 35 seconds—Sunday — 1.8 seconds faster than any man has ever run the distance before.

Kuts, 30, sprinted across the finish line 100 metres ahead of his closest competitor in the field of 20 runners at a five-nation European track meet at Rome's Olympic Stadium.

The listed world record of 13:36.8 was held by Britain's Gordon Pirie at Bergen, Norway, last year.

The blond Russian paced the Soviet team in a two-day track and field meet billed as a "little Olympics" in preparation for the games to be staged here in 1960. Britain won six of the 30 gold medals Italy, Poland, Britain, Germany and Yugoslavia won three each and Finland, Sweden, Switzerland and Romania one each.

WIN SOFTBALL CROWN

WALKERTON, Ont. (CP)—After losing the opener of a twin bill to Kapuskasing here Monday afternoon, Walkerton came back to score a 13-5 victory in the nightcap to capture the Ontario Amateur Softball Association intermediate 18 best-of-three final series. Walkerton won the first game of the series Saturday 18-0.

Browns, Colts Still Unbeaten In Pro Football

NEW YORK (CP) — Cleveland Browns clung to the eastern division leadership in the National Football League Sunday as they racked up their third straight victory 34-7 over the winless Philadelphia Eagles.

The Baltimore Colts equaled for the first time in the record books and smashed Green Bay Packers 45-17 in Milwaukee. It was the third straight victory for Baltimore.

In Detroit, an alert crew of defensive halfbacks picked off six Los Angeles passes and enabled Detroit Lions to edge the Rams 10-7 in a tough battle.

In Chicago, quarterback Y. A. Title went on a passing spree with less than two minutes left in the game and plucked the San Francisco 49ers to a 21-17 victory over Green Bay Bears.

New York Giants scored the first time they got their hands on the ball and with Charley Conerly passing to near perfection they zoomed to a 24-20 victory over Washington Redskins.

Speedy Billy Wells' 98 - yard touchdown scamper in the first quarter lit the fuse under Pittsburgh Steelers for a 29-20 victory over Chicago Cardinals.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER

(Author of the new "Astrology and You")

"The Stars impel . . . They do not compell! What you make of your life is largely up to you."

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Little grumbles seem to be all you're up to, so take great care while driving or when using machinery. Beware of gossiping group, keep working diligently and the day is otherwise fine.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — You would like to spend money very freely today, as is sometimes your habit, without thinking about tomorrow. Be practical instead, use diplomacy and get respect of others. Make fine new friends.

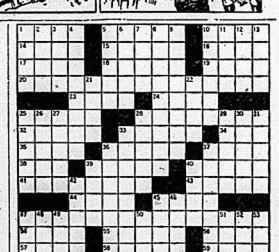
Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — You could waste the morning hours feeling sorry for yourself, and perhaps with some just cause, but the best philosophy is to rise above all afflictions. Then the day is filled with delightful, profitable things.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) — You have come to the point where you feel you simply cannot cope with a certain situation another moment. Tighten your belt instead, toss your head and you win out, and love and admiration from opponents.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Take care not to permit that pal of yours, with a million worries and problems to sir, to burden you with them and give you a headache. Say you must hold a friend's hand, but don't get back peace of mind.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 23) — Learn never to give a high authority a piece of mind, or you stand to lose much that is of great value to you, may even do a grave injustice to one who is far more developed than you. Tend to own knitting religiously.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — A day fraught with temptation to dash off to seemingly greener pastures and leave loyal ones behind. This would be both wrong and not wise. Strict attendance to duty is the first law of all successful living.



Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Be not envious of someone who to all appearances is very wealthy and has all that money can buy. Your concern let may be the happier one. Take care of obligations, and if wealth for you is in the cards, it is yours some day.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — A highly evolved and bombastic friend can make life miserable for you today if you are not objective in thinking and acting. Never let anything get under your skin, hard as it is to do. See that you keep your own word.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Mildmeth lessened may cause you to work at such a rapid rate of speed that you have all sorts of minor little mishaps that can be very annoying. Relax, take a breathing spell, and get back to work with true efficiency.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — You are dismissed to enjoy yourself regardless of money expenditures, but this would be most un wise. Business conditions are on the up-grade, so stick to desk, but do not make any big commitments today — just little ones.

If your child is born today . . . The somewhat contrary little child born today early becomes convinced that he or she can make greater progress by arguing or fighting way through life. Teach early that the shortest distance between two points is a straight line — and this includes the powerful line of talk. A fine horse-cope, however, for the troubleshooter, the labor leader, the efficiency expert of tomorrow.

QUEEN PRINCE

The 857 seats at Christ Church Anglican Cathedral were filled to the last by nine minutes before the start of the service attended by the Queen and Prince Philip. Twenty minutes before she was scheduled to start a commissionaire opened the west front door and announced in a loud voice that six seats were available in the church chapel.

Despite the fact little or nothing could be seen from the chapel he was practically bowled over in the crush.

Two girls born in Ottawa Saturday are to be named after Queen Elizabeth and a boy after Prince Philip.

The Elizabeths are the daughters of Mrs. Leslie Osborne Philip is the son of Mrs. Eugene Brosseau.

Montreal writer Mary Lindsay greeted the Queen in Gaelic at Saturday's press reception. Governor-General Vanier surprised Queen asked Mrs. Lindsay about the Montreal Gaelic. Mrs. Lindsay said in Cape Breton, N.S., where she was born.

A Scotland Yard detective nearly missed his drive Sunday. After Queen Elizabeth's car left the Rideau Hall memorial, the detective and two members of the RCMP Musical Ride of an RCMP car. The RCMP outdistanced the detective and drove off without him. The gasping detective caught up to them seconds later.

Flags flattened from almost every building in Ottawa including the Carleton County jail in the city's east end. About 17 Union Jacks adorned the institution.

Hundreds of amateur photographers drove Quebec's autumn-colored Gatineau Hills Sunday in the hope of getting shots of the Queen and her husband in an informal mood. Reports had stated the royal couple planned a drive in the hills. However, they rested at Government House.

The Queen, lifting up the skirt of her flowing white gown, looked carefully at her feet as she climbed a step at the entrance of the Parliament buildings. When she entered Confederation Hall just inside the door, several hundred guests clapped. The Queen turned to Prince Philip and both smiled in appreciation.

RCMP kept a jealous watch on a red velvet carpet laid down at the entrance of the Parliament buildings. For about 15 minutes before the Queen arrived, the carpet on which the royal couple walked was meticulously cleaned with broom and vacuum cleaner.

Many football fans listened to the Ottawa-Montreal Big Four football game on portable radios as they waited on Parliament Hill. Sunday.

The influx into Ottawa, population 225,000, taxed restaurant facilities and transportation systems. At the height of the afternoon it was almost impossible to find a seat in any downtown eating place. For a was suspended through the long period streetcar service central area. The lobby in Union Station was crowded with persons waiting for trains home from 3 p.m. on.

PROUD AND HAPPY

She wore a powder-blue dress of lame with silver-threaded embroidery and her traditional four-strand pearl necklace and Tudor bow brooch.

PHOTOS PART OF SET

To one side of her on the TV screen was a picture of a baby of Prince Philip and her two children, Prince Charles who will be 9 next month and Princess Anne, 7. Hind-Smith said use of the photographs was the Queen's own idea.

She spoke with the use of a teleprompter, a TV device in which the text appears on a screen allowing the speaker to read the words without looking away from the cameras, and wore TV makeup.

The Queen ran through her address twice during a 50-minute afternoon rehearsal with the 35-person broadcast crew, the same CBC crew which handles the Saturday night hockey broadcasts from Toronto. Hind-Smith told producer with an autographed photograph of herself and Prince Philip after the telecast.

Reporters monitoring the speech with the 900-word text given to them earlier found she deviated from it only twice. At one point she spoke in English a paragraph marked to be spoken in French and later switched to French a paragraph marked for English.

HEAD OF NATION

In her speech, talk, she emphasized that she was speaking as Queen of Canada and that she would visit the U.S. next week as "the head of the Canadian nation."

"I shall be going in other capacities as well but when you hear or read about the events in Washington and other places, I want you to reflect that it is the Queen of Canada and her husband who are concerned in them."

Noting that her current Ottawa visit, her first official visit to Canada as Queen, will last only four days, she added that "traveling is becoming so quick and easy that I hope to be able to pay more visits in the future."

"In the meantime I have vivid memories of my journey across the country in 1951. All the varied scenes of that tour have been crowding back into my mind since I arrived and I feel that I am going over the great events of those days with old friends."

SHOUTS OF CHILDREN

"I remember particularly the welcome of the children . . . how you all shouted with one voice. I remember thinking that it sounded well for Canada that the rising generation, whether they be of English descent or whether born here or abroad, could show so clearly its love of freedom in one great Canadian family."

At another point, speaking in French, she said:

"In this wonderful land of yours, men and women of various racial origin live and work together on terms of equality. There is a splendid lesson for everyone. As Queen of Canada I am proud of it. In saying 'au revoir,' may I say too how grateful I am for all you have done for my husband and myself. To you and your children I wish peace and happiness."

FORMER

The Norwegian committees acted on the will of Alfred Nobel, inventor of dynamite.

The 1907 Nobel prize winners in literature, physics, chemistry, and physics will be announced in Stockholm later this year.

Pearson's UN accomplishments included his stepping into the breach in 1954 when discussions in London on German sovereignty and rearmament deadlocked. He helped to bring about last-minute agreement.

Again in 1954, he helped arrange the Indochina armistice. Canadians are serving on the commission which supervises the truce there.

His influence was felt at the 1956 UN session when he and Paul H. Martin, then Canada's health minister, were largely instrumental in breaking through the roadblock to the admission of new members. Sixteen countries were brought in.

But, United Nations observers feel, it was principally because of Pearson's creative role in the formation of UNEF that the Nobel Committee chose him this year's prize.

Pearson struck the spark which culminated in the force's creation only four days after Israeli troops entered Egypt last autumn.

URGED ACTION

At an all - night sitting of the emergency General Assembly Nov. 2, he urged that Hammarskjold be authorized, to begin to make arrangements with member governments for a United Nations force "large enough to keep the borders at peace while a political settlement is being worked out."

He pledged that his government would be glad to recommend Canadian participation in such "a truly international peace police force."

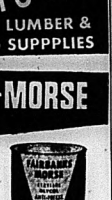
The idea was not exclusively Pearson's. Sir Anthony Eden, then British prime minister, had suggested such a move. But Britain's position as a combatant in Egypt made it difficult for her delegation to take any formal action in the UN.

John Foster Dulles, the United States secretary of state, urged Pearson to introduce a concrete proposal, and at another night meeting, Nov. 4, the assembly adopted Pearson's resolution to instruct Hammarskjold to submit within 48 hours a plan for an emergency force.

A week later the first contingent, a Norwegian force, arrived at an Italian staging area on its way to Egypt. The force, now made up of troops from nine countries, has kept the peace on the troubled Israel-Egypt border ever since.

Appropriately, Canada's contingent is the biggest single unit.

Pearson is a close friend and confidant of Hammarskjold, who frequently has asked his advice.



He has an unwavering faith in United Nations, and in its possibilities for mankind. He once declared that lasting peace can be served to increase his already tremendous stature, as well as at an Italian staging area on its that of Canada as a whole.

Mother, Children, Sister Die In Montreal Blaze

Husband Leaps Safely With Another Daughter

MONTREAL (CP)—A woman, her two children and her sister died early today in a fire at suburban Pointe-aux-Trembles.

Asphyxiated by dense smoke from a short fire at their wooden house were Mrs. A. Houle, 49, Cecile Houle, and Lucie, 11, and Jeannette Lacombe, 33.

Mrs. Houle's husband Louis-Philippe, 56, leaped out a second-storey window carrying another child to safety. He is in hospital with severe burns and both legs broken. The girl, Helene, 13, was almost unscathed.

Fire Detective, chief of the suburb's combined police and fire fighting force, said the blaze raged fiercely inside the 75-year-old, two-storey building but left the exterior almost untouched.

He said Mrs. Houle had been ill for several weeks and had called in a doctor to take care of the children.

The body of Miss Lacombe was found partway down the steps from the second floor, where all were sleeping. Houle was found crawling on the street by Pointe-aux-Trembles constable who turned in the alarm.

Delorme said apparently an oil stove exploded in the downstairs kitchen.

RCMP Officers Guarded Royal Couple on Visit

OTTAWA (CP)—Special security precautions were taken during the royal visit to Ottawa, RCMP officials said today.

About 300 RCMP officers in uniform and plain clothes were detailed for duties, some as personal guards of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip and others as guards at various public appearances.

"There was no untoward incidents," an official said. "So far as we know, everything went off smoothly."

He said the large number of officers required stemmed from the huge crowds involved. Steps had to be taken to make certain the Queen's path was not blocked by over-enthusiastic spectators.

Asked whether he had heard of rumors that attempts would be made to steal the royal jewels or that there would be attempts against the Queen's life, the official laughed and replied: "We've heard nothing of that."

The security arrangements were in charge of Assistant Commissioner D. A. (Tony) McKinnon, 55-year-old director of operations and criminal investigation at RCMP headquarters.

At Uplands airport, after the royal couple deparied for the United States, he was asked about the rumors of possible attempts to steal the jewels.

"There's nothing in that," he replied.

Charge Amended By Court Order

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—One of two theft charges against Kenneth Souther, 49, a former union official, was amended in court on Tuesday to reduce the time involved.

Originally he was charged with theft by conversion of union funds and failing to give an accounting of union funds from July 1, 1954 to Feb. 21, 1957. Tuesday the time period was reduced to April 1, 1955 to Feb. 21, 1957, in effect reducing by about $1,000 to about $9,000 the amount of money allegedly involved. April 1, 1955 is the date the new Criminal Code became effective.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said that cheques from April 1, 1955 paid to Souther, to cash and endorsed by Souther and to Souther's wife totalled $14,665. He contended that Souther was entitled to $5,295 leaving a balance of $9,070 unaccounted for.

The case is continuing.

ASTOR NEEDS MONEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Excavation has been halted for a 46-storey office building on Park Avenue until its sponsor, Vincent Astor, can raise more money. Astor and his family have nearly holdings estimated at more than $40,000,000. The money is tied up and cannot be used to finance the new building.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Cloud, wind, a disturbance moving northeastward over the central Mississippi Valley, covers all except the extreme eastern portion of the province.

Intermittent rain, which has already begun in extreme southwestern and Northern Ontario, is forecast to spread slowly eastward over the remainder of Ontario, ending Thursday.

Queen, Prince Philip Smilingly Acknowledge Cheers of Crowds

With happy smiles and waves for the thousands who lined the route from Government House to the Parliament Buildings, Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip arrive in open carriage for the opening of parliament on Monday. Picture shows the Royal carriage as it neared the Parliament Buildings. It was the first occasion a reigning Monarch had officially opened Parliament in Canada.

Sputnik's Rocket Clearly Seen In East States

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Clear weather and a waning moon helped Soputnik's rocket be put on spectacular 1,800 - mile sweep across the sky today by gleaning skywatchers before 6 a.m. EDT.

Moon watchers on the roof of the Harvard Observatory saw the rocket rise over the northwest horizon as scheduled and it was tracked for nearly six minutes before it disappeared in the southeast.

Only one watcher, Dr. Armand N. Spitz, an organizer Astrophysical Observatory staff, reported sighting Sputnik itself.

Virtually all observations in recent days have been of the rocket, which is from 20 to ten times brighter than the radio-equipped Sputnik.

TO FLY SCHOOL BAND

TORONTO (CP) — South Peel high school students on Tuesday night approved in principle a proposed six-week tour of the United Kingdom by the L. Kennedy High School band of nearby Port Credit. It was suggested Bandmaster Russell McNeil said it is planned to fly the 40-member band to Britain. Cost of the tour was estimated at $20,000 of which the band plans to raise $17,000.

GOVT. PROPOSES $81,325,000 IN NEW SPENDING

Fleming Wary About Tax Cuts This Season

OTTAWA (CP) — A new $81,325,000 in spending is proposed to Parliament by the Progressive Conservative government, but it still holds out its suggestion of expense cuts.

Finance Minister Donald Fleming indicated to the Commons Tuesday that he may be chopping down Liberal expenditure figures presented to Parliament before the previous administration went out of office.

But Mr. Fleming, in talking to a reporter after the government's first post-opening caucus Tuesday, was wary about saying whether there would be tax cuts at the new session that started Monday.

The government's program will be seen in full as the session proceeds," he said when asked about the significance of a sentence in the speech from the throne referring to proposed changes in taxing statutes.

Says Queen Might Consider Temporary Home in Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Queen Elizabeth might consider residing temporarily in Canada but her permanent residence in this country would be out of the question, a source close to the Queen has suggested.

His views, expressed Tuesday night, after being questioned by a reporter, evoked comment in some parliamentary quarters.

CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell said that if the Queen wants to reside in Canada "the would, of course, be accurded a warm welcome by the Canadian people."

"Her visit this time has been a very happy one," he added.

Social Credit Leader Solon Low indicated he also would support the residence idea. If the Queen really wanted to live for awhile in Canada, "I certainly think it would be an excellent thing if a royal residence were erected somewhere in the Ottawa area."

The residence should be "some place where she would have privacy and could come occasionally to spend a quiet visit with her family among Canadians."

"If so short a while as the current one—can create the spirit we have seen, residence in this country for six weeks now and then with her family would that much more rivet the attention of the people to the permanent character of our government and its very high quality.

"It also would make us more aware she is also Queen of Canada and that this is part of her realm."

Opposition Leader St. Laurent, on being asked what he thought about a royal residence in Canada, replied:

"You'll have to discuss that with the government that is, not the government that was."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker could not be reached for immediate comment.

The source close to the Queen said it would be too much to ask of her to have her torn away from her family, friends and friends overseas.

The Queen on a visit considering visits abroad occasionally, say, for periods of six or eight weeks. But the decision must be made to Canada. Some would have to be made to other Commonwealth countries as well.

Thus if a royal residence were erected here, it could at least be only temporarily occupied by the Queen. Canada would have to consider that point in making any plans.

The residence also would have to be large enough to accommodate all of the Queen's staff and such Commonwealth officials who might come to visit her to complete various duties.

"She could only make temporary visits," he said. "It would even be too much to ask of her to remain here for, say, three years at a time and then go on to Australia and remain three years there and then 20 on to another country.

"After all, she has a husband and children and she must have some home life."

During her Ottawa visit, the Queen stayed at Government House, residence of Governor-General Massey. This is an old 60-room structure on 88 acres of ground. The Queen and Prince Philip occupied a three room suite.

Undoubtedly this building could be turned into a royal residence but there is doubt whether it would be sufficiently large to accommodate the staff of the governo-general as well as that of the royal household.

There has been some unofficial suggestion that a royal residence might be located in the picturesque Gatineau Hills just north of the capital. The Federal District Commission has some 75,000 acres of ground there, all part of national capital planning. It could establish said a royal residence could very easily be accommodated there if the Canadian government decided to erect one.

Fear for Safety Of Father, Son In Dense Bush

BLIND RIVER (CP)—Another search party started out in drizzling rain this morning to hunt a missing father and son lost in the bush north of here for three days.

Fears are being felt for the safety of Albert Ross, 51, and his son Aimo, 22. The two disappeared Sunday while partridge hunting along Lake Matinenda, 17 miles north of Blind River.

Meanwhile, police continue the hunt for the slayers of bank manager J. J. Walter Bridges. It has been a week since the slaying and there is a general belief the pair have escaped the area. However police are maintaining patrols and are checking scores of reports.

SATELLITE MAY DIVE FROM ORBIT SAYS SCIENTIST

Possibility It Will Disentegrate, Burn Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—A United States government scientist says Russia's earth satellite, which has circled the earth for 12 days, may plunge from its orbit and burst into flames within a week.

That view, expressed by Robert Jastrow of the Goddard Research Laboratory here, generally runs counter to other Western predictions that the satellite might remain aloft for several months, possibly a year.

Jastrow, a theoretical consultant at the laboratory, also said Tuesday night there are indications Sputnik is losing altitude. On a recent pass over Washington, he added, the satellite's altitude was estimated at 147 miles. Most previous estimates have has the orbit ranging from 170 miles up to about 560 miles.

"Based on its altitude, the way it looks at the moment the satellite might burn out in a week," he said. "It most probably will disintegrate and burn up, depending on its design and altitude."

MOSCOW VIEW

Jastrow's views coincided with a report broadcast by Moscow Monday night which indicated Sputnik likely would fall from outer space in a week.

Move Opens Way for Full Airing Of Turkish-Syrian Border Tension

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) Syria today formally requested the United Nations General Assembly to consider alleged threats to its security.

The move will open the way for a full debate of the Turkish-Syrian border tension. Each side has accused the other of threatening aggression and of Soviet bloc tension.

The proposal in the form of a letter asking a new item be added to the agenda of the 58-nation assembly entitled "threats to the peace and security of Syria." The title did not refer to Turkey by name.

The letter requested the establishment of an impartial UN committee to investigate the alleged threats.

Syrian action here followed a sharp deterioration of the situation within the last few days. In

Earlier Egyptian reinforcements had arrived in Syria.

Turkey handed a letter to Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold Tuesday accusing the Syrian government of echoing Soviet propaganda attacks on the Turkish government.

Turkish Ambassador Seyfullah Esin denied Syrian charges troop movements in Turkey were of a threatening nature. Turkish defence measures, he said, "constitute an internal matter and do not call for comments by anyone from the outside."

He said recent developments in Syria demonstrate "that Turkey has valid reasons for feeling con-

15,000 Children Express Emotions Of The Nation

Fly to Williamsburg To Begin U.S. Visit

OTTAWA (CP)—With a final affectionate salute from throngs of her Canadian subjects, Queen Elizabeth left Ottawa with Prince Philip today after a four-day visit that brought this capital happy memories and some new history.

A screaming Godspeed from 15,000 school children was still ringing in the ears of the royal couple as they took off at 11:38 a.m. EDT for Jamestown, Va., to start a six-day United States visit including a stay at the White House in Washington.

The plane was to land at Patrick Henry Air Force Base near Williamsburg.

"It has been lovely," the Queen said in her final words on Canadian soil, to Governor-General Massey.

Then she waved a smiling farewell from the ramp of the RCAF's luxury C-5 a few minutes before it took off into a misted morning for an expected 2½-hour flight.

And a little before that, she spoke of her renewed happiness on this occasion of her visit to Canada, her first as sovereign.

She told 15,000 youngsters jammed into the Lansdowne Park that it has been a "wonderful welcome."

Just before the takeoff, a group of 45 RCAF men had an unexpected visit from the Queen and prince as the royal couple had a wait on arriving at Uplands airport which delayed their schedule 11:15 a.m. time.

They stepped out of their car and killed time by strolling along 15 parked CF-100 jet fighter planes and talking to the crews.

Before leaving Government House, the Queen handed Governor General Massey a farewell message for Canada, calling her visit a memorable one and conveying "heartfelt prayers and good wishes" for all Canadians.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker was to leave by another government plane, similar to the one the Queen was presented with Canada's gift — a painting of Montreal artist Robert Pilot of Parliament buildings.

Given Three Years

TORONTO (CP) — Stanley Pinkington, 30, of suburban Scarborough was given three years in penitentiary on a charge of assault.

Pinkington also received one year concurrent on a charge of illegal possession of a revolver but a charge of kidnapping was withdrawn.

Pinkington admitted he had tried to force Ray Peterson, a Toronto taxi-driver to take him to London, Ont. He was overpowered by Peterson at a service station.

Surgeon Produces 'Artificial Bladder' From Stomach Section

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Production of an "artificial bladder" from a section of the stomach was reported today by a Chicago surgeon.

Dr. Edwin S. Sinaiko of Loyola University said the "substitute bladder was fashioned to aid a woman whose natural bladder was affected by an inoperable cancer and had to be sacrificed.

The tumor, he told the clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons, had blocked the openings of tubes linking the bladder with the kidneys, had produced hemorrhage and infection and had left the woman unable to void urine without the aid of an inserted tube.

He said the operation — in which a pouch of the stomach was cut away and reserve into place as a functioning urinary bladder—might be useful in the case of paraplegic patients where there is a loss of the normal muscular control of urine passage.

Also, "it may be useful when ever the true bladder must be sacrificed," he said.

WILLIAMSBURG, VA (CP)—

Queen Elizabeth today launched a six-day American tour from this birthplace of her present-day Commonwealth and empire.

The Queen and Prince Philip are scheduled to fly into this capital of old colonial Virginia aboard the RCAF's luxurious C-5 airliner for a swiftly-paced visit which also will take her to Washington and New York before she returns to Britain next Tuesday.

Significantly she chose the Williamsburg area, settled by adventurous English merchants 350 years ago, and Virginia, Britain's first permanent colony and the foundation stone of the Commonwealth, as the starting point for her first visit as Queen.

She comes to a state proud of its British heritage. But she comes, too, to a state where Britain lost, as well as won, a colonial empire.

On Friday, while the Queen is visiting Washington, the United States will mark at York Town, just 13 miles from here, the 176th. anniversary of the surrender of British arms in the American War of Independence.

Quinte Skating Club Holds Fall Meeting

The first fall meeting of the directors of the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club was held in Dufferin club rooms on Dufferin Avenue. With the president, Dr. P. Loder, in the chair, reports from the three section of the club were presented by vice-president in charge of each activity.

Tennis section, under the direction of Vice-president, Dr. T. Wesley, and his executive of Dr. Walcott, Dr. Law, Dr. Pullen and Dr. Loder, presented a report of the summer activities which included a membership of 36 seniors, 10 married couples, 5 juniors and 2 part-time members. A very successful season of league competition was enjoyed, culminating in an interclub tournament at the Quinte club tennis courts. Dave Pullan reported that the instruction this section was able to stay within the budget as set up which is very commendable in view of the expense involved.

The general skating section under supervision of Bob Smith and his executive of Ed Cannitt, Mrs. Ed Hurd and J. Devine, announced that plans have been completed for the winter skating season at the club rink with fees having been set. In order to start the season the club group as soon as possible, arrangements have been made for general skating to commence Sunday afternoon, November 3, in the Belleville Memorial Arena. Vice-president Smith remarked that facilities at the outdoor rink will be available as soon as weather permits.

The figure skating section, in charge of Dr. W. McCutcheon and his executive of Mrs. P. Dyble, J. Lewis, J. Cook and J. Dickens, reported that plans for the winter figure skating season have been formulated with the arena and the club professional, Mr. John Rodway. Figure skating instruction will being one week earlier than originally planned, on Tuesday, October 21, and continue each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday through the season. Dr. McCutcheon reported that if there were sufficient members interested in curling that facilities would be arranged if at all possible in conjunction with the regular skating instruction, although preferably at other times if the ice could be made available. Membership in this section is gradually filling up and with a limit of 100 members, Dr. McCutcheon urged all interested persons to contact him or one of his executive as soon as possible to avoid disappointment.

In closing the meeting, President Loder complimented the various groups on their interest in the recreational activities and looked forward to a successful winter season.

Milltown Bridge Collapses Into Salmon River

Residents of the hamlet of Milltown, 10 miles east of Belleville on No. 2 Highway, are living under what certain inconvenience these days with no bridge across the Salmon River since late last week.

Friday night a tractor trailer loaded with a caterpillar tractor smashed the small bridge, which is now lying on the nearly dry river bed.

No one was hurt in the accident as the tractor and had cleared the bridge before the collapse but the broken bridge, the trailer and the caterpillar tractor were all dumped into the river bed.

Saturday the trailer and the caterpillar tractor were taken from the river but the bottom bridge remains.

Public school children living north of the river have to be driven around by Shannonville and Stirling as the school students walk across the top of the Milltown dam to catch the bus for Belleville.

Grist mill operator Mr. Vance lives on one side of the river while his mill is on the other, while a number of farmers on both sides of the river are also inconvenienced.

The bridge is a county structure and comes within the jurisdiction of the county roads and bridges committee.

Morley P. Duff Dies in Hospital Ill Long Time

Prominent in the business, civic and church life of this city for many years, Morley P. Duff, 74 Alexander Street, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Friday afternoon after a lengthy illness. His death cuts a link with the early life of the community as he was a resident here for the past 69 years.

In early life, Mr. Duff entered the service of the old G.T.R. at Allandale in 1907 and progressed through the chain of advancements until he was appointed district clerk to the superintendent, when the headquarters of the Division was established at Belleville in 1913. From that time until his retirement in 1937, Mr. Duff was the Chief Clerk at this terminal and endeared himself both to management and employees. He was an excellent railwayman and his contribution to the success of the Canadian National Railway after taking over the old Grand Trunk was gratefully rewarded on his retirement.

He took time out of busy life to serve in adopted city in more ways than one. He joined the Board of Trade in the city and for many years was an active and enthusiastic member. Although he did not become president of the service club, he served faithfully on various committees and projects. He took an active part in the Red Cross Society and in Memorial Arena, served as its efficient president. In the work of the Y.M.C.A. he was always interested and also served as president of the Board of Directors.

In the civic life of the community Morley Duff took an active part. He was elected to City Alderman in 1926 and served for two years and on retirement from electorate was given the highest office, that of Mayor, which office he held in 1928. Here his faithful administrator and servant all classes of citizens intelligently. On completion of his work in council he entered the Public Utilities Board in 1932 until 1948 inclusive Mr. Duff served with distinction on the Commission and was honored as chairman on nine occasions.

SERVICES ON MONDAY

Not only did he serve the residents of this city but he found time to assist in many committees in Eastern Ontario and eventually over the whole province. He was for many years an active executive member of Eastern Ontario Municipal Associations Association and also served as second vice-president, a position which allowed him to sit on the Executive Board of the same association.

Mr. Duff was a faithful and devout member of Bridge Street United Church and for many years was head of the reception committee for the congregation. He was a familiar figure on Sunday mornings, standing in the vestibule of the church, shaking hands with those about to worship and extending the hand of fellowship to those who were strangers within the gates. He was on the Board of Stewards for many years and his wise counsel was gratefully appreciated.

Morley Duff was a baseball fan in every sense of the word. In 1919 when the old Grand Trunks and later the Nationals, were competing for baseball championships, he was a constant attendant. Not only was he interested as a fan but also as an administrator and he was honored with the presidency of the baseball club. He directed the affairs of the club in an able and impartial manner and his views for the betterment of the club and the league always held influence in high regard. In the old Central Ontario Baseball League he was highly thought of by other officials and he became president of that organization and under his guidance years of prosperity followed. Morley Duff in his quiet and effective way did things done and he left his mark on sport in this community and district. He was also an ardent curler.

Fraternally he was identified with the Masonic Order, being a life member of Barrie Masonic Lodge, the Royal Arch Masons and the Preceptory of that town. He was born in Barrie 85 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Duff and he was the last of his family.

Surviving are his wife, the former Alice Jane Gardiner, and one son, Gardiner Duff, druggist in this city.

At Lansdowne Park

Wildly-Cheering Children Bid Adieu to Royal Couple

OTTAWA (CP) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip today received the loudest welcome of their four-day Ottawa visit from 15,000 wildly cheering, flag-waving public and separate school children at Lansdowne Park.

The stop at the park was made en route to the airport for their flight to the U.S.

The children packed the stands in the football stadium despite chilly weather with a heavy mist hanging across the field almost until the Queen arrived at 10:00 a.m. EDT.

But just minutes before the royal cavalcade drove slowly onto the field, a slight breeze came up, clearing away most of the mist. The sun broke through.

A MIGHTY SHOUT

A tremendous ear-shattering shout broke across the field as the Queen and Prince Philip drove up in an open black limousine and stopped in front of the main grandstand.

The Queen was greeted at the gate by Mayor Annis Donnelan but Mayor George Nelms of Ottawa, the Queen's host during her visit to a raised dais on the field with Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker and children.

As they reached the dais and the Queen and Prince arrived, a fresh swell of cheering and applause swept the stands. The Queen smiled happily and both she and the prince continued waving at the children.

APPEAR PLEASED

Both appeared to be pleased and touched by the tremendous enthusiasm of the children.

As cheering filled the air, the Queen leaned forward to the prince and was heard to say: "It's marvelous, isn't it."

After the wave of Queen and O Canada, children in centre rows put the maple leaf and white placards to spell out the royal cipher "E II R."

The children then stepped forward to a microphone and told the children: "I am so glad to be able to come to Lansdowne Park and say a few words to you."

She also spoke in French, repeating much of what she had said in English, and concluded by telling the children "God bless you all."

FRESH UPROAR BEGINS

As she stepped back, the children broke out with fresh waves of cheering and the band struck up alive with wildly-waving flags.

The Queen and Prince Philip, several times waved to the children. Then the prince stepped back a pace or two while the Queen continued to wave.

Still Cool, 2 Seconds Timed, a fresh swell of cheering and applause swept the stands. The Queen smiled happily and both she and the prince continued waving at the children.

Papineau Lake Lodge, Summer Cabins Burned

Loss estimated at approximately $10,000 resulted Monday afternoon when fire destroyed a lodge and two summer cabins on Papineau Lake, 25 miles north of Bancroft.

The lodge and cottages were owned by J. J. Bonisole of Port Dalhousie, who had been at the lodge earlier in the day but had left for home about an hour before the fire was noticed.

Cottage owners visiting their cottages over the holiday week-end spotted the fire and turned in the alarm and enlisted fire rangers from Bancroft to fight the blaze which burned over a total ten acres of ground before it was extinguished.

Provincial Police at Bancroft, along with fire rangers are investigating the possible cause of the blaze. The fire is said to have started in or around the main lodge and spread to the cottages.

No other cottages except those burned were threatened seriously by the blaze, it was stated.

Trenton to Get Headquarters For Transport Command

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCAF will move its Transport Command headquarters from Lachine, Que., to Trenton, Ont., and Training Command headquarters from Trenton to Winnipeg next year, it was learned Tuesday.

Several training stations on the Prairies will be closed. They have been used in the British Commonwealth air training program now is largely centred in the West.

One reason for the transport command shift is to make more room at Dorval Airport near Montreal for commercial carriers.

The RCAF declined to give details of the shifts or their exact dates.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was irregularly lower today in moderate morning trading. The first hour volume was 592,000 shares, Tuesday's volume at the same time was 583,000.

Industrials were mixed and eased 1.56 points on index. Golds were firm but base metals dipped 40 points to record a new low for 1956-57. Western oils eased 1.05 points on index.

International Utilities and Canadian Iron Foundry both led industrials downwards with 1¼ point dips. Other losses were fractionally lower. Consolidated Denison was the only winner among higher issues with a ¼ point gain at 16½. Opemiska was off 15 cents to $7.50 among copper issues in junior issues. Other changes were less than 10 cents.

Western oils moved in a narrow range but the trend was downward among senior issues.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 3 9-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Tuesday's rate was 96 13-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.7076, down ¾.

GUEST STAR

BOBCAYGEON, Ont. (CP) — The oldest visitor to the fall fair here was applauded by the grandstand audience. William Hewlett bowed gracefully, said he was "97 years young, and fit as a fiddle."

Strike Cuts Light, Gas In France

PARIS (AP)—Electricity and gas were cut off over much of France today as workers in the state-operated systems went on a 24-hour warning strike for higher wages.

With telephone communications also affected, it was difficult to assess the extent of the strike in the provinces. But the midnight cutoff hit hard at the greater Paris area, which has more than 5,000,000 inhabitants.

Flashlights and candles provided the only light for most Parisians who arose before dawn. With the gas low or out, breakfast was a cold meal.

TRAINS HIT

Hundreds of thousands who groped their way out in the predawn hours were unable to get to work because the subway and suburban electric train systems were halted.

Long lines formed at city bus stops. Many more cars, scooters and bicycles than usual appeared on the streets, threatening the city's worst traffic Jam. Most transit lines were off, adding to the confusion.

Elevators stopped running, and office workers who got to work had to walk up as many as 8 dozen stories. Late editions of morning papers did not appear as the presses rolled to a stop.

Cruel Journalism Says Minister

TORONTO (CP) — Planning Minister Nickle of Ontario says he regards it as his duty to repudiate a "vicious article" on the British royal family by a British journalist in a United States magazine.

He told a meeting Tuesday of Progressive Conservative businessmen that statements made by Malcolm Muggeridge in an article entitled Does England Really Need a Queen were cruel journalism.

"It is our sober and noble duty in co-operation with the Queen to keep her on the throne, a mother, wife and queen, in that order," he said.

Mr. Nickle described his riding, Kingston and its nearby islands of Wolfe, Howe and Amherst, as "an outpost of empire."

Constable Suspended

WINDSOR (CP) — Windsor police Constable Jack Davenport was suspended for three days by police chief Carl W. Farrow, when he was found guilty of disobeying a departmental order forbidding the use of guns, except in a time of pressing need.

Const. Davenport was charged under the Police Act, by chief Farrow, after an 80-mile-an-hour chase through city streets Sept. 4 when he and another constable pursued what had been reported as a stolen car. During the chase Const. Davenport drew his service revolver and fired at the speeding car.

A shot ricocheted through the window of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Williams. No one was injured.

GREEK CAMPAIGN

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal's Greek community, which has grown from 3,000 to 12,000 since before the Second World War, has inaugurated a fund-raising drive to build a larger hope to raise $770,000.

Press Coverage On Royal Visit Sets Record

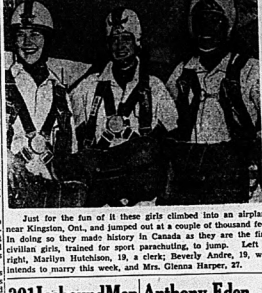
OTTAWA (CP)—Press coverage of the royal opening of Parliament Monday was the heaviest for any event in a single day in Canadian history, telegraph officials said Tuesday.

Working practically around the clock, more than 1,000 accredited reporters and photographers poured out a constant flow of words and pictures by teletype, telephone and overseas cable.

J. J. St. Martin, Ottawa manager of Canadian National Telegraphs, said about 250,000 words were filed between 8 a.m. EDT Monday and 5 a.m. EDT Tuesday by CN Telegraphs and Canadian Pacific Communications in a pool operation.

"The coverage of the royal visit has been far ahead of anything we have ever handled," he told a reporter.

Canadian Overseas Telecommunications Corporation said approximately 35,000 words were filed from Ottawa to London by direct circuit on the new transatlantic cable.



A similar wordage was believed to have been phoned via the U.S. by correspondents to United Kingdom newspapers.

More than 112 pictures were transmitted overseas via the cable between 8 a.m. Monday and 5 p.m. Tuesday.

In addition, many American reporters phoned stories to their newspapers, while exceptionally heavy wordage was carried on the leased wires of The Canadian Press and other news agencies.

FIRST CANADIAN GIRLS TO PARACHUTE

Just for the fun of it these girls climbed into an airplane near Kingston, Ont., and jumped out at a couple of thousand feet. In doing so they made history in Canada as they are the first civilian girls, trained for sport parachuting, to jump. Left to right, Marilyn Hutchison, 19, a clerk; Beverly Andre, 19, who intends to marry this week, and Mrs. Glenna Harper, 27.

301 Icebound Men Give Hostesses Splendid Time

CHRISTCHURCH, N.Z. (AP)—Two American air hostesses who went on the first commercial plane flight to the Antarctic returned today delighted with their reception by 301 icebound men.

Ruth Kelly and Patricia Hepinstall said they especially impressed 83 men at McMurdo Sound who hadn't seen a woman in six to 18 months.

"Everyone was so gentlemanly," Miss Kelly commented. "We each had an escort."

The young women told of judging a beard - growing contest among the men, as well as being elected "queens of the ice bees" in Antarctica.

Papers Welcome Yugoslav Act

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany today called upon other countries to follow the lead of Yugoslavia in recognizing its Communist regime.

Headlines in the East Berlin newspapers jubilantly welcomed the Yugoslav act that created the diplomatic quarantine the West had built around the German satellite state.

Neues Deutschland, the Communist party newspaper, says Marshal Tito's government now accepts the reality that two German states exist.

European security and solution of the German problem depends on other powers following Yugoslavia's example, the newspaper persists.

Angry West Berliners and West Germans waited to see whether Chancellor Konrad Adenauer would follow through on his threat to break diplomatic ties with any country recognizing sources in Bonn predicted he would avoid a strong protest to Belgrade and would do nothing more.

WINDSOR, Southwest Africa (Reuters)—A 50-year-old bushman, Damakari Tjai, has been sentenced to two years imprisonment with hard labor here for shooting a white policeman, James Ekron, in the leg with a poisoned arrow.

Anthony Eden Still Ailing

LONDON (AP) — Sir Anthony Eden's doctors said today the former prime minister has not yet recovered completely from his liver ailment and needs further period of convalescence.

The report was issued after the 60-year-old Eden underwent a medical checkup. He has been living in quiet seclusion in the south of England since June, six months after he quit as prime minister because of ill health.

A statement reporting on progress he has made since a bile duct operation at Boston last April said recovery of the liver condition is not complete. But it noted "encouraging" progress.

When Prime Minister Macmillan called on him Tuesday observers said that Eden looked bronzed and well but lacked his usual smile and gaiety.

ANCIENT CRAFT

TORONTO (CP) — An Iroquois war canoe older than any seen on display is owned by Elmer Ewan of suburban Scarborough. The canoe, found in a swamp in Balsam Lake, has been estimated by a museum expert as anywhere from 100 to 1,500 years old.

Three Members Added to Branch

TRENTON (Special) — King Street United Church Harvest Thanksgiving services were very well attended on Sunday, when the minister, Rev. George J. Minielly was the speaker. Mr. Minielly chose "Jesus as the important person" for his morning address, and "The Offering of Self" during the evening service. The Sacrament of Baptism was also celebrated during the morning service.

ADD NEW MEMBERS

Mrs. M. Wood, Mrs. M. Weese and Mrs. L. Gunter were new members added to the Branch 110 Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion at the last meeting of the group. Mrs. Sylvia Wright, president, conducted the initiation ceremony. Mrs. Lavinia Leeman is to be the convener of the forthcoming tea and sale which the Ladies Auxiliary is planning to hold in the month of December.

HOSTESS AT MEETING

Mrs. J. Patterson, 58 Kidd Avenue, was hostess at the regular meeting of the Trenton Baptist Ladies' Group. Mrs. Patterson, who was also in charge of the program, opened the meeting with prayer and read a Mrs. K. Foster, also from the Scriptures, and the business portion of the meeting was conducted by Mrs. Creswell, president. Group leaders, Mrs. Ella Fife, Mrs. R. Wright and Mrs. K. Foster, Mrs. Patterson are to organize their groups into contesting shooters and in gaining new members for the group, it was decided that the Ladies Group will take their turn in preparing the programs.

Prayers were offered by Mrs. Creswell, Mrs. Schriver, Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. K. Patterson. Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Whitney served lunch.

HIGHER FEES

VANCOUVER (CP) — An overall increase of 15 per cent in doctors' fees has been approved by the British Columbia Medical Association. The first visit and examination now are $10 for office calls, $8 for house calls.

Leaders Turn Cold Shoulder On Khrushchev's Invitation

LONDON (AP) — Leaders of western Europe's socialist parties turned a cold shoulder today to Nikita S. Khrushchev's invitation for an alliance against U.S.-Turkish threats to attack Syria.

Khrushchev's appeal was the second move within three days to back up the Syrian charges against Turkey and the United States. Egypt's President Nasser sent troops to Syria Sunday.

Writing as the Soviet Communist party chief, Khrushchev sent almost identical letters to seven west European Socialist parties. He declared that "imperialist Western oil companies" created the Syrian crisis and that the United States and Turkey threaten aggression.

Syria would not be left to defend itself alone if it were attacked, Khrushchev said as he called for the Socialists to work with the Communists for Middle East peace.

COOL RECEPTION

Socialist leaders in and out of power received the overture coolly.

The British Labor party leader, Hugh Gaitskell, went to 10 Downing Street to talk with Prime Minister Macmillan. Gaitskell then sent Premier Bourgia a note saying that it should go to the United Nations if Syria wanted to argue its charges.

The London Daily Herald, the Labor party newspaper, describes the Khrushchev appeal as insincere and says the Soviets are being made to opposition parties over the heads of governments.

Reactions also were unfavorable in Norway and Denmark, which have Socialist governments.

Danish Socialists withheld full comment until the party's executive committee meets. But a party statement said the Danish Socialists in the past had "unreservedly condemned any aggression—including the attack on North Korea, the Suez action and the Soviet intervention in Hungary."

Norwegian Socialists said they had rejected the Russian bid because the party did not want to conduct foreign policy independent of the government.

Dutch Labor party sources described the Khrushchev appeal as "pure propaganda reflecting the well-known Soviet views' on the Middle East."

CLAIMS ATTACK PLANNED

In Damascus, meanwhile, the Syrian foreign ministry summoned foreign diplomats to tell them Turkey plans to "launch a premeditated action against Syria."

Acting Foreign Minister Khalil Kallas said in separate notes to 10 countries that he had been notified of increased Turkish military concentrations on the Syrian border. He added that Syria is considering taking the matter before the UN.

But an Egyptian Embassy spokesman in Ankara, Turkey, Abdul Settah Mahmud, said he does not believe Turkish troops have concentrated on the Syrian border. He said Israel is the only country which might attack Syria.

Israelis reported that radio Damascus and radio Cairo had announced that Egyptian troops in Syria are being shipped along both the Israeli and the Turkish borders. There was no confirmation of this.

Plowing Matches Open at Simcoe

SIMCOE (CP)—The 46th Canadian plowing championships with a record 20,000 attending, opened Tuesday at Norfolk town 17 miles south of Brantford.

Some 600 plowmen representing seven provinces are competing for $15,000 in prizes. The first two will be eligible for world matches in Stuttgart, Germany, in 1958.

Competitors from the Ontario counties of Brant, Norfolk, Haldimand, Elgin and Oxford began plowing for the Ontario title which will be decided today.

150,000 FRIENDS?

On Tuesday of last week, according to a story from Lakeville, Mass., little Francis X "learned how many friends he really has."

The little boy, age 9, is ill with muscular dystrophy. He never had a visitor in Lakeville sanitorium. His mother is dead, his father in prison for killing her.

Francis X told his doctor he would like to get four or five cards on his ninth birthday. His story got out. He received 150,000 cards, $10,000, toys, candy, games, radios, television sets, and comedian Jerry Lewis dedicated a million-dollar television show exclusively to him.

Now, the story goes, Francis X knows how many friends he has. It would be encouraging if one could believe that all who mailed him cards are really his friends. Unfortunately this incident appears to be best described as a mass demonstration of sentimentality linked with bad consciences. Most of us, we think, know that there are hundreds of people like Francis X, whom we could help, but we are "too busy" to do so - until the case is given the "the full treatment" by some soldier or her brother.

Francis X will know better how many friends he has a couple of months from now, when his story is no longer news. If he has a dozen he will be lucky. And, let this be said for sob-sisters, the dozen will be genuine. It does not matter how many real friends, for among the 150,000 who sent him cards there are bound to be some who will find that they cannot rock their consciences back to sleep.

OLD SONGS IN NEW SETTINGS

We have a bone to pick with song arrangers and vocalists. Why do many of them jazz up an old-time favorite ditty and in so doing kill all pleasant memories the listeners may have had?

We do not claim to be "long-hairs," nor are we unimaginative. We enjoy some forms of jazz as well as other types of music. But it irks us to hear about half of an old favorite like "Autumn Leaves" sung in melancholy vein and then, like a bolt out of the blue, hear the singer whip into a 1957 jazz style of it, without the slightest forewarning so that we could turn the radio dial and listen to another program.

Too, we have been wondering what has happened to genuine composers of "popular" music. It is seldom that we hear an original and unique piece. Most today are "steals" from the classics.

It seems that composers of "pops" have run out of fresh ideas and that arrangers are now in the limelight. During the past few years we have noticed that rock, or at least a great many, of the popular tunes being hummed were also popular in Mom's and Dad's time. Is about the only change since the days of "Rock Bottom" has been the birth of rock and roll. That may be square, but we just cannot dig it - - though we would like to bury it.

A PARKING PROBLEM

Next time the city traffic committee looks about for more improvements to the traffic situation in Belleville, we suggest its members go over to Coleman Street, chasing a work day, and see the number of cars parked along the west curb.

Since the downtown area proper cannot handle a heavy influx of automobiles, it is only right that motorists be permitted to park on Coleman St. However, these cars have turned up a problem which, if allowed to go unchecked, could cause an accident.

As members of the committee are well aware, Jane, Catherine and Henry Streets enter Coleman St. from the west. It is where the problem arises. Cars are being parked along Coleman St. without leaving sufficient room at the intersections of these tributaries for motorists desiring to enter Coleman St. to get an unobstructed view of traffic. As a result drivers coming off Jane, Catherine and Henry Streets have no other alternative - short of getting out of their cars and walking ahead - - than to edge out on to Coleman St., fingers crossed and hoping there is no north-south traffic in close proximity to them.

In the interests of safety it might pay the traffic committee to look into this matter and possibly order "NO Parking" signs erected on Coleman St. several feet north and south of the intersections of Jane, Catherine and Henry Streets.

CHERRY PIE

You can have your fancy dishes,
Have your salads, if you care;
You can have your Chinese mixtures
And your French bill-of-fare;
But there's nothing suits my palate
Half so well, whate'er you buy,
As a big and generous portion
Of a juicy cherry pie.

You may talk about your sweetmeats
And your floating Island, too;
You may talk about your jellies
That you cover with a goo;
But the greatest dinner finish
That has been my luck to try,
Was a big and generous portion
Of a juicy cherry pie.

Oh! the crimson, crimson cherries,
How they seem to sweetly smile;
How my mouth begins to water
Then I think of them awhile.
If you'd please me when I'm grouchy,
Drive the storm clouds from the sky,
It you'd fill my soul with gladness,
Serve me luscious cherry pie.

Mutations and Radio-activity

By PIERRE de LATIL in "UNESCO Feuirres"

"But if you live in a granite house, you receive more radiation than if you have limestone walls: and the increase in the amount of radio-activity which you receive is far greater than that which one is really told atomic industrialization, provided that the industrialization is accompanied by necessary precautions."

This was the answer given during the Atomic Energy Conference at Geneva to the specialist on the biological dangers of the atom to an American journalist who had asked a rather panicky question concerning the future of mankind. During the press conferences which immediately followed every session, certain journalists never lost an opportunity of referring to the dangers of lethal and mysterious dangers. The answers were always the same: yes, there is a possibility of danger in the future; no, for the time being, there is no danger; but from now on, we must face this peril, we must study it and understand it, that we may be ready to combat it.

As far as we were concerned, we remained impressed by the speech of explanation given by Professor Maynecord, chairman of the session, devoted to protection against radiation. He was answering one of his colleagues, who raised the question of the possible degeneration of the human race.

We are in Switzerland. Perhaps you have travelled through the mountain valleys here. Have you ever heard that our Swiss friends are degenerate? Nevertheless, many live at a high altitude and, as a result, their genetic system is receiving several doses of radio-activity far greater than those of our cities. We are not concerned here with the question of the possible degeneration of the human race.

We are in Switzerland. Perhaps you have travelled through the mountain valleys here. Have you ever heard that our Swiss friends are degenerate? Nevertheless, many live at a high altitude and, as a result, their genetic system is receiving several doses of radio-activity far greater than those of our cities. We are not concerned here with the question of the possible degeneration of the human race.

Before us, on the other hand, is much radio-activity as the citizens of Switzerland, a great international conference which will be built."

It would be easy to quote pages and phrases from the official proceedings of the conference, phrases which exactly the same thing. But it's better to stick to the ideas and to draw the granite house and the comparison between the radio-activity which will rain down the problem: the natural variations of radio-activity are always more important than those which may be due to industrial activity, said Professor Maynecord, experimental explosions, if they occurred too often, would present a danger for the entire world."

* * *

In recent months, we have clung to these words every time we saw fears expressed in the press, often in alarming terms. At one time, we wondered if we, too, should not give way to the panic known in certain quarters and we wondered if, perhaps, the danger really was an immediate one. We can tell [illegible] his faith in science being shaken at one time or another?

As for the dangers of radio-activity are concerned, you must be clear about this point and you must be even more careful that you are not misled by nonsense. Above all, you must distinguish between atomic energy and atomic explosion. The one has not outlawed iron because iron is used to make cannon balls, and the second fire because a flame can be dangerous in the form of a torch or [illegible] explosion.

* * *

Unfortunately, scientific facts seem rare when you try to study the genetic effects of radiation. They are not only older the burns, whether internal or external, are the result of an "ionizing" radiations. Here, the most serious wound can be healed in one-the wound which, barely touching the nucleus of a cell, allows it to live and even to reproduce itself. The cell appears to be unharmed; the truth is that it has become a different cell. And if it happens to be a germinal cell, then the beings which will be born from it may be different from their parents.

X-rays, gamma-rays, electrons, neutrons — whether in the form of wave radiation or material projectiles — can, if they carry enough energy, overthrow the highly complex chemical architecture of the large molecules of nucleo-protein which are the genes in the nuclei of cells. Now these genes, these granulations invisible under the microscope, these chromosomes, carry the hereditly of all living beings. Each living being has received from each of his parents half of his genes. And he transmits to each of his children one-half of his own genes chosen by chance. In this way a species remains alike down through the ages because it is always the same genes, determining the same bodily characteristics, which are transmitted through the sexual cells.

But if a gene is no longer the same, there will be a "mutation": the being who will be born from the male or the female cell which has undergone this mutation will be different.

All special offer cases of such mutations spontaneously for reasons which are not very well known, but it seems certain that exposure to the slightest dose, if the protein of a gene is modified in a sexual cell, then the being which is born from this cell may be abnormal. Its abnormalities are then possible or unfavorable, no one knows, but they will probably be unfavorable. If you strike a watch just anywhere by chance, the probability of the watch's mechanism in this way is not very high.

Most of these mutations cannot be detected. Only certain unfavorable mutations can be observed with precision: when a dwarf, a cretin, a deaf mute or a hemophiliac is born in a family which has never known such a thing, then it is admitted that a mutation has taken place.

Yes, the radiations of the atomic age can increase the rate of mutations. It has been calculated that if an entire generation were submitted during its entire lifetime, that is of 50 roentgens — the maximum dose now accepted for workers in atomic factories — then the probability of mutations would double.

This is the risk: to see the birth of many children retarding, deaf mutes and hemophiliacs, whether in the next generation or in the distant generations of the future.

* * *

The risk seems to be at a minimum because few men work in atomic factories and those who do receive an amount of radiation always lower than 5 roentgens. But the risk is not negligible when you think of the [illegible] given by X-rays: in a single intestinal X-ray examination, a patient may receive 30 or 40 roentgens!

In other words, diagnosis and treatment by X-rays must be watched at least as closely as atomic industrial activity. Doses are closely watched. Not only, as we have said, has the maximum amount [illegible] been dose reduced to 50 roentgens, but the present tendency is to be extremely strict in applying these rules.

This was proven at the recent International Conference on Radio-isotopes in Scientific Research organized by UNESCO in Paris. In one of a series of lectures made by Professor Dr. Lauriston Taylor, chief of the Atomic and Radiation Physics Division of the National Bureau of Standards in the United States, he explained the methods against radio-activity. His entire lecture expressed both confidence in the [illegible] which does now permitted and a determination never to allow these doses to be exceeded.

"Suppose that the dose is 5 roentgens per year," he said, in particular. "In that case, any person who has been conformed the enough to receive 5,000 roentgens (in an atomic industry) must be forced to give up his job."

Jay-Walking Cuts Mishaps

Victoria Daily Times

There is a certain jocular cynicism in the remark of Los Angeles' police chief, Harry Kolchanck, when he discusses Jaywalking.

Mr. Kochanck accepted an award from the Automobile Club of Washington and the American Automobile Association for the city's excellent record in avoiding traffic fatalities. He does not recommend that the award be given for other cities, where traffic is denser, but he says that pedestrian accidents are more frequent when his officers rigidly enforced the laws against jay-walking than they have been since enforcement was sprakened.

"Jay-walking," he suggests, "may have a tendency to keep the pedestrian alert and alive."

The chief implies stata of expert broken-field running on the part of those who dash across thoroughfares way through vehicular traffic. The general conception of safety is to do as much as possible to put oneself to the atmosphere of a contest between the motorist and the pedestrian, the skilful enough to elude him. But it could, without distortion, call for greater agility and alertness from those afoot.

Regulations are drawn up for the protection of both motorists and pedestrians. But a rule is a poor cushion when the two come into violent contact. Victoria may not want to popularize jay-walking, but if the Fort Angeles livelihoods can be given to the people in the crosswalks, their lungs and wear and tear on tempers might be reduced.

Diefenbaker Shows Genius

St. Catharines Standard

At a time when bigotry and racial strife in the Southern United States have given the free world and its mightiest stronghold itself a bad name, when world Communism points its own blood-stained fingers at the tragedy of Little Rock, Prime Minister Diefenbaker's call to Douglas Jung of Vancouver to join the cabinet as the United Nations was a sheer stroke of genius.

Jung, amiable Chinese-Canadian Doug Jung, elected to Parliament last June by the people of Vancouver-Centre, will present to the world the other side of the issue.

He will show that bigotry and prejudice are foreign to the vast majority of decent people of the free world, that there are men and women of every race judged by their neighbor by what he is and not by the color of his skin or the shape of his eyes or the church he attends.

Perhaps better answer is there to stifle the grins of Communists and those who find pleasure in the racial developments South of the Mason-Dixon Line but to present the true spirit of Canada and the world in the person of a man like Doug Jung!

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

E Pluribus Unum

A Chicago man writes that he had "arthritis" (his quotes) for six years, in both arms and shoulders, across the chest and up the sides of his head.

"I took pills till I could taste them all the time. I received a good many needles in the arms. I was ready to give up, when I spent 35c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your rheumatic pamphlet."

"I didn't go for treatments or needles any more. I followed only the advice in your pamphlet — high calcium diet, no sugar, no milk, sweet milk, buttermilk or skim milk, every day, calcium capsules, etc.

"In about six weeks all pain was gone, but it took a year to get rid of the stiffness. For three months I had a job working even in water-sanitating. Now that I am back at my trade (machine shop) I can scratch my back. My arms are free again. Since adopting the high calcium diet I have taken no beer or soft drinks. I have had no pain or stiffness since."

I am using your letter here because I believe it is true. That I think everything you are saying is reasonably correct, except your notion (or maybe it was a notion of the doctor who gave you the injections) that your chronic cover a year in duration joint disability was arthritis. But that's not important. Not to a patient who has learned to clothe the meaningless term in quotation marks — implying incredulity.

In modern medical literature, there is no definition of chronic arthritis, rheumatoid arthritis, osteo-arthritis; and I doubt that any "definition" rendered by a specialist will attempt to define or describe such a disease or disability.

The late great Dr. Wm. Osler defined chronic rheumatism in his famous textbook, Practice of Medicine. His description of the three principal forms of chronic rheumatism is still an excellent picture of physical degeneration of joint tissues, and that's what I call rheumatic.

The only reason why I call it rheumatic and not rheumatism is that Osler, poor man, ascribed the disease or disability to cold and damp, and largely because of Osler's eminence and prestige the entire medical profession followed that teaching and still does. I suppose what imposing name the doctor applies to your insidious, long-lasting joint disease.

Of course, I don't know whether the readers or friends have had anything to do with my Chicago friend's recovery. Old - A. Cold-corner means of treatment the man received may explain it. But the testimonial is just one of many of the same kind, so I thought it could do no harm. I might do some good to print it.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

"You probably do a great deal of reading?" I suggested.

"I can't concentrate," said she. "We have been accustomed to an active life," said he.

And after similar neighborly generalities of the elderly sort, they strolled away, side by side, in the sunshine.

Sir William Mulock, who was chief justice of Ontario, had fished for his limit and caught a trout still in his hundredth year. You have to be that old before interests you choose when young. Games leave you flat, in your thirties, and religious speculations. You have nothing but the classics in your forties, and poetry comes and they pall. But I know an old man in his eighty-ninth year who has been a bird watcher since boyhood. And though his hearing is not as it was, and his eyesight is not as keen, he can get out in the garden, the park, the field and, like a religious saying his beads, count the precious birds which, in memory, are as bright as ever. And for the first time he saw them, a long, alert lifetime ago.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BANISH ALL FEARS

Fears are among mankind's worst diseases, and I think that we can well name fear as such, for fear itself and attacks every spiritual ideal that we possess. Once these fears gain entrance to the mind body and soul they fall given to us, endless troubles begin.

In my reading I came across this statement by Lloyd C. Douglas. He said, "Fear is the basis of any sort of fear. It percolates through all his thinking, changes his personality, makes him land-lord to a ghost." Most of our fears are imaginary, created by our own minds. Fear is the opposite with a few from others thrown in. By banishing all fears, we develop security of decent people of the free world, that there are men and women of every race judged by their neighbor by what he is and not by the color of his skin or the shape of his eyes or the church he attends.

Perhaps better answer is there to stifle the grins of Communists and those who find pleasure in the racial developments South of the Mason-Dixon Line but to present the true spirit of Canada and the world in the person of a man like Doug Jung!

There are certain protective fears that we need to respect, but not those fears that hide in the mind, ever ready as an enemy to bring on trouble and confusion. The constant prayer to our Creator for a fearless body and for all fears from my mind and heart alone.

There can be no fears where there is perfect trust and confidence in a higher power than the one we own. Do not allow fears to get a foothold in your mind. Look to God, who can wipe them all out in a moment of time and restore peace to him and confidence.

Fears work in darkness. Like termites, they cannot stand the light, and almost do their damage when undisturbed.

FACING FACTS

One of the hardest things in life is to confront our limitations. We try to hide from them with all of us do Some seek the narcotic refuge deadening themselves with alcohol or with some other variety of habit-forming drug to the realization of what they really are.

He alone is truly happy who faces what he is, even though it may take courage to look facts fully in the face. Some people are keenly aware that they lack beauty and physical grace. Many people and they are happy indeed — take such situations with a big laugh. They are not good-looking and that is all there is to it. But they never grieve over it and are frustrated, their lives turning in upon themselves to the point of loneliness. Still others are humiliated that some are more successful than they. And others are bitter over a continual lack of money. Those who are short want to be tall, and those who are too tall want to be short. And obesity — [illegible]!

About the last mentioned, something indeed can be done, but about most of the others, nothing can be done.

Lincoln once said that people are about as happy as they make up their minds to be. Certainly that contains a big truth. Face facts and be happy with what you find. Don't grieve over your limitations — surmount them.

QUEEN FIRST REIGNING MONARCH TO OPEN CANADA'S PARLIAMENT

Monday, Oct. 14, 1957, marked a memorable day in Canada's history as Queen Elizabeth opened Parliament, reading the speech from the throne. It is the first time a reigning monarch of Canada has ever presided at the Parliamentary ceremony. All of Ottawa was in a festive dress for the occasion.

QUEEN MAKES HER WORDS COME TRUE

"There are periods when life seems a small, dull, round . . . and then suddenly we are caught up in some great event which gives us a glimpse of the solid and durable foundations of our existence." A day after she spoke these words, Queen Elizabeth made her remarks come true when she opened Canada's Parliament. For ceremony she wore her coronation robes and tiara.

MONEY MIX-UP

Louise Cote, 16, of Ottawa (left) shows how she turned over $1,000 in cash, which wasn't hers, to Louise Cote, 23 (right). It was a part of a mix-up, the result of coincidences and similar names. G. Cote of Trois-Rivieres, Que., sent the money to the older Louise Cote, his daughter, who used to live at 222 Daly Street in Ottawa. A doctor who looks after the younger Louise now lives at 222 Daly Street and when he received the letter with the money he sent it off to his patient, the wrong Louise. After an exchange of telegrams and long-distance calls, the money reached its rightful owner and the two Louise Cotes re-enacted part of the scene for the camera. (CP Photo).

BUS STOP ON WAY TO MOON

Here is an artist's conception of a rocket ship zooming over icy polar regions and passing a "space station" (right) on its way to the moon. Fantastic a few weeks ago, this dream of scientists now has serious consideration as the Russian earth satellite goes on spinning in space. Dr. Edward Pendray, rocket consultant to Princeton and the California Institute of Technology, said that, quite outside the problems of getting the rocket ship to its goal, is the question of returning the crew back to earth—and alive after the astral journey.

"I GREET YOU AS YOUR QUEEN"

HASN'T FOUND SPUTNIK YET

This giant satellite-tracking camera, cost $100,000, is so accurate that it can photograph a golf ball thrown from an airplane 60,000 feet high, but it has not yet "seen" Sputnik I, the Russian satellite. Reason for camera's failure to photograph the Soviet moon, said Dr. Karl Henize of the Smithsonian Institute in Pasadena, Calif., is that the moon has passed over at times not favorable to photography. Scientists and manufacturer representatives are from left: Dr. Karl Henize (rear), Samuel Widden, Franklin Shaffer, Clyde Chivens, Dr. Roderic Scott and Aubrey Silliett, standing on camera.

79TH ANNIVERSARY

Last Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. John W. Heagle were guests at a surprise party given in their honor by their family.

The festivities began with the presentation of pink feathered carnation corsage to Mrs. Heagle and a white boutonniere to Mr. Heagle.

The evening was spent socially after which delicious refreshments were served.

Gifts were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Heagle by Masters Billie Douglas, Steven Barker and Johnnie Heagle.

The toast was proposed by Mr. Allan Heagle after which Mr. and Mrs. Heagle voiced their thanks.

A beautifully decorated anniversary cake, for the occasion, was then cut.

Weddings

PATRICK—BRINKLOW

TRENTON — Flowers decorated Grace United Church, Trenton, on Saturday, October 12, when Rev. G. A. Puttenham united Jean Marjorie Brinklow and Douglas James Patrick in a pretty double-ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earle Brinklow, 131 Marmora street, Trenton and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Patrick, Trenton.

Traditional wedding music was played by the United Church organist during the ceremony.

Given away by her father, the bride made a charming picture in a white ballerina-length lace-over-net bridal gown. Her veil was held in place by a jewelled tiara-shaped headdress, and she carried a bridal bouquet of red roses and lily-of-the-valley.

She was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Edward Brinklow, Trenton, as matron of honour. Mrs. Brinklow wore a ballerina-length gown of blue nylon and net with matching headdress and carried a bouquet of pink roses and lily-of-the-valley.

The best man was Mr. Edward Brinklow, brother of the bride, and the ushers were Mr. Robert Mason and Mr. Kenneth McMurter, both of Trenton.

The Orange Hall, Trenton, was gay with floral decorations for the wedding reception, where the bride's mother received, wearing a navy taffeta gown with matching hat and accessories, and a corsage of pink roses and lily-of-the-valley. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a beige tweed two-piece ensemble and a corsage of pink roses.

For going-away the bride donned a beige accessories and a pink corsage were chosen by the bride for her travelling kit. The couple will make their home in Trenton.

Out-of-town guests were present from Belleville, Roseneath, and Bancroft.

WOOD — CLOSS

TRENTON—Nuptial Mass was celebrated at St. Peter-in-Chains Roman Catholic Church, Trenton, on Saturday, October 12, when Mona Lorraine Closs, daughter of Mr. Charles Closs, Trenton, was united in marriage with Dale Francis Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Wood, 7 Water Street, Trenton.

Traditional wedding music was played by the Convent Sisters.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Peter Closs, the bride was a radiant figure in her floor-length nylon-over-set white bridal gown, with a three-tiered overskirt of chantilly lace, tight-fitted bodice, and sweetheart neckline. Her three-quarter length veil was fastened to a tiara of small seed pearls, and she carried a white prayer book, crested with pink roses. A single strand of pearls completed her ensemble.

Miss Margot Closs, the bride's sister, as maid of honour, was gowned in blue net with a two-tiered skirt trimmed with silver filagree. A blue net stole set off her gown, and she wore an enchanting white feather headdress. Her bouquet was of yellow and white roses.

The duties of best man were carried out by Mr. Leroy Harrison, Frankford, and the ushers were Messrs. Carl Wood, the bridegroom's brother, and Robert White, both of Trenton.

For the wedding reception which followed the ceremony, held at Glen Miller hall, the bride's table had a centrepiece of pink net streamers and roses, forming a background for the three-tiered, pink rosebud trimmed bridal cake, which was made and decorated by the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Wood, was topped with a bride and bridegroom.

Receiving the guests was the bride's elder sister, Mrs. Arnold Walt, who was attired in a two-piece suit of black and white houndstooth tweed, black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in metallic blue, with blue accessories, and a corsage of pink roses.

The bride chose a brown and green figure-8 dress, with topcoat of tone, beige accessories and a corsage of pink roses for travelling to Montreal. The happy couple will be residing in Trenton on their return.

Out-of-town guests were present from Tweed, Bancroft and Frankford.

REVOY—CHAPMAN

CAMPBELLFORD — Jessie Donna Leigh Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ernest Chapman of Queen Street, Campbellford, became the bride of Donald Ray Revoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Revoy of Havelock in a pretty ceremony at Christ Anglican Church in Campbellford on Saturday afternoon. The Rev. Owen G. Barrow, pastor of Christ Church, officiated.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. James Benor. Marlene Angers of Toronto was soloist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a

Argyll Chapter IODE Plans Rummage Sale

The regular meeting of the Argyll Chapter, Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire, was held at the Armouries with the Regent, Mrs. A. Duffy, presiding.

Mrs. C. Bristol reported on the dessert bridge held on October 2nd last, and thanked the members for their assistance to her as convener.

A rummage sale will be held in the Armouries, this week and all members are requested to bring their articles to the Armouries on Friday afternoon.

It was decided to present pictures of Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to the new school at Madoc. A report was given on the last Citizenship court when approximately 25 persons received their certificates.

The balance of the evening was spent playing cards, and the winners were, Mrs. C. Wallbridge and Mrs. R. Liddle.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The Women of the Moose held their first meeting of the month in Moose hall on October 10, with a fair attendance.

The meeting was opened with Sr. Regt. Hora Kaiser presiding. The recorder called roll call of officers, escorts and committee chairman.

Thank-you cards were read from Emily Jeffery and the Hopkins family. Mary Peoples thanked girls who helped her on the wedding breakfast last Thursday. Ruby Stapley and Nellie Shandraw thanked chapter for gifts sent them while ill. Recorder Grace Bartlett also thanked chapter for gift sent her son while ill.

One candidate was initiated into defending circle.

Next meeting night, Oct. 24th. Hallowe'en party and potluck supper for which a small fee will be charged. Each one is to bring something. Convocation Sunday is Oct. 27, the meeting to be held in West Toronto.

The Sr. Regt. Nora Kaiser brought the meeting to a close; wishing all a fraternal goodnight.

On Friday morning a number of girls from Belleville and Trenton left for the conference in Windsor. On Saturday morning at the meeting over which Deputy Grand Regent Sylvia Whitehawn presided, in the discussion period it was stated that Port Dover is the only active chapter with Port Arthur being second. Up till June, 1957, there were only a few members into defending circle, and 41,000 members by the end of 1957. Of this quite a few dropped out. On the whole there is quite a drop. Also alluded for their certificates. Ontario ranked among the top in total year. The new membership for Ontario to the end of June was 4,340, a gain of 153 in the last quarter from April to June.

There were 214 members at the meeting on Sunday morning.

The scholarship fund was $1651.

A number of the girls attended the Coronation Pageant, which was impressive.

The Loyal Order of Moose sent word to the ladies that they were parading in the tunnel to meet George Embank with the Kilties band leading the parade.

A lovely bouquet of roses was presented to Mrs. Hrabchuk.

The installation of officers was held early so the visitors could clean out and start for home.

For the next three years the conference will be at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto.

So-Ed Club Begins Session By 'Tiger Hunt'

The opening night of So-Ed's fall session took place recently with a "Tiger Hunt."

Various games were provided for the duration of registration, which Shirley Hughes and Ted Gaetano had charge of.

The speaker for the evening was Mr. Don Endicott, chairman of National So-Ed. For two years he was Ontario vice-president. He has been active in the Peterborough club since 1951. Mr. Endicott presented an "Introduction to So-Ed," which contained the following information:

So-Ed has come to be known as a "learning" program, but the idea of So-Ed actually originated in Portland, Oregon. However, this first attempt was unsuccessful. On January 16th, 1940 the first Canadian So-Ed session was held in the Vancouver "Y". There were 180 people registered and in six weeks this had increased to 250 people attending.

In the next few years, a rapid growth was experienced, and by 1943 there were So-Eds in 23 "Y's" throughout the country. There were sometimes sponsored by the YMCA and the YWCA.

In 1947, the first So-Ed conference took place and in 1948, the first National So-Ed meeting was held.

ADVISORY BODY

National So-Ed is an advisory body made up of representatives from each So-Ed club. The executive is elected from these representatives and is located in Ontario. Its purpose is to assist the clubs and to act as a clearing house for information. A large part of their time is spent in the extension field, helping new So-Ed clubs to get started.

Because the clubs cover such an extensive area much of National So-Ed's work is done through correspondence. Expenses are met from funds received at the So-Ed Clubs.

In many new communities So-Ed is the first organization to be introduced. It is now approximately 50 So-Ed's across Canada. Hamilton recently received its 25th session. Other countries are beginning to look to So-Ed's for information. Holland, Oregon, recently requested Walter Hrabchuk (a So-Ed first originated!) Belgium and Australia have also shown interest.

MEETS INDIVIDUAL NEEDS

The purpose of So-Ed is to meet the interests and needs of the individual. It offers every opportunity for group education and "experience". This helps people to understand themselves and society, and the world about them; learn new skills and make new friends.

The So-Ed meetings are divided into a three-part program—lecture, interest and social.

The lecture is an informal talk on general topics of interest in the community. Frequently followed by a discussion period.

Interest—investigate one of a variety of skills or interests. Social—for fun and fellowship.

The greatest opportunity in So-Ed is where you are on a committee or the executive.

There is no limit to what you can serving your community, and in So-Ed you have fun while you are at it.

Bert Hiles, Belleville president, thanked Don Endicott for giving the new members a clear picture of So-Ed, and presented him with a token.

Mrs. Endicott was also in attendance.

Following the talk, there was a "Tiger Hunt," led by Bert Hiles.

Refreshments were served in the form of coffee and donuts.

As this was registration night dance programs were not used. Paul Egan, a spoon player (where anyone with a spoon could "cut in"), an elimination dance, a Sweetheart dance and others were used as "mixers" during the dancing period.

The elimination dance was won by Betty Leadley and Lorne Pattick. The Sweetheart dance was started by Jean Vickers and Bert Hiles.

Mrs. Diefenbaker Will Take Only Five Dresses

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. John Diefenbaker said Tuesday she will take a wardrobe of five dresses when she visits Washington with the prime minister Thursday and Friday.

On her arrival Thursday, she will wear a woollen suit in hunter's green, belted jacket, pleated skirt and mink stole with green felt hat.

At dinner at the White House Thursday her dress will be a Christian Dior-designed strapless

Queen Wore Tailored Suit On Final Appearance Here

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The Queen for her last visit to Canadians will wear a tailored suit of slate grey wool and a close-fitting feather hat of soft, pin-dotted mauve.

With her husband, Prince Philip, the Queen today leaves for Williamsburg, Va., after a stay in Ottawa which has been the busiest of her 11 visits to Canada.

The farewell - to - Canada costume is the ninth she has worn publicly.

Over the suit, designed by Norman Hartnell, she was to wear a short, full jacket, collared and lined with beaver.

Although fashion — conscious citizens have noted the Queen has trotted out some old outfits for her Ottawa visit—two costumes were worn on a recent state visit to Paris—her wardrobe in Canada has won plaudits.

DRAW PRAISE

Two gowns in particular—one comparatively well - known and the one a Canadian surprise—drew special praise.

The white-brown gown was the glittering, heavy white satin coronation gown bearing Commonwealth emblems.

Monday, the slender, regal monarch wore it when she read the Throne Speech to open the 23rd Parliament. She had worn it previously in Australia, New Zealand and Ceylon parliaments.

The surprise came Monday night when the Queen was at home to 114 dinner guests and 1,200 reception guests assembled at Government House.

For both occasions she wore a magnificent Hartnell creation of deep green velvet and gold green satin, with a voluminous skirt.

Another new Hartnell creation was worn Tuesday night for a dinner at Prime Minister Diefenbaker's residence. This was a gown of shimmering white tulle, embroidered with gold and silver sequins. Fashioned on princess lines, it has a fitted bodice and a full, flowing skirt.

GUESSED AT FUR

Prior to the visit, London fashion experts probing the wardrobe curtain, ventured a guess that the Queen's daytime dress would include fur trim.

The fashion pundits pulled the right thread, as far as fur trim is concerned.

At least four costumes—including today's departure outfit—were accented with fur collars.

The Queen arrived Saturday wearing a claret-red velvet coat with a mink collar. Sunday, to place a wreath at the national war memorial and attend divine service, she wore a mink-trimmed beige suit. Both costumes were part of her Paris wardrobe.

Tuesday, for a 15-mile processional drive through Ottawa and neighboring Hull, Que., she wore a woollen suit in hollyberry red with a brunette lamb collar on a loose-fitting jacket.

The Queen's hats have been small, off-the-face styles which would not hide her face with her fair complexion and clear blue eyes.

Pr. Ed-Belleville Club Hears Talk On 'Blessings'

With the spirit of thankfulness predominating, the president, Mrs. Wannamaker, welcomed the members and guests to the Prince Edward-Belleville Council meeting held in the YMCA recently with 23 in attendance.

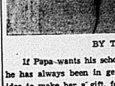
Both the minutes and treasurer's report were read by Mrs. P. Parliament.

The election of officers and reception of new members will be held in November as that the December meeting will be free for a Christmas program.

Mrs. D. Moxam's and Mrs. Cunningham's groups were in charge of the program. Mrs. Moxam presided.

Mrs. Lent was pianist for several community songs. Two fine recitations were given by Mrs. Berta MacFarlane, while Mrs. B. Davidson gave a reading and Mrs. Weese a paper entitled "The Value of Two Words, 'Thank You'."

The guest speaker, Mrs. Farnsworth, gave an interesting and helpful message, entreating all to count many blessings and give to God the glory. She closed with prayer.



After the meeting closed a social time was spent with refreshments served by Mrs. Moxam group, Mesdames Armstrong, Sanderson, Larue, Wannamaker, Grass, Davidson, Insley and Clegg assisting.

Mrs. P. White kindly assisted for some who were absent.

Good Timing

BY TRACY ADRIAN

If Papa wants his school girl daughter to be as punctual as he has always been in getting to business, it might be a good idea to make her a gift, for her first semester, of a watch that she will be proud of.

This one is not only a handsome accessory to sports and daytime clothes but it is also a precision instrument to be completely trusted. The watch is a self-winding jewel-lever which teams a gold rim with a tan leather band and it practically assures a girl of getting to classes on time.

Woman Wins $25,000 Prize For Cooking

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) Here's the recipe that won Mrs. Gerda D. Rodeger of Berkeley, Calif., the $25,000 first place award Tuesday in the ninth Grand National Bake-off.

Accordion Treat

Three-quarters cup of butter. Three-quarters cup of sugar. Two unbeaten eggs.

One teaspoon vanilla.

One-quarter teaspoon salt.

One and one-quarter cups sifted all-purpose flour.

Heavy-duty aluminum foil.

Cream butter. Gradually add sugar, creaming well. Blend in eggs, vanilla and salt. Beat well. Gradually add flour. Mix thoroughly.

Fold lengthwise one yard of foil to give double thickness, then fold into one - inch accordion pleats. Place on baking sheet.

Drop dough by rounded teaspoonfuls into folds (dough spreads during baking). Bake in slow oven (325 deg.) 25 to 30 minutes until golden brown. Cool 10 minutes; remove cookies and remove foil. If desired, sprinkle cookies with confectioners' sugar or frost with an icing.

Makes about four dozen cookies.

waltz-length gown of white brocaded satin, with a beaded headdress. Her veil was shoulder-length and she carried white shaggy 'mums with ivy.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. James Cooke, of Belleville, as matron of honor, wearing a gown of royal blue taffeta, with overlay skirt of chiffon. The bridesmaid was Mrs. Kenneth Campbell, sister of the bridegroom, of Toronto, who was gowned in golden chiffon with overlay skirt of chiffon, and a feathered headdress to match.

The groomsman was Mr. Kenneth Campbell, of Toronto, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were Mr. Robert Revoy, brother of the bridegroom, of Havelock, and Mr. Wayne Chapman of Campbellford, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Christ Church Parish Hall on Doxsee Avenue, for the bride and bridegroom left for a wedding trip to Florida. On their return they will live in Belleville.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

PROPER LIPSTICK APPLICATION IS AN ART

Color's not everything. Lipstick should be applied so as to give the mouth a pretty shape.

The average woman just "could not live" without her lipstick. She may pass up other cosmetics, but whether she's attending dishes, shopping at the supermarket or getting a gala night out, her lipstick's on. She wouldn't feel dressed otherwise.

There's no doubt that lipstick does wonders — not only for a woman's appearance, but for her morale as well. That one vivid touch of red makes a nice contrast to her skin, helps to emphasize eye color and, in general, has a brightening effect. Besides, it helps to keep lips soft and smooth, frequently wards off chapping.

On the other hand, lipstick can be a drawback rather than an asset. That's when it's improperly applied. Color isn't enough. Lipstick should be applied so as to give the mouth a pretty shape. If applied so it smears, lips look large and ugly. This is especially true now that vivid reds are so popular. If you're not adept at putting on this particular form of "warpaint," better plan a few practice sessions in front of the mirror. Even a girl with a naturally large mouth can learn to apply lipstick so that it's flattering. Be especially careful with the corners of lips; don't use your lipstick with a harsh, downward curve. Always try to give lip contours the hint of a smile, through a slight upward line on the lower lip.

And, speaking of lipsticks, we like a new one that contains royal jelly — that wonderful substance provided by bees, which includes natural vitamins, proteins and minerals, thus giving the lips a beauty treatment all day long.

For more than a decade, lipsticks have become more indelible — therefore more drying. It has been an aim of cosmetic chemists to formulate a more lasting lipstick that would also give the lips a beauty treatment, thus keeping them lips free, soft (yet firm) and luscious in appearance. The rich and advercent qualities of royal jelly added to lipstick have fulfilled this aim.

MOUNTAIN VIEW W.I.

MOUNTAIN VIEW — Mrs. Ben Anderson opened her home on Wednesday for the October meeting of Mountain View Women's Institute. There were 25 members present.

The president was in the chair and the meeting was opened in the usual manner.

Mrs. Charles Watering gave a talk on the motto, "Fagm Life is a Happy Life".

The topic for the meeting was "Agriculture" and was under the convenership of Mrs. L. Wallbridge, who gave a reading on the West Indies, particularly the Dominican Republic, which imports sheep from Canada.

Mrs. Neil gave a Thanksgiving reading.

Mrs. E. Hall thanked the hostess for her hospitality and also those who had taken part in the program.

Delegates were chosen for the area convention to be held on October 21 and 22 in Belleville.

After the meeting was closed the hostess, assisted by the general assistants, served delicious refreshments, and a social hour was enjoyed.

The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Hamilton.

Turkey Left Over?

By Mary Moore

There is no pain to having turkey leftovers, for my family would demolish it carcass and all in one midnight sitting around the kitchen table.

Dinner Menus

WEDNESDAY
(Vegetable Plate)

Homemade Turkey Soup; Cauliflower with Dill and Parsley Sauce; Shredded Harvard Beets on Spinach Nests; Buttered Onions with Parmesan; Deep Dish Plum Pie with Cream; Coffee.

But some folks do not have such trenchermen about, and like to make a special production from such rare stuff as left-over turkey, and that is as it should be.

President Eisenhower is a particular eater and he looks forward to Turkey Hash after Thanksgiving. Could be we Canadians could learn to like it too.

OVEN-BAKED TURKEY HASH

Four cups diced, peeled boiled potatoes, 4 cups sliced, cooked turkey, 2 cups heavy cream (or ½ cup melted butter or margarine plus 1½ cups milk), 5 teaspoons onion salt (or 4 teaspoons salt plus 2 tablespoons grated onion), ½ teaspoon pepper. Heat oven to 375 deg. F. In large shallow baking dish, level ingredients. Bake 20 min., or until bubbling but. Makes 8 servings. P.S. Turkey Hash should be moist and creamy, and traditionally in the midwest is served with hot cornsticks or cornbread or cornmeal muffins.

TURKEY MOULD OR LOAF

Four (4 ½) cups turkey, cooked and cut into pieces, 2 cups soft bread crumbs, 1 cup cooked rice, ½ cup chopped pimiento, 1½ cups milk or turkey stock, ¼ cup turkey fat or butter, melted, 4 eggs, beaten, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon paprika. Mix all the ingredients in order given. Place in a greased 10 or 9 inch ring mould or loaf pan. Stand in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 1 hour or until set. Let stand 10 minutes before unmoulding. Serve with the following sauce.

SAUCE FOR TURKEY MOULD OR LOAF

1 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 2 cups turkey stock or dilute gravy, ¼ cup cream, ½ cup cooked or canned mushrooms, 2 egg yolks, well beaten, 1 teaspoon minced parsley. Melt butter. Remove from heat. Blend in flour, salt and paprika. Gradually add broth, mixed until well blended. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Add cream, mushrooms, egg yolks and parsley. Mix well. Serve hot.

Hot Tip: For a quick but substantial lunch or supper add 2 cups of bite-sized pieces of cooked turkey to 1 can of condensed chicken soup. Arrange buttered toast or hamburg buns or big split tea biscuits on baking pan. Spread the creamed turkey over, top with thin cheese slices. Broil till cheese melts. Serve with chick tomato slices.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

THIS QUESTION POINTS UP A GLARING DISCOURTESY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

This past summer my husband and I rented a house for two months at a seashore resort where quite a few of our married friends either own or rent summer cottages. On Saturday evening of the last weekend we were there, we gave an informal dinner for six.

The two couples who were our guests (Mr. and Mrs. A and Mr. and Mrs. B) live in the city where we live, but they had never met one another. It was very apparent that they thoroughly enjoyed the meeting, and my husband and I were very happy about this. But now we're certainly not so happy about the whole thing. Indeed we are very much hurt about what happened two evenings ago, and we would like your point of view about this.

Today I happened to meet Mrs. B, and she said, most enthusiastically, "Bill and I had a wonderful time at the buffet dinner Mr. and Mrs. A gave at their home last Tuesday. They are such nice people, and you and Dick were so kind to invite us with them to that delightful dinner you gave at the shore."

I was really furious, Mrs. Beeckman, despite hurt, but I tried not to show this. Tell me, please: Weren't Mr. and Mrs. A most discourteous note to invite us? I have always thought that it is a most definite rule of good manners that when a couple (Mr. and Mrs. A, say) meets another couple (Mr. and Mrs. B) for the first time at your house, it is a "must" that when either couple gives a party after this meeting, they should invite the hostess and host of the house where they met. Isn't this courtesy still a rule? My husband and I feel that if it isn't, it should be! — A hurt hostess

Very definitely this is still a Rule of Courtesy, as it always has been . . . and I don't blame you and your husband for being deeply hurt that Mr. and Mrs. A didn't invite you when they invited Mr. and Mrs. B to the first party they gave after meeting at your house.

As a matter of fact, even if they hadn't actually been informed about this rule, I should think that any right-thinking person would naturally sense that this is the friendly and considerate gesture to make to a kind and generously-hospitable hostess and host . . . as you and your husband indeed were.

WOMAN GUEST OF HONOR SHOULD BE SERVED FIRST

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last evening I went to a dinner party at the home of some new friends, who, I had thought, were sticklers for etiquette. It was a charming occasion, a more or less informal dinner but they do have a maid who serves. The dinner was given in honor of a very attractive lady who was their house guest. She was seated at the right of the host, and I was surprised that she was served first, both when the host served the roast and when the waitress passed anything. Wasn't this a serious error — shouldn't the hostess have been served first?

— A.L.W.

This procedure was correct . . . the woman guest of honor, seated at the right of the host, should be served first. This is a bow-of-honor to the guest-of-honor!

Martha J. — I don't want any hoods in my family.

Gilbert J. — I would like to know whether a man has any rights at all over his own children.

We have a boy and a girl. I don't pretend to know anything about bringing up girls, so I don't interfere with my wife there, but when she brings up the boy to be a regular sissy, I say it's time for me to step in.

Our boy Steve is 12 years old and I don't think he's ever had a good fight in his life. He's been the popular color scheme of for the popular color scheme of red and black. Bright red wool jersey is used for the cuffed mid-hip pullover. The pants, which stop short of the ankles, are of two-way stretch black cotton velvet.

My wife threatens to throw them out.

• • •

Martha J. — I don't want any hoods in my family like there were in Gilbert's. One of his brothers is still using time in a reformatory.

Gilbert is a very smart boy, very good in school and he reads a lot and sticks to himself. I'm proud of him, but his father has tried to him into working out in secret with those awful weights.

• • •

The Council: Steve must be a mighty unhappy boy, torn as he is between a father who sees him growing into a sissy and a mother who fears he'll become a "hood."

Gilbert is right, however, in feeling he should have some say about his son's bringing-up — and his daughter's too, for that matter. But, possibly because of differences with his wife, he places too much emphasis on the easy-versus-manly-fighter angle.

Martha's statement that Steve "sticks to himself" and has started secretly working out with the weights indicates that the boy lacks self-respect and self-confidence. Even a smart boy of 12 should want to play with other boys.

The real lack in Steve's life is not fighting ability, but enjoyable activity with others. Practising secretly with weights may go hand in hand with grandiose dreams — and less and less contact with reality.

It is very important that Gilbert cut out the "sissy" talk and help his boy to self-respect. He won't do that by making slighting remarks about the boy's puny build, either. Gilbert can help him by playing ball, racing or wrestling with him until the boy's both builds up strength and becomes accustomed to rougher physical contact.

Gilbert should recognize that it is possible to lose fights and still be considered a real man, or to win them and be counted among the phonies and jerks.

AVONDALE W.A.

Mrs. Harold Wright was hostess to the Avondale Neighbors' Aid for the October meeting on Thursday afternoon. There was a good attendance with 25 members, five visitors and five children present.

In the absence of the president, Doris McLean presided.

The devotional part of the meeting was conducted by Nellie Chambers with Bernice Hall, Erma Reid and Doris McLean taking part.

The president of the Mothers' Auxiliary of the Cubs, Brownies and Scouts, Gladys Bonsor, announced that a card party would be held in the school next week.

A pot-luck supper in the form of a family night was arranged for later in the month.

A nominating committee was appointed and Win Cameron, Cynthia Wright and Shirley Griffith, will bring in the new slate of officers for the coming year at the November meeting.

Several amusing contests were conducted by Dorothy Brickman, and were enjoyed by all who participated.

Refreshments were served by Mesdames M. Hall, M. Smith, E. Bird and A. Reed.

The November meeting is to be held at the home of Marjorie Hall, Trent Road.

NEW KNITS

By VERA WINSTON

The knits are nicer than ever this season, and it's an ill-balanced wardrobe that doesn't include at least one new version of knit one, purl two. Here is a fine new job, a dress of nubby sweater knit that has a more dressy, more urbane look than a sweater and skirt. It goes in for a boat neckline, slight blousing above the waist and a knit rope sash. Good for career girl, for campus wear, and casual but good dressing any place by day.

Capacious Carryall

By ALICE ALDEN

The big bag, once exclusively meant for the traveller, has taken over for casual town wear, for the suburbanite and for the campus. Here is a sophisticated casual bag which Josef brings us from Italy and which he does in soft fruitwood brown, and a smart combination of suede and calf. We like so much the long slim silhouette, the boxed base, the double handle and certainly the miniature outside purse that saves so much fumbling. Gold plated accents on the handles and lock add a luxurious look.

Canadian Legion LA. Elects Officers

MARMORA — The Ladies' Auxiliary of Marmora Branch, Canadian Legion, 237, held its 11th anniversary party at the home of Mrs. Marie O'Neill, which took the form of a turkey dinner party.

The Ladies' Auxiliary was formed on August 15th, 1936, and received its charter in October of that year.

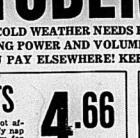
ORIGINAL OFFICERS

The first officers were: President, Mrs. Thomas Dickson; first vice-president, Mrs. Geo. Osborne; second vice-president, Mrs. E. Lloyd; secretary, Mrs. Cyril Tandy; treasurer, Mrs. Percy (Major) Gray; sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Norma Hipson.

1957-58 OFFICERS

The present officers are: President, Mrs. Marie O'Neill; first vice-president, Mrs. L. Williams; second vice-president, Mrs. P. Embury; secretary, Mrs. C. Bedore; treasurer, Mrs. F. Leal, Sr.; sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. C. Tandy.

The bountiful dinner was served buffet style after which music and singing were enjoyed and Mr. Frank O'Neill took several flash snaps of the group.



This auxiliary helps in all projects of the Legion, such as the Scholarship fund, Christmas baskets and clothing for the needy; they assist at the Santa Claus parade; hold a bingo every Wednesday night throughout the year to bolster their finances. Their membership is between 35 and 40.

Before the gathering dispersed the meeting was called to order and as it was the birthday of Mrs. O'Neill, their hostess, the group sang "Happy Birthday" and presented her with a cup and saucer, and thanked her for the most enjoyable dinner party and evening.

Kiwanis Club Presents Trophies

TWEED — An outstanding regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club was held at the Hotel Tweedsmuir on Thursday evening, when some 60 4-H Club members, parents, leaders and other important persons who are instrumental in producing a good club, were guests.

The guest speaker for the evening was Mr. Clarence Milligan, M.P. for Prince Edward-Lennox, and he stated in his talk to the 4-H Club members that, since he was a farmer he, naturally, is interested and concerned about their many activities.

Mr. Milligan was introduced by Sam Curry, and thanked by Arthur McCarey.

Mr. Lee Grills, M.P. for Hastings South, also was a guest, and spoke to the club saying since he is a dairyman, his thoughts and well wishes are close to the heart of the farmer.

Another speaker and guest was Mr. Jack Riddle, the assistant agricultural representative, of Stirling, who spoke briefly on the explanation of the trophies and their general meaning to the members.

Most of Hastings county was represented in some way, the "Holstein" leaders were Wes. Farrell, Moira; Don Martin, R. R. 2, Tweed, and John White, Roslin.

Mr. Arthur McCarey was the program chairman for the Kiwanis and arranged the program in full. He also presented each 4-H member with a leather key case, engraved with their names. These being presentations from the local Kiwanis Club.

TROPHIES PRESENTED

There were several trophies presented, as follows:

Miss Elsie Martin, R. R. 2, Tweed, and president of the local 4-H Club, a beautiful 16" silver tray, by the Bank of Montreal, Tweed, for best showmanship. It was engraved with Miss Martin's name and was presented by the Tweed manager, Mr. T. A. Thompson, who is also a Kiwanian.

Doug. Farrell, Moira, was presented with a cup by Kiwanian "Jim" Crawford, for being top-winner for the entire year's activities.

To the four top members, Doug. Farrell, Moira; Elsie Martin, Tweed; Harold Reid, Roslin, and Owen Ketcheson, Moira, Mr. Emerson Hodgins of The Tweed Mill, presented each of these top-members with one hundred weight of calf starter, and to all other members of the 4-H Club he gave 50 pounds of calf starter.

Also to the same four top-members as above, Don Chisholm of Chisholm's Lumber Co., Roslin, presented 100 pounds of "Chow," and to each of the other members he also gave 50 pounds of "Chow."

In the absence of Mr. J. F. Burns, of the Tweed High School staff, Mr. W. R. Hamilton, principal of Tweed High School, made the presentation of $3 in cash to the member with the highest club marks, being Harry Lawrenson, a first-year member, and $2 to the next in line with club marks for the year, Gary Gunn. These were both cash awards.

Each year The T. Eaton Co. of Toronto gives a presentation to the party with the highest points or prizes at the Tweed Fall Fair. This went to David Coulter, and was presented by Jack Sagar, on behalf of The T. Eaton Co., and was a suitable trophy for this feat of the year.

During the evening duets were enjoyed by the gathering with Doug. Farrell at the piano and Margaret Bates with the violin.

They all partook of an excellent dinner, at the hotel, prepared and served by Mr. and Mrs. "Ted" Courneya, and their competent staff, with a perfect dinner centred around a main course of baked pork chops. It is understood that this will, in the future, be an annual affair sponsored by the Kiwanis, to entertain each year, after prize-winning stock has been exhibited at the fall fairs and at the end of the harvest season. They anticipate enlargening the program and interests in every way, since it was the first attempt and it has proven so successful and educational in every way.

This was a memorable evening in the hearts of these young 4-H Club members, and touching to the associates of the Kiwanis as a whole.

YUGOSLAVS FLEE

KORNWESTHEIM, West Germany (Reuters) — Eight young Yugoslavs spent five days in a sealed boxcar before they were freed here by German railroadman who heard knocking signals. The eight, who had had nothing to eat but a few apples asked for political asylum and were sent to a refugee camp near Nuremberg.

Ministers Given First Baptism Of Fire in House

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative cabinet ministers Tuesday had their first baptism of fire during the Commons question period. Their replies, during a half-hour of opposition quizzing sounded remarkably like those given by their Liberal predecessors.

To many queries, the ministers gave the time-tested replies of past years. The matter is under consideration, or government policy on the subject would be announced in due course.

"This government as always will consider anything for the benefit of the Canadian people," Prime Minister Diefenbaker replied at one point, when Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC — Macleod) asked about a possible inquiry into inflation.

Harold E. Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) asked what difference there was between that reply and former Liberal government replies to similar questions.

"It is not a question of attitude but a question of parliamentary rights," said Mr. Diefenbaker.

ASKS EXPLANATION

Later Colin Cameron (CCF—Nanaimo) asked Finance Minister Fleming to explain the tight-money policy of the Liberal administration.

"For he it from me to explain the policies of the last government," Mr. Fleming replied.

Former transport minister George Marler asked his successor, George Hees, whether Mr. Hees approved of a Trans-Canada Air Lines application to abandon its service into Kapuskasing, Ont.

Mr. Hees, sidestepping, said Mr. Marler knows such an application does not require the minister's approval.

ASKS RE PROGRAM

Former health minister Martin asked whether the new government has abandoned his hospital insurance program, since it hasn't been mentioned in Monday's throne speech.

Mr. Diefenbaker said his answer "will be somewhat shorter than the voluminous replies we used to get from the former ministers—simply negative, no."

Rev. Dan McIvor (L — Fort Williams) asked about his resolution last year for higher pensions to retired CNR employees had been supported by opposition member Donald Fleming. Would Finance Minister Fleming do anything about it now?

Mr. Fleming said it is under consideration, and noted that the throne speech indicated a boost in general old age pensions.

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD — The regular meeting of St. John's Hi-C Fellowship was held last week when the meeting opened with a sing-song around the piano.

The call to worship was read, after which the group sang hymns, Lucy Little gave the Scripture reading and Sharon Miller read a short story. Lenna Robertson read a poem and Jim Darrington led in prayer.

The business portion of the meeting consisted of making plans for a variety show which the group will hold sometime this fall.

After playing games the meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

ORGANIZE NIGHT CLASSES

W. R. Loucks, chairman of the night classes committee of the Northeast Northumberland High School Area Board reported this week that plans are now being made for the organization of night classes to be held in the Campbellford high school for the 1957-58 term. The classes have been held for several years, offering a variety of subjects, and have become increasingly popular each year.

GIANT PUMPKIN

MELITA, Man. (CP) — Bob Walker, who last year grew a pumpkin weighing 41 pounds, this year topped his record by harvesting one weighing 50 pounds, measuring 52 inches in circumference.

DIES AFTER LONG COMA

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP)—A 14-year-old Rockford boy, in a coma since he was hit by a car more than four years ago, died Monday. Gary Lee Heidbreder never regained consciousness after he was knocked from his bicycle April 20, 1953.

Flu Pattern Big Question Among Experts

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The national flu outbreak may begin to subside in a few weeks. It may not return—at least, not this year.

Or it may follow the three-stage cycle of the 1918 flu epidemic and sweep the nation again a few weeks later.

Federal Health Minister Monteith inclines to the first view. He told the Commons Tuesday the present flu wave may recede "in a few weeks." For this reason, he added in a reply to William Houck, the Liberal member for Niagara Falls, most provinces have not requested Asian flu vaccine deliveries beyond Nov. 15.

DOCTOR'S VIEW

The second view was given to a meeting of medical health officers at Winnipeg by Dr. R. J. Wilson, assistant director of the Connaught Medical Research Laboratories at Toronto.

He recalled the ebb-and-flow peculiarities of flu around the end of the First World War and noted that a fresh outbreak of Asian influenza has been reported in Japan. That is the approximate locale of the first wave's origin.

But no medical authority is prepared to go any further out on the limb of prediction.

Meanwhile, the flu pattern remained much the same across the country.

At Roberval, Que., five schools in the Lake St. John logging centre reopened with depleted classes after a shutdown of several days.

Three schools in the Cape Breton town of New Waterford, N.S., were ordered closed Tuesday in an attempt to block the spread of flu. Theatres were closed to school-age children.

There were no plans to close Prince Edward Island schools although Dr. Kendall MacDonald, the Charlottetown city health officer, said flu had almost reached the epidemic level.

The Montreal Roman Catholic school commission said it plans no closures although absenteeism attributed to flu has increased. At the end of last week, 28.2 per cent of the 140,000 Catholic-school pupils were down with the bug together with 10 per cent of the 5,000 teachers.

Prime Minister Pays Tribute To Mike Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker Tuesday paid a warm tribute in the Commons to Hon. Lester B. Pearson on his winning the Nobel Peace Prize this year.

But Rev. Dan McIvor, at 84 the oldest Commons member, beat the prime minister to it in offering congratulations. Before Mr. Diefenbaker could have his say, the Liberal member for Fort William offered Mr. Pearson his congratulations.

Mr. McIvor described Mr. Pearson as a man of courage, initiative, kindness and courtesy.

DUNKED IN FOUNTAIN OF TRAFALGAR SQUARE

Lingerie-clad model Wendy Smith, 19, climbs out of a fountain in Trafalgar Square, London, after being dunked during an early-morning high-jinks at which the Hon. Tony Moynihan was host to some 300 guests. Heir of wealthy Lord Moynihan of Leeds, Tony is now entrepreneur of Le Condor club, haunt of British high society. According to the reports, some 150 of the revellers, wearing pyjamas, nightshirts and even bikinis, decided to dunk Tony who had been away. Wendy was also tossed in.

CAMPBELLFORD

Doctors Report 400 Cases Of Influenza

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford medical doctors reported more than 400 cases of "flu in the town on the weekend, with dozens of calls coming to their offices on Sunday and Monday. Cases had been reported during the past few weeks, but the situation seemed to become much worse on the weekend. Visiting hours at Campbellford Memorial Hospital have been suspended until further notice, as a precautionary measure. The disease appears to be highly contagious according to local doctors, and the move to curtail visiting hours until the threat is past, will protect those patients now confined to hospital. Doctors are not sending "flu cases to hospital unless complications are present. This move is also aimed at protecting patients. A few of the nursing staff at the hospital are out with the "flu, but the situation is not serious.

Attendance in three Campbellford schools was down last week but the full effect of the "flu on school attendance will not be known until after classes resume today. No move has yet been made to close the schools.

Tough Winters Coming Back View of Expert

By DANIEL COUGHLIN

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Remember how grandpa talked about the winters when he was a boy?

Well, tough winters are coming back. That's the opinion of Dr. Hurd C. Willett, professor of meteorology at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His predictions include:

1. In the next 50 years the weather will be colder and wetter over the long term.

2. There will be fewer hurricanes along the Atlantic seaboard.

3. These storms will return to their natural track in the Caribbean or Gulf of Mexico areas, or will blow themselves out over the Atlantic Ocean.

4. Glaciers in the northwest, which melted away to record lows in the first 50 years of this century, will continue their recent growth.

NEW PHASE

"Of course," Dr. Willett said in an interview, "these long-range forecasts are only the highlights of what we must expect in the next half century or so as the earth's climate continues a new phase of its periodic changes."

He said the abnormalities in the weather this year are in line with the changing weather trend. "Weather cycles average 80 to 90 years, he said. The current warming trend in the weather has been in effect for about 40 years and reached its peak in the years from 1946 to 1955 inclusive," he said, adding that "it's time for a change, meaning about the same period of colder weather."

Little Benny's Notebook

I was doing my homework and wishing I wasn't, and I said to pop, Hay pop, I hope I grow up just like you.

Well thank you, that's a very flatering observation, pop said, I'll do my best to keep the torch berning brightly, so you can follow it easily and profitably, he said, and I said, Yes sir. For instance, just for one thing, you're so sensible, I said.

I'm glad you've noticed it, pop said. I admit I try to make my brain the senior partner in all my actions, he said, and I said, Sure, pop. You realize the best things for you must be the ones you like to do the best, so you drink all the coffee you feel like no matter what the docter says, and you smoke all the cigars you have time for, whether ma thinks they're too many or not, I said.

Well, perhaps I possess a certain spirit of independents, but we must be careful to use our virtues modestly, pop said, and I said, And still another thing, pop you always take your time about everything and never rush or worry.

Well yes, I think I can say I've made some progress in the important art of relaxing, pop said, and I said, Gosh, pop, even after you decide to fix something around the house, a whole month is libel to go past before you even start, and if anybody wants to worry and unrelax about it, it has to be ma.

I see what you meen, but we better let that item conclude the list, or you'll be giving me a swell head, pop said. Now suppose you get on with your homework, he said.

Which I did, getting on with it relaxed and without worrying.

Queen's Critic M. Muggeridge, Banned by BBC

LONDON (AP) — The BBC drew brickbats and bouquets today for cancelling an appearance by the monarchy's latest critic.

The centre of the controversy, Malcolm Muggeridge, fumed:

"If we've reached the point at which honest opinion about the monarchy is inadmissible or scandalous, then we have ceased to be a free society."

Muggeridge, 54-year-old former editor of the magazine Punch, described the monarchy as "a kind of royal soap opera" in an article in the Saturday Evening Post entitled Does England Really Need a Queen?

ENOUGH PUBLICITY

He had been scheduled to discuss the article on BBC television Monday night but his appearance was cancelled a few hours before the program.

A BBC spokesman said: "We have come to the conclusion that we should not give further publicity to a matter which has already had enough."

Muggeridge, a witty, silver-haired disturber of many a hornet's nest in Britain, had described the BBC in his article as "that serene temple of contemporary orthodoxy." He said it always treats the Royal Family with exaggerated solicitude.

PAID $2,500 FOR STORY

The article said, among other things, that British bluebloods regard the Queen as "dowdy, frumpish and banal."

Muggeridge said that he wrote the article "chiefly for money — $2,500 — and secondly because it is a subject which profoundly interests me and which, I think, is extremely important."

DEFENDS HIM

The tabloid Daily Mirror jumps to Muggeridge's defence. It said the cancellation of his appearance "upholds the BBC's well known record for mouselike timidity in dealing with matters of vital concern to the public."

The Daily Herald says the criticism will go on "all the louder for the BBC's attempted suppression."

But The Daily Mail declares that the BBC is right. "These attacks, so easy to make, serve no good purpose — are they in any way constructive," it said.

The Sunday Express described the article as "monstrous."

The Yorkshire Post said the article "mixes personal slurs upon the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh with a savage onslaught on the whole system of monarchy."

And the London Daily Sketch said:

"Muggeridge is old enough to know better than to try to jump on the band wagon with a pack of angry young curs who yelp at the Royal Family."

FRENCH USE FLU VACCINE

PARIS (Reuters)—French doctors during the weekend began giving flu-sufferers a new vaccine obtained from horses as Europe's flu epidemic mounted to startling proportions. An estimated 10,000,000 persons in France — almost one in four — have the flu.

Queen, in Solemn Majesty, Opens Her Canadian Parliament

Her Majesty, Prince Philip Chat Informally at State Dinner

Govt. Establishes Commission To Study Uses of Canada's Industrial Energy Sources

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has established a royal commission on use of Canada's industrial energy sources. It also plans an inquiry, likely by royal commission, into the difference between what the farmer gets and the consumer pays for food.

This was disclosed Tuesday in the Commons by Prime Minister Diefenbaker who tabled a cabinet order-in-council creating the six-man energy commission. The order establishing the energy commission under chairmanship of Toronto lawyer-industrialist Henry Borden requests that the body consider whether "any special measures need be taken in relation to trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited in order to safeguard the interests of Canadian producers and consumers of gas."

UNEP MOVE

This was considered a possible opening move toward eventual federal regulation of prices charged by the company which now is building a natural gas pipeline from Alberta to Montreal with federal and Ontario assistance on the uneconomic Northern Ontario section.

The Progressive Conservatives last year strongly opposed the then Liberal government's loan of public funds to Trans-Canada for construction of the prairie section mainly on grounds the company was not United States-controlled.

With the line now well under construction, none government source has said, the Conservative administration would have a hard time doing anything to change the setup.

About all it could do would be to take over the line as a publicly - owned operation or find some means of bringing gas prices under federal control.

At present such control is up to each province through which the pipeline passes. Presumably the commission would consider whether price regulation could constitutionally come under federal jurisdiction.

RECOMMENDED WAYS

The order asked the commission to recommend ways of regulating oil and gas transmission between provinces and across the international boundary.

These include cover "the regulation of prices or rates to be charged or paid, the financial structure and control of pipeline corporations in relation to the setting of proper prices and charges."

The commission is to suggest how a national energy board responsible to Parliament should be established.

Part of such a board's job would be to "ensure that present and future Canadian requirements for energy are taken fully and systematically into account" in granting licences for the export of energy or sources of energy."

The order lists these as gas, oil, coal, water and uranium.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the commission's studies will have an effect on plans to sell Canadian uranium to West Germany, or on current negotiations within the Canada - United States International Joint Commission, an apparent reference to attempts at agreement on power development of the Columbia River.

Heavy Contribution

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Canada has contributed more than $1,000,000 toward the upkeep and operation of the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East.

A UN report, which said UNEF probably will be $12,800,000 in debt by the end of the year, notes that 23 of the 81 members have contributed.

Other contributions include: United States, $3,300,000 and another $3,250,000 pledged if other countries match that amount; United Kingdom, $990,600 and $507,000 pledged; France, $570,000; Australia $165,000.

Trapper Given Two Concurrent 18-Month Terms

WINNIPEG (CP) — Adelard Dontigny, a trapper who fought a gun battle with RCMP officers at his Northern Manitoba cabin, was sentenced Tuesday to two concurrent 18-month jail terms.

He pleaded guilty to a charge of intent to endanger life and to a charge of unlawfully discharging a firearm to prevent his own arrest. Proceedings on five other charges were stayed at the request of the Crown.

Dontigny was arrested by armed RCMP last April 5 after a gun battle, which ended when Dontigny was flushed from his cabin by tear gas and felled by a bullet through the leg.

Found in the cabin, unhurt, were his two children, aged six and three years. The armed force went by plane to the isolated spot after Dontigny fired on a Manitoba Government Airways plane taking a welfare officer and a constable to the spot to investigate reports of illegal trapping and of children not being cared for properly.

STOLE CHEQUES

TORONTO (CP) — Raymond Minchinton, 21, was sentenced Tuesday to a year in prison for stealing old age pension cheques from mail boxes and cashing them.

Painting of Parliament Hill

Rich Autumnal Colors Mark Parting Gift to Her Majesty

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's parting gift to Queen Elizabeth is a painting of Parliament Hill in the rich colors of autumn as she saw it during her four-day visit to the capital.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker presented it to Her Majesty Tuesday night at a family-style dinner in his residence.

He proposed a toast to the Queen. Then, after speaking a few well-chosen words, he drew curtains on a wall across the table from where the Queen sat to reveal the painting.

Her Majesty reacted with surprised pleasure.

The painting is by Canadian artist Robert Pilot. The gift was a well-guarded secret.

For the last five weeks, since the painting was commissioned, Mr. Pilot could be seen almost daily in early afternoon working on Mackenzie King bridge over the Rideau Canal half a mile from Parliament Hill. The bridge provides a striking view of the canal and maple-lined parkway leading to the National War Memorial on the right and of the spired buildings of Parliament in the centre background.

The artist, a native of St. John's, Nfld., delivered the gift to the prime minister's residence earlier in the day.

"It's the proudest moment of my life," the 59-year-old artist said afterwards at his Montreal home. His canvas, 28 by 36 inches, was completed only a few days ago.

His paintings of Canadian scenes are in the National Gallery of Canada and in private collections.

To attend the dinner the Queen and Prince Philip had only to cross Sussex Street from their quarters in Government House. Between Government House gate and the entrance to 24 Sussex, the prime minister's residence, there was room only for some 1,000 persons. They cheered as the royal limousine moved slowly across the boulevard.

The Queen and her husband were greeted at the door by Mr and Mrs. Diefenbaker. Pausing briefly for photographers, they proceeded through the main floor to the other 15 guests in a drawing room.

The Queen was animated and Prince Philip high - spirited throughout the evening.

Her Majesty was accompanied by the prime minister, and Mrs. Diefenbaker by Prince Philip, into the dining room for a meal that featured baked breast of pheasant and lobster with cream sauce in a pastry shell.

Mrs. Diefenbaker, who personally arranged the menu for the dinner, wore a model gown of Grecian design in hyacinth-blue pure silk chiffon

The dining room was delicately embroidered with tiny gold and silver sequins and she wore a necklace of rubies, pearls and diamonds. Her matching earrings were gifts from her parents.

The dinner opened with baked grapefruit followed by "essence of tomato"—a clear tomato soup.

Then came the "vol au vent" lobster." This was served in a delicate, flaky pastry shell with a cream sauce.

The piece de resistance was the "supreme of pheasant" which an aide disclosed was baked breast of that bird.

The pheasant was served with wild rice and a vegetable platter. Assorted Canadian cheese was next on the list. For dessert there was "mousse surprise"—a sort of whipped custard made with maple syrup.

For anyone who wished something to nibble on at the end, there were "migardises." These are tiny cakes.

In almost any direction the royal couple might look there were flowers — yellow and pink roses and snapdragons. Each woman guest received a nosegay-like cluster of tiny dusty pink roses.

The guests included former prime minister and Mrs. Louis St. Laurent; Senate Speaker and Mrs. Mark Drouin; Commons Speaker and Mrs. Roland Michener; External Affairs Minister and Mrs. Sidney Smith; State Secretary Ellen Fairclough and her husband, Gordon.

$25,000 Fire On Reservation

MONTREAL (CP)—A $25,000 fire early today destroyed the historic museum at nearby Caughnawaga Indian reservation. Chief Poking Fire of the Mohawk tribe said hooligans started the blaze.

The museum, a restaurant and a hot dog stand in the centre of the reservation's ancient village of Caughnawaga, a suburb, were reduced to ashes. The village has no fire service and men working on the St. Lawrence seaway nearby were called in to form a bucket brigade.

Chief Poking Fire said the museum contained priceless Indian relics, none of them insured.

"Most Indians do not believe in insurance," the chief said. "Sometimes a man is worth more dead than alive that way."

DRIVER BLAMELESS

GUELPH (CP) — A coroner's jury Thursday exonerated Frank Wesdwick of nearby Arris in the traffic death of T. A. Elliott, 71, of Guelph. Witnesses said Elliott alighted from a bus and darted into the path of Wesdwick's car.

Ontario Wins Herd Award for Ayrshire Cattle

CHICAGO (AP)—Ontario Tuesday night won the state herd award for Ayrshire cattle at the International Dairy Show. The award is for the most top-quality cattle or provincial entries.

Lily H., shown by R. O. Biggs of Dundas, Ont., won the produce of dam class. Glengarry Lloyd's Bluebell, shown by Summing Brothers of Lancaster, Ont., won the heifer calf and junior champion female class.

Oppose Application

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — City council Tuesday night instructed city solicitor H. R. Davidson to oppose a London Free Press application for an order of mandamus that would make public an annexation report submitted last June by Project Planning Association of Toronto.

The application was made by John R. Ford, editor-in-chief of the newspaper, last Friday and the hearing is scheduled for Toronto high court Oct. 25.

In deciding to oppose the issue in the courts, councillors said it was not only for the guidance of themselves but for city officials generally.

Woman Red Spy Denies Link With Rudolf Abel

Reino Hayhanen, a confessed Soviet spy, said in Brooklyn federal court Tuesday that on two occasions Abel had ordered him to arrange for payment of $5,000 to Mrs. Helen Sobell, wife of Morton Sobell. Sobell is serving a 30-year term in Alcatraz prison for his alleged role in the Rosenberg atom spy ring.

Hayhanen said the money had not been paid but that he had received a secret message instructing him to find out whether Mrs. Sobell would serve as an agent.

Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were convicted as atom spies and executed in 1953.

Hayhanen had turned government witness at the espionage trial of Abel, which continues today. If convicted, Abel could be executed.

Mrs. Sobell issued the denial Tuesday during hearing of Hayhanen's testimony.

PC's Likely to Probe Price Spreads Between Producer And Consumer Says P.M.

OTTAWA (CP) — Immediate launching of a full-scale inquiry, probably by royal commission, into price spreads on farm products between producer and consumer was indicated Tuesday by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

He informed the Commons that a cabinet decision on the matter was made two or three weeks ago and an announcement will be made "within a very few days."

The investigation would implement an election campaign promise by Mr. Diefenbaker and would be the first of its kind since the royal commission on price spreads established in 1934 by the then Conservative government of R. B. Bennett.

The matter was raised Tuesday in a question by James Argue (CCF—Assiniboia) shortly after Mr. Diefenbaker's announcement on formation of a royal commission on energy resources.

ASKS RE FREIGHT RELOAD

Mr. Argue asked whether the government is considering setting up a commission into "the great spread between the low prices paid to producers of agricultural products and the high retail prices charged consumers."

Mr. Diefenbaker replied that his government, appointed June 21, "has given immediate consideration to this most serious and difficult problem, one expecting which I for one have spoken on a number of occasions, the need of something being done to investigate this spread. Within a very few days an announcement will be made in this regard.

In election campaign speeches, he said a Conservative government if elected would set up a royal commission on the subject. He said then he thought the price spread between farmers and consumers was not entirely due to markups by wholesalers and retailers.

The 1934-35 royal commission inquiry dealt with price spreads in many products besides farm products, and also went into the question of monopolies. It dealt, however, specifically with distribution of farm products and with the flour-milling and livestock industry.

Americans Are Disappointed They Did Not Succeed First

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Americans are torn between admiration and chagrin by the beep-beep-beep of Russia's Sputnik.

In official quarters, there are fewer and fewer attempts to dismiss the artificial moon as a sort of celestial toy with little, if any, military significance.

With the Sputnik an obvious reality, there is more of a tendency to face up to its manifold meanings, scientific and psychological, for the United States.

Traditionally adventurous in scientific way, the Americans cannot fail to extol plaudits for the accomplishment But they are filled with chagrin that they didn't succeed first.

And there are some in the scientific field who state bluntly they could have done so, granted sufficient funds and unity of action. It seems sure that the Sputnik is jolting the U.S. into more energetic and concentrated effort.

Some observers have even drawn a disturbing parallel between the U.S. fear in producing the atomic bomb first, and Russia's current victory.

The first major U.S. steps in producing the bomb were taken during the Second World War, when President Franklin D. Roosevelt was able to do things that in peacetime would be termed dictatorial. There was no political debate, for instance, of allocation of huge sums by the president under his wartime powers.

Observers say the Americans later boasted the successful production of the bomb showed allfreely - operating scientists and technicians could do, but actually the situation was precisely the opposite.

Russia, in turn, had been able to drive ahead on her missile and satellite programs by harnessing the brains and money of the Soviets in a way that would not be tolerated by the U.S. or other Western countries in peacetime.

There's no doubt the U.S. earth satellite and missile programs would have moved more quickly with a more sympathetic and generous Congress. But congressmen are more likely to be thinking about their constituents than the moon, artificial or otherwise, when they open the purse strings.

Not only politicians, but servicemen — sometimes of imposing rank — got into wrangles about missile production, with resulting waste of time and damaging rivalry between the services.

Thousands of Britons Can't Bear Sight of Malcolm Muggeridge

Yet in a sort of morbid fascination they watch him, listen to him, and read him.

And who, pray, is Malcolm Muggeridge? He's the former editor of the magazine Punch; the bloke who wrote the magazine piece published in the United States saying the monarchy is "a kind of royal soap opera."

The 54-year-old editor and TV personality says the television screen is witty, courteous, highly articulate and a man who listens attentively to qualified opinions of others.

But, not with the TV lens on him he affects many people like a maddening irritant.

Muggeridge is the son of a former Labor member of Parliament. A leftist, he went to Moscow in the early 1930s as correspondent for the Manchester Guardian.

Moscow soured him on Russia and leftism. He became a bitter critic of the Soviet regime.

He was Washington correspondent of the Daily Telegraph and had a distinguished career during the war as an intelligence officer.

Two of his targets have been the royal family and the BBC, for which he works under contract. He once dismissed the BBC as "exceedingly stuffy and highly unimaginative."

Two years ago he said this:

"I suppose the members of the royal family develop a taste for publicity, which, in theory, they find repugnant.

"At the same time the royal family ought to be properly advised on how to prevent themselves and their lives from becoming a royal soap opera."

Judging from his article this week in the Saturday Evening Post likening the monarchy to soap opera, he thinks the proper advice never arrived.

Mr. Muggeridge maintains, he is a staunch monarchist.

"Trying chemical warfare on him tonight?"

TWEED

Special Services Mark 101st Anniv. of Thomasburg Church

TWEED — Thomasburg United Church celebrated its 101st anniversary on Sunday of last week, with special services, both morning and evening, the pastor, Mr. George Dyson, preached in the morning and the Rev. J. F. Lane of Trinity United Church, Madoc, was the guest preacher in the evening, when Mr. Dyson took over Mr. Lane's duties as the minister in Eldorado. There was special music rendered at both services by the choirs and soloist.

WOL Harry Thompson, RCAF, Mrs. Thompson and Paul left on Sunday last by RCAF plane from Montreal for Goose Bay, Labrador, where Mr. Thompson will be stationed for a period of three years. Goose Bay is populated by both Canadian and American personnel, and is a base for several thousand; with school, churches, theatre, and most all modern conveniences.

Born in Mr. and Mrs. "Bill" Taylor, Almonte, formerly of Tweed, (nee Ila Blaker of Tweed), on Wednesday, October 9th, a daughter, Marianne Louise, in the Almonte Hospital. Both doing well. A sister for Susan, Greg, and Stephen.

The election of officers was held at the meeting of the Youth 4-H Club at the home of Mrs. Edith Bailey. After much discussion the name of the club was decided to be "The Happy Homemakers." The meetings will be held on Saturday afternoons and the next meeting will be at the home of the assistant leader, Mrs. John Empson.

Any girl between the ages of 12 and 36 is eligible to join this club, and anyone wishing to enter the club may contact the leader or assistants.

Previous to these meetings there was a Leadership Training School at Stirling on Sept. 17 and 18th, and at Madoc on Sept. 19 and 20th.

Miss Frances Maureen Healey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Healey, Stoco, will be married to Mr. Bernard Norman MacMillan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James MacMillan, Crookston, in St. Edmund's Church, Stoco, early in November.

The sympathy of the entire community is extended to the family of the late Mr. Herbert Richard Radcot, of Crookston, well known in this district, being general road foreman for the County of Hastings and a member of the county road maintenance staff for the past 17 years. He passed away suddenly as a result of a heart attack on Wednesday morning at his home. The funeral was held on Friday, October 11th, to White Lake United Church, of which he was a member. He was also a member of the Madoc I.O.O.F.

Miss Kathryn Quinn was married on Saturday, October 12th to Mr. Wallis Modist, in St. Carthage's Church, here in Tweed. She was feted previous to the wedding to two showers and received many beautiful and useful gifts.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. "Ted" Hutson, Rodin, in the Belleville General Hospital, on October 9th, a daughter, Brenda Lee.

Congratulations are also in order to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O'Neill, (nee Barbara Whalen, Stoco and Tweed), on the birth of a son, in the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, on October 3rd, Joseph Patrick.

The sympathy of his many friends is extended to Mr. Alden Roy, of Actinolite, in the recent passing of his brother, Thomas J. Roy, of Tlumnine. The funeral was held from the Weaver Funeral Home, Trenton, on October 7th. The late Mr. Roy was 57 years of age.

The Presbyterian Manse, on the corner of Jamieson and Metcalfe Streets, is again occupied. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Robinson and children of Belleville, have moved into this spacious home. Mr. Robinson was recently retired from the RCAF and is now employed at a service station on the Foxboro Rd. All welcome them to the village.

On Friday night last, a dinner was served by members of the Eastern Star at 7.15 to all over on the opposite side of the highway. Mr. Irvine was taken to Belleville General Hospital by ambulance, and Dr. Allan was at the scene of the accident. Almost immediately Corporal Chapman of the Madoc detachment investigated.

Mrs. C. Kerr is now making her home with Mrs. P. C. Barnett on Spring Street.

Miss Jennie Wright is staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Mitchell and Miss Emma Wallace.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Parker and Stephen, of Toronto, spent the holidays with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gehan, Arthur Street. Other guests at the Gehan home were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lefebvre, of Ottawa under the parental roof.

Mr. John Brown, who is 95 years young, has been quite ill, and his many friends are inquiring as to his condition. He is at his own home on Arthur Street, and seems a little improved in health at time of writing. He is an uncle of two Tweed residents, Mrs. Charles Wells and Mr. Charles Porritt.

Sorry to learn that Mrs. Gilbert Robinson has found it necessary to again be hospitalized; all trust she will soon be well.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Whitefield and Larry have recently moved to the home on the corner of Moira Street and the Bulphide Road, where the family of Mr. Jim Scott resided until they left for a new surroundings and his new duties with the Department of Lands and Forests. All welcome them to Tweed.

Guests from Flinton and Tweed attended the wedding in St. Vincent de Paul Church, Deseronto, of Miss Elvena E. Spicer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Spicer, Deseronto, and formerly of Flinton, to Douglas Earl Mathews, son of Mrs. George Latch, of Napanee. Miss Yvonne Hushinson of Flinton, was the bridesmaid. The couple will reside in Deseronto.

Misses Mabel and Marion Kenny of Toronto visited over the long weekend with their mother, Mrs. Jennie Kenny and Wallie.

Mr. Jack MacLean of Elliott Lake, where he has been employed for the past few weeks, spent the holiday weekend here in Tweed with his wife and family.

Mr. "Bill" Irvin, of Actinolite, is in hospital, and his late model car is practically a total wreck as the result of it leaving Highway 37, about 8.30 Saturday evening just south of the Pine Grove Cheese Factory turn. Nine guard posts were cut off completely at the ground, even the two bread posts at the end of the line. Posts were strewn

Egyptian Units In Syria Form Striking Force

CAIRO (AP) — An Egyptian military spokesman said Tuesday Egyptian forces which have landed in Syria include units of infantry and artillery equipped with armored cars and heavy tanks.

The spokesman said the units are a "striking force from the Egyptian army ready for large-scale military operations." Egypt did not disclose the size of the force, which Washington and London estimate at from 1,000 to 1,600 men. Turkish sources said 5,000 Egyptians may be in the movement.

Egyptian air force planes which accompanied the troops to Syria will remain there indefinitely, the spokesman continued. He said this was according to a prepared plan to co-operate with the Syrian air force and train Syrians in flying MiGs and Russian jet bombers.

In London, a foreign office spokesman said the British government does not think the Egyptian troops in Syria "will substantially alter the balance of power in the Middle East."

WITH WRIST RADIO?

Turkish officials also spoke with restraint about the Egyptian move and appeared undisturbed. Ankara apparently thought the Egyptian movement might be aimed at Israel rather than Turkey.

COVINA, Calif. (AP) — The Daily Tribune assigned a new reporter to the police bat today. His name: Dick Tracy.

Diefenbaker Almost Doubles PC Party Strength in Senate

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker has almost doubled Progressive Conservative party strength in the Senate but the Liberals still hold a heavy numerical superiority.

He named six new senators Saturday, increasing Progressive Conservative membership in the 102-seat upper chamber from seven to 13. The Liberals have 78 members and there are two Independents, one Independent-Liberal and eight vacancies.

The new senators:

William R. Brunt, 57, Toronto and Hanover, Ont., and Dr. Joseph A. Sullivan, 55, Toronto, for Ontario.

Leo Methot, 62, Trois-Rivieres, Que., and Gustave Monette, 70, Montreal, for Quebec.

Clarence V. Emerson, 56, Saint John, N.B., for New Brunswick.

Arthur M. Pearson, 67, Lumsden, Sask., for Saskatchewan.

TO FULL STRENGTH

The appointments bring to full strength Senate representation for Ontario and Saskatchewan as well as British Columbia. There now are two senate vacancies in Quebec and one each in New Brunswick, Alberta, Manitoba, Nova Scotia, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island.

Senators Brunt, Methot and Monette are lawyers, Senator Emerson a retail hardware merchant, Senator Sullivan a physician and surgeon and Senator Pearson a farmer. Except for Senator Pearson, a former mayor of Lumsden, none of the new senators has had previous experience in municipal, provincial or federal government.

Senator Sullivan, chief of the head of hearing clinic and auditory research at St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, was goalie on the Toronto Varsity Grads hockey team which won the 1928 Olympic championship. The team won the Allan Cup in 1927, and tied with the Ottawa Silver Seven of the turn of the century as the greatest hockey outfit of the last 50 years in a poll conducted by The Canadian Press in 1950. The new senator is a governor of the University of Toronto.

Senator Brunt, a native of Hanover, Ont., is a graduate of the University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall Law School, Toronto. A member of the Ontario bar since 1923 he has active legal and business interests in Toronto and Hanover. He resides in Toronto, but visits Hanover weekly on business.

A real "toughie", and a beauty as well, is the little Cryptanthus, one of the Bromeliads. It's a flat foliage plant, practically stemless. Sometimes called "Zeb Plant" because of brown, white and pinkish stripes running lengthwise on the stiff, recurving leaves, it grows well in almost any house location and always attracts attention.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions, some of them 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is a wide use for healing tissues on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores with satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Pearson and Hammarskjold Key Figures in Fight for Peace

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) It was a pretty safe bet in the view of American observers at the UN that the 1957 Nobel Peace Prize would go to someone who helped stop the fighting in Egypt last fall.

The only question was whether it would go to Lester B. Pearson, former Canadian external affairs minister, or to UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. Both were key figures in the outstanding peace achievement of the last year.

Exactly why Pearson got the nod over Hammarskjold is known only to the Nobel Committee in Oslo. But no one at the UN disputes the importance of the role Mike Pearson played during the critical days of early November.

Pearson, long an energetic and resourceful negotiator, was the father of the UN Emergency Force.

Perhaps the initiative of the Canadian diplomat in proposing the creation of UNEF, more than any one factor, pointed the way to the cease-fire and subsequent troop withdrawals.

Pearson worked closely with Hammarskjold in drafting the UNEF plan. He was the first to offer to contribute troops for it and he later took a leading part in working out the formula for deploying the forces in such a way as to win over Israel to pull out the last invading forces.

In giving the award to Pearson, the committee may also have had in mind his many years as peacemaker. For example, he served on a UN cease-fire group which tried unsuccessfully to halt the Korean fighting in 1950.

It's interesting that Pearson gets the award at a time he is neither external affairs minister nor a delegate to the UN assembly. He lost both jobs following last June's election upset.

Salmon Taken From Capilano Costing Anglers $4 Pound

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fly fishermen on the Capilano River in North Vancouver are after the most pampered and expensive fish in the sports world.

The $8,500,000 Cleveland dam, built on the river, source of Vancouver's water supply, created a fish or wafer problem. It is not a power dam.

Commercial fishermen are not interested in the problem, only sports fishermen. After a three-year study, it is estimated that the fish cost more than $4.00 a pound.

In the last three years the British Columbia Game Commission has seeded the upper lake of the water reservoir with 15,000 steelhead smolts—at a cost of $8,000 or $4 a pound at seeding weight.

In 1951 the federal fisheries department called on the Greater Vancouver water board to build a hatchery at the base of the dam to compensate for losers in the run. The original cost was placed at $150,000.

The water board rejected the hatchery plan. It figured the $150,000 hatchery, plus the $300,000 required to capitalize the annual cost of operation, plus the water investment would total more than $1,000,000. It was estimated the hatchery would use water representing $650,000 on the investment in the dam.

FISH LADDER BUILT

It was agreed, however, to set up a fish ladder and tank truck system to help the spawning salmon over the dam. The capital cost was $560,000.

The dam has been in operation for approximately the same time as the spawning cycle of the fish, and it appears that little damage is done.

In 1954 the run was 3,011 fish; 1953 a total of 5,136, and this to date, 6,000.

The fisheries department has not changed its plans. Three-year study reports are substantially the same as in 1951—a hatchery is needed.

This, under present day cost, will mean more expensive fish. The hatchery would cost more than double the estimated price of six years ago.

The Capilano, running into Burrard Inlet, is a favored spot for Greater Vancouver fishermen. It is only a 20-minute car ride from the centre of the city.

Writers Predict Hank Greenberg Will Get Gate

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sports writers for this city's three daily newspapers think it likely Hank Greenberg will be fired today as general manager of Cleveland Indians.

If not, wrote one, the Indians will vanish — to Minneapolis in 1959.

The club's 13 directors vote today on whether to retain the one-time home-run king, who has bossed the Indians for eight years—some fat, some lean.

The learning was the season just completed. The Indians lost games, fans and money amid rising rumors and denials that the franchise would be moved.

A majority vote of the 13 directors—not a stock majority—will settle the issue.

Greenberg is a director and owns one-fifth of the stock, but has only one vote in it on his own job. He says he intends to fight to keep it.

But the experts believe Greenberg must go — for much the same reason that Greenberg fired field manager Kerby Farrell at the end of the 1957 disaster. Somebody must be the goat.

Holman Loses By Knockout

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Cleveland Williams stretched Johnny Holman out on his toes with a whistling left uppercut, then crossed a booming right for a knockout Tuesday night.

The crushing combination came at 2:12 of the seventh round in the scheduled 10-rounder. The Chicago heavyweight was on the floor a full three minutes before being revived.

Until the end, Holman had taken—all—Williams' best shots without flinching and had appeared to have Joe Houston slugger in trouble earlier in the round.

Williams weighed 208 and Holman 205.

Spider Fights LaBua Tonight

LOUISVILLE Ky. (AP)—Sixth ranked middleweight contender Spider Webb and Jackie LaBua, a self-styled playboy-fighter, meet tonight in a scheduled 10-round bout.

Webb, substituting for Ralph (Tiger) Jones, who pulled a leg ligament in training, has lost only two of 23 pre-sectional fights. The rugged LaBua has won 28 of 29 professional fights with nine of his 11 losses coming on split decisions.

The fight will be nationally televised (ABC, 9 p.m. EST).

DeMarco Best Welter Alive Says DeMarco

BOSTON (AP)—Tony DeMarco rounding into the best condition of his bomb-throwing career, served notice today that he considers himself the world's No. 1 welterweight—and will fight anyone to prove it.

"I intend to get the title and nobody's going to stop me," the Boston slugger said. "I fight when and where my manager says, but I'm ready for anyone."

DeMarco shrugged off the defeat caused by the action of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission in granting title recognition to the winner of his bout with Virgil Akins Oct. 29 at the Boston Garden.

"The other contenders refused to fight me here—where we can draw a lot of money, not peanuts —so why shouldn't the fight with me be for the title?" DeMarco said.

Meanwhile, Massachusetts boxing commissioner Henry Lamb reiterated that the DeMarco-Akins fight will be for the championship over the 15-round distance as far as this state is concerned.

NBA president Gilbert Jackson and New York commission chairman Julius Helfand have announced that the NBA and New York will not recognize the bout as for the championship. Both want an elimination series between the contenders, rated by the NBA in order as DeMarco, Isaac Logart, Vince Martinez and Gil Turner. Akins is rated fifth.

Moore Fights Chuck Spieser In January

DETROIT (AP)—Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore and his manager Charlie Johnston and Doc Kearns, agreed Tuesday on contract terms for a title defence against Chuck Spieser of Detroit in January.

Chuck Spieser, brother and manager of the Detroiter, posted a $10,000 certified cheque in a brief appearance in the offices of the Michigan Athletic Board o Control. The remaining $90,000 Moore's guarantee must be posted with the commission by Oct. 22.

Spieser's share of the gate has not been determined yet, but it will figure on what is left after Moore's $100,000 guarantee is paid. Promoters expressed hopes that with a ticket scale from $3 to $20 and national television of the fight they would realize $170,000 at the gate.

QUEEN IN LEAD

NEWMARKET, England (AP) Queen Elizabeth's three-year-old filly Mulberry Harbour won the Newmarket Oaks Tuesday pulling the Queen farther ahead of Sir Victor Sassoon in the competition to become the leading racehorse owner of the season.

Mulberry Harbour earned $8,536 by winning the mile and three quarters Oaks by four lengths. The Queen now leads Sassoon by $3,700 for the year.

From watching television shows since his arrival here, Travers makes this general observation:

In England and the United States TV drama places more emphasis on character while American TV drama tends to emphasize pace and movement. He said he has not yet formed an opinion on which is the better method.

OTTAWA (CP)—Fullback Tom Lewis may be lost to Ottawa Rough Riders for the next two games, thus posing a problem for the Big Four football club.

All clubs have to name their final 12 imports by Friday midnight. If Riders decide to keep Lewis, they would have to play with 11 imports during his absence.

Lewis suffered a badly pulled muscle above the knee in Monday's 32-24 loss to Montreal Alouettes at Montreal.

Bill Travers Liked Script Sent to England to Read

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—"You have a lot of one over here" said British actor Bill Travers before his American television debut tonight on Television Theatre (NBC-TV, 9 p.m., EDT).

Travers, who combines brawny size with a gentle manner and a reflective mind, meant that he's more like Wayne than Noel Coward. The rugged, six-foot-four Scotsman is best known on this side for his role in the British film Wee Geordie—which led to a long-term Hollywood contract.

Tonight he stars in A Cook for Mr. General as a wildly unlikely enlisted U.S. Army private whose genius as a cook nearly causes the downfall of a dyspeptic general.

READ IT IN U.K.

Television Theatre sent him the script in England and he liked it well enough to come here for the special purpose of appearing in the comedy.

An actor since his release from British army service after the Second World War, Travers discussed his career thus:

"When you start as an actor, you have a very tiny field in which you can do only one or two things well. As you go along you should constantly try to widen your field by picking roles on the edge of it. Roles that only bring you money aren't helpful in the long run. Because money won't do you any good if you don't do a good job."

Harry Guardino Satisfied Over Co-Billing With Grant

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—If Harry Guardino wears a satisfied look over his co-star billing with Cary Grant and Sophia Loren, it's understandable.

The guy made it the hard way —up from washing dishes in Hollywood hash houses and filling in waits for acting jobs by shipping out as a seaman. Even claims he went without eating for four days when jobs were scarce.

Harry is a good-looking Brooklyn boy of 31 who is starring with the high-powered company in Houseboat. But he's pretty high-powered himself, as those who saw him in the play Hatful of Rain can testify.

STARTED YOUNG

No doubt he will be hailed as an overnight sensation. Harry has got a bitter laugh out of that.

He started acting when he was a kid in Brooklyn. He joined a police athletic league dramatic group and continued his interest in high school. Then came the war, and he joined the navy.

When he returned, he found the dramatic school he wanted to enter was crowded. So he took a test as a merchant seaman, passed with flying colors and shipped out.

During one of his stretches on the beach, he enrolled in New York's Dramatic Workshop, where his fellow students were such figures as Tony Curtis, Harry Belafonte, Elaine Stritch and Ben Gazzara. Also Michael Gazzo, who was to figure in Guardino's life later.

NEARLY GAVE UP

Harry's progress wasn't as fast as his fellow students. He earned his Hollywood get a job washing dishes in a coffee joint.

One night, Harry decided to toss in the towel. He directed a couple of newcomers for a test at a studio. The young players like his coaching, offered to become students. Before long, Harry had 30 pupils and he declared he was giving up acting forever.

Then his onetime fellow student, Michael Gazzo, wired that his play had been accepted and he might have a part for Harry.

He was assigned only to understudy Ben Gazzara in Hatful of Rain. Then in Philadelphia, Tony Franciosa was stricken with a kidney stone attack. Harry went on for him, as libbing his part and drawing an ovation. Franciosa recovered in time for the Broadway opening, but Harry remained the role later in the road company.

The result: A flood of offers.

RUSSIANS AT KINGSTON

This may be news for Pembroke's Wally Lenser but either the CAHA or the Kingston CKLC's bent him to the punch. The Moscow Dynamos, Russia's equivalent of the Montreal Canadiens, will play in the Kingston Community Centre on December 3. So Mr. George Dudley, secretary of the CAHA announced today.

With the CKLC's not yet in top condition and their full potential strength not yet on hand, the question that bothered this department was: "Against what club will the Russkys play?"

A report from Kingston stated that the Sergies and Ivans will cross sticks with the Kingston club bolstered by players from other clubs.

Then there is the question of the $4,000 guarantee which the Kingston club must pay the Russians—and not in rubles. There shouldn't be much trouble raising this amount for this by far is one of the greatest attractions Jim McCormick's Community Centre has ever offered the public. It should draw them like flies.

This is made the more believable by the fact that the nearest centres which will see the Russians play will be Ottawa and Toronto.

Reg Walton, manager of the Kingston CKLC's told this department via telephone this morning that following a press conference, it was decided that the team which will play the Russians will be basically be the CKLC's but strengthened with players from Belleville, Cornwall and Pembroke.

In other words it will be a representative of the Eastern Ontario senior "A" League, minus, of course, Whitby, Oshawa and Oshawa Canadians which are playing the visitors in their entirety. We will probably take an entire forward line from Belleville, a defence pair from Pembroke or Cornwall or some other player arrangements along that line." Mr. Walton said.

The prices, Reg said, will be $1.00, $1.50 and $2.00. The Kingston subscribers will get first whack at the pasteboards, naturally, then the sale will be thrown open to the public.

As is already known secretary Bob Temple of the McFarland Rooster Club, will be in receipt of a number of tickets, ownership yet unknown, for the Russia-Whitby Dunlops' game in Toronto which has been definitely set for November 23 in Maple Leaf Gardens. No doubt a large number of city and district fans would rather see the Dunlops tangle with the Ivanoffs but on the other hand there are those who fain would see how the best-to-date of the three Eastern clubs stack up against the guys from the shadow of the Kremlin. .

SECOND TIME IN 18 YEARS

When New York Rangers defeated Detroit Red Wings, 3-2, in the 1957-58 seasonal opener in Detroit, it marked the second time in 18 years that the Rangers had their opening game of the season. Last time it happened was in the 1955 opener when Chicago set back the Wings, also by a 3-2 score.

ONLY ONE NEWCOMER IN CANADIENS' LINEUP

Stan Smrke is the only newcomer to crash the lineup of the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens this season. A natural left winger currently playing that wing, the 20-year-old Smrke was born in Belgrade, Yugoslavia. He has been an outstanding player with Chicoutimi of the Quebec Hockey League for the past few years.

SIX NEW FACES ON BLACK HAWKS

Chicago's -957-58 version of the Black Hawks has six new faces that weren't with the team last season. The six new players are Goalie Glen Hall, Defenceman Jim Thompson and Forwards Ted Lindsay, Ron Murphy, Bob Bailey and Bobby Hull. Hull is the only one of the six who has not had previous NHL experience. The 18-year-old centre came to the Hawks direct from the St. Catharines Juniors.

Basilio Gets Sept. Award Pro of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Carmen Basilio's thrilling victory over Sugar Ray Robinson has earned the newly crowned middleweight boxing champion the September award in the pro athlete of the year poll.

Basilio received 64 first place votes and 220 points (on a 3-3-1 basis) from a panel of sports writers and sportscasters to beat out Ted Williams and Archie Moore.

Williams, of Boston Red Sox, led the major leagues in hitting. He collected 10 first place votes and 105 points. Moore, who knocked out Tony Anthony in defence of his light heavyweight ball Union.

Stamps Coach Signs Contract

CALGARY (CP)—Otis Douglas, who joined Calgary Stampeders as coach midway in the 1956 season, has signed a two-year contract with the club, it was announced Tuesday night by director Eddie LaBorde and Tom Brook.

In the same time the contract of general manager Bob Masterson was extended for two years—to 1960. Next season is covered by his present contract.

Douglas, a native of Readville, Va., handled the Stamps until Tuesday without a contract. He raised them from last year's cellar position into third place in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Tie 3-3 With Surging Hawks As Younger Richard Nets 2; Big Brother Rocket Assists

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Richard name shines ever brighter in the annals of Canadiens of the National Hockey League.

But today it's Maurice's kid brother Henri who's adding the glitter.

The Pocket Rocket slammed home two goals Tuesday night against Chicago Black Hawks and the second gave Habitants a 3-3 tie and maintained their unbeaten streak in the campaign.

Maurice, who fired three goals Sunday against Detroit, assisted on both of Henri's tallies.

The game was the only one scheduled in the league and left Montreal atop the loop with six points on two wins and two ties.

Boston Bruins, in second spot with two victories in two starts, get a chance to do for the lead tonight when they meet New York Rangers at New York.

BETTER SHOW

Canadiens put on a far brighter display Tuesday night against Habs than in the teams' initial meeting this year when Canadiens skated off with a 5-1 win.

In the first, Nick Mickoski put the Hawks one up and then Canadiens went into the lead on markers by Dickie Moore and Richard. Ed Litzenberger connected for goals at 13:54 and 16:47, his first two of the campaign, to give Chicago a 3-2 lead at the end of the second.

Henri's second goal at 3:12 of the second period tied the count again and they stayed that way till the end.

Play slackened noticeably in the third period and even during the course of five penalties in the last three for Montreal, there were few good scoring chances.

EVEN PLAY

Charlie Hodge, filling in or the ill Jacques Plante, handled 20 shots and Chicago's Glenn Hall stopped 31.

In tonight's action New York will be making its first home start.

Ranger coach Phil Watson has stayed with the line-up that brought New York into a strong fourth-place finish last season.

To improve, he's made it clear each player must produce 10 per cent more—enough to keep pace with what Watson figures each of the other teams has improved by and then add a little more.

So far New York has edged Detroit, tied Montreal and lost to Boston. The .500 percentage is fine with Watson and had him happy enough to come up with kind remarks about goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley.

REGULARS RECOVER

Coach Billy Reay of Toronto Maple Leafs found all but one of his regulars at practice Tuesday, a crowd he hasn't enjoyed since early in the training grind.

Missing was Pete Conacher, who will be out for several weeks with a damaged right knee.

Some of the Leaf forwards were a little shaky from flu attacks but as Reay is concerned he'll be able to go with a complete lineup Thursday when Toronto meets Montreal.

Boston and Detroit camps were quiet. Coach Milt Schmidt's Bruins still were delightedly savoring the surprised looks that followed their 5-1 win over Canadiens.

Even after Bruins fought their way into the Stanley Cup finals last season they received a call from veteran goalie Terry Sawchuk to newcomer Don Simmons, there were many who labelled the performance a fluke.

Baseball Leafs Sign Pair

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League Tuesday signed two new players.

General manager Rudie Schaffer announced signing of outfielder Dick Means, 21, from Colorado Springs of the Class A Western League and pitcher Tom Richards, 22, from Davenport of the Class B Three-Eye League.

Means, who bats and throws left, is a 165-pounder who was with Colorado Springs and Tulsa of the Double A Texas League last season. Richards, a six-foot, 165-pounder, spent last year with Colorado Springs and Davenport. He had six wins and four losses.

Allie Reynolds Settles Suit Out of Court

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Former New York Yankee pitcher Allie Reynolds and the Philadelphia Transportation Co. have settled the ballplayer's $235,000 damage suit out of court.

Reynolds' attorney said the settlement was reached Monday after Reynolds had testified a back injury sustained in a bus accident shortened his playing career. The amount of the out-of-court settlement was not announced.

Reynolds said the back injury was sustained July 7, 1953, when a streetcar carrying the Yankee baseball team crashed into a metal elevated train structure.

San Francisco Giants Move Office From N.Y. to Coast

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants' front office moved from New York into its new office today and was faced with farm club and ball park problems.

President Horace Stoneham, who called reporters to an afternoon conference, was expected to announce he had retained Bill Rigney as field manager of the National League club.

Other developments:

1. Fred David, president of Sacramento's Pacific Coast League Solons, said he would vote against approving the sale by Boston Red Sox of San Francisco Seals to Giants. He said he doubts other PCL directors would go along with the sale. "Nothing has been offered . . . in the matter of compensatory damages," David said.

SWAP FRANCHISES

Giants swapped their Minneapolis American Association franchise plus cash for Seals' franchise. Stoneham said he hopes to place the minor league club in a new PCL city if one can be found.

2. Contractor Charles Harney started proceedings to lease submerged land needed for automobile parking area at the site where the new Giant stadium is to be built. Edmund G. Brown, California attorney general, had ruled it would be illegal for the state to grant or exchange the tidelands unless it got more than the price of submerged land.

NEW STADIUM

The Giant president said he hopes to enlarge the present Seals Stadium—seating 18,078—to at least 23,000 by adding left field bleachers. Giants may play there one season after the PCL directors meet next month.

No players were involved in the trade of franchises. The clubs simply traded.

Giants are liable for damages to the PCL because one of its prize cities, Stoneham said. He added that no offer would be made until after the PCL directors meet next month.

The Giants' new PCL president, said he thought the league can be realigned but there are only three cities "to take the place of cities such as San Francisco and Los Angeles. They will be assured of that." Brooklyn Dodgers are moving into Los Angeles.

Neal Ball Dies, Made Famous Play in 1909

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP)—Neal Ball, 76, first major league baseball player to make an unassisted triple play, died Tuesday.

He made that famous play July 19, 1909, against Boston while playing shortstop for Cleveland during his second season in the majors.

Boston's first two batters, Heinie Wagner and Jake Stahl, had hit safely and were on second and first. Andy McConnell hit a line-two-per-cent drive that was a line drive just above my head," Ball once told a reporter, "and I caught it on second base.

"I thought I could spear it and had visions of a double play. I reached into the air, and came down with the ball.

"By this time Wagner was on third base and Stahl was only a few feet from second.

"I ran over and touched second making two out. Stahl was slowing up and had to reverse his tracks toward first.

"I knew I could overtake him, and I raced down and put the ball on him to complete the triple play and retire the side."

Cleveland won 6-1 and Ball hit .232 that year and a double before the afternoon was over.

World Series Loot

Braves' Share Nearly $9,000 Yankees Pocket $5,606 Each

NEW YORK (AP)—Athletes of the Milwaukee Braves and New York Yankees turned businessmen today and counted their take of the richest world series ever.

And Yankee pitcher Sal Maglie was well on the way to working both sides of the street, very satisfied with one cut of the money pie instead of the two he almost landed.

The Braves voted a full series share were wealthier by $2,294.36 for whipping New York 4-3 in the interborough affair. It was the third highest stake in 54 years of series play.

Thirty-three Yankees got $5,606.06 portions, fourth highest for losers.

Commissioner Ford Frick released the figures Tuesday. He also squashed Maglie's opportunity to collect from both sides.

TRADED SEPT. 1

Yankees voted Maglie a $2,603.03 share for the month he spent with the Bronx Bombers after he was traded from the National League Brooklyn Dodgers Sept. 1.

Dodgers consigned a $1,507.19 third-place cut to the Barber, who would have earned $4,110.22 in a series in which he was ineligible to play.

But Frick stepped in. Charles Segar, an aide, explained the commissioner's action this way:

"The commissioner believes no man should be allowed a cut from both leagues. So he decided that Maglie would have to take the allotment from the team with which he finished the season, in this case the Yanks. That will be the case in the future, too."

Braves voted $6,602.37, three-quarter shares, to Bob Hazle and Nippy Jones. Hazle's 41-game late-season .403 hitting splurge picked up the salary tab. Braves' Jones' polished shoe helped turn

Jackie Parker Retains Lead In Point Race

WINNIPEG (CP) — Jackie Parker, shifty Edmonton Eskimo flash, has maintained his lead in the Western Interprovincial Football Union individual scoring race.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show that Parker remained one point in front of teammate Johnny Bright as each scored three touchdowns during Eaks' two weekend games.

Parker has scored 70 points on 14 touchdowns and a single. Bright has 14 touchdowns.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers' Gerry James, with a game in hand on players on all other counts, feel back from a second-place tie with Bright last week to third spot with 81 points. James plunged for two touchdowns and booted a field goal in Bombers' lone game during the weekend.

Two more Eskimos follow. Place-kicking end Joe Mobra is fourth with 80 points on two touchdowns, 17 converts, seven field goals and four singles. Normie Kwong has 12 touchdowns for 72 points.

McFarlands Whip Petes 6-2 In Wild, Weird Wacky Game; Forty Penalties Handed Out

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

PETERBOROUGH — Take two whistle-happy referees, one crew of obliging timekeepers, a team of veterans who can dish it out as well as take it, and one coach who should know better. Toss loosely and garnish with a few minor brawls and one main course fight, and you'll have some idea of what was dished up as hockey fare here last night.

And when the piccolos had sounded the cease fire the scoreboard read Belleville McFarlands 6 — Peterborough TPT's 2.

Forty penalties were handed out by Referees Will Pomahac of Toronto, and Jack Shropshire of Richmond Hill, twenty-seven of them to the McFarlands. Nine were misconducts handed out to Belleville players who left the bench while the main course was being served.

"I guess I should've waited until my nail polish dried thoroughly!"

The Macs may find the trip costly. Tony Poeta was carried from the ice early in the second period suffering with what was said to be a severely sprained ankle. He did not return.

The main event started after four minutes of the third period and the Peterborough coach, one "Teeder" Kennedy, can take the blame for starting it. Kowalchuk had received a major and had stepped in the penalty box where he was met by Kennedy who allegedly took a pass at him. That generated the fireworks and the battle started.

The Belleville players left the bench and dashed across the ice while Kennedy kept his players in the box. They managed to get at Kowalchuk and were giving him the fist treatment when Gordie Bell sauntered over and clobbered a couple with his stick to cool them off.

As a result of the collective misconducts the Macs were forced to play five men for the ensuing ten minutes.

The referees took no chances. They started arm-waving shortly after the first whistle and from then it was a steady parade. At one time three Belleville players were penalized simultaneously for what looked to be one offence. On other occasions the Petes bench howled their disgust.

As a result of the numerous sentences both teams were more or less disorganized on their play tactics. And at times there was some good hockey tossed into the pot. The Macs outshot the Petes 34-25 on the night's play.

The Macs were assessed 15 minors, two majors and ten misconducts while the Petes were given 11 minors, one major and one misconduct, this coming when the "main course" was on tap. It was close-hauled calling. A sneeze might have got a player a minor.

Lest we forget, there were goals scored, too. Three minutes had gone in the first when Floyd Crawford drove the first puck past Caron in the Petes nets, and the next thing he knew (Crawford) he was headed for the boxes. Crawford sent Minnie Menard and Paul Payette away at eight minutes with Paul blasting home the rubber to give the Macs a 2-0 lead.

The Petes came back quickly. Brisson scoring on a breakaway and Mahoney hitting pay dirt, within a minute of each other.

"Wiener" Brown put the Macs one up on a brilliant goalmouth effort easily deking Caron for the counter. Gerry Goyer emulated the feat for the only goal of the second period with Brown and Crawford in on the score.

Brown took Benoit's pass in the third period to again race in on the goalie to dipsy-doodle him out of position and score. Eddie Marineau threw one of those waist-high sizzlers into the rigging from the wing with seconds to go with Lionel Botley helping. That was it.

The 7-5 attendance was 605.

THE TEAMS —

MAY BE HYDRO CONTENDER

PORT STANLEY, Ont. (CP)— The hydroplane Maggie, designed owned and driven by Claude Brown of St. Thomas, clocked 145 miles an hour during speed tests here during the weekend and is shaping up as a contender for national hydroplane racing honors in the unlimited class.

Mr. Brown says he hopes to get his powerful craft to 200 miles an hour with a new racing prop propeller he plans for next year.

Schreider Takes Over Second In Scoring Race

TORONTO (CP) — Hal Patterson, Montreal Alouettes' brilliant pass-catching and running and record for two touchdowns in one of Alouettes' two Thanksgiving weekend games to increase his lead in the Big Four Football Union scoring race.

The former University of Kansas player was held scoreless in Montreal's 27-17 loss to Ottawa Rough Riders Saturday but he came up with 12 points in leading Als to a come-from-behind 23-24 victory over Riders Monday.

15-POINT BULGE

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show Patterson with 11 touchdowns for 66 points 16 more than Gary Schreider who replaced teammate Tommy Lewis in second place. Schreider, former Queen's University star, came up with 15 points in the two games to move ahead of Lewis by two points. Lewis counted six points.

Cookie Gilchrist scored three touchdowns as Hamilton Tiger-Cats defeated Toronto Argonauts twice and jumped into fourth place with 42 points, three more than teammate Steve Oneschuk and five ahead of Gerry McDougall, also of Hamilton, and Bill Bewley of Montreal, tied for sixth place with 37 points each.

REGAINS ORFU LEAD

Don Wright of London Lords regained the lead from Gene Lekenta of Sarnia Golden Bears in the Ontario Rugby Football Union race. Wright scored a touchdown and a convert to boost his total to 51 points on five touchdowns, 21 converts and three singles. Lekenta got only one point and now trails Wright by five points with a total of 46. Jim Waddell of Sarnia is in third place with 36 points.

Fullback Dale Creighton of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs leads the Senior Intercollegiate scoring with 24 points on four touchdowns. He scored three of them as Western crushed Queen's University 34-6 Saturday and now has a 12-point lead over end Joe Poirer of McGill University. Jan Sandelius of McGill is third with 11 points.

RAYNER TO COACH

KENORA (CP)—Charlie Rayner, former star goaltender with New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, signed Tuesday to coach the intermediate Kenora Thistles. The move means a return for Rayner to the town where he played his junior hockey.

West-Northern Senior Group Swings Into Action Tonight

Written For The Canadian Press
By PAUL PATTON

SUDBURY (CP) — Faced with financial troubles and lack of fan support, Ontario's two oldest Senior 'A' hockey loops have banded together this season in an effort to stay alive.

The new league — as yet unnamed — opens its first season with six entries, three from the Ontario Hockey Association's Western Division and three from the Southern Group of the Northeastern Ontario Hockey Association.

Entries include Windsor, Chatham and Kitchener in the south, and Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., North Bay and Sudbury in the north.

The league swings into action tonight with Soo Greyhounds playing host to North Bay Trappers and Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen visiting Chatham Maroons. Windsor Bulldogs and Sudbury Wolves' play their first games Friday.

THREE CLUBS FOLD

Gone from the new league are three famous names in Ontario hockey, Owen Sound Mercurys, Stratford Indians and Soo Thistle Indians. All three clubs have thrown in the towel after suffering heavy financial losses last season.

North Bay enters the league after a whirlwind share-selling campaign by fans raised $10,000 to buy the club from owners Pete Palangio and George Bucovetz.

The Soo, faced with a $22,000 deficit last year and a loss of $40,000 in the last three years, is back again after borrowing $8,000 to cover debts from last season's operation.

The new league is an outgrowth of an interlocking schedule staged by the OHA and NOHA last season. Southern clubs held a 22-17 edge with one tie in the 40 interlocking games and pre-season games indicates the southern teams are strong again.

PLAY 60 GAMES

The league has adopted a 60-game schedule with each club playing a home-and-home series and now has a 16-point lead over Joe Poirer of McGill University. Jan Sandelius of McGill is third with 11 points.

Eddie Reigle, who led North Bay to first place in the NOHA and took the team to the Eastern Canada finals against Whitby last year, has left North Bay for new job as supervisor of hockey in Sweden. Chuck Scherza, veteran Trappers defenceman, has joined Trappers in mid-season and was the team's top performer in the playoffs, has taken over in his first coaching assignment. Pete Palangio remains as the team manager.

Vic Lynn, veteran of the National Hockey League, has replaced John (Peanuts) O'Flaherty in Sudbury, and has become Sudbury's first playing coach in almost a decade. He is also acting as the team manager.

Bill Durnan, frequent choice as hockey's greatest goaltender has replaced Bobby Bauer as coach at Kitchener, where Ernie Goman remains as the club manager.

BACK AT WINDSOR

Coach Jack Stewart and manager George Gee, who led Windsor to a first-place finish a year ago, again head Bulldogs, while Murph Chamberlain returns for his third year as manager-coach at Chatham.

Greyhounds, weak defensively a year ago, have added rookie Gord Thompson from Toronto Marlboros and have picked up two reinstated professionals, Gus Kenyon and Evan Tennant. The club has also added forwards Johnny Offiesh and Bishop Dimma from the defunct Soo Indians.

North Bay is counting heavily on defenceman Gail St. James from Soo Indians and Gerry Labelle, former Sudbury forward who played last year with Albitibi Eskimos in the NOHA Northern Division.

WOLVES ADD STRENGTH

New players with Sudbury include defenceman Jean Therrien, a junior grad from Quebec, and right winger Howie Hornby from Kamloops of the Interior B.C. League as well as coach Lynn who will play defence.

Windsor has added goalie Roy Edwards from St. Catharines Teepees and forwards Fred Hildebrand from Soo Indians, Bep Guidolin from Belleville, and George Aldrum from Stratford.

Chatham has added rookie Barry Smith from Guelph to play goal, defencemen Bob Seymour from Humboldt (Sask.) Juniors, and forwards Bobby Mader from Stratford and Bruce Jones from Wallaceburg's Senior B champions.

HURLEY RETURNS

Veteran goalie Boat Hurley has returned to Kitchener and will join veteran pro defenceman Bob Paul, rookie Ted Makl from Guelph Biltmores and forwards Dinny Flanagan and Tom Walker from Stratford as the key new additions this year.

Hockey officials throughout the province are confident the new league will prove a success. Kitchener already has set a club record for advance ticket sales and other teams report keen interest in the new league.

In an effort to give smaller arena teams a better chance financially, the league has set up a pool system whereby each club will contribute 10 per cent of its gate receipts. General expenses, including referees' fees, will be paid from the pool, and money split equally at the end of the season.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Sure, I can read it and you can read it — but how can the DEER read it?"

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop and ma went to the movies, and I had a fierce dreem that they forgot to bolt the frunt door when they came home, and a beetler got in and filled my pockits with silver out of the dining room draw and then wrote a note to pop and left it on the dining room table, saying on it, Dear Sir, this is to let you no a beetler had the frunt door the next time. Yours truly, Shifty Shingles.

Being one of the plainest dreems I ever had, and I hurry up small downstairs to see if the frunt door was really bolted, which it wasn't, and I bolted it and went back to bed feeling safer, and I woke up again on account of hearing sounds like somebody shaking the frunt door, and I thought, Heck, one is trying to get in to see if I bolted the door.

Meening my dreem, and I quick snuck down again, and somebody was pushing and shaking the door from the outside, and I thought, I better growl like a watch dog.

Which I did, growling like the biggest dog I could growl like, and somebody said, Gracies, did you hear that? It sounded as if the house was haunted.

Being me, and pop said, The lock on this door is haunted, I've had trubble with it before.

Meening they weren't home yet, and I quick unbolted the door and let them open before I had time to run, and I quick said, Is that you, pop?

Heh? What the dooce are you doing down here? pop said, and I said, I'm not sepecially. It's a wonder your father didn't wake up the whole nayborhood, she said, and I quick went back to bed again feeling partly glitty but mostly lucky.

15,000 CHILDREN

At the prime minister's dinner she spoke with easy liveliness for some time before dinner was served.

The reception and dinner crowned a day that included the drive to Hull, predominantly French-speaking, a highway police inauguration, a tree-planting ceremony, a conference on industrial relations by Prince Philip and his national radio broadcast that night.

Outside Hull city hall, some 2,000 spectators greeted the Queen with some shouting a two-language greeting like "Bon jour, Queen" and "Welcome, Madame la Reine." Mayor Thomas Moncion read a 300-word welcome in French.

The Queen inquired about the influenza epidemic that had forced a closure of Hull schools. The mayor informed her school was reopening that afternoon the children were feeling better. Then he inquired about the Queen's own child, Prince Charles, who also had been ill with flu. The Queen reported that the condition of eight-year-old Prince Charles was "very good."

SPEAK IN FRENCH

Both the Queen and Prince Philip spoke French as they were presented to some 40 civic officials and their wives.

As the motorcade continued back in Ottawa, a streetcar operator, stopped in a traffic jam, climbed to the roof for a better view.

At the next stop, the Queen pushed a button, setting off an explosion which marked inauguration of the $51,000,000 subway project, a six-lane, cross-town artery for the initial stages of construction.

Many in the crowd of several thousand jumped at the explosion but the Queen, whose back was turned to it, didn't flinch. She just smiled broadly. Mayor George Nelms, who had warned her in advance that it would be loud bang, told the Queen told him it was a "unique" way to start a project.

Premier Frost of Ontario, not knowing exactly what was going to happen, said he "kept well away from the button."

On returning to Government House, Prince Philip received a group of Canadian management and labor representatives who had attended the Duke of Edinburgh's industrial relations conference at Oxford, last year.

Later, Mr. Diefenbaker said steps were taken to launch a new Commonwealth conference, to be held in Canada, perhaps in 1958. A committee was set up to begin preparations.

In the afternoon, the royal couple presented autographed and framed photographs of themselves to Canadians who had helped plan and execute arrangements for their visit.

They also went out to the spacious government grounds overlooking to plant two new trees—a hard maple by the Queen and a red oak by the prince.

"There, I think that should do it," said the Queen as she uncovered the roots with five shovelsful of dirt. She used a silver-plated spade. It was the 17th special planting at Government House since 1906. The ceremony was witnessed only by Governor-General Massey, Government House aides, reporters and photographers.

For the two-hour reception, in the downtown Chateau Laurier Hotel, the Queen wore a cocktail dress in beige and gold brocade in a leaf pattern with a full, circular skirt.

SOME WAY AN HOUR

Some among the 1,300 guests had waited an hour for the reception in the ballroom—cabinet ministers, senators, many high-ranking government and military officials, local dignitaries—and nine Indian chiefs. The first such group of Canada's 10 provinces had been invited but Prince Edward Island's Jacob Pitt was too ill to attend.

"This is the greatest day of my life," said Chief Simon Barker, head of Manilobe's Hollow band. The chiefs turned up in business suits. The Queen spoke to each, asking where they had come from and whether they had had a good trip to the capital.

She smiled each time she shook hands. It took 90 minutes for the guests to file by. Perhaps the most eye-catching was Senator Tom Reid of Manitoba, who had full kilted costume.

"This is the first sign I have seen of home," he later quoted her as saying. The Queen's mother is Scottish.

SENATOR POULIOT TRIBUTE

Senator Jean-Francois Pouliot of Quebec, another guest, said he told the Queen she had said some "wonderful things" in "very beautiful way."

"She beamed graciously," he added.

Guests were served Canadian and imported caviar, canapes of shrimp and other assorted canapes, hot hors d'oeuvres, French pastries and a variety of alcoholic and other beverages. The Queen did not linger with the guests. When she had completed the welcoming, she walked slowly through the heavy crowd, smiled and made her exit.

Prince Philip shook the hand of Lt.-Col. G. Poulin of Quebec City, former commander of the famous Royal 22nd Regiment, and recalled that he had met him on the royal yacht at Quebec three years ago.

FEAR OF MASONRY

At that time the 39-year-old Col. Poulin had raised questions about a palatial home of the Freemasons on the royal yacht. The prince remembered this Tuesday night.

"He has a fantastic memory," said Col. Poulin, now deputy director of infantry at national defence headquarters.

Earlier Tuesday, the prince recalled that he had been a dean of the Commons before he was named a senator.

"He's pretty receptive," commMP for Nipissing, Ont. The prince had remembered seeing Mr. Garland before as an MP and remarked: "You're still an MP, see."

SATELLITE

The naval consultant said in an interview that electro-magnetic fields might possibly explain variations in Sputnik's orbit which have baffled some Western scientists.

There have been references to an "unknown" force which apparently was causing a slight sideslip drag in the sphere, creating difficulty in electronic computations of the orbit.

Sputnik II's speed still was maintaining its speed of about 18,000 miles an hour as it circled the earth, accompanied by a section of its carrier rocket and a protective nose cone.

ASKS CO-OPERATION

Meanwhile, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said Britain would welcome closer scientific co-operation between Britain and the United States.

"I think Sputnik has given a certain impetus to that," he said in Washington after a meeting with State Secretary Dulles.

Nikita Khrushchev indicated Tuesday night the Russians might launch their second satellite filled with instruments for Western world say advance warning.

Asked by a reporter when his country would put another sphere into space, the Communist party secretary replied:

"That's a decision for the government to make, and I'm not the government——— You will be able to write about it when it's launched."

FLY

The RCAF aircraft flying the Royal Standard, was scheduled to land at 2.30 p.m. EDT after a flight from Ottawa.

Tens of thousands of tourists and other well-wishers, attracted by the Royal visit, swelled the town's population far beyond its normal 7,000 and made a mile-and-a-half stretch of Yonge street one solid mass of humanity.

The 31-year-old Queen, who is a keen yachtsman predicted mild, cloudy weather, but a possibility of rain threatened to spoil her departure Thursday for Washington and a reception-packed four-day visit with President Eisenhower.

She leaves Sunday night for New York and, after a one-day stay there, flies back to the United Kingdom.

A regal welcome awaited the young Queen and the Prince at Pearce Fenny airport, 18 miles from Williamsburg.

Scheduled to greet her were Virginia's Governor Thomas B. Stanley and Mrs. Stanley and a host of high state officials.
